AY DAVIS OFFERS NLY HOPE TO EEP ELECTION OUT OF CONGRESS

mocrats to Drive Argument to Nation That Coolidge Cannot Win on Account of La Follette.

TEND TO BLAST "COOLIDGE MYTH"

Davis Carries Only South and Border States and La Follette the Northwest, Election Is Blocked.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
ief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The mocratic strategy in the closing ks of the campaign has three s in view: To make John W. is known to the country as a ere and well-equipped champion of rational liberalism, to tear n the "Coolidge myth," and to the impression that Coolidge not obtain a majority of the s in the Electoral College. m this postulate proceeds the ment that the candidacy of s offers the only chance of ing the election out of Con-

The theory is sometimes ampli in this fashion—that Coolidge win only by a "knockout" de n, whereas Davis can win er by a "knockout" or "on ts." This is another way of that if Coolidge does not ve a majority in the Electoral ge, he will be definitely and lly beaten, since he cannot for election by the House. If decision has to be made by gress, it will rest with the Re licans to say whether Davis or an shall be the next President. other words, the House will er deadlock and elect Davis; if it deadlocks the next Presi t will be the man chosen by Senate from the two highest -presidential nominees, and man will be Bryan.

Davis or Bryan.

If the election goes into Con s," say the Democrats, "we ll be perfectly content to let publicans decide between is and Bryan." There is, in d, excellent ground to believe if no candidate gets a ma ty of the electoral votes, Davis will be the ultimate winner. On face of the pilitical lineup in House, a deadlock would ap r to be a mathematical cer ty, but would the Republicans d firm when confronted with alternative of Bryan in the ite House?

There are 22 state delegations troleld by the Republicans, one trolled by the Republicans ,one the Democrats. Five delega s are tied. The voting would be states, with 25 votes, or a ma ty of the whole, required for a ice.

The Democrats would have every g to gain and nothing to lose by king to Davis. There would be incentive for them to go to Cool . On the other hand, the Re licans would have the choice, as ow appears, of switching to Dav r seeing the presidency go to an. With all members present voting in the caucus of the tied states, none of these states uld be able to cast a vote in the idential contest. But if ne publican should absent himself ach of these five delegations the votes would go to Davis and he uld be elected.

If Coolidge Wins.

This is certainly one of the pos ities of the situation. The ocrats have it in mind when y say that the Republicans, in event o fan Electoral College dlock, must either elect Davis take Bryan.

But there is another angle that ds to be taken into account. ifestly, it is within the power the La Follette group in the ate to throw the election to r Dawes or Bryan. It has been rally assumed they would throw Bryan. In the light of Bryan's rd and Dawes' record this as ption appears valid. It fails, wever, to give any weight to one the political realities of the sit ion. The La Follette movement ended to bring out a realign t of the voters into conserva and progressive camps. This would be forwarded by the de ction of the Democratic party. Davis wins he will be able, with aid of a Democratic Congress, ive effect to a forward-looking

PRESIDENT WARMS UP AS WASHINGTON RALLIES, BUT GIANTS WIN, 4-3

Mr. Coolidge Lifted Out of His Seat in 9th, When American Leaguers Tie Score—Wife Real Rooter Among 37,000.

By HEYWOOD BROUN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Calvin Coolidge stood up and twice he smacked his hands together quite sharply. In other words, the Giants captured one of the most thrilling games in the history of the world's series when they defeated Washtington by a score of 4 to 3, in the opening game, after 12 innings of play at Clark Griffith's Stadium this afternoon.

And President Coolidge should be forgiven for his display of emotion for he saw his home team rally in the ninth and tie the score. He watched Walter Johnson come up to the big test after 18 seasons of waiting and fan a dozen Giants.

The 12th and final inning was one which made it impossible to keep cool with Cal or anyone else. The Giants scored two runs in their half and the issue seemed settled. But once again Washington rallied. Only a bad piece of base running by Sam Rice and a miraculous play by George Kelly kept the game from coming again to a tie.

Radicalism Ruins Rice.

It was radicalism which ruined Rice. He tried to take two bases on a single and Kelly tagged him out. And again it was Kelly who ended the game. The final inning found him playing second base, where he was switched when Lindstrom gave way to a pinch hitter. With two out and Bucky Harris standing on third with the tieing run, Goslin topped the ball just past Nehf. The Giant pitcher made a despairing clutch of the wickedly spinning hopper and missed it. There seemed to be no chance for a play. In charged Kelly and, with a long sweep of a long arm, e took the ball on the run and he made the pickup and the throw all one motion. Goslin was out by inches.

And even yet the tale of Kelly is not complete. It was Kelly who scored the first run for the Giants by smashing a homer into the left field bleachers in the second inning.

Coolidge Lifted Out of Seat.

But it was the ninth inning which ruined Calvin Coolidge and made him all but one-tenth as enthusiastic as the other 37,000 in the ball park. Washington came into the ninth with the score standing 2 to 1 in favor of the Giants. Judge began by fanning and it appeared to be all over. It did not seem very likely that the next batter would do much for his last name is Bluege and his first name is Oswald. As a rule Oswalds are no more than so much white bait to Giants.

But not this one. This Oswald smacked a single just out of reach of Jackson. The Giant shortstop made a great try. He knocked down the line drive and rolled over and over in his effort to hold on. The ball slipped away and there was first base quite distinctly blistted with Bluege.

And up stepped Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran and once upon a time famous world's series goat. It was Peck, who fumbled fatally in the first meeting of the Giants and the Yanks. Now he atoned. He doubled to deep left, scoring Oswald Bluege, with the tieing run and lifting Calvin Coolidge completely out of his seat.

Vocal Cords and Sofa Cushions.

The Washington crowd brought out neither rattles nor cowbells. It was all done with vocal chords, and a few sofa cushions. They danced and slapped each other, did these fans of Washington. Hats flew onto the diamond. Voices rose and cracked as things snapped in people's throats. And here in a field box, bold upright, stood Calvin Coolidge, bringing one hand against another. To be sure, it was wise of him not to extend his demonstration beyond decent moderation, for even the applause of a President was certain to be drowned in this bedlam. He decided not to h[illegible], and though his hand went up to his hat, it was only a false gesture. He drew it down more tightly upon his forehead. It was a [illegible] hat. After all, one more run would win the game for Washington and Calvin Coolidge wanted to be prepared against temptation. [illegible]iously, the President is no such [illegible]er as Mrs. Coolidge. She applauded with a great, sweeping beat of the hands. And she kept it up even after Mr. Coolidge had desisted and was calm again.

This was the first World Series game ever opened by a President, and Mr. Coolidge gave baseball authorities a few uncomfortable minutes. With starting time only 10 minutes away, the executive box was still empty. Connolly, the chief umpire, looked at his

SUPER-SHORT SKIRT RETURNS TO STYLE IN LONDON FASHIONS

They're Narrow Tubular Affairs—Wild Animal Skin Coats Become Popular.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Fashion experts for the last fortnight have been smothering the autumn girl with a bewildering mass of style predictions, but out of the confusion of conflicting opinions there seems to arise an agreement that the supershort skirts, which seemed "dead as dodo" when the "slinkers" and "wrap arounds" caught the flapper fancy a year or so ago now are triumphantly returning despite the Paris edict to the contrary.

This does not mean that "slinkers" are disappearing, for the new modes include narrow tubular affairs without waist lines, some of them even narrower than the summer styles. To satisfy the British athletic girl who refuses to shorten her long strides, pleats and godets are cunningly inserted to give the necessary elasticity.

Long tunics and seven-eights length coats revealing two or three inches of dress below the knee also are important features. Another result of a fortnight's orgy of fashion shows is the recrudescence of tiger, leopard and other wild animals skin coats and many an old hearth rug which for years has been lying around father's den in front of a comfortable fireplace is being requisitioned to satisfy the newest fancy.

COOLIDGES' 19TH ANNIVERSARY

President and Wife Were Married on Oct. 4, 1905.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President and Mrs. Coolidge celebrated their nineteenth wedding anniversary today by going for a cruise on the Mayflower, down the Potomac River, this afternoon. Up to the eleventh hour the President was busy either at the White House or at the ball park, where he witnessed the game between the Senators and the Giants.

On Oct. 4, 1905, President Coolidge, then a young attorney in Northampton, Mass., married Miss Grace Anne Goodhue. One of the biographers of the President tells that the day of his wedding was very rainy and that someone remarked on this as an omen of the future. The answer of the President has been handed down as characteristic of a man who always saw the main issue.

"I don't mind the weather if I get the girl," the President said.

DOLES FOR HOHENZOLLERNS

Communist Bill Would End Big Allowances and Seize Property.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—Members of the Hohenzollern family living in Prussia will receive unemployment doles like any worker out of a job, instead of drawing big monthly allowances, if a bill introduced in the Prussian Diet by the Communists passes.

The bill further provides that all Hohenzollern property be confiscated and the castles and villas converted into kindergartens or homes for disabled soldiers. All allowances for the Hohenzollerns living away from Prussia must cease, according to the Communist demand.

BRITISH RUM SHIP SEIZED IN TEST OF LIQUOR TREATY

U. S. Agents Bought Whisky and Raced to Shore in 42 Minutes — Treaty Fixes Limit at Hour's Sail.

SAY ACTION BROKE BIG LIQUOR RING

Declare Anglo-American Bootlegger-Banker Alliance Will Collapse as a Result of Capture.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. — With the capture of a British steamer with 11,000 cases of whisky aboard, prohibition officials today claimed to have caused the collapse of an Anglo-American banker-"bootlegger" alliance which in the last six months has flooded this part of the country with illicit liquor.

As the result of a three months' investigation, coast guardsmen seized the 376-ton steamer Frederick B. and her crew of 20 men 15 miles off Monmouth Beach, N. J., which the Federal officials call the first real test of the liquor treaty with Great Britain. Bankers in Montreal and New York and distillers and shipping men in London and Halifax are said to be members of the international bootlegging ring which, the dry raiders said, has $10,000,000 behind its operation of a four-ship fleet.

In addition to the prize capture of the Britisher, four smaller craft —fleet motor boats that bring the liquor from the rum fleet to the Long Island and New Jersey shores —were taken. The captures, which included a half hundred cases of whisky and 15 prisoners, were made by the marine police.

Agents Work Ruse.

One lone police boat, with lights out, got three of the little craft off the Rockaways single-handed. The fourth was taken at Staten Island while her crew were unloading whisky on a dock.

A novel ruse was employed by the Federal agents to involve the crew of the Frederick "B." in a test of the new treaty, which extends the ancient three-mile seizure limit to the distance that can be traversed by boats in one hour.

After handing the vessel's master $100,000 in cash and checks to make a liquor purchase agreement binding, agents asked for 25 "sample" cases to take ashore at once. They put the "stuff" aboard the fastest speed boat they could get and raced ashore in 42 minutes. This, assert the agents, involves the ing in a violation of the Anglo-American treaty.

Two Women Found Aboard.

Their race against time completed, the agents pressed the coast guard cutter Manhattan into the work. That formidably armed little vessel steamed alongside the whisky-laden Frederick B, placed under arrest the crew and two women found aboard, and preceded the ship to an underguard anchorage off the Statute of Liberty.

John Holley Clark, Assistant United States District Attorney, later said the capture was the most importance since the United States enered into the new seizure limit treaty with Great Britain.

Although the captors were inclined to be reticent about the affair, a few facts were gleaned concerning the Frederick B. and her operators. It was learned, for instance, that one of the women aboard—she is rather 26 and rather strikingly dressed—was the daughter of one of the English "higher ups" in the rum running conspiracy. Her companion, said to be a woman of about 40, was described as the younger one's chaperone.

R. Q. Merrick, divisional prohibition chief, was credited with having directed the setting of the trap. The actual investigation in which six actively participated, was under the leadership of William A. Walker of Washington, general field superintendent of Ftderal agents.

Saul Grill, a local dry sleuth with a long record of successfully tricked bootleg cabals to his credit, shares honors with him.

Posed as Bootleggers.

Grill and Walker posed as Pennsylvania bootleggers who scorned all deals involving less than 1000-case lots. A series of champagne dinners ashore and wild parties aboard the vessel followed their introduction as "big-time bootleggers" to members of the syndicate backing the Frederick B. and her sister ships. In the last six months Grill learned that the fleet had

TAFT'S RETURN TO CAPITAL BRINGS JOY TO KIDDIES

Chief Justice Dispenses Sweets to Youngsters on His Way Home in Afternoon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In anticipation of the resumption of its August sessions, Monday, all the Justices of the United States Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Taft, are back in Washington. The Tafts have been up at Murray Bay.

The Chief Justice, despite his renowned career, is almost as remarkable for his naive simplicity as he is for his marvelously friendly and beaming smile. Among the kiddies of the neighborhood, the return of the Chief Justice has brought much joy.

Justice Taft's daily return from the Capitol (he usually walks home) is carefully timed. A squad of neighborhood youngsters ranging from 2 years old up to the early 'teens are always on the lookout for him. They sight him in the far distance and, making a tumultuous onslaught, the lucky one to first arrive walks homeward holding the Judge's hand. You'd never believe it, but the capacious pockets of the judicial habiliment harbor an inexhaustible store of sweets, always lavishly dispensed on the homeward journey.

GROCERY CLERK BITTEN ON FINGER BY A TARANTULA

Insect Creeps Out of Bunch of Bananas—Victim Treated at Hospital.

Roland W. Busch, 21 years old, clerk in a grocery at 313 Belt avenue, was stung on the first finger of his right hand by a tarantula, which crept out of a bunch of bananas as Busch was preparing the fruit at the store yesterday. A woman customer took him to St. Luke's Hospital in her automobile, where he was treated.

The tarantula is an insect of the spider family, found in warm countries, and its bite is poisonous. The treatment for its sting is the same as that for any infection, it was said by a physician at St. Luke's. The spider which stung him was killed by other employes of the grocery.

LIEUT. MILLS WINS PULITZER RACE AT 216 MILES AN HOUR; CAPT. SKEEL KILLED AT START

KLAN JURY INDICTS 3 OFFICIALS FOR HERRIN KILLINGS

Prosecutor Duty, Sheriff Galligan and City Judge Bowen, Foes of K. K. K., Blamed for Outbreak.

9 OTHERS NAMED ON MURDER CHARGE

Member of Jury Indicted for Death of Boy—Prosecutor Draws True Bills Against Himself.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Oct. 4.—State's Attorney Delos Duty and Sheriff George Galligan of Williamson County, and E. N. Bowen, Judge of the City Court of Herrin, were indicted for murder by the grand jury here today, in connection with the Ku Klux Klan and anti-klan outbreak at Herrin, Aug. 30 last, in which seven men were wounded fatally.

The jury returned nine other murder indictments, mostly against persons reputed to be anti-klansmen.

Ike Colyer, a Constable of Cereal Springs, and a member of the grand jury, was indicted for the murder of a boy who resisted arrest, a year ago. Colyer was in the grand jury room when the indictment was returned by a standing vote of his fellow-jurors.

Judge a Witness for Defense.

Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell refused to fix bail or issue a mittimus for the arrest of State's Attorney Duty or Judge Bowen, stating that he was disqualified, as he would be a witness for the defense, in that he was convinced that Duty and Bowen could not have been in Herrin at the time that the murders named in the indictment were committed.

Sam Stearns, former head of the Ku Klux Klan in Herrin, however, is said to have testified that there were six witnesses who saw Duty and Bowen fire from an automobile at the John Smith garage in Herrin, the day of the outbreak.

Circuit Judge A. D. Somers is to be called to Marion from Harrisburg next week to issue the mittimus and fix bail.

Jury of Klan Sympathizers.

The Grand Jury, whoch has been in session for two weeks, returned 80 indictments for various crimes. The jury was composed practically entirely of klansmen or klan sympathizers, and so far as the indictments are known, no members of the hooded society were indicted.

Although the Coroner's jury held John Smith, garage proprietor, as responsible for the killings, the Grand Jury did not indict him. He appeared before the jury as a witness.

Dr. J. T. Black, superintendent and owner of the Herrin Hospital and an anti-klansman, also was indicted for the Herrin killings. When the Coroner's jury failed to hold Black, he was arrested on information before Magistrate Abe Hicks of Herrin, a klansman, but was released because of insufficient evidence.

Galligan Held for Two Murders.

Sheriff Galligan, who was indicted for two murders and for malfeasance in office, is alleged by the indictments to have killed Otto Roland and Chester Reed, alleged friends of Galligan, while Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas is alleged to have killed Green Dunning reputed klansman. State's Attorney Duty, Judge Bowen and Dr. Black are alleged to have killed Dewey Newbolt and Charles Wollard, reputed klansmen.

Deputy Sheriff J. H. (Bud) Allison, who was the first slain in the outbreak and Phemister, bailiff in the Herrin city court, who died this week from wounds suffered during the outbreak, were not named in the indictments.

It was learned tonight that an effort was made by the grand jury to indict officials of several miners' unions in Williamson County, who had expelled klansmen from their unions. The miners' union forbids klan membership.

State's Attorney Duty drew the

MEEKER LION AT AIR RACES AFTER FLIGHT

Trail Blazer Tells Dayton Crowds "It's Just Sitting There and Waiting."

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 4.—Ezra Meeker of Seattle, Wash., nonagenarian air traveler, flew out of the West today to see the last day's program of the international air races at Wilbur Wright Rield, and became the lion of the day.

Meeker, Oregon trail pioneer, made his first trip across the continent in 1852 in a covered wagon. In 1906 he drove oxen over the route again. This time he decided he wanted to do it in a little better time and he asked Assistant Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis for permission to fly from Seattle to Dayton with Lieut. Oakley Kelly.

They left Wednesday morning and made the journey in 18½ hours flying time, coming in today from Rantoul, Ill.

Kelly and his venerable passenger taxied to a stop at 1 p. m. Meeker did not need any help to get out of the cockpit of the plane. He sat up in the seat of an automobile, his white whiskers flying in the wind, and had a fine time while the crowd cheered him, as he was paraded before the grandstand.

Sandwiches for Breakfast.

Meeker has flown some 12 times before. "All it is," he said, "is sitting there and waiting."

After the crowd had got a good look at him he was showed up to the press stand where kind reporters gave him two sandwiches. He hadn't any breakfast. But he didn't mind that, either.

"Flew over a third of the Oregon Trail before breakfast the other morning," he said.

Then he was shunted to the judges' stand and told the spectators, via the loud speakers that dotted the field at intervals of 100 feet or so, just what he thought of cross-country flying.

Drops 100 Feet, Awakes.

"I was having a nice nap when Lieut. Kelly hit an air pocket," he said. "He dropped 100 feet and woke me up."

"Flying is just sitting there and waiting."

"What did you think of being up 10,000 feet over the Rocky Mountains?" Meeker was asked, after he had said "Good-day" through the microphone to the crowds.

"My nose got cold," he answered.

LIEUT. BROOKLEY SECOND IN CONTEST

Lieut. Cyrus Bettis Winner of John L. Mitchell Trophy for Planes of First Army Pursuit Group.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WILBUR WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O., Oct. 4.—Capt. Burt E. Skeel, one of the most brilliant and daring of army pilots, plunged to a spectacular death here this afternoon, at the start of the Pulitzer trophy race for the world's speed championship. The fatal fall occurred in full view of the 50,000 spectators, among whom was the pilot's wife. Capt. Skeel was 30 years old.

The race was won by Lieut. Harry H. Mills, in a Verville-Sperry monoplane. His average speed for the 200 kilometers (124.27 miles) was 216.55 miles an hour, far below the record of 243.68 set by Lieut. A. J. Williams at St. Louis last year in the same event.

Lieut. Wendell H. Brookley, in a Curtiss R-6 races, the same type of plane as that flown by Capt. Skeel, was a close second. His average was 214,45 miles an hour. Lieut. Rex K. Stoner, flying a standard army Cutriss pursuit plane, was completely outdistanced, finishing a lap behind the leaders. His average speed was 167.95 miles an hour.

The wings and tail of Capt. Skeel's ship crumpled under the terrific wind pressure as he dived for the starting line at a speed which observers declared was not less than 250 miles an hour. The fuselage buried itself, nose down, ten feet deep in the side of a creek bank on the west side of the field. The pilot's body was recovered from the water after a four-hour search.

Climactic Event of Races.

The great crowd assembled for the climactic event of the three-day program of the international air races had just witnessed a thrilling race between 11 pilots and planes of the first army pursuit group, for the John L. Mitchell trophy. Skeel was a squadron commander of this group. He won the Mitchell trophy at St. Louis last year, and it was partly on that account that he was chosen to fly one of the two Curtiss racers in this year's Pulitzer race.

Following the award of the Mitchell trophy to Lieut. Cyrus Bettis in front of the grand stand, the four crack pilots took the air for the classic test. Flying in single file, they circled behind the grand stand, and moved toward the west, rapidly gaining altitude for the dive toward the starting line. This dive is for the purpose of attaining high speed.

Lieut. Mills was in the lead. All three of the special racers were coated brightly with aluminum paint. Lieut. Stoner's plane, which was last, wore the dark green of the air service. The flyers circled until they reached an altitude of about 2000 feet. Then Mills headed for the starting line, the course of the flight lying diagonally across the field, and entering it near the western end of the grand stand.

Down he came, nosing his plane sharply toward the ground, gaining speed at every foot. He seemed bent on diving into the ground. When near the starting line, however, at a height of about 75 feet, he flattened the ship out, and went skimming across the field like a ray of light.

Down at Perilous Angle.

Skeel was coming. He had climbed somewhat higher than

SHAFT UNVEILED IN CAPITAL TO FIRST DIVISION

Simple Service at Base of Mighty Granite Monument Follows Parade of Men and Guns.

COOLIDGE TAKES PART IN CEREMONY

Commander Describes Its Valor in France and Attack That Won Back Cantigny.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—With living comrades gathered from the four corners of America to do them honor, the dead of the First Division today came into their visible heritage of glory.

Ranked in orderly, soldierly columns on the bronze tablets beneath the mighty granite shaft these comrades have raised to them, their names are set forth that men for all time may know of their sacrifice for the flag. And it was the tugging hand of a hero comrade, weighed down with his own battle wounds, that took aside the curtain that obscured the beauty of the tribute to valor.

"It is a tribute of reverence and sorrow to more than 5000 of our immortal dead from those who knew and loved them," President Coolidge said in dedicating the memorial. "The figure of winged victory rises above the scrolls of imperishable bronze on which are inscribed alone the ennobled names of those who fell and through their deathless valor left us free.

"Other soldiers, generals and privates, officers and men, rank on rank of illustrious fame, are unrecorded here. They live. The dead reign here alone."

Up the same wide avenue where its victory pageant unrolled itself just a few short years ago, the First Division came again to march its veteran legions today that full honor should be done to fallen comrades wherever they sleep. They moved through a thinning haze of morning fog, but found crowding thousands all along the way to greet the rumbling guns and the thick ranked host of marching men. Behind the massed bands of the division, first came the composite regiment from the sixteenth and eighteenth Infantry of today.

Gun Teams in Procession.

Behind these came the spotless guns and gun teams of the sixth artillery, the veterans no longer in the marching throngs, shoulder to shoulder, now under the standards that proclaimed them to be all of the war time 16th or 18th, the 26th or 28th, the 6th or 7th or 5th artillery or first engineers or some other unit of the fighting first division of 1917-19. Some were again in the old uniform, but most were in civilian clothes of varying hue and cut.

Next came the men and horses and guns of the Washington garrison as escort of honor and a little group of veterans of the Fifth Division, meeting in simultaneous reunion.

Then American Legion men, veterans of other wars; nurses, the Salvation Army and all the others who claim it an honor to have associated with the stalwart vanguard of the A. E. F. Up past the tall monument, the procession rolled up to fall out over the grass and under the trees and form a living wall of khaki about the scene. On the platform at the base the raft, were Secretary Weeks and other high officers who served with the division abroad and at home. The services were simple.

Simple Service Held.

The tale of how the funds for this great tribute came, mostly from the contributed pay of members of the division itself, was told, a letter from Gen. Pershing, its first commander, was read to say to the commanders who led the first division abroad no higher tribute can be paid than to say that "they were worthy of the men they led."

To the men, long its commander in battle, Major-General Charles P. Summerall, the division left the task of telling of the spirit that had moved it in France, and how its crashing attack brought Cantigny back into the allies' hands and told the world that "the American of Bunker Hill and Gettysburg was still the American of the battlefields of France."

Tomorrow the veterans will visit Arlington to pay their honors to the Unknown Soldier and conclude their reunion.

COOLIDGE FAVORS TREATIES, CONFORMING TO AMERICAN POLICIES, TO PREVENT WAR

President, Addressing War Veterans, Says Courts Must Not Be Exposed to Partisan Political Action.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—In the presence of veterans of the First Division of the American Expeditionary Forces, President Coolidge dedicated a monument to their dead here today as "a lesson of the supreme blessing of peace with honor, a symbol of stern warning."

The peace now established must be nourished, the President declared, in this country's international relations. The Constitution itself still must be defended, he said, to preserve individual freedom through noninterference with the courts, and fair opportunity by the prevention of Government monopolies in business.

While recalling his wish for American membership in the World Court and further disarmament, the President warned, in reference to the country's international relations, "that we do not propose to entrust to any other Power or combination of Powers any authority to make up our own mind for us."

Thousands of veterans of the world war were gathered at the base of the newly erected monument near the White House, while Brigadier-General Frank Parker joined with the President in praising the part played by the First Division in the war.

Tracing the history of the division "the first to enter France and the last to leave Germany," Mr. Coolidge recalled its 5516 deaths and 17,000 wounded, its part in the battles at Sommerville sector, Soissons, St. Mihiel and finally in the Argonne.

"The little that I can say," he added, "in commendation of your devotion is but a slight suggestion of what is deserved. Every unit of the American Army, whether at home or abroad, richly merits its own full measure of recognition. They shrank from no toil, no danger and no hardships that the liberties of our country might adequately be defended and preserved."

Obligation to Veterans.

Discusing the nation's obligations to its war veterans, the President reiterated that its first duty was the care of the disabled and dependents.

For these, he declared, the Government had been most liberal, mentioning the hospitalization program, the rehabilitation furnished to 40,000 veterans now and 80,000 others "who have completed these courses and have been placed in profitable employment," and the pension laws for widows and mothers.

The nation has appropriated about $300,000,000 for veterans of the World War and is spending about $100,000,000 annually for veterans of the Civil War, Mr. Coolidge said, but added that the abiding honor which America bestows upon his loyal defenders cannot be measured in money."

"The nation recognizes toward them all debt which it can never repay, but which it will never repudiate," the President said "Standing to their credit will forever be an inexhaustible balance of gratitude, of honor and praise. In song and story, in monument and memorial, in tradition and history they will live in the heart of the people forever more."

In his discussion of international affairs, Mr. Coolidge pointed to the accomplishments of the Dawes plan in promoting the revival of Europe which, he said, "lays a firmer foundation for industrial prosperity and a more secure peace."

"We want to see the allies paid,' he continued, "we want to see Germany restored to a condition of productivity and progress under which she will be able to take up the burden of civilization. * * *

Sentiment of Peace Necessary.

"I am in favor of treaties and covenants conforming to the American policy of independence to prevent aggressive war and promote permanent peace. But they have little value unless the sentiment of peace is cherished in the hearts of the people. Peace as the result of mutual understanding and mutual confidence, exemplified in honorable action. * * *

"We cannot claim that under our institutions we have reached perfection, but we are justified in saying that our institutions are the best for the promotion of human welfare that the ingenuity of man has ever been able to devise. We cannot claim that our government is perfect, but we have the right to believe that it is the best that there is. We do not claim we have been able to discharge our full duty toward the other nations on the earth. But we have a right to believe that we have been the most effectual agency in helping to restore Europe.

"If anyone doubts the depth and sincerity of the attachment of the American people to their institutions and government, if anyone doubts the sacrifices which they have been willing to make in behalf of those institutions and for what they believe to be the welfare of other nations, let them gaze upon this monument and other like memorials that have been reared in every quarter of our broad land. Let them look upon the representative gatherings of our veterans, and let them remember that America has dedicated itself to the service of God and man. * * *

"Need of Devotion to Country."

"I am well aware that it is impossible to maintain in time of peace the same exalted spirit of patriotism that exists in time of war, and yet, although it may be in a less degree, the country has need of devotion to the same ideals. In our land the people rule. The great truth cannot be too often repeated that this nation is exactly what the people make it. It is necessary to realize that our duties are personal. For each of us our country will be about what we make it. The obligation of citizenship is upon each one of us. We must discharge it in the actions of our daily life. If we are employed, we must be true to that employment. If we are in business, we must be true to that business.

"What is always of the utmost importance, if we have the privilege to vote, we must inform ourselves of the questions at issue, and going to the ballot box on election day, there vote, as we claim the sacred right of Americans to live, according to the dictates of our own conscience. You who have offered your blood that these supreme rights and privileges might be maintained as a standard of human conduct on this earth, must continue to be their chief exponents by what you say and by what you do.

What Constitution Means.

"In this presence I am well aware there is no need to urge any support of the American Constitution, but I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing my most strong and emphatic commendation for the reference which your words and action constantly express for the liberty-loving provisions of the fundamental law of our land. You have supported the Constitution and the flag which is its symbol, not only because it represents to you the homeland, but because you know it is the sole source of American freedom. You want your rights protected by the impartial decisions of the courts, where you will have a right to be heard and not be exposed to the irresponsible determination of partisan political action. You want to have your earnings and your property secure.

"You want a free and fair opportunity to conduct your own business and make your way in the world without danger of being overcome by a Government monopoly. When the Government goes into business it lays a tax on everybody else in that business, and uses the money that it collects from its competitors to establish a monopoly and drive them out of business. No one can compete, for when the Government starts into a line of business that door of opportunity is closed to the people. It has always been an American ideal that the door of opportunity should remain open."

SAYS MAGAZINE'S POLL IS 'STUFFED' BY POSTMASTERS

Nebraska Candidate Charges Republican Appointees Are Voting Undelivered Literary Digest Ballots.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 4.—That the national political poll now being carried on by the Literary Digest, in which Coolidge and Dawes are far in the lead of Davis and Bryan, is a farce and the lead of the Republican candidates is due to the work of partisan Republican postmasters all over the country voting ballots which they have been unable to deliver for various reasons, was charged here today by Harry B. Fleharty, Democratic candidate for Attorney-General of Nebraska.

The Omaha World-Herald today conducted an investigation and discovered that from 5 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent of the ballots received at various postoffices in Nebraska thave been undelivered and are at the disposal of the postmasters. Fleharty says similar conditions undoubtedly exist in other states.

Result of Investigation.

The World-Herald investigation shows that postmasters, acting under postal regulations, are destroying thousands of these ballots every day. Fleharty charges that other thousands are finding their way back to the Literary Digest with the "X" placed before the name of the Republican candidates. Fleharty does not charge the Literary Digest with being a party to the alleged fraud, and says it is his belief that that periodical is being imposed upon by Partisan Republican postmasters.

In the Omaha postoffice, alone, from 300 to 500 of these ballots are being destroyed every day. That is about one-third of the number received at this office for delivery. So great are the "undelivereds" at the Omaha office that a special clerk has been appointed to handle them. At this rate there will have been 15,000 undelivered ballots in the Omaha postoffice, alone, before the poll is completed.

Instances Cited.

Similar conditions exist all over Nebraska, and, in all probabilities, in other states, as well, Fleharty says.

Norfolk, Neb., is a town of 10,000. Postmaster Wichman of Norfolk today said from 30 to 50 ballots per day remain undelivered in his office.

Nebraska City has 7000 population. Postmaster Bartling said from 400 to 500 ballots have been received at that office and 136 are undelivered.

Postmaster Fuhlredt of Fremont, a city of 12,000, says 25 per cent of the ballots received at Fremont are undelivered.

A dozen other towns in Nebraska report from 5 per cent to 20 per cent as being undeliverable. Under the postal rules, all mail of this class undelivered is destroyed and these Postmasters all say they are destroying them daily. Fleharty charges that while thousands of Postmasters will follow instructions, many partisan Postmasters will simply mark an "X" in the Republican box and mail the cards back to the Literary Digest, secure in the knowledge that the fraud cannot be traced.

Warning Issued.

Washington postal authorities have heard of the alleged fraud and warnings have been received by many Nebraska Postmasters that these undeliverable ballots must be destroyed and not voted by the Postmasters.

Some Postmasters said the mailing lists used in sending out these ballots were evidently years old.

"Under these conditions, how much reliability can be placed in the lead which Coolidge has secured in the Digest's ballot?" asked Fleharty.

KLAN JURY INDICTS THREE OFFICIALS FOR HERRIN KILLINGS

indictment for murder and another for rioting against himself. He offered to draw any indictment that the jury voted and when they named him, he drew it the same as the others, although Judge Hartwell had offered to appoint a special State's Attorney to act for the jury.

The indictment of Duty comes as the climax of a tempestuous four years as State's Attorney. Duty's term of office ends Dec. 1 and he is not a candidate for re-election.

Ten minutes after Duty was sworn in as State's Attorney, four years ago, he entered the murder trial as a result of which Settimi De Santis was executed and Frank Bianco committed suicide. That case was followed by the trials growing out of the Herrin massacre, in which Duty fuoght for convictions. He then became involved in the klan and antiklan fight in the Williamson County, being aligned with the "antis" and being openly charged by the klansmen with protecting the bootleggers.

BRITISH RUM SHIP SEIZED IN TEST OF LIQUOR TREATY

landed at least 100,000 cases of whisky on this coast.

Grill and Walker negotiated for the purchase of 25,000 cases of whisky at $22 a case—a $550,000 transaction.

Two weeks ago the Frederick B. came with the first consignment of this order, but the wily agents considered the seas too rough to permit of their speed test trip from ship to shore. So they persuaded the Frederick B's crew to dispose of the "stuff" through other channels.

The Frederick B returned from St. Pierre, Miquelon, last Sunday with 11,000 cases aboard She anchored off Monmouth beach and there the deal was completed.

A part owner, the official said, was Charles Stewart, said to be the super cargo. He was one of the men made prisoner The captain's name was given as Edward Wells.

Lieut. Mills Wins Pulitzer Air Race

Mills, and as he headed towards the field he tilted the nose of his ship downward at a perilous angle. Even this did not suffice, and he nosed downward still more steeply, his 12-cylinder Curtiss motor emitting a snarling roar. The crowd watched tensely as the little silver craft came shooting toward the corner of the field.

It was about half a mile away when something happened. First the tail of the plane was seen to crumple. Then the wings folded upward against the body and then the whole ship seemed to go to pieces in midair, as if struck by a shell. Pieces of wing and fragments of wood hung for an instant and the fuselage hurtled earthward.

Stripped clean of its flying gear, it came rocketing down, bearing the pilot and the 520-horsepower motor, which was still going at full throttle. There was a sharp, awful, metallic crash, and then a silence that was still more awful. Above the spot where the plane had disappeared hung a thick cloud of dust, which apparently came from the wings when they crumpled. A few fragments of linen could be seen slowly fluttering downward.

Frozen with horror, the vast crowd stood staring in the direction of the dust cloud. Then the clinging of a gong smote their ears.

And an army ambulance dashed down the road in front of the grand stand. The curious started to rush after the ambulance, but an army officer shouted a sharp word of command, and a line of sentries closed across the road, barring passage.

Mechanics and pilots from the civilian pilots' camp at the west side of the field could be seen running down across the marshy field.

The Race Continues.

But casualty is the business of the army, and does not interfere with its plans. All that has been described here happened in a few seconds, and now the road of Lieut. Brookley's motor forced itself upon the consciousness of the crowd, as he came speeding onward in that same perilous descent. Flying low he crossed the starting line and was followed closely by Lieut. Stoner. The high piercing whine of the strut wires, which is characteristic of the pursuit ships, rose above the snarl of the engine.

It was difficult for the spectators to keep their minds on the race, even when the Verville-Sperry came speeding over the western hills and thundered past the home pylon, having done the first lap at an average speed of 214 miles an hour. They would stand on tiptoe, and gaze with white faces toward that spot where the dust cloud had settled, and from which the ambulance had not returned.

Mills and Brookley.

Brookley was close behind, and his announced speed of 212 miles an hour for the lap served notice that it was to be a battle between himself and Mills. Stoner had fallen far behind, his speed for the lap being only 166 miles an hour, slower in fact, than the speed attained by most of the pursuit planes in the preceding race.

With Brookley pressing him, Mills "gave it the gun" on the third lap and increased his speed to an average for the two laps of 216 miles an hour, widening the gap between himself and his pursuer. Brookley could not rise above an average of 213. On the third lap he rose to an average speed of 214 but it was not enough, for the Verville-Sperry was maintaining its pace of slightly more than 216.

In that order they finished, Mills out in front, Brookley two or three minutes behind him, and Stoner far to the rear. As the two leading planes crossed the finish line, each zoomed spectacularly upward, and Brookley turned and circled back over the spot where Skeel had lost his life.

Pearson Tragedy.

Two weeks ago Brookley was flying behind Lieut. Alex Pearson, just as he was following Skeel today, when Pearson crashed and was killed. Pearson was flying the ship in which Lieut. Williams won the Pulitzer trophy race in world record time at St. Louis last year. Pearson was to fly in it this race, and was conceded to be an almost prohibitive favorite to win it, because of the superior speed shown by the plane. This crash occurred only a few hundred yards from the scene of today's tragedy.

Native of Cleveland.

Capt. Skeel was a native of Cleveland and a graduate of Case College, from which he held a degree in mechanical engineering. He entered an officers' training camp soon after war was declared and was commissioned a lieutenant of infantry, in which service he went overseas. He was a delegate to the Interallied Waterways Conference at Cologne and Duisberg after the war. In 1920 he was detailed to the air service and learned to fly at Carlstrom Field, Fla., and Ellington Field, Tex. He was officially credited with having flown a total of about 825 hours and in all types of planes. He had a rapid rise in the air service and was commander of the Twenty-seventh Squadron of the First Pursuit Group, stationed at Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich. He was the father of two small children, who, however, were not at the field today. It was reported that Mrs. Skeel had to be restrained from rushing to the scene of the accident and afterward was in a state of collapse.

Inquiry failed to discover whether any military inquiry would be made. All three of the racers were more than three years old and had been reconditioned and equipped with new motors for the race. Pilots and mechanics said privately that the accident did not surprise them.

From High Altitude.

It was explained that Skeel, like other entrants in the speed races, dived from a high altitude, in order to get off to a speedy start. Naturally a plane attains its highest speed by nosing downward. Other pilots said that the tail and wings of Skeel's plane had succumbed to the terrific wind pressure when he had endeavored to flatten out, the point at which the greatest strain occurs.

Lieut. Rudolph Schroeder, former holder of the world's altitude record, was one of those who saw the accident, and the writer asked him to estimate the speed at which Skeel's plane was traveling when it crumpled.

"He certainly was going well over 300 miles an hour, and probably more than 350," Schroeder replied. "He told me yesterday that he usually got up to 350 when he was diving for speed, and he probably was doing a little better than that today." This would have been in the neighborhood of six miles a minute.

Near the Main Road.

The point at which the plane buried itself was less than 50 feet from the side of the main road leading out of the field, and soldiers had a busy time keeping homeward bound spectators moving. At this place a creek winds through a heavy bog, overgrown with weeds and willows. It was a dismal spot for a gallant man to die in.

Pieces of the wings and flying gear were picked up over an area of an acre, but the fuselage had penetrated deep into the creek bank and the hole quickly filled with water, making the work of the rescuers more difficult. The pilot was carried far under the surface of the mud and army searchlights were brought out as darkness fell and turned upon the spot, where squads of soldiers took turns at the digging.

Although this was the first event he had participated in, Skeel had been singled out for the particular admiration of the crowds during the preceeding two days and by his exhibitions of stunt flying between the other events. Flying an army pursuit plane, he had looped and rolled and zoomed and dived in a way that made a layman's hair stand on end.

As late as this morning, notwithstanding the gruelling ordeal he faced in the afternoon, he had electrified the spectators by a series of spectacular dives and ascents in front of the grandstand. Among his comrades he was known as a rather humorous officer, with nerves of steel, and a penchant for joking about the chances he took.

Lower New York Bombed.

Although the accident threw a pall over the remainder of the program, the last event furnished the best show of the meet. It consisted in the bombing of a miniature reproduction of lower New York, which had been erected on the field. In this "city," which rose to an actual height of 100 feet, the Woolworth, Singer, Equitable and Municipal buildings, and other famous landmarks of Manhattan's skyline were represented.

An old army "blimp" observation balloon was anchored over the city. First came a squadron of scouting planes, which fired the balloon, despite a realistic bombardment by anti-aircraft guns. As the bag burst into lurid flames, the pilot leaped in his parachute, reaching the ground safely long after the smoking embers of his craft had fallen.

The pursuit group circled, and returned with a squadron of big Martin bombers, again the anti-aircraft guns crackled, and the air was filled with exploding shells, but the bombers veered directly over the "city," there was a succession of great bursts of smoke and flame, and the mimic skyscrapers toppled and fell with a convincing crash, concluding the program.

The "Mosquito Race"

Preceding the army flyers' race for the Mitchell trophy, the crowd had been interestet and considerably amused by the progress of a 50-mile race between the "Mosquito" craft driven by motor cycle engines. Four of these diminutive ships started out. One never got off the field. At one time or another, all of the entrants were down in forced landings, and at one time all of them were down.

Only two managed to finish, H. C. Mummert, after going out on the first lap, repaired his engine, returned to the race and had it all to himself, finishing in the average speed of 38.24 miles an hour. J. M. Johnson, who won a similar race yesterday, was down three times, but finally took the air after Mummert had finished and managed to stay there until he completed the course, thus taking second money.

Second place in the Pulitzer race paid Lieut. Brookley $2500 in Liberty bonds. Lieut. Stoner got $1500 for finishing third. Mummert won $2300 in the March of the Marionettes, for the size of the purse was not in proportion to the size of the planes.

Officials estimated that slightly more than 125,000 persons attended during the three days. This was considerably fewer than had been expected. Arrangements for handling the crowds, accommodating the visitors, and handling the races, were excellent in almost every respect. But for the death of one of the pilots, sponsors of the meet said it was eminently satisfactory.

This was the first fatality, and the first serious accident that has occurred in the race since its inception in 1920.

Among the spectators were the pilots who recently completed the flight around the world and Ezra Meeker, 93-year-old Oregon trail blazer, who alighted a few minutes earlier after a flight from the Pacific Coast in a plane piloted by Lieut. Oakley Kelly.

Pursuit Planes Race.

The second race of the day was for the Mitchell trophy for planes of the first army fight-group. These are the crack fighters of the army. The pilots are picked men, and the planes are the swiftest in the service except for the specially built racers which are flown in the Pulitzer trophy race.

The distance of the race was 200 kilometers (124.27 miles), and was held over the large 50-kilometer course.

The flyers took off one at a time and flew in a great circle around the field. Then, gaining an altitude of about 1000 feet, they dived across the starting line at full throttle, flattening out not more than 20 feet above the ground. The noise of the motors was deafening and the penetrating whine of the strut wires could have been heard a mile away.

Moffat Falls Behind.

Hardly had the last of the 11 planes passed out of sight it seemed, before the first had completed the 50-kilometer hexagonal course, and was roaring across the line again. Only one change had occurred in the starting positions. Lieut. Donald, in eleventh place, had passed Lieut. Reuben Moffat, in tenth place. Lieut Cyrus Bettis, in seventh place, however, had made the best time, completing the lap, an average speed of 175.2 miles an hour. The only pilot under an average of 165 was Lieut. Moffat, who made it in 164.8. Lieut. Moffat is regarded as one of the most daring pilots in the service.

On the second lap Lieut. Thad Johnson, starting in third place, had wrested second position from Lieut. Leland C. Hurd and Lieut. George P. Tourtellot had lost fifth place to Lieut. Thomas K. Matthews. On this lap Stace moved from tenth place up to eighth. His speed for the two laps averaged 174.3 miles per hour. Moffat was falling steadily behind.

On the third lap Hurd and Lieut. Thomas Blackburn rounded the home pylon abreast. Hurd was trying desperately to make up lost ground, and was skirting the earth at an altitude of not more than 10 feet. The slightest dip would have meant disaster.

The race was won by Lieut. Cyrus Bettis, at an average speed of 175.43 miles an hour. Lieut. Stace was second, his speed was 173.7 miles an hour. The planes finished in a bunch with the exception of Lieut. Moffat who came in several minutes later. They zoomed upward spectacularly as they crossed the finish line, many of them going into loops and rolls as if from an exuberance of animal spirits.

The Pulitzer race carries a first prize of $5000 in Liberty Bonds; second prize of $2500 in Liberty Bonds and $1500 and $1000 in bonds for the third and fourth prizes

PLANE SUSPENDED FROM DIRIGIBLE CUTS LOOSE AT 1500 FEET AND FLIES OFF

THE TC-5, one of the lighter-than-air craft stationed at Scott Field, near Belleville, and a sister ship of the TC-3, seen frequently in exhibition flights over St. Louis, gave an interesting demonstration at the International air races. It ascended Friday from the field at Dayton, with a small airplane suspended beneath it by tackle. When it had reached a height of 1500 feet the pilot of the plane, sitting in the cockpit, started his motor, cut the tackle and flew away.

Besides the TC-5 and the TC-3, the TA-1 and TA-2 are in the Scott Field group of dirigibles.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, D. G. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

SKEEL WON MITCHELL TROPHY RACE HE

Well-Known to St. Louis tion Followers; Was in Sc Field Air Meet.

Capt. Burt E. Skeel, who killed Saturday while flying in Pulitzer Trophy race at W Wright Field, Dayton, O., was right to pilot a plane in the air classic this year by his tacular victory in the Bri General William Mitchell Tr race during the Internation Races at Lambert-St. Louis last October.

In that race Capt. Skeel a Thomas-Morse pursuit an average speed of 146 hour for 200 kilometers miles), defeating five of army's best pursuit pilo members of the First Group, which Capt. Skeel manded during the meet. senting Capt. Skeel with Mitchell trophy, donated Mitchell in memory of his John L. Mitchell, who was in action in France, Major eral Patrick, Chief of the Air ice, announced that the had been selected as one of pilots in the next Pulitzer Race as an additional reward his victory.

He ticipated in an air meet Scott Field, Belleville, Aug. the benefit of the Army Fund, with Lieut Alex who was killed at Wilbur Field Sept. 2 while testing ing plane for the Pulitzer Race, and Lieut. Wendell Brookley, who finished yesterday's race. The three a short exhibition race, and gave an exhibition of stunt that caused veteran aviators tending the meet to hold breath.

The pursuit group, which Skeel commanded, is the only of the kind in the army, manned by the most daring in the service. The home of the group is at Selfridge Michigan.

Widow and Two Children.

Capt. Skeel was 30 years a native of Cleveland, O. tered the service at the of the war with Germany engineer officer, transferring the aviation branch after the mistice. GRAND JURY MAY LOOK INTO COUNTY PADDING CHARGES

Democratic Official to Demand Proof From Republican Chairman Who Alleges Registration Fraud.

ELECTION BOARD HEAD THINKS IT OVER

Prosecutor Says It Is Peculiar That "the Old Experts at Padding Should Desert Their Old Party."

Grand jury investigation of the various reports of heavy padding of the St. Louis County registration books in the general registration last week is expected. Election Commissioner Hiller said yesterday he would demand it when the grand jury meets next Wednesday, in view of the definite charge made by Chairman Al Autenrieth of the Republican County Committee, that 1000 to 1500 names, or more, had been placed on the books fraudulently, and that he had positive proof of the fraud.

"In view of Autenrieth's charges," said Commissioner Hiller, who is a Democrat, "I will ask the grand jury for an investigation, and will demand that Autenrieth produce proof. I am willing to appear there and turn over registration records. The Election Board cannot itself go any farther than the regular investigation which will be made anyway when precinct clerks make their canvass of the registration, next Thursday and Friday."

The board will insist that the clerks make as rigid a house-to-house canvass as time and the areas they have to cover will allow. There is one Republican and one Democratic clerk in each precinct. On Oct. 14, revision day, precinct officials will meet as revision boards to strike off names not believed entitled to registration. Appeals from the revision may be made to the Election Board.

Suspects Political Maneuver.

"This thing might be a political maneuver," Commissioner Hiller continued. "It's conceivable that somebody is erecting a smoke screen to manipulate the registration to suit themselves. I don't see how there could be more than, say, 150 names registered fraudulently. As for 1500, I don't think Autenrieth believes that himself."

Election Commissioner McElhinney, chairman and second member of the board, a Republican, said he would think over the necessity of a grand jury inquiry.

Autenrieth said yesterday, in reiterating his charges, that he was not eager to appear before the grand jury, being most concerned with having fraudulent registrations stricken off, but would appear if called.

He declared that the padding of 1500 names occurred in the following precincts: Prospect Hill Ella Avenue, O'Neil, Stratmann, West Walnut Manor, Wellston No 1, Home Heights, Page Avenue No 1, Vinita Park and Black Jack.

Gang Influence Alleged.

"You will notice all those precincts have been normally Democratic," Autenreith averred. "The padding is worst in Central, Carondelet and St. Ferdinand townships, where the Egan and Hogan gangs are rampant. Those gangs are trying to put a certain Democratic candidate across. Two taxicabs took four men each to Wellston No. 1 and Ella Avenue; the men registered at Wellston, but they were challenged and left at Ella Avenue."

The Republican committee chairman said that precinct workers of the party, supplied with unofficial lists of all known voters, had checked names of those registering in the three-day period, and had found that many persons registered who were not on these lists, in addition to which some precinct election officials reported that some registrants were strangers.

Prosecuting-Attorney Jones, who has taken no steps to investigate the reports of padding, said nothing had been presented to him officially, his information of the charges coming from newspapers.

"I don't value the information highly," he said. "It's peculiar to think the old experts at padding should desert their old party."

Jones is Democratic candidate for re-election.

Registration in 109 of the 123 precincts has been tabulated, showing 48,059 voters on the books. The 14 remaining precincts are rural and the total is not expected greatly to exceed 50,000. The total in the last and only previous registration was 32,979.

GRAND JURY MAY LOOK INTO COUNTY PADDING CHARGES

Democratic Official to Demand Proof From Republican Chairman Who Alleges Registration Fraud.

ELECTION BOARD HEAD THINKS IT OVER

Prosecutor Says It Is Peculiar That "the Old Experts at Padding Should Desert Their Old Party."

Grand jury investigation of the various reports of heavy padding of the St. Louis County registration books in the general registration last week is expected. Election Commissioner Hiller said yesterday he would demand it when the grand jury meets next Wednesday, in view of the definite charge made by Chairman Al Autenrieth of the Republican County Committee, that 1000 to 1500 names, or more, had been placed on the books fraudulently, and that he had positive proof of the fraud.

"In view of Autenrieth's charges," said Commissioner Hiller, who is a Democrat, "I will ask the grand jury for an investigation, and will demand that Autenrieth produce proof. I am willing to appear there and turn over registration records. The Election Board cannot itself go any farther than the regular investigation which will be made anyway when precinct clerks make their canvass of the registration, next Thursday and Friday."

The board will insist that the clerks make as rigid a house-to-house canvass as time and the areas they have to cover will allow. There is one Republican and one Democratic clerk in each precinct. On Oct. 14, revision day, precinct officials will meet as revision boards to strike off names not believed entitled to registration. Appeals from the revision may be made to the Election Board.

Suspects Political Maneuver.

"This thing might be a political maneuver," Commissioner Hiller continued. "It's conceivable that somebody is erecting a smoke screen to manipulate the registration to suit themselves. I don't see how there could be more than, say, 150 names registered fraudulently. As for 1500, I don't think Autenrieth believes that himself."

Election Commissioner McElhinney, chairman and second member of the board, a Republican, said he would think over the necessity of a grand jury inquiry.

SOMEONE IN THE CROWD PUSHED AND NOW TOWN HAS SHOVED MAYOR OUT

Town Displaces Sam Latham for Ross G. Putnam in Campaign Which Started Early in the Summer.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ELDORADO, Ill., Oct. 4.—No one here is immodest enough to say, "as Eldorado goes, so goes the nation." But certain political experts of the town see in the recall of Mayor Sam W. Latham that a wave of popular unrest which is reported in the wakes of Candidate Davis and Candidate La Follette. Dr. Latham is a Republican.

He looks like the prevailing conception of a dyed-in-the-wool Republican. He is large and genial; well fed and prosperous. When the correspondent talked to him today he was wearing a gray checked suit and had a red rose in his coat. There was about him that suggestion of hurt surprise which Democratic cartoonists like to put on the faces of Republicans. He had, you felt, the dogged, unrepentant spirit which might lead him any minute to hurl at his enemies the war cry, "Coolidge or Chaos." His friends already have warned Eldorado that it must be either "Latham or Lassitude."

Recalled at the Polls.

In spite of this warning the town recalled Dr. Latham by a majority of 185 votes in a bitter election a week ago last Thursday and put Ross G. Putnam, an independent, in his place. The campaign was so heated that both sides admit "it split even the churches wide open." It was so filled with charge and countercharge that Eldorado might be said to epitomize the great national arena in which even now the next President is being decided upon.

Mayor Latham's enemeis made two charges against him in the recall petition, which had 1700 signers. The first was that Latham's administration had been wildly extravagant. The second was that the Mayor had used alcoholic stimulants to excess and was not conducting himself in accord with the dignity of his office. However, in the campaign which extended over three months, Latham's opponents disregarded these statements as being two restricting. They accused the Latham administration of corruption and the doctor of many sorts of misconduct.

It has not been a klan and anti-klan fight, except in so far as the klan members here are largely Democrats. It has been a moral fight, Latham's opponents assert.

The fight on Doctor Latham had its start last June, when Chief of Police Arthur Harrelson, his appointee, was said to have comforted himself in a tyranical manner. The Chief was at a carnival and the crowd at the ticket office was shoving.

"Stop pushing," the Chief ordered.

"I'm not pushing," the foremost citizen in the line said. "The others are pushing."

"You are pushing," Harrelson is alleged to have replied. "Stop it."

Those in the rear kept on shoving and the Chief is alleged to have hit the first citizen across the nose with his billy.

A committee took up the matter with the Mayor.

"You've got to fire him," they said.

"Politics!" the Mayor replied. "This is a mere political move." Harrelson remained in office.

Presently the Rev. O. B. Allen of the Methodist Church started the recall petition in circulation.

The primary issue in the campaign was Mayor Latham's alleged use of intoxicants. The persons who pressed for his removal asserted that he was often so much under the influence of liquor that he could not transact business at the meetings of the Town Council. Dr. Latham's supporters did not deny that their champion sometimes took a drink. In fact, the doctor told the correspondent quite frankly that "I drink whenever I feel like it." But they asserted that the doctor never drank so much [illegible] that he could handle the municipal affairs of Eldorado.

Town Papers Take Sides.

The two papers of the town at once took sides, the News against and the Journal for Latham. Here is how the Journal viewed the liquor question:

"What is the predominating charge against Mayor Latham," it inquired of its readesr in one article, "name that he has been intoxicated.

"But when has Dr. Latham harmed Eldorado, even though he might have been intoxicated? Was anyone injured by those unthoughted acts of his but himself and his own health? Did he harm the city in any way?"

To his opponents this statement seemed to evade the issue. It sounded to them like that famous pronouncement: "The wonder of it is not that so many were corrupt, but so few."

The Eldorado News snapped back with a scathing rebuke of the Journal and proclaimed, "This is a moral issue. A public office is a public trust."

The Mayor's opponents made charges of graft in municipal affairs. They alleged that certain high officials of the town had tried to get a gas meter salesman to bill meters at $11.50 each when the meters really were [illegible] cost the city $9.50 each. The meter salesman's company refused, it was said.

Dr. Latham's enemies charged that the alleged extravagant contracts his administration had let were full of graft. Democrats pointed out paving project No. 9, which had cost property owners $122,000; No. 13 which would cost $50,000, and No. 10 which would entail the expenditure of $100,000, and they also pointed to the new city hall, which had cost $32,000. All these projects had been put under way during the 16 months of the Mayor's term.

"The least that we can expect of those in public office is common honesty and economy," paraphrased the anti-Latham faction. Property owners who would be obliged to pay for the street paving on a front footage basis signed the recall petition.

Followed two months more of bitter accusations. The Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian ministers referred to the campaign from their pulpits. One of the things to which the conservative element of the town objected was that the doctor, as president of the Lions' Club, had headed a move to buy and equip a park. The Lions' Club said it was a public-spirited venture. Those who did not like the youth of Eldorado to swim on Sunday and skate and dance other days retorted that it was just a scheme to sell a park tract to the city at a big profit.

Meanwhile the petition circulators were accumulating the required 55 per cent of the approximate 2000 voting strength of the town. The petition was filed with the City Clerk.

Dr. Latham's Come-Back.

Then Dr. Latham and his supporters came back. They alleged that the collectors of signatures had not bothered to see everybody in person but had signed some names without the owner's knowledge. This was admitted at a court hearing at Harrisburg. The Rev. Mr. Allen conceded that some of his workers had been overzealous. But, although the number of signers shrank from 1700, enough challenged signatures were proven to make it evident that more than 55 per cent of the citizens of Eldorado had joined that "great popular unrest over conditions in America today." They did not want Latham. They had not kept "Cool with Coolidge." They were undaunted by the alternative of "Latham or Lassitude."

Alleged Fall and a Blow.

Angered by the Latham faction's cry of "crooked work," those arrayed against the Mayor dug up more stories. It was said that he had fallen into the Lions' swimming pool one evening while intoxicated. It was said that he and two of his four commissioners held meetings in his office before each council meeting and agreed on a slate; and that they then used their majority of three to two to override the will of the people and the other two commissioners.

As a final blow—the afternoon of the day before election day—the Eldorado News published the report of a suit which had been filed over at Harrisburg, the County seat. In this suit a young woman, Miss Nellie O'Reilly, asked for $10,000 damages from Dr. Latham, alleging that he had attacked her in an office building in Chicago.

The doctor is chief surgeon of the Illinois Industrial Commission and was said to have been in Chicago attending a meeting of the commission when the alleged attac koccurred. Miss O'Reilly is described in the petition as a stenographer employed by the commission and other parties. She averred that the attack occurred while she was acting as a stenographer for the commission.

Too Late for Published Denial.

It was too late for the doctor to publish his denial. He had his supporters circulate it by word of mouth, and had anticipated the suit with the following notice published the day before:

"Dr. Sam W. Latham calls the attention of the voters to the scurrilous literature now being circulated by the supporters of Mr. Putnam. This is a last-minute attempt with which they in their desperation are attempting to fool the public and to befog the issue. Everybody knows this circular is a lie, conceived by liars and promulgated by blackmailers and criminals."

Election day dawned cool and crisp. The issue was clear. Commissioners W. T. Hatter and William Brown stood with the Mayor. Commissioners Louis Barton and James Lyons were against him. If Mayor Latham was defeated Putnam, the reformers' candidate, would be in control, as the Mayor could swing the deciding vote.

In vain the Latham sympathizers pointed out that, if the Chicago charge was true, why hadn't the wronged girl instituted criminal prosecution?

Both sides hauled voters to the polls. When it was over Putnam's vote stood with a majority of 185. From this figure it was apparent that some of those who were alleged to have signed the ouster petition changed their minds and voted for Latham, dividing the town almost evenly.

"We would have won in a few more days," said Latham yesterday. "I deny the Chicago story absolutely. I never saw the girl and don't know anything about it. This was a klan and anti-klan fight, with Democrats doing most of the fighting against me. They wanted jobs. That's all there was to this."

"This was not a klan or anti-klan fight," said the Rev. Mr. Allen, a statement in which Mayor Putnam joined. "It was merely the fight of the decent people of this town for honesty and morality in government. It was a fight for righteousness. We were tired of Latham's misrule."

As son as Mayor Putnam got into office he made a clean sweep of Latham's appointees. He fired Chief of Police Harrelson and his force of three men. He fired the fire chief and all the firemen, the waterworks superintendent and all the waterworks crew, he fired the city clerk and everyone else, putting in men chosen by his faction. But is the thing settled? Not in Eldorado! The Democrats have won. Still—

"The Citizens' Protective League has organized to protect themselves from those now in office," said ex-Mayor Latham. "I understand it has more than 1000 members."

Latham is married, but has no children.

CORONER'S JURY CRITICISES POLICE IN AUTO DEATH

No Witnesses Obtained—Police Report Absolves Officers, Who Say None Could Be Found.

After a special investigation which followed a charge of the Coroner's jury yesterday that the police had been lax in getting data on an auto accident, Police Lieut. William Murphy of the Homicide Bureau last night reported to Chief of Detectives Hoagland that as far as he could determine every officer connected with the case had performed his duty.

The Coroner's jury was compelled to find that Jeremiah Collins, 79 years old, of 3623A Lucky street, was the victim of an accident because there were no witnesses to his injury. He was struck Thursday evening at Kingshighway boulevard and Maryland avenue by a machine driven by Paul O. Mantler, an automobile salesman of 6300 Virginia avenue.

Patrolman John Holloran testified at the inquest that he accompanied Collins to city hospital in an ambulance, but failed to round up any witnesses. When questioned by Deputy Coroner Dever regarding the failure to obtain evidence in the case, Patrolman Holloran said he had not felt obligated to return to the scene of the accident, as his time on duty had ended while he was at the hospital.

A second policeman in the case also failed to produce anything in the way of evidence and, when Mantler, the driver, refused to make a statement, on advice of counsel, the Coroner's jury returned a verdict of accident, and voted the recommendation for an investigation of police methods in such matters. Deputy Coroner Dever said he would ask Circuit Attorney Sidener to question policemen responsible for the apparent laxity.

Murphy, in his report, stated that three men, a chauffeur, a clerk and a signal officer, responded in a patrol wagon when some one called the Newstead Avenue Police Station about 6 p. m. Thursday and reported that a man had been injured. When the patrol wagon with the injured man aboard passed Kingshighway boulevard and Laclede avenue, Patrolman Joseph Ketts, the signal officer, called Patrolman Holloran, who accompanied Collins to the City Hospital.

Holloran could get no statement about the circumstances of the accident from Collins, he told Murphy they had tried to get the names of witnesses, but could find no one who had seen the accident. Murphy said he believed there were no witnesses available and expressed the opinion that the policemen who worked on the accident had done all that could reasonably be expected to find eyewitnesses to the accident.

BONDHOLDERS OF SUBURBAN FIRM IN DEMANDS ON U. R.

Committee Holds to Position It Is Ready to Take Over and Operate the Lines.

Reorganization of the United Railways Co. will proceed as outlined in a recently published plan without the participation of holders of $6,500,000 Suburban bonds if their protective committee remains firm in its refusal to accept the proffered partial payment and extension of their securities.

This position was taken yesterday in New York by Stanley Clarke, attorney and spokesman for the Reorganization Committee, in reply to a telegram from the Post-Dispatch, and means that unless public officials intervene, a segregation of the 112 miles of Suburban properties from the United Railways will ensue.

Clarke's Statement.

"We deem more than fair our offer to pay off $2,000,000 of the bonds immediately and retire $100,000 additional each year for 10 years," Clarke said. "The Suburban bondholders will be given an opportunity to deposit their securities whether or not the committee representing them approves of it and their acceptance is a matter for them to determine."

The Suburban Bondholders' Committee, of which Herman Stifel is chairman, said Friday that it was ready to take over and operate the Suburban lines if necessary to do so to protect its investment. It was stated that such a step would be taken with hesitancy because of a consideration for the public, but would become necessary if the Reorganization Committee offer did not guarantee the Suburban bonds.

Court Adjudication Likely.

It is regarded as likely that the position of the two parties will result in a court adjudication of the matter, inasmuch as the city has consistently opposed a segregation of the properties which would carry with it an elimination of the universal transfer system. The State Public Service Commission undoubtedly will oppose any dismemberment of the railway system.

The Suburban properties include the present Hodiamont, Meramec and Kirkwood-Ferguson lines, that portion of the Manchester line west of Sarah street and parts of the Union and Sarah street lines.

The fly in the ointment at the present time lies in the fact that the reorganization plan does not make the new company obligor for the Suburban bonds. The plan, as stated by Clarke, provides that $2,000,000 of the bonds be paid off immediately and that an additional $1,000,000 be paid off in ten years. The Suburban committee insists that the new company guarantee payment of principal and interest of the remaining $3,500,000 bonds. This it has declined to do, pointing out, however, that any failure to pay interest would enable the bondholders to foreclose on the properties. The reorganization committee has assigned as a reason for its stand the fact that to become obligor on the bonds would place the Suburbans ahead of the preferred stock which St. Louis Transit Co. bond holders are receiving in exchange for their bonds. It is asserted that the Transits now have a superior lien on all the property other than the Suburban lines, and should not be forced to accept an arrangement under which the Suburban position would be senior.

Others Accept Plan.

All other security holders have accepted the new plan and the actual work of reorganizing the company was undertaken Friday when holders of the $9,790,000 Transit Co. bonds filed foreclosure proceedings. The petition asked that all the property be sold in one parcel, subject to the liens now outstanding against it.

Under the new plan 53,845 shares of preferred stock will be issued, all to be held by Transit Co. bondholders, who will receive for each $1000 bond $300 in cash, 5½ shares of new preferred stock and the right to buy 10 shares of new common stock, totaling 97,900 shares, at $12.50 per share.

The total common stock will be 352,645 shares, including those in the Transit trade and 254,745 additional shares, which will be alloted to holders of the present 163,830 shares of preferred stock on the basis of 1½ shares of new common and a $12.50 per share payment for each share of old preferred. The new company will raise $4,400,000 in this way. Present holders of 249,130 shares of U. R. common stock will be permitted to buy such new common stock as is not subscribed by the Transit and preferred stock interests.

The bonded indebtedness of the present company will be decreased from $53,890,000 to $42,800,000 by the payment of receiver's certificates, underlying bonds and transfer of the Transits. The new indebtedness of the reorganized company will include the $30,300,000 outstanding general 4 per cent bonds, $4,500,000 Suburbans and a new $8,000,000 issue to be authorized.

The entire plan is based on the assumption that the new company will be permitted by the State Public Service Commission to earn 7 per cent on a $57,200,000 valuation.

The hearing of the Transit bondholders' foreclosure suit will be held in the Federal Court before Judge Faris Oct. 23.

Democrats Say Davis Is Only Hope for Election by People

policy in both domestic and international affairs. The Democratic party will be solidified and strengthened, and the left-wing movement will be checked. If the Democratic party is defeated and a reactionary Republican placed at the helm, the left wing will continue to gain, Democratic strength will be sapped, and in 1928 the battle will be between the two extremes of reaction and radicalism.

La Follette Move Uncertain.

For this reason the La Follette managers, if they cannot elect La Follette—and they do not expect to elect him—greatly prefer a Republican to a Democratic victory. They are building for 1928.

Can it therefore be considered certain that the La Follette votes in the Senate would be thrown to Bryan as against Dawes? Is it possible that La Follette and his followers would seek to elect Dawes, who is anathema to them, in order that a sharp issue might be drawn between progressivism and reaction during the next four years.

This, it seems to the writer, is a contingency that must be reckoned with.

Thoughtful Democrats know the danger that confronts the party. And they see this danger as menacing not only the party, but the whole cause of sane liberalism, particularly that liberalism that would lead this country into its proper relationship with the rest of the world. At one extreme in the contest is Coolidge, representing reaction in domestic affairs and a "bootlegging" participation in foreign affairs. At the other extreme is La Follette, with a radical program that looks toward a new and more powerful bureaucracy in government, and that offers no hope of any improvement in our foreign relations. Between the two extremes is the Democratic party, with a liberal leader and a program of progress.

Danger in Radicalism.

The Democratic party in this analysis, is seen as a balance wheel. Its preservation is regarded as vital to the cause of orderly progress. Defeat it in this election, and its counsels of moderation will be lost in the growing storm of radical protest against the Republicanism of Dawes and Coolidge.

Roughly, that is the line of argument that the Democrats are trying to get before the country in opposition to Republican propaganda that a vote for Coolidge is a vote for "safety." A vote for Coolidge, they contend, is a vote for chaos.

Failing a Davis majority in the Electoral College, they would welcome the chance to get a "decision on points" in the House. They know, however, that the "knockout" is the only sure method, and that is what they are striving for with redoubled vigor as the campaign draws to a close.

Among observers who are not wedded to the belief, or the profession of belief, that Coolidge is bound to win, the chance of an electoral college deadlock is never lightly dismissed.

The Possibilities.

Much that is confusing has been said on this subject. Reduced to the simplest possible terms, the situation is this: Davis will get the votes that Cox got in 1920, numbering 127. He has good reason to expect the votes of the five border states of Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee, Oklahoma and West Virginia, numbering 56—a total of 183 votes. If Davis gets none but these, then 83 La Follette votes will throw the election into the House. If La Follette gets 83, then Davis need not carry Arizona or Colorado, or Indiana, or New Jersey, or New York, or any other doubtful state.

By so much as Davis may be able to swell his total in the doubtful territory, by just so much he may reduce the La Follette total that is required for a deadlock. If Davis carries Indiana, with 15 votes, a total of 68 for La Follette will turn the trick. If Davis carries New York, with 45 votes, the election will be thrown into the House if La Follette gets 38 votes.

La Follette will get 84 votes if he carries Wisconsin, with 13; Minnesota, 12; North Dakota, 5; South Dakota, 5; Montana, 4; Iowa, 13; Nebraska, 8; California, 13; Idaho, 4, and Washington, 7.

If Davis gets his fairly certain minimum of 183 votes, and carries only New York in addition, the election will go into the House if La Follette carries Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and Nebraska.

PRESIDENT WARMS UP AS WASHINGTON RALLIES, BUT GIANTS WIN

watch and paced up and down nervously in front of the stand.

President Keeps "Umps" Waiting.

"I wonder who this Coolidge thinks he is?" said a baseball reporter earnestly. "He's keeping Tommy Connolly waiting."

But presently Marines and soldiers marched across the field, the band played, the players stood at attention and Mr. Coolidge prepared to throw out the first ball. Republican newspapers will deny that he was nervous about the ordeal, but the fact remains that he made a bad throw. Connolly saved him an error by reaching up and taking the crooked toss with one hand. This leaves Mr. Coolidge's fielding record at 1000.

Still, in spite of this excellent record, Mr. Coolidge received only a small amount of attention from the crowd. It was the first world's series for him, but also for Walter Johnson. As the game began a young giant named Freddy Lindstrom stepped up to the plate and it was interesting to realize that on the afternoon Walter Johnson pitched his first big league game, some 18 years ago, Freddy Lindstrom cried for five hours because of a combination of colic and teething. Johnson has pitched under the big tent for 18 years and Lindstrom has been in the world precisely the same length of time.

Victory Snatched From Johnson.

If the dramatic proprieties were faithfully observed in life, of course, Johnson would have won. And as it happened fact lagged behind fiction by just about one foot. In the seventh inning Johnson came to bat, with two Washington runners on base, and met the ball fair and square with a full swing. It sailed away on a line headed directly for deep right center field where the doubles and triples grow. Frank Frisch leaped high in the air and caught that liner. It would have scored two runs and brought victory to Walter Johnson. I am beginning to suspect that life has a rotten habit of neglecting to let things turn out as they should. Certainly the issue seemed plain in this case. Walter Johnson is one of the most glamorous figures in the national game. At the present time the Giants are quite a little less than that. Nevertheless, the unjust cause won. The best that righteousness and romance could do was to carry the game into extra innings.

Presumably three specific Giants must have played under a great nervous strain. When Jimmy O'Connell made his confession of the bribery plot he tried to implicate by name Kelly and Young and Frisch. But these charges did not seem to bether Kelly or Frisch, who shared with Arthur Nehf most of the glory of winning the game.

Young Puts Giants in Lead.

If there is anything in the ordeal by combat these two men are certainly innocent. On the basis of performance, Young did not vindicate himself until late in the game. In his first three times at bat he struck out three times and got just one foul for all his swinging. But it was Young who put the Giants into the lead in the twelfth inning with a clean single and so he, too, came clear of any devastating mental disturbance on account of the bribery story.

Walter Johnson's pitching record was curious. He threw strikes in great profusion but he also tossed over two home run balls. He had so much speed that the batter was either going to miss or else crash out a long hit. He fed speed to Kelly in the second inning and Kelly put the ball into the bleachers. Goslin ran all the way to the wall after this drive and fell over among the spectators in a vain effort for a catch.

In the fourth, Bill Terry made a second home run for the New York cause. This went in the same general direction as Kelly's hit, but it was lower and cleared the wall with not more than a couple of feet to spare. Terry's home run interrupted Johnson's most brilliant burst of pitching. Out of five successive batters to face him in the fourth and fifth innings, Johnson fanned four. But right in the middle of this string was Terry with his home run.

Nehf Steadrer Than Johnson.

Arthur Nehf was not so flashy as Johnson, but he pitched more steadily. The Washington rally in the twelfth, which almost cut down the Giants' lead, was not exactly the fault of the pitcher. Jackson put Nehf in a hole by dropping a high fly raised by Shirley, who batted for Johnson. The error was good for two bases. But for that matter, Walter Johnson was hurt by his support in the twelfth. A poor throw by McNeely, the Washington center fielder, was chiefly responsible for the Giants' two runs.

All in all, it was a great game, one of the finest and most exciting ever played and yet it cannot be set down as a success. Some of the best incidents fell flat. There was not a ripple of applause for Kelly's home run or for Terry's. Instead, there was an embarrassed silence. Life may be a great dramatist, but not for a Washington audience. Down here they like a happy ending.

E. H. JOHANNING WINS DAHLIA SHOW HONORS

Awarded Bronze Medal for Amateur Exhibition and Eight Blue Ribbons.

A bronze medal for the most meritorious amateur exhibition in the second annual Dahlia Show, which opened yesterday at Shaw's Garden and will be open this afternoon and tomorrow, was awarded to E. H. Johanning, who also won eight blue ribbons in class competition.

This medal and the silver medal in the commercial section, which was awarded to the Missouri Dahlia Farms, winner of nine blue ribbons, were offered by the American Dahlia Society and were the highest awards in the show. They were awarded to the same contestants in the Dahlia Show last year.

Contrary to this indication, however, the territory from which entries were made was considerably extended this season. Blooms from distant parts of this section were still arriving yesterday afternoon, too late for competition, and the first prize for the amateur seedling was won by J. C. Roach of Girard, Ill., whose entry was a blossom of the large, showy type in a velvety dark red.

One Bloom to a Vase.

Johanning won the bronze medal on his exhibition of 10 large varieties, one bloom to a vase. His was adjudged the best basket arrangement, a tall basket of deep mauve blossoms; the best collarette, a single row of petals with deep red stains fading into soft yellow; the best pompon, a crimson, rounded blossom with its yellow heart showing through; the best of the single type, a large, dull red blossom; the best of the show variety, red with a golden heart; and the best vase of 10 blooms, all huge, with curling petals of a dull red.

Eugene H. Angert's "Milton Edwards," a large reddish blossom with overtones of yellow, was adjudged best of the cactus variety. A special class for the cactus hybrid was created for the brilliant white "Break of Day" entered by Edward F. Nolte of Webster Groves. Angert's yellow "Elberson Beauty" took first prize among the peony-flowered. Nolte won a blue ribbon for the best vase of five blossoms with five huge russet and golden "Sampsons." Mrs. J. F. Shoemaker of Clayton had the best collection of five varieties, with blossoms of the larger types in the lighter colors.

These seven distinct types, ranging through every color except blue from pure white to a red which is almost black, were developed, like the chrysanthemum, from a single unpretentious and unvarying type. The kaleidoscopic color with which the descendants of this obscure flower gladden the display house is revelational.

Newer Varieties.

Among the newer varieties at the show are the "Tommy Atkins," a saffron-touched red type with which Johanning won the blue ribbon in the decorative type, and the "Jersey Beauty," a large rose-colored blossom of unusual symmetry and evenness of color. A table was set aside for the newest varieties—those being tested for adaptability to this climate by Shaw's Garden for the American Dahlia Society.

EVERYBODY'S THEATRE

A theatre in which everyone feels comfortable and "at home." A theatre possessing neighborly atmosphere, where all derive the same degree of enjoyment and where each one seems to feel that the particular program being presented was built for the friendly occupant of each embracing seat.

That's the Missouri atmosphere—a theatre for all the people. There's nothing stiff or formal about it, ever. Its patrons are one large family—the biggest, friendliest family in all the hospitable, gracious Southwestern country.

Famous Players, who present here in their own wonderful house the Famous Players - Lasky Pictures, are fortunate indeed in having won the support of all the people for this beautiful institution. The Missouri is a democratic house and all St. Louisans contribute to its success and popularity.

NEGRO IS HUNTED AS WRECKER OF FAST B. & O. TRAIN

Brakeman Reports Loiterer at Point Where Crash Occurred Tried to Strike Him With Crowbar.

SWITCH LOCK WAS SAWED OFF

Locomotive Engineer Was Killed and the Fireman and Nine Passengers Injured in Smashup.

Having established that the Baltimore & Ohio fast St. Louis-Cincinnati train No. 12 was wrecked Friday night by someone who maliciously sawed off a lock and opened a switch on the main line near Aviston, Ill., railroad detectives and a Sheriff's posse centered their search yesterday for a negro under suspicion. As told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, the locomotive engineer was killed and the fireman and nine passengers were injured.

In the afternoon a negro was arrested and taken to the Clinton County courthouse for questioning. He denied knowledge of the wreck, but he is said to answer descriptions of the negro suspected.

A number of St. Louisans en route to witness the Pulitzer air race at Dayton yesterday, were in a special car which was not derailed. With other uninjured passengers they assisted the injured and quieted hysterical women and children. The wreck made it impossible for them to arrive in Dayton in time to see the Pulitzer race, so they returned to St. Louis.

Negro Brandished Crowbar.

The wreck occurred at 10:47 o'clock, a mile west of Aviston. A brakeman, who got off at that point at 9:30 to throw the switch for another train, reported a negro loiterer attempted to strike him with a crowbar for no apparent reason. Another report, not verified, was that a negro engaged in an altercation with a brakeman on No. 12 and threatened to "get" him.

The locomotive, tender and eight of the 11 steel cars were derailed when the train, traveling about 50 miles an hour, struck the open switch. The locomotive, tender and baggage cars overturned and scraped against one side of a cut through which the train was passing. Two Pullmans and the special car in the rear remained on the track.

The engineer, Carl Van Allman, 45 years old, of Washington, Ind., was crushed between the engine and tender and died of a skull fracture. The fireman, Lon Purcell, 31, of Washington, Ind., is in St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, with serious injuries.

Passengers reported injured, none of them seriously, were: Mrs. Annie Shasserre, 2401 North Taylor avenue, St. Louis; H. H. Alvord, 640 Prospect avenue, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, Aviston, Ill.; P., Anna and Emma Conrad, Carlyle, Ill.; Ennis Lee, Winslow, Ark., and Miss Alice Bennett, Cincinnati, O.

St. Louisans Aid Injured.

After recovering from the jolt of the wreck, the St. Louisans in the special car set out to assist the injured and view the damage. The injured fireman, who had been thrown clear of the wreckage into a creek, was rescued by Robert C. Newman, insurance salesman; Harold M. Bixby, vice president of the State National Bank; Arthur Birge, who was general manager of the national air races here last year; David Leavitt, a cartoonist, and others. They also helped in extricating the engineer's body from the wreckage.

Other St. Louisans in the special coach were former Mayor Fred Kreismann; Carl F. G. Meyer, who Friday night retired as president of the Advertising Club; W. Frank Carter, chairman of the Citizens' Supervisory Bond Issue Committee; M. E. Singleton, president of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co.; George S. Johns, editor of the editorial page of the Post-Dispatch; Emmett T. Carter, attorney; Emmett M. Myers and George M. Wendling, insurance agents; Sam Kauffman, president of the American Metal Products Corporation; Victor C. Houser, president of the Barnes-Crosby company; Walter Knight, president of the Knight Engraving Co.; F. W. A. Vesper, former president of the Chamber of Commerce; George Stumpf, a proprietor of Lake Hill Park; Randall Foster, an insurance agent, and Frank D. Gildersleeve, passenger representative of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Switch Lock Sawed Off.

After the wreck, it was discovered the switch lock had been sawed off and the switch thrown open. The lock and switch lights were later found in a nearby ditch.

The train departed from Union Station at 9:30 p. m. Friday and was due in Cincinnati at 7:20 a. m. yesterday. After first-aid treatment had been given the injured passengers at Aviston, a special train brought the passengers back to East St. Louis over the B. & O. tracks, then took those who wished to continue their journey over the Pennsylvania tracks to Shattuc, Ill., thence to Cincinnati over the B. & O. lines, arriving several hours late.

HUGHES DEFENDS TARIFF AND FOREIGN POLICY AND SAYS ADMINISTRATION OF COOLIDGE IS ONLY ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

Opening Campaign in Ohio, He Declares Fordney-McCumber Act Is Successful Revenue Producer.

States Foreign Policy Is to Keep Out of Trouble—Looks "With Gratification" on "Progress Toward Peace."

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 4.—Reviewing the accomplishments of the Republican administration and stressing the "common sense" policies of President Calvin Coolidge, Charles Evans Hughes, Secretary of State, formally opened the Republican Ohio presidential campaign here tonight with an address to an audience which nearly filled Emery Auditorium. It seats 2200.

In deploring the activities of the independent political campaign orators, Secretary Hughes deviated from his prepared address when he said:

"I have no patience with any campaign orator who tries to make one set of persons believe the other group a set of rascals."

"Whatever may be the subject of campaign speakers," the Secretary declared, "there is really one issue in this campaign and that is—shall the administration of Calvin Coolidge be continued?

"The average man, who is not interested in the tactics of the campaign, says to himself and to his neighbor—why should there be a change?"

Taking up first the arguments of "our historic opponents of the Democratic party," Hughes discussed fundamental principles of American government.

"Does it occur to our friends that if the question is one of Americanism, you could not find in the length and breadth of the land a more typical American than Calvin Coolidge?" he asked. "Calvin Coolidge incarnates Americanism. There could be no betterment in change."

It was "equally vain' to seek an issue in common honesty, Hughes declared.

"Fortunately, honesty is common," he added. "It is common to both parties, because it is common to Americans. It is not the special quality of any party.

Detest Political Corruption.

"We detest political corruption and we demand the punishment of the guilty. The Republican who soils his hands in corrupt dealing is as treacherous to his party as to his country. Every demand of justice is being met and every trust of the Government is being safeguarded. No guilty person is being protected. Every guilty person will get his just deserts according to the law of the land."

The speaker decried, however, "our opponents swiftly shifting to general denunciation, mingling the innocent with the guilty in diatribes which are the last resort of desperate partisanship."

"There are no dividends for honest men in sweeping denunciations," he said. "This lesson should be taken to heart by our Democratic friends. Indiscriminate denunciation might serve as a partisan policy if you could monopolize it. But while the Democrats are damning us, they are in turn damned. While denouncing the Republican party as the servant of privilege, they are themselves denounced as the tools of Wall street, the supple, experienced instruments of predatory wealth.

"It is the open season for reckless attacks upon character. The Democrats assail the Republicans and the third party pours out its vials of wrath and condemnation upon both. When it comes to indicting a whole nation, the third party has the best of it. But we not only have common honesty in this country; we have a sense of humor."

From these matters, Hughes said he would turn to "more substantial issues." He took up first the need of economy in government, citing figures to show that since June, 1921, "a reduction in the annual cost of government of $2,041,000,000."

Reduced Expenditures.

Replying to Democratic arguments that release from war expenditures accounted for this situation, Hughes said that "even on the statement of our opponents there would be left over a billion dollars of reduction in expenditures," not to be accounted for in that way.

"How was this done?" he demanded. "It has been done by upright, courageous and determined executives in the face of the greatest of difficulties.

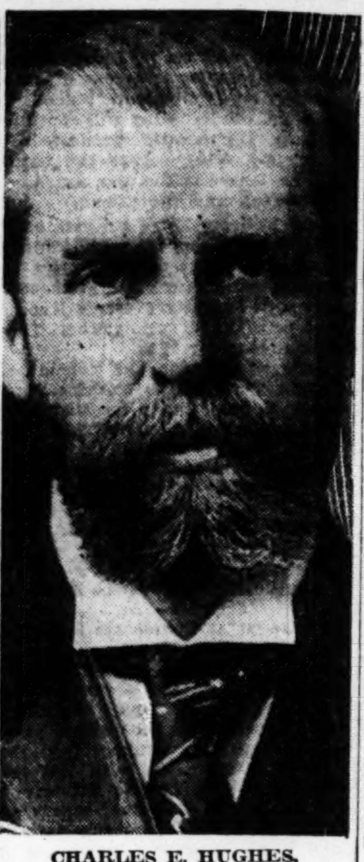
Hughes insisted that credit for tax reductions belonged to the Republican administration because it "reduced expenses and made tax reduction possible." He denied that credit was due those "who blocked more adequate tax reform."

Passing on to the tariff, the Secretary described the present law as "a highly successful revenue producer, yielding more than any previous tariff," adding that at the same time "contrary to the prophesies of our opponents, our American foreign trade had notably increased."

Questions of particular tariff schedules were not to be settled in a campaign or avoided by "having a Democratic tariff," Hughes said.

"The fundamental question is whether you are going to adhere to the principle of protection," he continued. "We favor a protective tariff, not to give privilege to a class but to promote the general prosperity. The Democratic project of rewriting the tariff law means uncertain and confusion."

In taking up the subject of foreign affairs, Hughes charged that "our opponents offer nothing of constructive value, although they had criticised them for three and a half years, with much fluent inaccuracy.



CHARLES E. HUGHES.

"I deprecate making any partisan issue of foreign policy, although of course, this is unavoidable if there is a real issue.

"In the conduct of foreign relations we are not making party advantage, but to maintain the honor and to protect the interests of the entire country. For the sake of these interests we should have so far as possible, a continuous foreign policy. Our strength abroad largely depends upon our unity at home.

"Unfortunately, we became involved in a bitter controversy in connection with the peace settlement after the great war. Efforts to promote peace in which our people have a profound and abiding interest were, as I think, unnecessarily linked with commitments foreign to our institutions.

"As a result of this controversy, the Republican administration had an inheritance of difficulties. To surmount them, to safeguard the interests of our nationals, to keep from being embroiled in foreign quarrels and rivalries to be helpful according to the American tradition whenever there was opportunity for helpfulness, to promote peaceful adjustments and humanitarian endeavors, has been our constant aim. What has been accomplished is so well known throughout the world that detractions react upon the detractors and leave them worse off than if they had left the subject alone."

Defines League Attitude.

The Secretary recounted at some length the results of the Central American conference. American withdrawal from the Dominican republic and progress made in Haiti. He summarized his review of Latin-American relations by the statement:

"Our relations with Latin-America are on a better footing than ever before."

The Washington arms conference, he said, had "dissipated the clouds and suspicion which had darkened the Eastern sky" and added that its achievements had "elicited the approval of the world."

While there was no direct reference in the address to the new arms reduction program launched by the League of Nations, at Geneva, Hughes took occasion to define the administration attitude on the general subject.

"We look with gratification at the new spirit of Europe and at the progress made toward peaceful solutions," he said. "Our attitude toward reduction of armaments remains unchanged and to this end we desire to keep. Our people are devoted to the interests of peace. We propose to perform our obligations under our treaties and under international law. We have had a gratifying leadership in promoting peaceful settlements. Our policy has established an abiding peace in this hemisphere. But the people of this country would never tolerate the submission to any power or group of powers of the determination of any of our domestic questions. If we are to co-operate we must be permitted to co-operate without the sacrifice of our rights to determine our own policies."

International Conferences.

At another point and in answer to Democratic attacks for failure to participate in international conferences, Hughes said:

"We believe in international conferences, but conferences are directed at objects, and when we participate it must be to the extent that we can make good our obligations according to our system of government and in accordance with the dominant sentiment of our people. The form and extent of our participation are governed by these principles."

The Democratic attack seemed to have special reference to the League of Nations and its committees, Hughes said, adding that if the demand were that the United States should join the league and thus fuly participate, "that would be an understandable demand."

"But it is precisely the position which the Democratic party has refused to take," he continued. "It has declined, for reasons of its own, to make the question of joining the league an issue in this campaign.

If not having joined the league, Hughes continued, he failed to see how the United States could "assume to act" as a member of that body and incur the obligations of members.

"What do our Democratic opponents propose?" Hughes said. "After years of discussion the test came in the Democratic convention. There was an acute controversy over the resolutions on foreign relations and the resulting plank in the platform, adopted after a bitter debate, must be deemed to state the position of the Democratic party. It has been indorsed by the Democratic candidate.

"Rhetorical and Vague."

"When we examine these proposals we find them to be rhetorical and vague in their general statements and wholly impracticable in their conclusions."

After reading the section of the Democratic platform proposing an advisory referendum election on joining the league, Hughes continued:

"Probably a more futile and unsound proposal has never been made by a convention of a great political party. This is the proposal which the former Democratic Secretary of War apparently characterized in the convention itself as 'a fanciful, illegal, unconstitutional, revolutionary referendum.' I need not pay further attention to this absurd proposal than to use his words."

Hughes quoted at some length from the speech against the league referendum clause made by Newton D. Baker at the New York convention during the platform fight. But, aside from its merits, he added, its adoption was "highly significant in another sense" because it showed that the Democrats "have taken note of the sentiment of the members of their own party and were unwilling to risk the election on the issue of joining the league."

This Democratic attitude, he added, "shows clearly the wisdom of the Republican administration in seeking not a continuance of the old controversy, but positive achievement."

"We Have Gone Forward."

"We have gone forward," he said, "with co-operation suited to the generous purposes of our people and with practical methods adapted to the exigency."

The Washington conference and the Dawes plan, Hughes declared, would, in his judgment, be singled out by impartial persons over the world, as the "greatest contributions in the interest of peace in recent difficult years."

He outlined the situation in Europe as to reparations which the Dawes plan was framed to remedy and added in reply to critics who scoffed because the Government had not officially taken part in the discussion:

"What we did was to point the way. * * * * Without our friendly attitude and our emphasis on the importance of adopting this method and of calling in expert aid to deal with the problem on its merits, success would not have been possible."

Hughes reserved his fire at the third ticket until the close of his address. It offered, he said, "a definite program" without "overturning our institutions."

Effects of Independents' Success.

The first effect of the independent movement in case of success would be "no election at all," Hughes, declared, adding: "The third party begins by threatening us with confusion and panic."

The second effect would be "to tie up the organization of Congress," he continued, and added: "Whatever difficulties other countries may have with numerous parties and coalitions, it is plain that our system breaks down when such divisive endeavors even threaten to prevent us from electing a President."

The third ticket proposal, for a nationwide initiative and referendum, Hughes said, "is a plan of those who mistake agitation for progress."

"But," Mr. Hughes declared, "the most serious and dangerous aim of the third party" seems to be its "assault upon the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in the interpretation of the Constitution." This was far more than a mere assault upon the court, he added, "it was an assault upon the United States."

"When this Government was founded," he said, "the smaller states feared the control of the larger states. What was possible then is even more possible now with the great concentration of populations."

The framers of the Constitution had not deemed the protection afforded by the Senate, where every state stood on an equality, as a sufficient protection for the smaller states, Hughes argued. It therefore limited the powers of Congress specifically, he added, continuing:

"Is Congress to have the power to override these limitations of its own authority?" Then these limitations might as well be abrogated. What use is a limitation which the one limited can disregard at will? The proposal of the third party would mean the enthronement of the Congress over the states. The Congress could pass any act it pleased, curtailing or destroying the rights of the states. The safeguard of reserved power of the states the third party proposes to destroy.

"Congress Would Be Supreme."

"If a majority in Congress has enacted a measure, can it not reenact it, if it wishes? The power to re-enact would be the power to destroy the decisions of the Supreme Court and to establish the supreme authority of Congress.

"Under the proposal of the third party, the Congress could at its pleasure destroy any power given by the Constitution to the President and assume the power itself. Every executive act would by this proposed amendment of the Constitution become subject to the will of the Congress. The proposal destroys the constitutional guarantees of individual liberty.

"The Constitution says that the Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances. The third party says that Congress shall have this power provided it passes its act twice.

"The Constitution says that the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied nor abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude. The third party says that Congress shall have this power provided it passes its act twice.

"The Constitution says that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to its jurisdiction. The third party says that if Congress chooses to override this provision, its measure shall be effective.

'The Constitution says that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated. The third party proposes that Congress shall have power to violate this right if it sees fit.

"If the proposal of the third party were adopted, everything you have, the security of your person and life, would be held at the mercy of Congress. And they call that progress!"

"WHAT IS A REPUBLICAN?" DAVIS INQUIRES

If Senator Lodge Is One, What Is Senator Brookhart? Nominee Asks in Providence Speech.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 4.—"I am firmly convinced that this is a Democratic year," said John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for the presidency, speaking tonight to a crowd that filled Infantry Hall here and gave him a noisy welcome.

Davis criticised the Republicans for exaggerating the importance of the Washington naval conference and accused them of having failed to maintain a navy up to the standard fixed in the treaty.

"I am willing to accept naval equality with Great Britain," he said. "But I am not willing to accept naval inferiority to any power. The Secretary of the Navy has confessed that the navy has sunk to a point barely above that of Japan.

"What have we done to lead the world into paths of reconstruction and peace in the last five years?" asked Davis. "What contribution have we made to restore the economic life of those across the sea who were in days gone by and must be in days to come our largest customers.

"When I speak of the economic life of Europe I am not thinking only of our allies. I am thinking also of our defeated enemies. We went into the war declaring that we made no war on women or children, that we made no war upon the German or Austrian people, but upon their Governments as they then stood."

Davis then referred to the Democratic party as one "not calling for any adjectives to describe its membership." He then enumerated leading Republicans, saying:

"If Senator Lodge is a Republican, what is Senator Brookhart? If President Coolidge is a Republican, I do not know what Senator La Follette may be. They both say they are Republicans. Is it any wonder that a plain, ordinary Democrat has some difficulty in deciding just what a Republican is?"

EMPTY SEATS AT ODEON DISTURB G. O. P. CHIEFS HERE

Near-Collapse of Republican City Campaign Opening Adds More Gloom to Party Councils

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

Republican party leaders in St. Louis, who have been on a nervous edge for two months as a result of the discovery of a very marked defection of voters of German origin from the Republican ranks to the La Follette party, were disturbed yesterday following the near-collapse of their campaign opening at the Odeon Friday night.

For the first time in many years the Republican organization failed to produce a capacity audience for the opening meeting of the campaign. In times past, when other means failed, they always were certain of a ready response from city hall employes in whatever number required. Friday night the Odeon with a seating capacity of slightly less than 2000, was only about three-fourths filled. Even the city hall employes, who number about 7000, failed to respond.

At City Hall high-up officials discussed among themselves and to some extent with outsiders the gloomy aspect of the campaign, which, in some respects, is similar to the situation two years ago when the party leaders were unable to hold in line for R. R. Brewster, the Republican nominee for the United States Senatorship, some 60,000 Republican voters.

Camapign of Education.

When they realized then that Senator Reed would get those votes, they became alarmed about the remainder of the Republican ticket, and, with few exceptions, local Republican candidates and leaders joined in the Reed movement, and conducted a campaign of education by which voters were informed how they could vote for Reed and at the same time for the Republican candidates for other offices.

The failure of the Friday night meeting, which was a failure in comparison with usual Republican meetings in St. Louis, was attributed yesterday by some of the Republicans to a discord in the Republican City Committee, which is said to be divided into three factions, one headed by Chairman Becker, another by Nat Goldstein, and a third consisting of those committeemen who are accustomed to take orders from Collector Koeln.

It was said by one Republican that there was little harmony in the committee, and little pulling together.

This Republican harked back to the days when Circuit Clerk Schmoll was chairman, and when city employes were marshalled by their committeemen, and marched to Republican meetings. He recalled the meeting addressed by Senator Hiram Johnson in 1920, when the Coliseum was packed to the doors.

Ascribed to K. K. K. Issue.

A considerable part of the defection was ascribed by another Republican to President Coolidge's failure to denounce the Ku Klux Klan.

"In St. Louis," this party man said, "it is a fight against the klan. When you consider the fact that the three elements in our citizenship which are antagonistic to the klan form a considerable majority of the population, you can realize what the Republican organization is up against when the head of its ticket has failed to denounce the klan."

One very high city official, a Republican, who would not permit the use of his name, recently estimated that La Follette would receive at least 60,000 votes in St. Louis. He said he believed 35,000 of these would be Republican and 25,000 Democrats, a net loss to the Republicans of 10,000.

Another Republican high in party councils, though not an office holder, expressed the opinion that the St. Louis vote would approximate these figures: 115,000 for the Republican ticket, 95,000 for the Democratic ticket, and 65,000 for the LaFollette ticket.

On that basis he was giving a Republican plurality of only 20,000. Three months ago Republican leaders even privately, were talking about a 60,000 plurality for Coolidge in St. Louis. Now the 60,000 talk is entirely for public consumption. Privately the figure is placed around 20,000, and some even go so far as to express doubt that Coolidge will carry St. Louis.

Baker's Strength Estimated.

The disposition among Republicans is to estimate that Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for Governor, will receive from 15,000 to 20,000 more votes in St. Louis than Coolidge, and some even figure the difference at considerably more than that. They base their opinions on the argument that Baker has denounced the klan and that he will receive many votes of persons who will be against Coolidge on that issue, and further that as there is no La Follette candidate for Governor, Republican German voters who will vote for La Follette will be inclined to vote the Republican ticket for State officers.

But, no matter about the detail with which they discuss the campaign, the leaders evidence very keen disappointment over the failure of their party, which polled 163,000 votes in St. Louis in 1920, to produce an attendance of more than 1400 for the campaign opening in 19[illegible]

BUS SERVICE IN COUNTY WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

15-Minute Schedule Between University City and Clayton for 5-Cent Fare.

Motorbus service from University City to Clayton for a 5-cent fare will begin tomorrow morning, Richard M. Meade, president and general manager of the People's Motorbus Co., announced yesterday. The service will operate over two routes on a 15-minute schedule.

On the hour and half-hour busses will leave Eastgate avenue, University City, via Delmar boulevard, Hanley road, Kingsbury boulevard and Meramec road to Clayton. On the one-quarter and three-quarter hours busses will leave Eastgate avenue, University City, via Delmar boulevard, Pennsylvania avenue and Forsyth boulevard to Clayton. Leaving the Claymo Hotel, Clayton on the hour and half-hour the busses will traverse Forsyth boulevard, Pennsylvania avenue and Delmar boulevard to University City. On the quarter and three-quarter hours the busses will leave the Claymo Hotel via Meramec road, Kingsbury boulevard, Hanley road and Delmar boulevard to Eastgate avenue.

Motorbusses are now being operated in the rush hour from Twelfth boulevard west over the Washington-Delmar route, loading at the curb at the northwest corner of Twelfth and Washington. These busses return from University City as "specials."

While Washington avenue and Locust street will be closed for the Veiled Prophet's parade Tuesday evening, motorbus routes umbers 1, 2, 3 and 8 will operate from Grand boulevard to Eads Square via Pine and Fourth streets.

"PROGRESSIVE" TICKET FOR ST. LOUIS IS FILED

Democratic Nominees for Judgeships and Five Republicans on List.

The backers of a city ticket for this fall's election, which is designated as the Progressive ticket, have filed petitions with the Secretary of State at Jefferson City, for placing the ticket on the official ballot here. The so-called Progressive ticket has no connection with the La Follette organization, which is known officially in Missouri as the Liberal party, or with the Socialists, who have their own local ticket.

The ticket consists of the Democratic nominees for Circuit Judgeships, and five Republicans, who are not nominees of that party, for other offices. The backers of the movement planned to include some Republican nominees on the ticket, but the Republican City Committee forbade the nominees of that party to accept the indorsement. Sheridan Carlisle and Miss Constance Peters presented the petitions to the Secretary of State, and the lists willl be checked as to the validity of the signatures.

WILFLEY CHOSEN HEAD OF MISSOURI BAR ASSOCIATION

St. Louisan Honored by Attorneys at Annual Convention at Joplin.

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 4.—X. P. Wilfley of St. Louis, former United States Senator, was elected president of the Missouri Bar Association here today, to succeed Guy A. Thompson, also of St. Louis, who yesterday declined re-election. Other officers elected upon the recommendation of the bar council are: Haywood Scott, Joplin; E. L. Alford, Perry, and I. N. Watson, Kansas City, vice presidents; James E. King, St. Louis, treasurer, and Kenneth Sears of Columbia, secretary.

Judge Charles L. Henson of Mount Vernon was elected to the State Executive Committee, to succeed F. M. Curlee, whose term expired.

A gridiron dinner and smoke was given last night for 500 attorneys attending the annual convention. There were "skits" and "take-offs" on half a dozen notables, including President Coolidge, John W. Davis and Senator La Follette, together with the running mates of each of the presidential candidates.

Before these, however, the lawyers were both surprised and shocked by a hula hula dance by a semi-nude dancer, who performed on the dinner tables, patting bald heads and shaking a "wicked hip." Some turned their heads in disgust, but later joined the spirit of the fun, when the dancer removed his wig and revealed himself as a female impersonator.

CONDUCTOR KILLED IN FALL FROM CABOOSE

M. M. Koonse, Missouri Pacific Employe, Victim of Accident in Yard.

M. M. Koonse, 33 years old, 107 Victor street, a freight conductor for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, was instantly killed yesterday at 5:15 p. m., when riding on a caboose in the Missouri Pacific freight yards at Hampton avenue.

Koonse fell from the front of the caboose, which was being pushed by an engine, and the front trucks passed over his body.

The train was moving slowly and the engine was waiting for a signal from Koonse. When the signal did not come, the train was stopped and the body found.

GOV. BRYAN DISCUSSES "FEAR" OF ELECTION DEADL

Addressing Kansas Farmers Says Nebraska Has Less Ill eracy Than Any Other State.

By the Associated Press.

OBERLIN, Kan., Oct. 4.—G Bryan of Nebraska carried his c paign for the vice presidency Kansas today, and in two speec replied to Senators Cummins Iowa, and Willis, of Ohio, and ot ers who have expressed the "fe that he might become Presi through a deadlock in the elect college.

Gov. Bryan also declared the Re publican party was "morally ban rupt with no one having the a thority or moral courage to a point a receiver for it because the party is controlled by the sa group that put those in power th have been driven out."

The nominee spoke before tw large audiences of farmers.

POLICE SLAYERS' CAPTORS DISPUTE REWARD DISPOSAL

Two of Nine Policemen, Now Off Force, Who Helped Catch Merrell and Pinkley, Intimate Suit.

MURDERERS WERE HANGED JULY 18

Dissatisfied Men Say Total of $610 Has Been Paid and Ask Accounting of $2000 Contributed by Department Members.

As a sequel to the conviction and legal execution of two men for the killing of two policemen in a payroll holdup, a controversy has developed over rewards in the case, the contention being made on one hand, and denied on the other, that much more is due the murderers' captors than already has been paid to them.

Nine policemen and a citizen informer figured in the arrests of Charles Merrell and Hugh Pinkley, who were hanged last July 18 for shooting Patrolmen Michael O'Connor and Bernard Mengel in the holdup of a South St. Louis packing plant in April, 1922. Two of the policemen, John J. Hurley and William L. Bobbitt, have since resigned from the force and, with the citizen informer, have been pressing claims for more reward money, intimating they might sue. They say a majority of the other captors are aligned with them, but must be discreet because they still are in the Police Department.

A total of $610 has been shared as rewards by the 10 ment to date. Of this, $500 was paid by the city, $100 by Laclede Council, Knights of Columbus, and $10 by an individual. Those on the police force surrendered 20 per cent of the money they received to the Police Relief Association, as is customary in accepting rewards.

Hurley and Bobbitt figure that about $4000 should have been paid as rewards, the chief item being a sum in excess of $2000, which represented contributions by members of the Police Department. Other rewards announced at the time brought the total to $3850, and several firms and individuals are said privately to have offered several hundred dollars additional.

Diverted to Other Reward Uses.

Hurley called on President Brockman of the Police Board last Thursday and asked what had become of the $2000. When informed that it had been diverted to other reward uses, because Merrell and Pinkley had been arrested before the $2000 had been collected in full and the reward officially posted, Hurley became indignant and questioned authority for the diversion. He said he and eight others in the case were convinced they were entitled to the reward and were willing to donate it to charity upon receipt.

Records at Police Headquarters show Chief O'Brien on May 9, 1922, issued orders to district captains to begin collection of a "suitable reward" for the slayers of the two policemen. Contributions were not compulsory, it was stated, but it was assumed every member of the department would give something.

Eleven days later, with the fund still incomplete, Merrell and Pinkley and a companion who turned State's evidence were arrested, before offers of the departmental reward had been posted officially or printed in circulars. The sum of more than $2000 contributed by policemen was deposited in a bank and subsequently $1500 of it was paid to East St. Louis policemen who participated in the killing in East St. Louis of Lou Trider, slayer of Detective Sergeant Harry Lemkemeier, head of the St. Louis homicide squad. The remaining $500 is still in bank.

Others "Forgot" to Pay.

As to the rewards announced outside the department, only the City of St. Louis, the Knights of Columbus and one individual have paid. The others either forgot to pay, or lost their first enthusiasm, or believed no rewards were in order because the slayers had been apprehended by St. Louis policemen in line of duty. Hurley and Bobbitt think some ostensible donors may have sought "free advertising."

A curious angle of the departmental reward is that Hurley, Bobbitt and the others contributed to the reward but have received no part of it. They advance the argument that the money, if not used for the purpose for which it was subscribed, should have been refunded to the donors.

President Brockman said he was surprised that any policeman or former policeman should be seeking a reward under the circumstances in this case. He said the custom is for policemen to waive rewards in cases where fellow policemen have been slain. It is taken for granted, he continued, that police will do all they can to arrest persons who have killed brother policemen, and the reward is intended to make "outsiders" active.

GOV, BRYAN DISCUSSES "FEAR" OF ELECTION DEADLOCK

Addressing Kansas Farmers He Says Nebraska Has Less Illiteracy Than Any Other State.

By the Associated Press.

OBERLIN, Kan., Oct. 4.—Gov. Bryan of Nebraska carried his campaign for the vice presidency in Kansas today, and in two speeches replied to Senators Cummins of Iowa, and Willis, of Ohio, and others who have expressed the "fear" that he might become President through a deadlock in the electoral college.

Gov. Bryan also declared the Republican party was "morally bankrupt with no one having the authority or moral courage to appoint a receiver for it because that party is controlled by the same group that put those in power that have been driven out."

The nominee spoke before two large audiences of farmers.

Bryan was urging repeal of the Esch-Cummins railroad act when he digressed to say that "it was this man (Cummins) who expressed fear that I would become President through the election being thrown into Congress while his brother-Senator (Brookhart) now is out in open revolt against the Republican party."

Missouri's New Capitol To Be Dedicated Monday; 2000 Persons in Pageant

Parade Will Precede Dedicatory Ceremonies at Jefferson City—Attendance of 15,000 to 25,000 Expected.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 4.—Missouri's new State Capitol will be dedicated here Monday, 13 years from the day the State Capitol Commission was organized to supervise construction of the building, costing $5,200,000 with furnishings and decorations, which replaced the Capitol destroyed by fire the night of Feb. 5, 1911.

The building is the eleventh Capitol occupied by the State Government during Missouri's 104 years of statehood, the various Capitols being located successively at St. Louis, St. Charles and Jefferson City.

Extensive preparations have been made for the dedication ceremonies, delayed for more than seven years after the building was completed and turned over to the Capitol Commission on Sept. 8, 1917. Six Missouri Governors will participate in the ceremonies, and an historical pageant will be presented by a cast of more than 2000 persons, including wives of former Governors, and county queens representing the 114 counties of the State.

Seats for 10,000 Erected.

Committees in charge of the dedication have estimated the attendance at 15,000 to 25,000, although temporary seats for only 10,000 have been erected in the park fronting the main entrance to the Capitol.

Six special trains will bring visitors to the city, including special trains from St. Louis and Kansas City. The principal streets of Jefferson City and all avenues leading to the capitol, will be cleared of traffic tomorrow and provisions made elsewhere in the city for parking automobiles of visitors.

Traffic will be handled by squads of traffic policemen obtained from the metropolitan police departments of St. Louis and Kansas City. A number of detectives from the two cities will be on duty in the crowds to round up pickpockets and known crooks.

The first event on the program Monday will be the parade, starting from the capitol at 11 a. m. It will be headed by Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Hunt of Jefferson City and the Reserve Officers Training Corps Band of the University of Missouri. In the procession will be Gov. Hyde and former Governors of Missouri and their wives; the 35 honorary colonels on the Governor's staff, in full dress uniforms; members of the State Capitol Commission and Capitol Decorations Commission; floats bearing the county queens; judges of the Supreme Court, Congressmen, present and former State officials, State Senators and Representatives; one batallion of the one hundred and tenth engineers; Batery A (St. Louis) of the one-hundredth and twenty-eighth Field Artillery, and civic organizations.

The dedication exercises will begin at 2 p. m. on the capitol steps.

To Form Map of State.

Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis will pronounce the invocation and Mayor Cecil Thomas of Jefferson City will make an address of welcome. The 114 county queens, each bearing on her shoulders a cardboard replica of the county each represents, their heads protruding through the center of the county maps, then will seat themselves on the capitol steps, forming a map of the State.

Former Gov. David R. Francis will be presented to the audience, and addresses will be made by former Gov. A. M. Dockery of Gallatin, former Govs. Herbert S. Hadley, Elliott W. Major and Frederick D. Gardner, all of St. Louis, and Gov. Hyde. The Rev. William M. Black of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, Mo., will pronounce the dedicatory prayer.

Music will be furnished by several bands, including the bands of the 110th Engineers, Missouri National Guard; University of Missouri Missouri Pacific Railroad, and Kemper Military School of Boonville.

The pageant, depicting the history of Missouri in four epochs, will be presented at the main entrance of the Capitol, beginning at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Forrest C. Donnell, attorney of St. Louis, will be the oracle of the pageant and explain each of the spectacles through an amplifying device.

The four epochs are the epoch of the pioneer, with Mrs. Herbert S. Hadley presiding as Queen; the epoch of development, with Mrs. Elliot W. Major presiding; the epoch of the World War, with Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner presiding, and the epoch of progress, with Miss Katherine Hyde, niece of Gov. Hyde, presiding. Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde was to have presided as Queen of the later epoch, but will be unable to participate because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Kansas City, about six weeks ago.

Dances by St. Louis Ballet.

One of the features of the pageant will be dances by a ballet from St. Louis. Another ballet from Stephens College, Columbia, will participate in one of the scenes. Another spectacle will depict the turning over to the United States by Spain, in 1804, of the territory involved in the Louisiana purchase. During the pageant Battery A of St. Louis will fire a salute of 24 guns.

The county queens, epoch queens, Mrs. Albert I. Beach, Kansas City queen, and Mrs. Henry Kiel, St. Louis queen, will build a miniature state capitol of blocks, as one of the pageant numbers.

Following the pageant a display of fireworks will be given from a barge anchored in the Missouri River, north of the capitol, some of the set pieces picturing events in Missouri history.

Luncheon at Executive Mansion.

At noon Gov. and Mrs. Hyde will give a luncheon at the executive mansion for the former Governors and their wives, state officials and their wives, members of the Governor's staff and distinguished visitors.

Merchants of Jefferson City have agreed to keep all stores open Monday for the convenience of visitors, and steps have been taken to provide uniform room prices and to guard against profiteering in food. Many residents of Jefferson City have volunteered to throw open their homes, to aid in caring for visitors, and a central office has been established to assign persons to these rooms, as Jefferson City hotel facilities are inadequate to care for a large influx of visitors.

Cost of the dedication ceremonies and pageant are being met through private subscription, as no state funds are available for this purpose. Thus far the committees have expended approximately $11,500. Of this amount $10,990 has been subscribed, and $7290 paid.

Selection of the county queens to represent each of the 114 counties of the state was completed today by the Missouri Association, which had charge of arranging local contests for selection of the queens.

The plan first adopted by the association, which had headquarters in Jefferson City, was to have the contestants in each county sell memberships in the association, the number of votes to be credited to each contestant to be determined by the number of memberships she sold. The candidates were supplied with membership blanks and lists of the association members.

It was explained that the rule restricting the voting on the county queens to members of the association was adopted in order that contests might be uniformly conducted in each county. None but members could vote in the queen contests.

List Completed.

This method did not prove altogether effective in all the counties. Approximately 40 of the counties did not report results of a contest, if held, it was said, and the committee in charge filled a number of the vacancies by appointing young women from those counties who are employed in departments at the capitol.

This did not fill all the vacancies and within the last two or three days the association designated Jefferson City girls to fill the remainder of the vacancies, and they will represent the counties as their queens.

REGIMENT NEEDS TWO DOCTORS

Captain's Commissions Open in 138th Infantry.

Two physicians to rank as captains are needed for the 138th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, Col. A. E. Deitsch, commanding officer, announced yesterday. Besides holding commissions in the national guard the physicians who are selected will be commissioned reserve captains.

In his reorganization of the regiment, which was split up through dissension brought on partly by the injection of the Ku Klux Klan into organization affairs, Col. Deitsch now has 812 officers and men under his command, 82 of whom were enlisted in the last two months.

BARRETT INTERVENES IN WATERWAY SUIT

Joins With Chicago to Fight Injunction Against Abstraction From Great Lakes.

Notice that Missouri will support the Chicago sanitary district in fighting an attempt to enjoin the abstraction of more than 4167 cubic feet of water a second from the Great Lakes through the Chicago Drainage Canal was served yesterday at Washington on Solicitor-General Beck, who already had signified his consent to such intervention.

Attorney-General Barrett, who determined to join with Chicago Friday after a conference here at which the Attorneys-General of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota endeavored to persuade him to take the opposite side, with Daniel N. Kirby as associate, will represent this State in the United States Supreme Court when the case is heard Nov. 10.

To Set Forth Position.

Missouri's position, which will be set forth in a brief, is that the volume of 10,000 cubic feet a second, now flowing through the canal and down the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers to the Mississippi, is essential to the preservation of health and navigation between St. Louis and Cairo now and between here and Chicago in the future. The States of Illinois, Tennessee and Louisiana also have joined with the sanitary district.

Pennsylvania and other states have joined with the three states represented at the St. Louis conference. Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, head of the inland waterways bloc, declared that the people had not in every state approved the action of their Attorney-General, and remarked that the Missouri Attorney-General was the only one to obtain the view of the informed public before acting.

Congressman Newton, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Exchange and the Mississippi Valley Association had urged Barrett to join with Chicago, and he called the conference so they and he could hear the other side. At its close Newton and representatives of all three organizations voted unanimously for intervention against decreasing the volume abstracted.

Attitude of Newton.

Attorneys-General of the Northern States asserted that the lake water belonged to the lake states. The outtake of the drainage canal, they held, caused a $3,000,000 annual loss to lake shipping. This was because lake steamers were built to a larger freight capacity than the harbors now accommodate, anticipatory to further harbor improvement, and so every inch off the harbor depth takes so many tons off the freight which might be carried into those harbors.

Congressman Newton said that the lakes and all waterways were the property of the whole people, citing that harbor and channel improvement was the work of the Federal Government. He said there were two ways to compensate for the drain on the lakes—works at the heads of rivers to regulate the outtake, such as those which have raised the level of Lake Superior, and further deepening of the harbors by the Government. He declared that the opposition to the canal was inspired by power interests on Northern watersheds.

MISSOURI CONVICT WINS RADIO POPULARITY CONTEST

Harry Snodgrass Frequent Performer in Musical Programs Broadcast from State Capitol.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 4.—Harry Snodgrass, St. Louis convict in the penitentiary, who frequently is a performer in musical programs broadcast from radio station WOS, maintained at the State Capitol by the State Board of Agriculture, has been announced as the winner of a national radio performer popularity contest conducted by the Radio World, a magazine published in New York. Snodgrass received 2476 votes in the contest which was carried on by mail.

The Missouri penitentiary band made up entirely of convicts, ranked twenty-seventh in the contest.

Snodgrass was committed to the penitentiary on June 11, 1923, to serve a three-year sentence from St. Louis for assault with intent to rob. His term, with credits under the merit system, will expire Jan. 16, 1925. Snodgrass plays the piano at prison chapel services, and is a member of the prison orchestra and band.

DRY AGENTS IN MOST HAZARDOUS U. S. JOBS

Mrs. Bessie Brueggeman Tells of Her Work as Head of U. S. Employes' Compensation Body.

"My work on the U. S. Employes compensation Commission," was the subject of an address delivered by Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman, chairman of the commission, at a luncheon of the Town Club yesterday.

Mrs. Brueggeman, who is a St. Louisan, explained briefly the commission's functions, its methods of operation and described some of the cases which it is called upon to handle. She deplored the fact that Missouri is one of the six states in the Union which have no compensation laws.

Only claims of Federal employes are acted upon by the commission, which is an independent body answerable only to the President of the United States. Of these claims, the speaker said, there are usually 1500 to 2000 a month and the commission awards compensation to all who are shown to have been injured in performance of their duties or to have contracted occupational diseases. In case of a Government employe's death from such causes an allowance is paid to his widow until her remarriage, and Mrs. Brueggeman emphasized the fact that only 3 per cent of these widows have remarried since the commission has been in operation.

From among the Government's 600,000 employes, the greatest number of death and injury claims arise in the War Department, according to the speaker, with the Post Office and Navy Departments following in order. The most hazardous occupation of all in the Government service, she declared, is that of prohibition enforcement agent, where seven out of every 64 men employed meet a violent death. Many fatalities also occur in the Engineers Corps, but the Air Service she pronounced much less hazardous than formerly.

The fight which Mrs. Brueggeman conducted last year to allow claims arising from occupational diseases as well as injuries also was briefly described. Through her victory in this controversy with Comptroller-General McCarl the Compensation Commission was made a court of last resort, free even from interference by the United States Supreme Court.

LA FOLLETTE READY FOR TOUR

First Speech of Month's Campaign at Rochester, N. Y., Monday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Senator La Follette, independent presidential candidate, who leaves Washington tomorrow on a month's campaign tour, devoted today entirely to the preparation of the eight speeches he will deliver on the first leg of his jouney. Throughout the afternoon he dictated to a stenographer and, after a brief dinner hour respite, went back to the task of rounding the addresses into shape.

An announcement issued at the Senator's campaign headquarters said that he would depart for Rochester, N. Y., where he will speak Monday night, "with the avowed intention of making an intensive campaign from coast to coast." His itinerary beyond his engagement in St. Louis the night of Oct. 14, has not been determined. The Wisconsin Senator will travel in a private car, accompanied by his two sons, Robert M. Jr. and Phillip, who are expected to do some rear-platform speaking.

CAVERLY SAYS HE FOLLOWED CONSCIENCE

Judge Tells Why He Sentenced Leopold and Loeb to Life Imprisonment.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—In a statement issued from a hospital where he has been a patient for three weeks since he passed sentence upon Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, slayers of young "Bobby" Franks, Judge John R. Caverly last night revealed the processes of his mind which caused him to send the two millionaires' sons to the penitentiary for life, instead of to the gallows.

"If I hanged those two boys," Judge Caverly, still in a hospital bed, suffering from the nervous strain of the trial, said, "there would have been no appeal. The Supreme Court would not have intervened I had admitted evidence in mitigation made mandatory by the statutes. There could be no further appeal that would stand.

"The boys pleaded guilty. The record for the defense was barred of exceptions. They burned their bridges behind them. They had no record. Why, Clarence Darrow, veteran chief counsel for the defense, said himself: 'If you say those two boys must die, they will die.'

"I think I did right. My conscience told me what to do. There have been 314 pleas of guilty in 10 years in this county, and only one person hanged on that plea. Only two have ever been hanged under age in the State, and, in both cases, juries passed on them, and the Supreme Court passed on them.

"There has never been a minor hanged on a plea of guilty. I don't know of a minor hanged in all of the United States on a plea of guilty.

"Here are two boys who never had done a wrong thing in their lives until this crime. Of course, the crime in itself was atrocious and brutal and wanton. But they had never been arrested before, even for disorderly conduct. That was the important thing with me."

"I don't think they'll ever get out. I don't think their folks want them out. If I had hanged them I would have been a great big fellow. I would have been praised on all sides. It would have been the path of least resistance. But my conscience told me what to do."

MRS. FOLTZ TO SPEAK HERE

Woman Attorney of Topeka to Address Club Luncheon Wednesday.

The West End Woman's Republican Club will have for its principal speaker at the first luncheon meeting of the season, at the Gatesworth Hotel Wednesday, Mrs. Mabel C. Foltz of Topeka, Kan.

Mrs. Foltz is a practicing attorney and a member of the Republiran National Speakers' Bureau. She participated in the Harding campaign four years ago. At this luncheon of the club, of which Mrs. Charles Passmore is president, Mrs. Laura S. Edwards will explain the Constitutional amendments and initiative propositions to be voted on in November.

Man 6 Feet 9 Inches Tall.

JEWELL CITY, Kan.—Fred Schreuder of Erving Township is said to be the tallest man in Jewell County. He is six feet nine inches and weighs 255. He is bigger than Jess Willard, but says he has no desire to be a fighter. Schreuder operates a well-tilled farm.

45,000 Appendicitis Operations By 1 Doctor

German Doctor Retires After 32 Years Work

Dr. Joseph Rotter, a noted German specialist, has retired after performing 45,000 operations for appendicitis, according to newspaper reports.

A Treacherous Disease

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by stomach or bowel trouble. When there is an uneasy feeling in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in the same way in which one guards against the spread of throat infection—because appendicitis is an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. In case of sore throat, further trouble may often be prevented by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Just so, one can fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis—but instead of an antiseptic for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is needed.

Intestinal Antiseptic

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a complete system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows: It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here. It cleans out BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach or sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long-standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name withheld by request.)

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"Cannot describe awful IMPURITIES eliminated from my system (by Adlerika). Feel better than for 20 years." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, because of its quick, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 7th and Washington, and Enderle Drug Co., and other leading druggists.

VILLAGERS EXCLUDED AT BABY LASCELLES' CHRISTENING

Townsfolk Indignant Because of Secrecy—Barred From Own Church.

By the Associated Press.

GOLDSBOROUGH, England, Oct. 4.—The Lascelles family has courted some unpopularity locally through the mystification and secrecy with which it has surrounded the ceremony of christening Princess Mary's second child, their only object being apparently to exclude the public from any part in the ceremony.

After many denials, the date of the christening appeared to have been finally fixed for tomorrow and it was announced that the child would be christened Ulick David. Then, late yesterday, it was suddenly announced that the christening would not take place on Sunday.

Today, to the surprise and indignation of the village, the christening party was seen entering St. Mary's Church. The church was closed to everybody, including newspaper men, only Viscount Lascelles, Princess Mary, the Earl and Countess of Harewood and immediate attendants being admitted. The local police guarded the doors.

The villagers complained that the rector had no authority to thus exclude them from their own church.

The child was given the names of Gerald David. The official sponsors included the Prince of Wales and the Duchess of York, both being represented by proxies.

Evangelical Women Name Officers.

At the convention of the Evangelical Women's Societies of Southern Illinois in Belleville officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. H. L. Meyers, Alton; vice president, Mrs. Louis Zimmermann, Belleville; secretary, Mrs. L. Scherer, Granite City; treasurer, Mrs. E. R. Jaeger, East St. Louis. Six hundred women attended the convention from 30 towns and cities in Southern Illinois. The convention voted to donate $2700 toward the installation of a chapel in the new Eden Theological Seminary being erected at Webster Groves, Mo.

HUSSEIN ABDICATES TO PROTECT MECCA

King of the Hedjaz Resigns as Step to Save Holy City

Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

CAIRO, Oct. 4.—King Hussein of the Hedjaz, former grand speree of Mecca and renently self-proclaimed Caliph of all the faithful Moslems, resigned at 9 o'clock Friday evening from both the Hedjaz kingdom and the Moslem Caliphate throne.

The King put his signature to the prepared abdication document, after he had spent many hours in prayer and in wireless communication with his sons, Feisal, the King of Mesopotamia, and Abdullah, the ruler of Transjordania.

With tears in his eyes, Hussein declared to his friends that he was retiring only temporarily, because of his desire to protect the Holiest of Holy Moslem cities, Mecca from being a center of strife and the possible object of destruction. He, at the same time, expressed his hope that the all-Islamic Congress, which will convene soon in Cairo, will re-elect him. The newly-formed government has sent delegates to Sultan Ibn Saoud, leader of the Wahabi forces, to arrange for terms of peace before he enters Mecca.

Abdication of Hussein Causes Consternation in Bagdad.

Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 4.—The abdication of King Hussein caused great consternation, both in Bagdad and Amman. Particular anxiety is expressed at the court of Emir Abdullah, who fears that the Wahabis will now turn against Trans-Jordania. It is understood here, however, that English military and air forces will resist any attack of the Wahabis on Trans-Jordania.

SUSPENDS PERMIT TO FINANCE FIRM TO SELL ITS STOCK

Finance Commissioner Finds Midwest Corporation Loaned $300,000 to Kindred Realty Company.

C. J. GONTERMAN IS HEAD OF BOTH

Subdivision Concern Obtained Loan on Notes Signed by Farmers and Indorsed By It.

Permit to sell its own stock, issued to the Mid-Continent Finance Corportion, 705 Central National Bank Building, was suspended by Deputy State Finance Commissioner Hurwitz yesterday, when he learned from George W. Berri, examiner in the Blue Sky department, that more than $300,000 derived from the sale of stock had been loaned on notes indorsed by the C. J. Gonterman Realty and Development Co., which shares the same office. Courtney J. Gonterman, 4943 Lindell boulevard, is president of both the finance corporation and the realty concern.

According to Berri's report to Deputy Commissioner Hurwitz over the telephone, the Mid-Continent company had made no other loans than those to the Gonterman Realty and Development Co.

Berri told a reporter for the Post-Dispatch last night that the Mid-Continent Finance Corporation had sold $326,900 of 8-per-cent cumulative preferred stock at $100 a share and $8,250 in common stock at $35 a share, the issue being in blocks at the ratio of two to one. He said there were more than 150 investors.

Financed Subdivisions.

More than 150 notes, signed for the most part by Illinois farmers residing in the vicinity of East Carondelet, Millstadt and Columbia, had been indorsed by the C. J. Gonterman Realty and Development Co. and given the finance corporation as collateral, he said. Many of them, he explained, were from members of the same family.

According to Berri, Gonterman secured the notes and thus financed his operations in developing subdivisions near and around St. Louis. One of those subdivisions lies between Granite City and Wood River on the Chicago road, which for its paved distance through the tract bears the name of Gonterman boulevard, according to sign posts. Another principal street is "Courtney avenue," recalling Gonterman's given name.

Name Changed on April 15.

The original articles of agreement under which the charter of the finance corporation was issued bear the date of Dec. 7, 1923, and provide for an issue of 1000 shares of eight per cent non-cumulative preferred stock with neither nominal or par value, and the same amount of common stock. The organizers were Nesbit Rochester, L. B. Porter, and Robert S. Mitchell, and the corporation was organized as the Central States Finance Corp. Its permit to sell stock was issued Jan. 14 this year.

On April 15 the name was changed to the Mid-Continent Finance Corp., authority to increase the capital stock from 2000 to 50[illegible] shares was given, and the prefered stock was made cumulative at eight per cent instead of non-cumulative. The board at that time consisted of C. J. Gonterman; L. B. Porter, 716 Belt avenue, the present secretary and treasurer; Henry Dohrman, Leo Menner, Joseph H. Braun, Henry Osterhage and Herman Wielbacher.

BOND COUPONS TO HELP PAY DEFICIT OF THE CITY CLUB

Members Owning $100 Second Mortgage Bonds to Apply Interest for First Year.

Members of the City Club, each of whom bought one or more of the $100 second mortgage bonds issued for the erection of the club's new building, will turn in their 6 per cent interest coupons for the first year, to apply on special assessments to meet a deficit in the club's finances for the year.

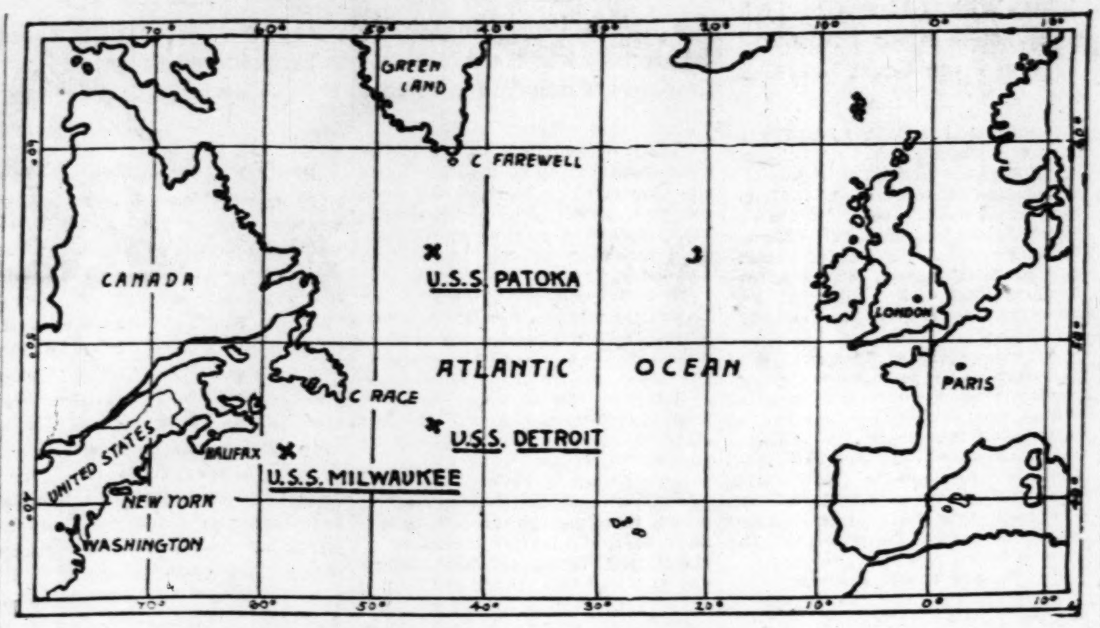
The October issue of The Log, the club's publication, tells of the deficit, and explains the special expenses, incident to the transfer to the new building, which occasioned it. It states, also, that it is not likely to happen again, as the club and its building will be on a paying basis next year. Only those who were members Sept. 1 will be assessed, and new members, for whom a campaign is to be made, will not be subject to any special assessment this year or next.

The deficit this year is figured at $48,000 or more, and the assessment on each member will be $15 or more, according to the final figures of the year's finances. The first installment of the assessment will be payable next month, and the first interest coupons from members' bonds will be accepted at their face value, which is $6 on each $100 bond, in assessment payments.

Complete Story of the "ZR-3" and How She Will Be Brought to the U. S. This Week

German Crew That Was Trained to Bomb New York and Would Have Done So if War Had Lasted to Be in Charge of Great Dirigible.

By G. K. SPENCER,
U. S. Naval Reserve Force and Editor U. S. Navy, San Diego, Cal.



This map shows the position of the station ships on the Atlantic that will keep the ZR-3 informed of the state of the weather along her route.

BEYOND the furthermost realms of imagination was the thought of Americans who lived during the Civil War, that the young Count Zeppelin, commandant of the aerial observation corps of the Union Army, would develop into the world's greatest master of air ship science and that his lifetime achievement would, after a mighty war of the nations, find itself securely the property of the Americans.

Indeed, Americans of even ten years ago could not have conceived of the Zeppelin interests becoming in the space of a decade an American firm. Yet this is so, and today the Zeppelin patents and secrets have been exclusively and totally turned over to the United States, and the final crown of success which awaited Zeppelin is today America's, and the world's first efficient dirigible squadron is about to be launched by the United States, with one military ship which will next spring fly to Hawaii, and one commercial ship, which, with its many other activities, may traverse the skies to the North Pole in the summer of 1925.

ZR-1, now the Shenandoah, regularly commissioned by the Navy, will fly overland to the Pacific Coast in November, there to await, it is said in naval circles, the arrival and concentration of the naval fleets for the spring maneuvers at Hawaii, in 1925.

ZR-3, yet to be christened, is to be turned over to the Postoffice Department, after a year's service with the navy and army, six months in each military service, and the present hope of Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur is that she will, subsequent to a north polar exploratory flight, go into the regular express and postal service between the United States and the British Isles.

Other Big Airships Planned.

The next airship, for which plans are now in preparation, will embody all the improvements which are being projected through the experience with the ZR-1 and ZR-3. She is to be equipped to scout overseas and to carry airplanes which will be able to join the mother ship in midair, and take off from her in flight.

With this program in prospect by the United States, the British are making most desperate efforts to in some way compensate for not only the present American lead, but for what may be possible in the way of production, with the Zeppelin patents in the hands of the Goodyear interests of Akron, O. These patents and dirigible secrets, however, are not all that America possesses. Many of the finest German mechanics have also been taken into the employ of the American airship constructors, and these have brought with them secrets learned through lifetime effort in the Zeppelin organization. These men, who probably know more about the building and navigation of airships than any other men on earth, are anxious to give their best work and earnest co-operation to their American employers, especially so inasmuch as they desire to have anybody but the French profit by what they know and do.

With the arrival in the United States in October of ZR-3 comes a German crew which was trained to bomb New York during the war, even down to the last radio man—and they probably would have done so, with only trivial defenses to prevent, had the war lasted another year.

All the very complete communications system devised by the United States Navy for connection with the ZR-3 from the time she leaves Friedrichshaven, Germany, until she reaches Lakehurst, N. J., will revolve around the coterie of German radiomen, who will take the radio watches on the airship. Practically this entire crew have expressed themselves as desirous of remaining in the United States. In Germany a frenzied competition between all hands from engineers to common riggers was in progress for the honor of joining the ship's company of ZR-3, and dozens were disappointed when the present crew was chosen.

U. S. Has Bulge on Other Nations.

Not one of the skilled German engineers and navigators but was anxious to enter United States livery. The very brains of the German Fatherland clamors for an opportunity for expression—and that opportunity they see in the United States. The result is simply that while other nations construct airships which explode and fall, the Americans are acquiring ships which are not only far in advance of those known by other nations, but they point the way to still greater achievements. To German craft, too, the Americans have added the use of helium gas in the ships provided. This gas, a non-inflammable and non-explosive, practically adds the last guarantee that the United States will possess airships which in war may be well nigh invincible, and in peace such reliable and rapid express and mail carriers as to place American business in good stead.

The British are the only nation which have seemed to make appreciable progress toward approximating this American lead. The French, though they were in possession of L-72 (Dixmude), a modern airship built by the Germans, but always spoken of by the French as a "French" ship, proved their position as regards lighter-than-air craft when they lost the ship over the Mediterranean. The British, in spite of their misfortune with several ships, notably the R-38, which was built for the United States and which was destroyed while undergoing trial flights, have to their credit the second longest flight with an airship, that across the Atlantic by the R-34. The Germans hold the record with their war flight to German South Africa and return without stopping or landing. However, the British construction is principally along lines discovered and adopted by them during the war, from captured and fallen German specifications.

With their accustomed intensity, the United States took its first German ship, the present "Shenandoah," and specifically undertook to develop her as a purely experimental flyer. After flying her for many thousands of miles, much data was collected and put into shape for future application.

A Dirigible Problem Yet Unsolved.

As is well known and familiar even to the layman, the lighter a dirigible becomes, the harder it is to bring her to her mooring mast on earth. And yet, she constantly loses weight through consumption of fuel by her engines, water evaporation, elimination of human food on board, and by valving off her gas when descending. To counteract these losses, if stability is to be maintained in the control system, a method must be found for reducing and saving engine evaporation of water and fuel reduction, and for recovering weight from the atmosphere. The new British ships collect weight from the atmosphere by specially designed recovering apparatus.

During the Atlantic passage, no measure will be neglected by the Navy Department which will insure the safety of the craft, or of the communications system from and to her, so that if catastrophe were to result, accurate reports of the event will be obtainable up to the last moments. The only fear felt for the airship, however, is on the score of the hydrogen gas with which she will be filled when making the flight.

On arriving in the United States, this hydrogen will be valved out, and helium pumped into her. With hydrogen gas as the lifting element, there is always present the hazard of sparks and flames which may ignite the gas and cause the destruction of the ship. With helium, this fear is, of course, not present, adding measurably to the efficiency of the cruise.

The Atlantic flight is in command of the Germans, who are quite familiar with hydrogen, and it is expected they will safely negotiate the Atlantic. For them it will represent no extraordinary feat.

Complete Weather Invoice for ZR-3.

A complete service of weather information for the ZR-3 in her flight has been perfected by the Navy Department meteorological section, especially trained by the Naval Air Service for such work. The system of forecasting and communication devised for the flight makes use of naval vessels located at sea for the gathering of weather data and naval radio stations within the continental limits of the United States for the transmission of information to the ship.

Three station ships in the North Atlantic will have the bulk of the task. One of these ships will be located at 45 degrees north, 45 west; the second ship will be located at 55 degrees north, 45 west; and the third ship will be at 44 degrees north and 57 west. The latter vessel will act as a radio relay ship for the weather information which is collected by the two former vessels. The most northerly ship of the three will be required to make hourly observations of weather conditions and take upper air soundings by means of pilot balloons every six hours. Four times a day this information will be transmitted to the second ship in the train, which will combine the data obtained with observations made on board. The second of the three ships will be known as the primary observation ship, and will accumulate all weather information from the continental United States and from observation ship to the northward of her.

This entire activity will be coordinated in the Navy Department at Washington.

It is believed that this work with ZR-3 may be the incipiency of a definite plan for a service which may later on be regularly maintained, for the object of supplying constant information to mercantile dirigibles running on regular trans-Atlantic air lines.

Names of Weather-Observation Ships.

In the order of the bearings in degrees, previously given, the ships acting as station ships will be as follows: U. S. S. Patoka, with her mooring mast, approximately 300 nautical miles south of Cape Farewell, Greenland. A light cruiser, the U. S. S. Detroit, will lie about 900 miles south of Cape Farewell, and approximately 300 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, acting as observation ship. Another light cruiser, the U. S. S. Milwaukee, acting as relay ship, will lie nearly 250 nautical miles east of Halifax.

Every effort will be made by Navy radio to get in communication, through the observation ship, with ZR-3, as soon as possible after she sails. This ship must then maintain an uninterrupted and rapid communication with Washington. The only Navy shore stations which have been given permission to speak the ZR-3 are Bar Harbor, Annapolis and Washington. Eiffel Tower, France, will speak her as far out as may be necessary until she enters radio communication with the United States Naval stations.

The Naval codes will be dispensed with during the passage, because the German operators aboard ZR-3 are not familiar with our Naval codes, and accordingly will communicate by international code. Radio amateurs throughout the country should be able to hear ZR-3 as she nears the North American shores.

The entire active crew of some 30 men, excepting the United States officers aboard, will be German. Capt. E. H. Lahmann, a Zeppelin officer of great repute, will pilot the craft on her 3500-mile cruise.

Crew Veterans of London Raids.

Practically the entire crew are veterans of the raids over London, besides having received special training for war operations over New York. The United States officers and men at the Zeppelin shops have become quite familiar with their German co-operators, and the finest personal friendship exists between the Americans and the Germans, who are, taking a great interest in making ZR-3 the greatest Zeppelin ever turned out. Indeed, for many years, she will be the last Zeppelin to be produced in Germany, of anywhere near her size. Henceforth, Zeppelins are to be built by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, O.

The ship may carry cargo at the rate of a mile a minute, loading dead weight to half her own weight. Across the Atlantic she will be lightly loaded with 35 tons of gasoline, or about three railway tank cars full, and 15 tons of oil and water and provender. She will also carry the German mails, making this flight the first transatlantic regular air mail. German postal authorities have issued a special series of air mail postage stamps and aerial postcards for the flight. Stamps of 5, 10, 20, 100, 200 and 300 pfennigs have been issued. The rate for the transatlantic mail is 1 gold mark for letters of 20 grams or less and 50 pfennigs for postcards. All letters and postcards carried by ZR-3 will be specially marked in addition to bearing the special air mail postage stamps with the German inscription, "Sent by Airship ZR-3."

Allies Vetoed One U. S. Plan.

During the scramble for reparations ships by the allies, the allied nations, excepting the United States, secured practically all the German Zeppelins which could not be destroyed in time in their hangars by their captains. Even Japan got a Zeppelin, which she "knocked down" and carted away to Japan, where she remounted the ship for tests. Italy got the Bodensee and France the L-72, which she renamed the Dixmude and later lost.

The United States War Department then contracted with the Zeppelin company for a ship to include a gas capacity of 3,500,000 cubic feet, almost twice as large as Shenandoah. With the first public announcement of this contract and after the Zeppelin company had begun to purchase materials for it, the allied Powers protested to the United States that they had ruled that Germany should not build a ship of above 30,000 cubic meters. The United States insisted on a ship of 100,000 cubic meters, and Ambassador Herrick conducted for some time negotiations which bordered on rather fiery relations, until the French relented, and agreed to compromise on 70,000 cubic meters, or 2,500,000 cubic feet. The other allied Powers also agreed, and work was begun on ZR-3.

With ZR-1 in the air and ZR-3 about to be delivered, Americans naturally inquire as to the whereabouts of the ship that was to be the ZR-2 in the series This ship was the ill-fated R-38, which exploded above the Thames, and which was built by the British. The Roma, built by Italy for the United States, also exploded in the air.

While Shenandoah, or ZR-1, was building, the Naval authorities at Washington were able to convince the Government that the ship was naturally a Naval command. The Army later insisted that it, too, should also have a Zeppelin for experimental work. Meanwhile the Navy's big hangars at Lakehurst, N. J., were completed, and the Army developed a lighter-than-air base at Scott Field, Illinois, which however has never approached in importance the Lakehurst site.

The result was that the Joint Army, Naval and Aeronautical Board turned over to the Navy the province of large airship development The Army then went to the board with the plea that the ZR-3, not being in a state of development, but a completed craft, should be turned over to the Army. The Navy countered by quietly indicating that its officers had been with the craft from its first beam, and that all expense had been defrayed out of Naval funds, and further showed that the Navy possessed a great number of young officers skilled in lighter-than-air craft, whereas the Army officers had apparently done nothing in this direction, merely flying whatever was set before them by the oenstruction and design authorities.

The controversy became heated. The Joint Board, facing a one-sided argument, succumbed and agreed to place ZR-3 with the navy for the first six months, with the army for the second six months, and thereafter the future of ZR-3 is dark. The Naval Secretary believes she will go to the Postoffice Department, to enter the regular postal service for overseas mails.

The only question remaining now is for the navy to set about training an army crew to handle the ZR-3, immediately she arrives on these shores. In this work, the naval personnel will collect a lot of thrills, and these the army will also get. Such trivial matters as climbing up a ladder shaft, 100 feet from the belly to the top of the dirigible, and then scrambling out on top of her, to adjust valves and vents in flight, are no affairs for timid men. There's a great deal of space and plenty of room to fall.

Inside the great "cigar" the gas bags alone are as large as five-story buildings, and they are constructed over a duralumin frame work, over which each day the riggers and experts clamber searching for structural weaknesses.

After the army's period of ownership is completed, and the ship enters commercial life in the postal service, another crew must go aboard, this time civilians.

PASSENGER TRAIN KILLS MAN

H. G. Johnson Struck on M. P. Tracks at Valley Park.

A man about 45 years old, with the name "H. G. Johnson" tattooed on his left forearm was struck and instantly killed by a westbound Missouri Pacific passenger train at Valley Park at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The man was walking west on the tracks and apparently did not hear the whistle.

NELSON FOR LOWER TAXES AND ECONOMY

Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate Speaks at Farmers' Festival at Louisiana.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISIANA, Mo., Oct. 4—Speaking at the Fall Festival, in which farmers from Pike and Lincoln counties in Missouri, and Pike and Calhoun counties in Illinois, united today, Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for the governorship, pledged Missouri voters that, if elected, he would establish a budget system, keep state departments well within their appropriations, and maintain economy in state expenditures.

"Economy in office begins with the reduction of taxes," he said, "because tax reduction begets economy." Continuing, the nominee declared for a reduction in valuation of farm lands for taxation purposes, "because," he explained, "the market value of those lands has decreased since 1920."

He said the Republican party had never recognized farming as a business, though it had enriched manufacturers and industrial corporations through favors.

Dr. Nelson reiterated his previous declaration that "roads and schools cannot be made issues in this camapign, because all Missourians, regardless of party, are for better roads, permanent roads, and the best educational advantages obtainable for Missouri boys and girls." He pledged himself, if elected, to a continued development of the public school system.

That the Democratic State platform is stronger in its declaration for good roads than the Republican State platform, because it pledges a consistent and constructive good roads policy, while the latter simply indorses proposition No. 5, was a declaration with which the candidate led up to a repetition of his former statement that he would personally vote for No. 5 because he believes it necessary to the completion of the road system.

Dr. Nelson's was the only political speech of the Fall Festival. It is estimated that 10,000 persons were present.

FRED A KANSTEINER, 67, DIES

Fred A. Kansteiner, 87-year-old hardware merchant, died at his home, 5219 Washington avenue, at 5:30 yesterday afternoon after an illness of five days. His death is believed to have been caused by nephritis.

He was born in Minden, Germany, and came to this country at the age of 10, when his family settled in St. Charles, Mo. He started in the hardware business eight years later at his brother's store at 1006 Market street. In 1871 he built the firm's present establishment at 1008 Market street. He retired from this business 12 years ago. A daughter, Ida M. Kansteiner, and his widow survive him. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

INJUNCTION PROTECTS PATENT ROAD BINDER

Federa 1Court Restrains Company With City Paving Contracts From Using 'Willite.'

A temporary injunction restraining the Trinidad Asphalt Manufacturing Co., holder of city paving contracts, from using or infringing on the "Willite" patent of the Western Willite Co., which makes a hard-surface asphaltic road by using a binder consisting principally of copper sulphate, was issued by Federal Judge Faris yesterday.

The two companies engaged in a controversy here some months ago over the right to the process which the Trinidad Company claimed was not patentable. Paving badly needed on a number of South Side streets was involved, but the Willite Company finally got the contracts.

Judge Faris referred to his previous refusal to grant a temporary restraining order in the case, when Leonard avenue paving was involved, because property owners needed the work, being done by the Trinidad company, completed. The Court ordered then that the Trinidad concern undertake no new Willite jobs without buying the material from the patentee.

The defendant has shown recalcitrancy since then, the Judge declared, forcing him to make his decision "in the light of cold law." He pointed out that validity of the patent was not in question, but that evidence led him to believe the copper sulphate binder, with a finely divided filler, is novel and is a forward step in road making, initiated by the Willite company

1900 CATTLE, WORTH $175,000, SHOT TO CHECK DISEASE

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 4.—Three long mounds of earth, covering 1900 cattle worth about $175,000, are mute evidence of the Federal Government's first major effort in a campaign to check the foot and mouth disease in South Texas. The cattle were shot to remove three herds as active agents in the spread of the disease. They included more than 500 pure-bred Brahma cattle, the property of Dr. William S. Jacobs, Houston preacher, and approximately 1400 range cattle belonging to the herds of Thomas C. Dunn Jr. and Al McFadden, respectively.

Thirteen hundred head range cattle in four herds on patsures adjoining the permises where the 1900 were slaughtered will be killed. An announcement at the office of Dr. Mairon Imes, Federal Director of disease eradication, said that the four herds were known as contract herds and that it was deemed necessary to destroy them in order to create a space between the infected premises and free territory.

Beginning Tomorrow Congoleum Week

October 6 to 11 only

A Six-Day Sale of America's Most Popular Floor-Covering

For the first time in two years, genuine nationally-advertised Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs, By-the-Yard and Rug-Border are now offered at special bargain prices. Unlike sales that feature cut prices on left-overs at the end of the season, Congoleum Week gives every woman the opportunity to beautify her floors at the lowest possible cost just at the time when she is putting her home in order for the winter.

Instead of putting down the same old rugs and carpets after everything else has been cleaned and looks like new, a few dollars spent now for Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs will do wonders in brightening up the home.

One of the greatest charms of Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs—the warmth and artistry of their color schemes — cannot be appreciated from this advertisement. You must see them to realize how beautiful your floors can be made at such small cost.

Beautiful — Durable — Easily Cleaned

A delightful note of brightness and color is introduced into the home by Congoleum Rugs. Beautiful to begin with, the unusually durable surface resists the hardest wear.

These popular rugs banish the tiresome beating and sweeping necessary with old-fashioned, woven floor-coverings. One minute with a damp mop and the rich, artistic patterns of Congoleum Rugs are revealed in their full beauty — cleaned as easily as highly glazed tiles.

Designs for Every Room

There are appropriate Congoleum patterns for every room; for every manner of taste, for every color scheme. There are warm-toned designs to enrich the appearance of dining and living-rooms; exquisite floral patterns to give fresh beauty to bedrooms and neat conventional reproductions for kitchen, pantry and bathroom.

Waterproof and Stain-Proof

Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs are made in one strong, seamless piece. They are absolutely unaffected by water. They will not fray along the edges. Spilled liquids cannot stain, and dirt cannot penetrate their smooth, sanitary surface.

No Fastening Required

Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs lie absolutely flat without fastening. They won't wrinkle or kick up; they never curl at the edges.

Genuine, Guaranteed Goods

All the Gold-Seal Congoleum offered in this sale is fresh, new goods. All of it carries the famous Gold Seal pledge of "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back." For your own protection, remember there is only one "Congoleum" and it is identified by the Gold Seal pasted on the face of every pattern.

Gold-Seal Congoleum By-the-Yard

The same material as Congoleum Rugs, and made in tasteful unbordered designs for use over the entire floor.

Gold-Seal Congoleum Rug-Border

If it is desired to cover the floor space between a large centre rug and the walls, there is Congoleum Rug-Border in realistic reproductions of hardwood flooring.

Don't Miss This Opportunity

Wherever you may live — you will find a Congoleum dealer near you. He will be glad to show you the many beautiful patterns. Don't delay. Reduced prices are in effect this week only.

C. OF C. APPROVES FOUR PROPOSALS TO BE VOTED ON Supports Supreme Court, Good Roads, Greater St. Louis and Legislators' Pay Propositions.

AGAINST WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Declares Proposed Amendment Unfair, and That Another Bill, a Better One, Is Being Drafted.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce yesterday announced its position on five of the eight constitutional amendments and initiative proposals which will be submitted to a vote at the November election. The only one to which it announced opposition was the proposed amendment providing workmen's compensation.

It approved the proposed amendment increasing the number of Judges of the Supreme Court from seven to nine; the proposed amendment increasing the compensation of members of the Legislature from $5 to $10 a day, and prohibiting the appointment of relatives of members to jobs in the Legislature; the initiative proposal providing a tax of 2 cents a gallon on gasoline and increasing the State automobile registration fees approximately 50 per cent, to speed up road building; and proposed amendment No. 7, the enabling act to permit an extension of the city limits of St. Louis into St. Louis County.

It took no action on proposed amendment No. 2, providing means of amending the State Constitution; on proposed amendment No. 3, providing a method under which St. Louis could decide by vote whether it would have one or two houses of legislation in its Municipal Assembly, or on initiative proposal No. 8, which would exempt from taxation an increased amount of the property used for religious, charitable or educational purposes.

"Roads Are a Disgrace."

In supporting the good roads amendment, the Chamber of Commerce said:

"It should take no special argument to convince the thinking voter that this plan should be adopted. But for petty politics it would have been adoted by the Legislature originally. It will shorten the time by at least two years for getting good roads in the state. It will actually save enormous sums of money to the state. This method of raising funds for the upkeep of the roads will make it unnecessary to have a direct road tax because the users of the highways will pay for their upkeep. The roads of Missouri today are a disgrace to its civilization. Let's lift our state out of the mud. Put aside all partisan feeling, and look at this thing from a state-wide, community standpoint. Whatever helps the state helps you."

On the annexation enabling act, it said:

"The passing of this amendment makes no change in boundaries, nor does it increase taxes. It merely provides for the appointment of a board of 18 freeholders, whose duty it shall be to select one of three plans, such selection to be submitted to the voters. If a majority of the voters, either in the county or the city, vote against it, that settles it, and no other proposition may be put up for five years."

On Workmen's Compensation.

In opposing the proposed workmen's compensation amendment, the Chamber said:

"There is no question but that a fair and equitable workmen's compensation law is needed, but this proposal is not that kind of a measure. It was initiated and drafted by radical labor leaders of Missouri. It would force every employer of two or more people, even the small groceryman, druggist or hardware merchant, to insure every employe against personal injury.

"It would place the State of Missouri in the insurance business, and would not even permit the insurance to be carried in a company selected by the industry that would have to pay the premiums. It would add to the price of commodities because the cost of this insurance would have to be figured in. It would drive many an industry from the state, and would prevent others from coming here.

"It would create a political commission of five men, who would be paid $30,000 a year, and they would be authorized to employ any number of clerks, stenographers, inspectors, etc., that they might desire. Somebody has to pay for all of this, and every employer in the state would have to stand his part of the expense.

"At this time, a bill is being drafted which will be fair to all alike—the employer and the employe—and such a bill is to be presented to the next Legislature."

56 LIVE STOCK MEN OF OKLAHOMA CITY INDICTED

Conspiracy to Violate Packers and Stockyards Act Charged by Government.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 4.—Fifty-six members of the Oklahoma City Livestock Exchange were indicted by a Federal grand jury here today for alleged conspiracy to violate the packers and livestock act of 1921. All are local residents.

It is charged that the men established a boycott refusing to engage in buying or selling transactions with certain commission houses.

The indictment was returned, officials said, after weeks of investigation by Federal authorities, and is a forerunner of similar investigations in other livestock centers. Tactics used by those under indictment have been used elsewhere and have resulted in driving certain market agencies and dealers from the stockyards, it is said.

The alleged boycotts have been particularly directed at co-operative marketing associations, according to Roy St. Lewis, assistant district attorney. The result, St. Lewis said, is a condition that makes it impossible for a stock raiser to choose the marketing agency that will get him the best price. He must select one of the alleged boycotters to get the proper stockyards service and in many instances get a lower price for his livestock, St. Lewis added.

This is the first time criminal action has been instituted since passage of the act, it is said. The penalty is a two-year penitentiary sentence or $10,000 fine, or both.

MISS MARY E. PERRY IS DEAD

Sister-in-Law of D. R. Francis Known for Charity Work.

Miss Mary E. Perry, daughter of the late John D. Perry, sister of Richard E. Perry and Miss Laura Perry, and sister-in-law of former Gov. David R. Francis, died in San Diego, Cal., Friday, after a long illness.

Miss Perry was well known in St. Louis and throughout Missouri for her charitable activities. She was the originator and for more than 30 years vice president of the State Board of Charities and Corrections and active in its affairs. She was also one of the charter members of the Wednesday Club of St. Louis. The body is being sent to St. Louis.

PROPHET'S BALL AND PARADE BOTH TO BE DIFFERENT

In the First Place, They Come on Separate Nights, So That Neither Will Be Hurried or Delayed.

FORTY-FIFTH YEAR OF AUTUMNAL EVENT

"Jewels and Talismans" Theme of the 20 Floats, Which Are to Be Unusually Attractive This Year.

Now that St. Louis is no longer a one-night stand for the Veiled Prophet, both the Prophet's parade and the ball are going to be different.

This year, as has been told, the Prophet is going to give one night—Tuesday night of this week—to the parade, and the following night to the ball at the Coliseum. That will mean that the parade will not be hurried to get to the ball, and that the ball will not be kept waiting for the parade. It will make for greater satisfaction both along the streets and in the Coliseum.

The parade Tuesday will leave the starting point, Laclede and Ranken avenues, at 7:15 p. m., a half-hour later than last year. Its route shows some changes from previous years, and will be somewhat longer, as the final destination will be the starting point, and not the Coliseum. As was the case last year, Vandeventer avenue and Fourth street will be the western and eastern boundaries of the parade, and the east and west routes will lie along the Page, Laclede and Olive lines. Street car tracks are followed because the floats are lighted by power from the trolley wires.

Parade to Take 3 Hours 15 Minutes.

The traversing of the route is planned to take three hours and 15 minutes, the return to the starting point being set for 10:30 p. m.

Unusually attractive floats have been prepared on this year's theme, which is "Jewels and Talismans." Each of the 20 floats will be preceded by a courier with a banner showing the float's title.

In case of rain, the parade will be postponed until Thursday night. The ball, Wednesday night, is not subject to postponement for weather conditions.

Taffic rules for the night of the ball are simpler than in past years, because the parade will not be in progress while guests are going to the ball. From the west, north and south, the approach will be over either Washington boulevard or Lindell-Locust boulevards. Those coming from the east will drive to Pine street and Leffingwell avenue, thence north to Locust.

This year's appearance of the Prophet, for the parade and ball, is the forty-fifth annual visit. The first was in 1878, but in the two war years, 1917 and 1918, the parade and ball were omitted.

The Coliseum doors will be open at 7:30 at the main entrances on Washington and Locust boulevards and a half hour earlier at the gallery entrances, which are at the rear, one on Locust and one on Jefferson avenue.

Dress Regulations As Usual.

As in past years, the dress regulations read: "No person will be admitted at the main entrances unless in full dress. This rule will be strictly enforced. Full dress for ladies will mean costumes without hats; full dress for men will mean swallow-tail black coats, black trousers, white or black waistcoats and white ties. Officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, National Guard and Reserve Corps are requested to appear in the uniform authorized for formal social functions."

Full dress is not required in the gallery, and gallery guests are not to be admitted to the balcony and arena.

The decorative scheme will depict a Persian palace interior, with the use of about 10,000 yards of cloth in draperies. A sky-blue ceiling will be above the Prophet's throne, and Chinese drapery will hang behind the throne. Flood lights and spot lights will be used to create a dazzling picture of the Prophet and his court, and of the Queen to be selected, whose name will not be known until she is presented on that occasion.

Wabash to Run Special Train Here On Night of Parade.

The Wabash will run a special train from St. Charles to Washington avenue station, St. Louis, for Tuesday night's parade. The train will leave St. Charles at 7 p. m., and will stop at intermediate points. Returning, the special will leave Washington avenue station at 10:30 p. m. For those coming from points beyond St. Charles, the afternoon train arriving in St. Louis at 2:30, and the train leaving Union Station at 10:30, will make special stops at New Florence, Truesdale, Wright, Wentzville, O'Fallon and St. Peters.

DOG DECIDES OWN CASE AFTER 23 WITNESSES DIFFER

Three-Hour Court Hearing Ended When Creature Responds to Own Name.

What's the use of men arguing over ownership of a dog, especially a good hunting dog, when the creature itself can tell his master quick as he's called: The uselessness was demonstrated in the court of Justice of the Peace Peters in Kirkwood last Wednesday.

They kept the hound involved in the dispute over ownership waiting three hours and a half, while 10 witnesses for the plaintiff and 13 for the defendant testified what they knew, without conclusive proof. Then the dog clinched the argument.

J. M. Harness, 3811 West Pine boulevard, saw the animal a week ago and thought it was his lost dog, "Blue." He filed a replevin suit against E. Wichmann, who resides on Manchester road, near Kirkwood, and who had the dog. Wichmann maintained it was his dog, "Mark."

They brought the dog into court and gave him some cakes to munch, across the room from the Justice, who called, "Here, Blue! Here, Blue!" The dog continued his meal. "Here, Mark!" cried the Justice, and the dumb subject of the suit leaped to the beach. Harness tried calling "Blue!" without success, but the dog responded to Wichmann's cry of "Mark!" Justice Peters decided the dog was "Mark," and Wichmann's. Harness may appeal. Court costs were $49.40.

Negroes Rob Salesman of $103.

Oscar Blank, 30 years old, of 2606 Thomas street, a salesman, was walking in front of 2814 Bernard street at 7:15 last night when two negroes accosted him. One of them pressed something against his back and demanded money. The negroes disappeared with Blank's receipts for the day, $103.

NEGRO ON TRUCK KILLED IN COLLISION

Machine Thrown Against Pole; Two Other Persons Injured.

Henry Allen, 23 years old, a negro of 1313 North Eighth street, died at city hospital No. 2 at 2 p. m. yesterday from injuries suffered an hour earlier, when a moving truck on which he was riding was thrown against a pole in a collision at Sixteenth and Carr streets and its occupants thrown out.

The machine which collided with the truck was driven by John Estes of 2332 Howard street. Allen suffered fractures of the skull and ribs and did not recover consciousness. Jordan Singleton, 56, of 3124 Marnice place, and Louis Dorano, 30, of 5928 West Park avenue, others in the truck, received minor injuries.

This was the one hundred and thirtieth motor fatality here this year, compared with 98 in the same period last year.

Mrs. Hulda Buemer, 53, a widow of 2926 Palm street, was critically injured by a machine driven by Anthony Jannuzzo, an accountant of 2509 Hebert stret, at Grand boulevard and Palm street, yesterday noon. She suffered a fracture of the skull and was made unconscious. Jannuzzo and a woman witness declared that Mrs. Buemer walked into the machine. She was taken to Christian Hospital.

Accidentally Shot by Soldier.

Miss Madge Woolsey, 19 years old, was shot in the left thigh at 10:15 last night when a small automatic pistol was accidentally discharged while Private Wilburn McConnaughey of the Sixth Infantry, Jefferson Barracks, was examinin the weapon in the parlor of Miss Woolsey's home, 1100 South Third street.

CONFESSES HE KILLED WOMAN AT ROADHOUSE

Louis Bernero, Chauffeur, Says He Shot Frances Scott on East Side in July.

Louis Bernero, 38 years old, of 105 Nellie avenue, confessed yesterday to the police that he shot Frances Scott, 23, at Stamper's roadhouse in the outskirts of East St. Louis, last July. The woman died from her wound soon after the shooting, which occurred July 21, though Bernero said he thought the date was a day or two after the Fourth. Bernero was turned over to the East St. Louis police.

He said he did not know that the shooting resulted fatally. The police say he has admitted having served two years in the Missouri penitentiary for grand larceny. He has been in St. Louis since the shooting, except that he remained in East St. Louis for the first three days. Friends in East St. Louis recently sent him $50, through his former wife, it was learned.

Confesses to Special Police.

Special policemen, working in Carondelet heard, while inquiring into another case, that Bernero was wanted in East St. Louis for some shooting. They went to him and questioned him, and obtained his admission.

The policemen found a dismantled still and some liquor in the house, and arrested another man there, but a warrant was refused in the case.

Bernero said that he was tending bar at the Stamper roadhouse, and that Frances Scott entered and asked for a drink, which he refused to serve. He said she became insistent and that he put her out, and that she returned and threatened to shoot him.

He said he fired shots at the floor to frighten her away, and that she cried out, "You've shot me; I didn't think you'd do anything like that."

At the Coroner's inquest into the woman's death, it was stated that she and another woman were outside the place, and that the shot which wounded her was fired from a passing automobile. It was related that policemen encountered a speeding car in the vicinity, and that its occupants fired shots when ordered to halt.

Defeat Fails to Depress Senators

Manager Harris and His Men Convinced They Are Better Team Than Giants.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—"Tomorrow is another day," Stanley Harris, 27-year-old manager of the Senators, said today in the dressing room after his team had lost to the Giants by the narrowest of margins.

"It's the first time I ever saw the Giants in action in a world series," he continued, "but after looking them over today I really believe that we have a better team and will go on to win the world's championship. A game lost by such a margin can have only one effect on us—make us believe we can win with better luck and make us fight all the harder."

Harris complimented Walter Johnson on the great game he pitched under the handicap of occupying the limelight.

"Walter was not unhappy, though he wanted to win. He is just as good a man in defeat as he would have been in victory, and I think he deserved to win.'

"Hope to Win Today."

The spirit in the Washington clubhouse was not gloomy after the battle. The players seemed to feel that tomorrow was another day and that they would prove to their loyal friends that they were a better baseball club than the Giants.

The Giants, outside their clubhouse, dropped back into the same shell of reserve which has protected them from public questioning since the story of the attempted bribery of Heinie Sand.

The Giants are a moral unit and take without reply the "silent treatment" which they received from the spectators whose open mindedness on the subject of bribery was apparently reflected by refraining from expression of any sort. The Giants were NOT booed, but neither were they cheered.

BURKE WINNER OVER FULTON IN 10-ROUND BOUT AT ST. PAUL

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 4.—Martin Burke, New Orleans, outpointed Fred Fulton, the Minnesota plasterer, in 10 rounds here tonight, in the opinion of newspaper men. Burke weighed 180 pounds and Fulton 216.

Burke's victory broke Fulton's string of seven consecutive knockouts.

Opening with a rush, Burke played continually for the body and Fulton seemed to have difficulty in stopping his punches in the early rounds. Later, however, his straight left began to find its mark on Burke's chin and the plasterer finished strong.

In the second round Burke twisted Fulton's head with a hard right to the jaw. A moment later when Burke renewed his body attack, Fulton suddenly doubled up, grimaced and claimed a foul, but the referee declined to interfere.

Darkness Ends Game After 13 Innings With 6—6 Score—Maisel Hits Homer.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORT, Md., Oct. 4.—The third game of the little world series between Baltimore of the International League and St. Paul of the American association was called at the end of the thirteenth inning this afternoon on account of darkness, the score standing tied at 6 all. It was a wild and woolly game, starting out as a farce and ending in a great pitching duel between Tommy Thomas of the Orioles, who relieved Jackson in the fourth inning, and Paul Fittery, a left-hander, who was sent to the rescue of Tony Faeth in the sixth inning.

The Orioles played miserably at the start, helping the Saints to six runs on bases on balls, errors, a wild pitch and several slow-thinking plays. Only three hits figured in these half dozen runs. In the sixth inning the Birds rallied and tied the score by scoring three runs on singles by Jacobs and Freitag, a sacrifice fly by Thomas and a home run over the left-field fence by Fritz Maisel. From this inning the Birds were a different ball club, backing up Thomas in fine style.

Today's attendance was 4919. Total attendance to date, 13,945. Receipts today, $6725.70. Total receipts, $19,214.82.

NO NEWS REGARDING SCANDAL, LANDIS AND McGRAW ANNOUNCE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Underneath the excitement of the first battle between the Giants and the Nationals today smouldered the discontent with the present status of the investigation into the attempt of Dolan and O'Connell of the Giants to bribe Sand of the Philadelphia team. The day was lacking in action toward the heralded baseball war and was marked by none of the outbursts of yesterday.

There was no retraction of the demands of yesterday that the whole bribery situation be thoroughly investigated, and those demands stand. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, made good his promise to refuse to attend the series.

The bribery case and the possibility that some unseen influence inspired Dolan and O'Connell was the talk of the great throng of fans all day.

Washington was full of wild reports all day, chief among which was that Dolan had come to Washington with John J. McGraw. It was reported also that O'Connell was here, but not enjoying the good grace of McGraw. McGraw denied emphatically that he knew anything about either of the men.

"Any report that Dolan has been with me here is absurd," he said. "I have not seen either Dolan or O'Connell in two or three days and I don't know where they are."

If either was in Washington, he could not be found. McGraw refused to comment upon the demands for further investigation.

The lack of any definite move or plan was confirmed also by Judge Landis. "There's nothing new," he said.

Tigers Gain 3-0 Victory Over Chicago

Coglizer, Playing His First Varsity Game, Kicks Field Goal in Second Period.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Missouri, leader of the Missouri Valley Conference, met Chicago, pride of the Big Ten here this afternoon and Missouri came out on top, 3 to 0, as a result of a 16-yard place kick by Arthur Coglizer, rookie end of Omaha, playing his first varsity game and the stellar defensive work of the Missouri team, which kept the Stagg machine with its back to the wall in its own territory for three quarters of the game.

Coglizer's field goal came in the second period. Vandyne had blocked Curley's punt, giving Missouri the ball on Chicago's 12-yard line. Jackson and Bond battered the Maroon line for three downs, and the Sophomore end dropped back to make use of his toe for the winning play.

Coach Henry of the Tigers used few substitutes and the line-up changes he made were necessary because of injuries. The veteran Stagg, however, used many substitutes in an effort to halt the Tiger attack. Several times his eleven had the Tigers in distress, but each time they rallied to turn back the Western Conference team. Chicago was in danger in every period and repeatedly the Tigers drove within the Chicago 20-yard line.

Tiger Pass Attack Too Much.

The Missouri passing attack proved too much for the Chicago team, while Stagg's passers were unable to get away consistently, their efforts being intercepted or blocked by the Tigers when they seemed to threaten.

Vandyne, Smith, Bond and Coglizer were the stars of the Missouri defense which made possible the Tiger victory, one of the most notable in Missouri's history. On the offense Whiteman, Bond, Thomas, Jackson and Coglizer took the honors. Thomas, Kernwein and McCarty led the ball carrying attack of the Maroons.

Coglizer tried two field goals, behind his successful attempt, one of them from short range, which was wide and the other from the 40-yard line, the last play of the game which was short.

Both teams fumbled several times, but the Tigers were following the ball with more consistency, and they made the most of their break.

BAN JOHNSON DENIES SAYING HE WOULD RUN LANDIS OUT OF GAME

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—President Ban Johnson of the American League said today he was amazed by published statements credited to him and representing him as saying he would drive Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, Charles A. Stoneham, principal owner of the New York Giants, and John McGraw, the Giants' manager, out of baseball.

"I didn't know such a story existed until I saw it in print," Johnson said.

The American League executive, who has demanded a Federal investigation of the latest baseball bribery charges, has refused to attend the world's series games and was preparing today to go to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for several days. He explained that his legal counsel in Washington could take care of any necessary steps in starting any inquiry that may be made.

Johnson's controversy with Commissioner Landis, in which Johnson said the world's series should be called off and the Baseball Commissioner's investigation continued, was productive of no developments here today.

ARTHUR NEHF.

Nehf Pitched Great Ball And Deserved Victory, Walter Johnson Writes

"I Did My Best, but It Was Not Enough," Fireball King Asserts—Expects to Get Another Chance Against Giants on Wednesday.

By Walter Johnson.
Washington's Star Pitcher.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4.—All that I have to say is that I am sorry I disappointed all my friends and well-wishers by losing my first game in the World's Series.

I went out there and did my best, but it wasn't enough.

The Giants are a great team, the fought hard for everything. I did not have a chance to rest at any time during the game.

Nehf pitched a great game for the Giants and deserved his victory. The Giants got more hits off me than we got off Nehf and it is results that count. I congratulate Nehf on his victory.

Tomorrow Tom Zachary is going to pitch. I'll be on the bench pulling for him to do better than I did and bring the series up even with one victory each.

Expects to Pitch Again.

I don't expect to pitch again until Wednesday in the final game in New York. Twelve innings of hard pitching is a strain. I suppose there was a time when I could have gone through it without blinking, but I am not so young now. I need my rest.

If we had won today's game in nine innings, I might have been sent in against the Giants Tuesday. Now Bucky Harris is forced to change his pitching plans. Zachary will pitch tomorrow, Marberry on Monday and Ogden on Tuesday.

This promises to be a real series. Both teams were a bit nervous. Some of the players could hardly keep still on the bench. Those of us who were playing had a better chance of getting over this nervousness, but we all felt it.

Should Have Retired Gowdy.

I lost the game in the twelfth inning when I hit Hank Gowdy in the back with a pitched ball. Nehf came up and got his third safe hit off me. It was a two-bagger to short center that young McNeely tried desperately to get. He made a dive for the ball but could not hold it. There I was with Gowdy on third and Nehf on second with nobody out. To make matters worse, I walked Jack Bentley, filling the bases.

I was in a bad hole. Frisch hit to Harris and Gowdy was out at

OHIO STATE DEFEATS PURDUE IN OPENING BIG TEN GAME, 7-0

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 4.—Ohio State triumphed in its first Western Conference game here today, defeating the Purdue Boilermakers, 7 to 0, with a touchdown in the second quarter by Marty Karow, fullback, who was on the receiving end of a forward pass from Hunt, who kicked goal.

Claypool, captain and center of the visiting eleven, put a stellar exhibition on defensive work and time after time was responsible for breaking up line plunges of Ohio's backs.

WALKER'S 32-YARD FIELD GOAL DEFEATS KANSAS

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 4. — The Universit yof Kansas lost its first game of the season here today to the Oklahoma Aggies, 3 to 0. A field goal by Walker from the 32-yard line was the only score of the game. The Oklahomans had the Jayhawkers baffled throughout.

JOHNSON'S GREAT PITCHING RUINED BY TWO MISPLAYS

McNeely Falters in Field and Rice Is Caught Trying for Extra Base in 12th Inning—Fireball King Strikes Out 12.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—John McGraw, the master mind of baseball, scored first blood in his world struggle with youth and enthusiasm personified by Stanley Harris and the Washington Senators this afternoon. The Senators made three mistakes and the Giants made two home runs, and that's the story.

The Giants won, 4 to 3, in 12 innings, before a crowd of 37,000, and Washington, all steamed up over its series and ready to wrap up the town and present it to Walter Johnson if he won, tonight berated an unkind fate. It did seem that the Senators, a team of destiny, had been deserted in its hour of need.

Johnson Pitched Brilliantly.

It was not Walter Johnson's fault that he had to take home the loser's heavy heart this evening. He pitched as he never pitched before.

It seemed that he was throwing away his arm with every throw and it was all in vain. He struck out 12 of the New York batters and he held them scoreless for 11 innings, except for two home runs, which landed in the front row of the temporary bleachers.

And then three misplays, or one misplay and two errors of judgment, turned the afternoon into victory for the Giants and a defeat for the great Walter Johnson.

Dollar Sign Costly Factor.

If the owners of the clubs had been satisfied with what they could have taken it at the box office without remaking the park! If only the dollar sign had not been too potent a factor. But then the town was crying for more seats and so that concrete bleacher in left and center field was enlarged by adding 12 rows of circus seats in front. If there had been only 10 added rows, Walter Johnson would be victor tonight. For those two home runs of the Giants' landed in the very front row of those bleachers.

Giants Start With Homer.

George ("High Pockets") Kelly hit the first one. It was in the second inning, and if it had not been for these few extra rows of seats, Outfielder Goslin could have taken another step or two backward and could have reached Kelly's drive.

In the fourth inning, Terry, a left-handed batter, a substitute, one of the added starters who helped McGraw win his fourth straight pennant, cracked another one of Johnson's fast balls. Johnson turned calmly to see Goslin rake it in. He had seen Goslin catch many a fly like that during the season. But again the temporary seats spoiled the party and the drive of Terry's, an easy out for Goslin during most of the season, went as a home run for Terry this afternoon.

These were the only runs off Johnson until the twelfth inning. Nehf, too, was pitching a fine game. He held the Senators hitless for three innings, and then, with two down in the fourth, Judge got the Washington team's first hit, a single to right.

Peck's Double Drives Bluege Over With Tying Run in Ninth Inning

The next safety came in the sixth, McNeely lining a double down the left-field line to start the inning. McNeely went to third, while Jackson was throwing out Harris, and scored while Frisch was tossing out Rice. That was all the scoring then until the ninth, when, with one out, Bluege singled to left and scored the tying run on Peck's double to left.

Blunders Give Giants Victory.

Both pitchers then were invincible until the twelfth, when the three blunders by the Washington team brought defeat for Johnson. Walter contributed to his own defeat by hitting Gowdy with a pitched ball to start the inning. Then Nehf hit a short fly to center. McNeely raced in fast. He got both hands on the ball and then dropped it. That was bad enough, but he still had a chance to turn a putout on the play, for Gowdy had thought the ball was caught and had started back toward first. But before McNeely could close his awkward fingers on that ball, Gowdy had recovered his wits and was safely on his way to second.

McNeely made a hurried throw to second. Peck tried to take the catch as he fell away from the bag. He was ready to let Gowdy step on him if he could turn that into a putout. But the throw was too wide and sped out of Peck's reach and on to the grandstand wall and before Catcher Ruel could recover the ball, Gowdy was on third base and Nehf was on second, nobody was out and the outlook was dark.

Bases Filled With None Out.

Bentley batted for Lindstrom and walked, filling the bases. Bases filled with Giants and nobody out. That sounds like a pretty gloomy picture to paint for the Senators. But despite that threatening situation, the Senators could have escaped without damage if it had not been for another mistake.

Frisch, a dangerous batter, hit a grounder to Harris and the manager's throw to Ruel got Gowdy at the plate. A dangerous batter out of the way. The stands began to have hope. Then came the mistake and again poor McNeely was the goat. Ross Young hit a fly to center and this time it appeared that the center fielder had ample time to make the catch. It was a short fly, but a high one and the stands began to rumble with joy. Nobody could have scored from third on that sort of a fly. But McNeely put on his brakes. He stopped abruptly and the ball which he was expected to catch, fell at his feet for a single.

Nehf crossed the plate, putting the Giants ahead and leaving the bases filled, with only one out. That was a bad break. If McNeely had caught that fly Kelly's fly, which followed, would have been the final out. But with only one out the fly was a sacrifice and scored the Giants' second run of the inning. That put the Giants ahead, four runs to two.

Rice Kills Washington's Chances.

And still it took another mistake by a Senator to give the Giants the victory. The men of Bucky Harris came in for their half of the 12th determined but none too confident. Shirley batted for Johnson and reached second, when

PIKERS GAIN 7 TO 0 VICTORY OVER DRURY COLLEGE ELEVE

Cheatham Plunges Over For Only Touchdown of Game in Second Quarter

Forward Pass Helps Local Team in Gaining Conquest Over Springfield Aggregation—Coach Wimberley Uses Entire New Lineup at Start of Second Half.

By Arthur Schneff.

Showing superiority in every branch of the game, the Washington University Pikers defeated the invading eleven from Drury College by a score of 7 to 0 in the opening game of the season yesterday at Francis Field. The victory was deserved, and only the determined resistence of the visiting players and the Pikers' unpolished attack prevented a victory by a larger margin.

The Pikers had the upper hand throughout the game. Drury was unable to score a first down until the third quarter and only once were the Panthers on the Piker side of the 50-yard line. The visitors never seriously threatened, and more than once Drury was forced to punt from behind her own goal line.

Coach Wimberly's machine showed latent power, but the eleven did not coordinate consistently enough to make a strong impression. Occasionally the team would flash forth with a few dazzling moments of fast football, which swept Drury off its feet, but these displays were not sustained for long. As a rule the interference was weak and the line, although playing splendid football on the defense, failed to make many openings when the backs were carrying the ball. As a result, most of the Piker gains were made on end runs, passes and exchange of punts.

Both Teams Resort to Kicking.

Inability to smash the line led both teams to resort to kicking, and the exchanges were almost invariably to the credit of Washington. Charley Levy, husky tackle, was in fine form, obtaining height and distance on his boots, which were good for a gain of about 10 yards over every kick by the Drury punters, Hines and Staubus.

It was clever forward passing and end running that enabled the Pikers to score their single touchdown early in the second quarter. The Piker attack, showing its best form of the game, carried the ball to the Drury five-yard line, only to be held for downs. Two forward passes, one of which, from Ingram to Goessling, was good for 15 yards, and off-tackle plays with Ingram, Cheatham, Walsh and Floun carrying the ball, were features of the drive.

Cheatham Scores Touchdown.

Hines, standing behind his own goal, kicked the ball out of danger for Drury, Washington recovering the punt on the Panther 30-yard line. The Piker attack then got under way again. Cheatham made 4 yards through the line, and a forward pass, Ingram to Walsh, gave Washington first down on the 15-yard mark. Cheatham made a short gain through center and then Ingram dodged his way around left end to put the ball on the one-yard line. Cheatham scored through the center of the line and Levy kicked the goal.

The game marked the debut of several new players on the Piker team. Cheatham and Jim Ingram, freshmen stars last year, performed very creditably. Webster at center and Avis at end did good work on the line. Coach Wimberly sent an almost entirely new team into the game at the beginning of the second half.

Play Grinnell Saturday.

The Pikers will play their first conference game next week against the Grinnell College eleven at Grinnell. The Pikers' next appearance at Francis Field will be in a game with Milliken University on Oct. 25.

SENATORS' BLUNDERS WIN OPENER FOR GIANTS, 4—3

Jackson muffed his fly. Then McNeely flied to center. Harris came through with a single, and when Rice followed with another safety, the gloomy silent stands threw aside their gloom and the stands again roared with the cheers of the hopeful as Shirley raced over the plate.

The Senators were within a run of a tie and two men on the bases. One of them, Harris was speeding for third base. He was there in safety. The other should have been satisfied to play it safe. But that other man was Rice and he was carrying an all-important run. He wanted that potential margin of victory to be carried along as far as possible, and he tried to stretch his single into a double. The throw from center was perfect and Rice was out.

No longer was the winning run on base. And what made it worse, it now took a safety or an error to score the tying run, whereas had there been only one down, had Rice only played it safe, the tying run could have crossed the plate on a sacrifice fly, a safety or an error, an infield out or a bunt. That single that was needed to score the tying run was not forthcoming. Goose Goslin almost beat out his grounder to Kelly, but almost was not enough. The game was over—lost.

Coolidge Joins in Rooting.

It was a thrilling ball game. President Coolidge, it is said, does not burst into enthusiastic applause very readily. But this afternoon, when Peck hit that double in the ninth inning, and when the cash customers in the grandstand and bleachers began to hurl cushions and hats and whatever they could get their hands on, President Coolidge arose and beat his hands together with much more gusto than he usually shows.

It was too bad that Washington had to lose. The town was all prepared for a mighty celebration, and visitors from all parts of the country were prepared to lend a hand. For the first time in four years the stands were partisan. They wanted Washington to win. There was no applause for good plays by the Giants. There was no applause for base hits by the Giants. There was only silence when the Giants were prospering and wild outbursts of enthusiasm when the Senators had things coming their way.

Series Sidelights

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.

WHEN he struck out 12 Giant batsmen today, Walter Johnson tied the World's Series record, hung up in 1906 by Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox. Walsh's mark, however, was made in a nine-inning game, while Johnson took 12 innings to reach his figure.

A floral baseball, almost as tall as a man, with crossed bats on a field of white chrysanthemums, ordered by the Sacramento, Cal., Chamber of Commerce for presentation to Earl McNeely of the Senators and Jimmy O'Connell of the Giants, was presented to McNeely alone.

"Al" Schacht entertained the fans before the game in the role of leader of the band. The fans looked for the usual pre-game antics of Schacht, and his partner, "Nick" Altrock," but outside of a few informal stunts the twins were exceedingly quiet.

Umpire Tom Connolly made a nice catch of the Coolidge heave and saved the President an error by leaping high in the air and spearing the horsehide in his "meat" hand. Someone offered Connolly the Washington Monument for the prized apple, but Tommy only smiled and told the fan "not to slam the door when he went out."

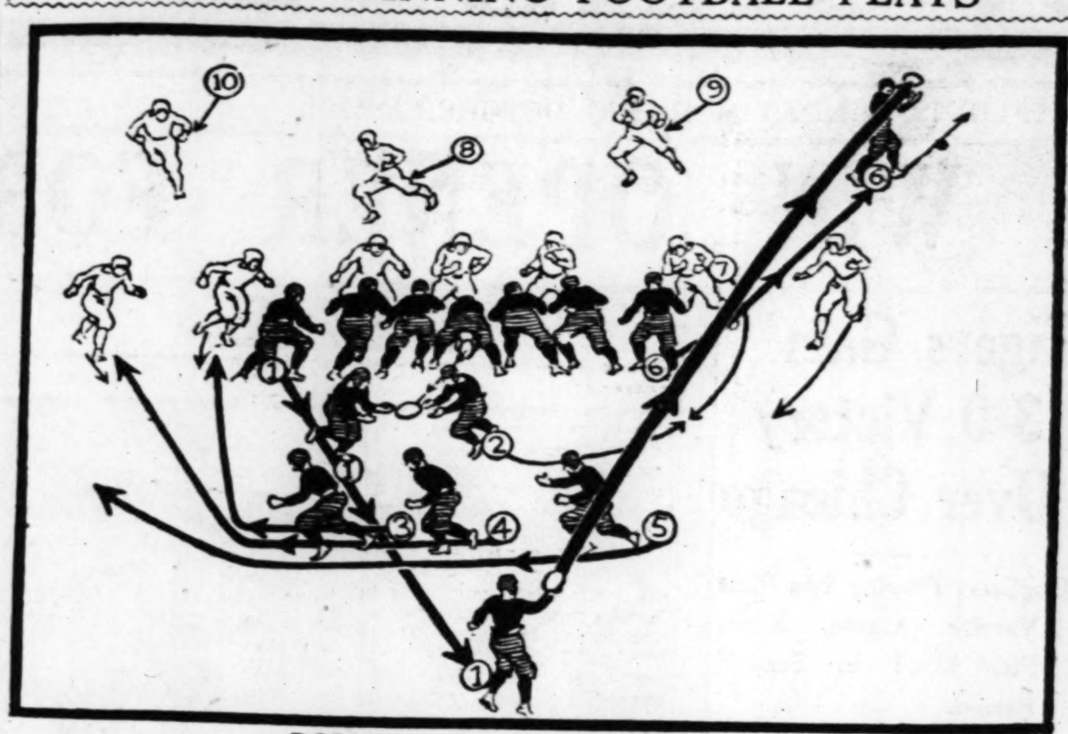
One-eyed Connolly worked a new role to get in today. The presence of 10 or 11 officers of the law at every gate scared the champion gate-crasher to such an extent that he got a job selling programs and wended his way through the turnstiles by this means.

Walter Johnson's deceptive motion which he uses in pitching had some of the Giants under wraps. Young struck out the first three times he came up, and all in all "Hack" Wilson was a similar victim a trio of times.

Walter Johnson's new limousine, the gift of the fans, was driven across the home plate, and then Roger Peckinpaugh received a car, a touring model.

The umpiring was well done, and neatly. There were just two kicks all day—Pep Young's in the first and Judge's in the ninth—both were on called third strikes.

FAMOUS WINNING FOOTBALL PLAYS



DOBIE'S CORNELL FORWARD PASS

WINNING PLAYS—No. 5

Gill Dobie, a veteran strategist, successfully employs a deceptive forward pass by the left end to the right end. Because of its baffling features it is a consistent ground gainer for Cornell.

The three backs line up four yards behind the line.

Quarterback is under center.

Quarterback, No. 2, receives ball from center and quickly turns to the left and passes to the left end, No. 1, a little backward and then continues to turn to block off the defensive left tackle or defensive left end.

Left end with the snap of the ball comes from his position in the line, receives ball from the quarter on the run and proceeds backward to a point directly back of center, then forward passes to the right end, No. 6, who has gone down the field 18 to 20 yards and at an angle of about 45 degrees.

Left half back, No. 3, goes straight out to the left a couple of steps, then turns sharply up the field and blocks off defensive right tackle.

Fullback, No. 4, also takes a few steps to the left, then turns into defensive right end and blocks him.

Right halfback, No. 5, makes a feint to receive ball from the quarterback as the quarterback turns to pass to the left end and then goes straight out as if to carry the ball off tackle or around end.

Five center men stand shoulder to shoulder to prevent opposing line from coming through and spoiling the play.

This play starts to look like an off tackle or end run play, and when properly played in connection with some strong plays which actually go off tackle, it often proves very effective.

The defensive left half may be drawn completely to the left side and the end, when receiving the pass, has a clear field.

East's 'Big Three' Elevens All Win Opening Games

Harvard Defeats Virginia, 14-0; Yale Victor Over North Carolina, 27-0.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 4.—Harvard defeated the University of Virginia in its opening game today, 14 to 0, crossing the Southerners' line in the third and fourth periods.

Greenough carried the ball across for the first touchdown, while Cheek ended a 40-yard Harvard drive in the final period by carrying the ball across. Zarkarov and Stafford kicked the goals.

The play was in Virginia territory almost throughout.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—Before a crowd of 25,000 the largest for the opening season game that the Yale bowl has held, the Blue eleven easily defeated North Carolina, 27 to 0, this afternoon. Yale scored in every period except the second. Almost an entire new team started for Yale in the second half.

Yale made 14 first downs to the visitors' three, eight of Yale's 14 being in the second half, with the second-string men in the lineup. Yale completed five forward passes, all she attempted, for a total gain of 50 yards. One touchdown was the result of Yale's passing game, Pond receiving Cottle's threw under the North Carolina goal posts. North Carolina completed only one out of seven forward passes attempted.

Capt. Lovejoy made the first touchdown for his team. Soon after the game opened, Sparrow fumbled a punt by Cottle and Capt. Lovejoy scooped up the pigskin on the visitors' 12-yard line and scored. Cottle kicked goal.

Toward the end of the period, after a series of successful forward passes and straight line plays had carried the ball to North Carolina's three-yard line Cottle passed to Pond, who smashed his way across the line. Cottle failed in his attempt for goal.

In the third period Allen and Kline directed by Bunnell, carried the ball down the field for the third touchdown. Allen kicked the goal. In the fourth, Falling, who had replaced Kline, and Allen, smashed through for the last touchdown. Allen again kicked the goal.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 4.—A powerful Princeton eleven defeated Amherst in Palmer Stadium, 40 to 6, today. Slagle was the star for the Tigers, scoring three of the touchdowns. Amherst's score came in the third period, when Pratt intercepted a forward pass and ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

DARTMOUTH IS EASY WINNER OVER McGILL

By the Associated Press.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 4.—Dartmouth defeated McGill University of Montreal here today by a score of 52 to 0. The Canadians, playing a strange game, were completely outclassed; but fought hard to the end. Towards the end of the fourth quarter the visitors carried out a drive which failed only after they had missed in two attempts at field goal.

The Game, Play-by-Play

The sad, play-by-play story of Johnson's defeat:

FIRST INNING.

NEW YORK—The crowd roared when the Senators took the field. There was an individual cheer for Walter Johnson. Lindstrom flied to McNeely. Frisch popped to Bluege. Young struck out. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON—McNeely sent a high fly to Wilson, hitting the first ball pitched. Jackson threw out Harris. Harris collided with Terry at first and the Giant first sacker was slightly injured but remained in the game. Rice fouled to Lindstrom. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.

NEW YORK—Kelly with a call of three balls and two strikes hit a long drive into the left field bleachers for a home run. After hitting several fouls Terry lined a single over second. Wilson struck out. Jackson drew a base on balls. Gowdy hit into a double play, Peck to Harris. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON—Jackson made a nice stop of Goslin's grounder and threw him out. Judge got a base on balls. Nehf tried to catch Judge off first, but failed. Bluege fanned. The Senators tried the hit-and-run play, but Peck fouled into the stands. Peck then flied to Wilson. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING.

NEW YORK—Johnson took Nehf's roller and threw him out. Lindstrom struck out. Frisch shot a long hit to center for two bases. Frisch was caught off second, Ruel to Peck. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON—Ruel got a base on balls. Johnson hit into a double play, Jackson to Frisch to Terry. McNeely strolled. Harris popped to Jackson. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Young was Johnson's fourth strikeout victim. Kelly also fanned and the crowd yelled its approval. Terry got a home run into the left-field stands. Wilson was another strikeout victim, fanning for the second time. ONE RUN, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON—Rice flew out to Kelly. Nehf employed a wide curve and the Washingtons were mystified by his delivery. Frisch threw out Goslin. Judge got a line single into right field for Washington's first hit. Lindstrom threw out Bluege. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Jackson struck out. Gowdy singled to center. Neff forced Gowdy, Harris to Peck. Lindstrom flied to McNeely. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON—Peck sent up a high foul to Terry. Ruel flied to Wilson. Johnson went out, Jackson to Terry. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SIXTH INNING.

WASHINGTON — Frisch drew four balls. Young struck out for the third time. Kelly flied to Goslin. Terry sent up a foul to Ruel. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON — The crowd called on the home boys for a rally. McNeely got a two-base hit to left. Jackson threw out Harris, McNeely going to third. McNeely scored as Frisch threw out Rice at first. Nehf fed Goslin wide curves. Goslin got a single off Nehf's pitching hand. Goslin went out stealing, Gowdy to Frisch. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SEVENTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Wilson got a hit to right field for one base. Jackson hit into a double play, Bluege to Harris to Judge. Gowdy contended the ball hit his hand but Umpire Connolly would not allow it. Gowdy walked. Nehf got a Texas Leaguer into right, Gowdy stopping at second. Gowdy went to third and Nehf to second on a passed ball. Peck threw out Lindstrom. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON—Judge hit out a hot liner which Young took. Nehf tossed out Bluege. Peck pushed a hot grounder through Lindstrom for a hit. Peck stole second. Ruel got a base on balls. Johnson lined to Frisch. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

EIGHTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Frisch popped to Peck. Young doubled to left. Kelly out, Peck to Judge, Young going to third. Terry walked. On an attempted double steal Young was caught off third, Ruel to Bluege. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

WASHINGTON — Lindstrom threw out McNeely. Harris flied to Wilson. Rice walked. Rice stole second. Goslin struck out. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

NINTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Wilson singled to right. Jackson sacrificed, Bluege to Judge. Gowdy struck out. Neff singled to irght and Wilson was out at the plate, Rice to Ruel. NO RUNS.

WASHINGTON — Judge struck out. Bluege singled off Jackson's glove. On the hit and run play Peck doubled, scoring Bluege. The crowd was frantic. Seat cushions were thrown into the air. Play was held up until the field was cleared of cushions. Ruel grounded to Jackson. Johnson flied to Kelly. ONE RUN.

TENTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Lindstrom fanned. Frisch singled to left. Young flied to Harris. Frisch stole second. Kelly struck out. NO RUNS.

WASHINGTON — Lindstrom threw out McNeely. Harris singled off Lindstrom's glove. Rice singled to right. Goslin popped to Jackson. Judge flied to Young. NO RUNS.

ELEVENTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Terry flied to McNeely. Wilson struck out. Peck threw out Jackson. NO RUNS.

WASHINGTON—Bluege flied to Kelly. Peck fouled to Gowdy. Nehf threw out Ruel. NO RUNS.

TWELFTH INNING.

NEW YORK—Gowdy walked. Nehf got a Texas leaguer to center. McNeely, after picking up the ball, threw to the stands and Gowdy reached third and Nehf second. Bentley batted for Lindstrom and walked, filling the bases. Southworth ran for Bentley. Frisch forced Gowdy at home, Harris to Ruel. Nehf scored on Young's Texas leaguer to center. Kelly flied to Goslin and Southworth scored. Terry singled off Judge's glove. Wilson lined to Goslin. TWO RUNS.

WASHINGTON—Kelly plays second, Frisch third, and Southworth center field for the Giants. Shirley batted for Johnson and reached second when Jackson dropper his fly. McNeely flied to Southworth. Shirley scored on Harris' single. Rice singled to center, Harris going to third. Rice was out at second, Southworth to Frisch. Goslin out, Kelly to Terry. ONE RUN.

Local Teams Win Two Games From Omaha Invaders

Freight Accounts and Heitz Teams Victors—Two Games Today.

Omaha's invading municipal baseball teams were repulsed under heavy batting fire at Fairground yesterday, when both ends of a double-header were won by St. Louis teams.

A double-header will be played at the same park this afternoon between the Curlees, local champions, and the Murphy-Did-Its, champions of Omaha.

The Freight Account team, runner-up for the local title, scored 10 runs in the fourth inning and overwhelmed the Vinton Merchants team in the second game of yesterday's program. The Heitz team won from the Williams Street Club, 12 to 6, in the opener.

For three innings, the second game bore something of the aspect of a close contest, but in the fourth the Freight Accounts fell heavily upon Pitcher Brown and the Omaha infielders started booting the ball, and the result was that the St. Louis team piled up 10 runs and ruined the game. The visitors were charged with six errors. Stremmel went the full seven innings in the pitching box for the Freight Accounts and gave only seven hits.

Today's first game will be started at 1:30 p. m. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made to defray the expenses of the visiting teams.

NEHF DESERVED TO WIN, WALTER JOHNSON WRITES

the plate. But Young singled to center, scoring Nehf, and Kelly's fly to Goslin scored Southworth, who was running for Bentley. I should have retired Gowdy. Then Nehf's double might not have caused much trouble and I could have pitched differently.

The Giants kicked at Umpire Connolly's decisions many times but I have no complaints to make. I think he did a good job.

Praise for Shirley.

Young Shirley had his head up in our twelfth inning when he reached second base when Jackson muffed his pop fly in short left. That took a lot of speed. I felt sure we would tie the score for the second time when Rice singled to center, sending Harris to third. Sam made a daring try for two bases, though, and was out by inches. If he had been safe, Harris would have scored the tying run when Kelly got Goslin by a narrow squeak. We would then have been in the ball game.

Personally, I was sorry to lose my first world's series game before the President, my mother, my wife and that big crowd of friends. I had a wonderful feeling of satisfaction when the game began, knowing that everybody in the park was pulling for me to win. That is why I am sorry—that I disappointed them all. But Washington is not out of the series with one defeat. There are six more games to be played. We will face some pitching that won't be quite as good as Nehf's was today. Some New York pitcher is going to be "murdered," as the boys say in baseball, for today's defeat.

Pep Young made the best fielding play of the game, I think, when he got Judge's fly in the tenth. But for that catch, we would have won. Rice was on first and Harris on second with two out when Judge sent a liner between Kelly and Young. If it had gone safe, I know Harris could easily have scored the winning run. Young went out fast and made the catch while running at full speed toward the bleachers.

I am a little tired after pitching 12 innings, but I'll be rested by Wednesday. Maybe I'll have better luck next time.

MISS AUDREY FAUST WINS DISTRICT GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Country Club Girl Beats Miss Virginia Pep One Up In a Twenty-Hole Contest

Victor Took the Lead at No. 3 and Held It to Hole Number 18, Where Her Rival Squared It — Standard of Play Best of the Tournament.

By Dent McSkimming.

Miss Audrey Faust was crowned champion of women golfers in the St. Louis District Association yesterday at Glen Echo Country Club when she defeated the defending champion, Miss Virginia Pep, 1 up in 20 holes, in a contest that thrilled a gallery of 300.

Miss Pep squared the match on the eighteenth green, after having trailed her opponent all the way from No. 3. Miss Faust at an early stage of the match was 3 up, and the fine display of determination which enabled Miss Pep to finally wipe out this lead on the eighteenth green won the admiration of the large gallery, which applauded vigorously when the former champion sank a two-foot putt to square the match.

And still, when Miss Faust ran down her winning putt on the twentieth green, the shout that went up from the onlookers was equally joyous. The sentiment of the gallery appeared to be evenly divided between the Country Club girl, representing the upper social strata, and the Triple A girl, who learned her golf at the Municipal course in Forest Park.

As was expected, both contestants raised the standard of their play above anything they had hitherto shown in the tournament. Prior to yesterday Miss Faust's putting had been worse than uncertain.

Miss Pep Sinks Long Putts.

Yesterday it was at least reliable and sometimes almost brilliant. Miss Pep, however, sank the only putts of greater than six feet. Her seven-footer on No. 6 gained a half in 4s and kept Miss Faust from going 4 up. Then, on the very next hole, she sank a 10-foot putt which brought a great gasp of astonishment from the spellbound gallery.

The Shot That Won the Title.

It was a brave shot that won the match and the title for Miss Faust. She was apparently beaten, going to the twentieth green for Miss Pep's second shot had reached the edge of the green while it took a 3 for Miss Faust to get on the edge of the carpet. Then, forced to putt uphill, about 11 feet from the pin, Miss Faust deliberated a long time and then chose to pitch the shot with a mashie. Her long putts had been only mediocre all day and she staked her last chance in switching to the pitch shot rather than the putt—and she won. The ball dropped dead, within a foot of the pin and when Miss Pep missed her first putt, and then ran past the cup with her second, a 1 footer, Miss Faust stepped up and dropped the ball into the cup, winning the match and the title. Her choice of chipping the ball from the edge of the green, rather than putting, and decided the issue in her favor at a time when Miss Pep appeared a certain winner.

Although it was generally expected that Miss Pep would have the advantage in driving, the reverse was true. Miss Faust obtained her early advantage by getting greater distance on her tee shots and it was not until late in the match that Miss Pep began to out-drive her opponent. In matching the former champion's drives, Miss Faust seemed to press too hard at times for she was more often in the rough than was Miss Pep. Her recoveries from bad positions, however, formed the most attractive feature of her play. This ability to pitch close to the pin from tall grass, saved her on the 20th hole when she shot at an invisible flag and the ball came to rest not more than four feet from the hole. She halved the hole in spite of Miss Pep's superior drive and good approach.

Some Show of "Nerves."

Proof that Miss Pep at times wavered under the strain of the close match was had when she drove into the lake on No. 9. And then, on her second tee shot, she tried to make certain of not going into the water again and she drove far beyond the green. She lost a par 3 hole by taking 5 strokes and Miss Faust became 2 up again.

And there was another case of nerves on the part of both players on the short 6th hole. Both tee shots reached the far side of the green which is terraced. Each was fearful of hitting the putt too hard, lest it roll down the terraced green, and as a result, each was too weak. They halved the hole in 4s, when they should have had 3s, easily.

Miss Pep's birdie 4 on the eighteenth, where she squared the match and obtained a chance to continue the fight for the title, was perhaps the most exciting moment in the match. Her long drive and well driven midiron shot put her on the far side of the green in two and she nestled beside the cup in 3. Miss Faust, with the title within her grasp if she halved the hole, was on in three but her approach putt was bad and she had to take a par 5.

Western Military Defeats McKinley

Fullback Torres Scores Two Touchdowns for Cadets After Long Runs.

Western Military Academy of Alton, gained its second football victory of the season yesterday morning at the Cleveland High Field, defeating McKinley High, 13—7. The game was raggedly played but grew exciting in the last period when McKinley opened up a forward passing attack, which netted a touchdown.

The game gave Fullback Torres of the Cadets, a Mexican, a chance to give a great exhibition of end running and line smashing. Torres scored both touchdowns for his team and kicked one goal. His first score was the result of a 30-yard run through guard. Shortly afterwards he cut loose with an end run and dashed 50 yards for another counter with virtually no interference.

In the final period, Quarterback Jaret made six passes to Halfbacks Willmarth and Deffaa, which netted a touchdown. Willmarth shone especially on the receiving end.

jured but remained in the game. Wood gained 5 yards and Hewitt added 8 more. Wood put the ball on St. Louis 20-yard line. Wood made it first down on the 17-yard line. Gillmore failed twice, but Hewitt got through to the 12-yard line. Garbisch attempted a field goal from the 22-yard line, but missed.

When the Billikens delayed play they were penalized and, instead of bringing the ball out to the 25-yard line, play was started 10 yards back. Ramacciotti punted to Wood in midfield Army lost 5 yards for offside. Scheiffler replaced Wood at fullback for Army and gained 6 yards around right end. Gillmore made it first down on St. Louis' 37-yard line. Two plays put the ball on St. Louis' 29-yard line. An Army forward pass was knocked down by McKenzie. Reeder replaced Gillmore to try a drop kick from 37-yard line, but the kick was short. Trapnell replaced Reeder. Army lost the ball on downs and Ramacciotti kicked to Army's 30-yard line as the half ended. Score: Army, 10; St. Louis, 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

Yoemans received St. Louis kickoff and ran it back to the 22-yard line. Hewitt made eight yards. On the next play, Army was penalized five yards for offside. Wood kicked 50 yards to McKenzie. Ramacciotti got two yards through left tackle. McKenzie gained three. Ramacciotti was thrown for a three-yard loss. Ramacciotti kicked poorly the ball going outside at midfield. Wood went through center for eight yards. Hewitt got eight more, making it first down on St. Louis' 35-yard line. On a double pass, Gillmore made first down for the Army on 20-yard line. A forward pass, Yeomans to Baxter, put the ball on St. Louis' 10-yard line. Wood gained three yards. Wood took the ball to the four-yard line. Kahle was stopped, St. Louis taking the ball on downs. Ramacciotti's punt from behind his goal line was blocked. Baxter fell on it for a touchdown for Army. Garbisch kicked goal. Score—Army 17, St. Louis 0.

The quarter ended without further scoring.

FOURTH QUARTER

After three attempts through line without gain, Garbisch made another attempt to kick a field goal from the 50-yard line. The ball fell six yards short. On the lineup McKenzie failed to gain and St. Louis punted. Wood got four yards. Army drew a 15-yard penalty for holding. Wood kicked. O'Reilly made 18 yards. Ramacciotti then made it first down. It was the initial first down for St. Louis. The visitors were penalized five yards for offside play. Wood broke through and tossed Ramacciotti for a loss. Ramacciotti punted to midfield. Wood kicked to McKenzie, who came back 15 yards to St. Louis 37-yard line. Ramacciotti gained three yards, but was knocked out when tackled by Wood. He was taken out of the game and replaced by Kapl. He promptly ran to midfield for the second first down for St. Louis. The game ended with ball in Army's possession in midfield. Final score: Army, 17; St. Louis, 0.

Georgia Tech Wins, 3-0.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 4.—A place kick from the 11-yard line by Ivan Williams proved the margin of victory for Georgia Tech over the Flying Cadets of Virginia Military Institute on Grant Field here this afternoon. Final score: Georgia Tech 3, V. M. I. 0.

Local Bowling Body Will Hold Meeting Today

Seven Local Pintopplers to Compete in Individual Tourney at Chicago.

The annual meeting of the St. Louis Bowling Association will be held in Parlor A of the Statler Hotel at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Officers for the season will be elected and other important business transacted.

All leagues, who held membership in the City Association five days before the annual meeting will be eligible to participate at the meeting. This is according to the American Bowling Congress rules.

All local leagues are asked to join the City Association so that the bowlers will be eligible for A. B. C. prizes for high games and also to compete in the American Bowling Congress' silver jubilee tournament at Buffalo, next March. The membership fee is $2.25 a team up to Nov. 1. Applications can be mailed to Jack Heibert, 4230 Clarence avenue.

Seven Local Stars Roll.

Seven St. Louis bowlers are scheduled to compete in the semi-annual individual classic tournament promoted by Louis Peterson at Chicago today. The local stars who will strive for honors are Otto Stein Jr., Mike Cassin, Harry Deen, C. F. Kaley, John Jaby, Ed Shaefer and Ben Cohen.

The tournament in the Windy City, which is expected to have a prize fund of more than $7500, will be eight games, total pins to count, over eight different sets of drives.

In the six tournaments held to date by Peterson, no St. Louis bowler has been able to capture the major prize, which will again be $3000.

Flack Gets 222 Game.

Flack starred in the Missouri Pacific League round on the Rogers Recreation alleys with a high single game of 222, and a three-game total of 564. Four teams are now tied for first place, they being the General Accounts, General Superintendents, Engineers No. 1 and Mechanical. The results: Transportation 2, Valuation 1; Traffic 2 Disbursement 1; Tie & Timber 3, Local Treasurer 0; Car Account 2, Mechanical Engineers 1; Engineers No. 1 2, Passenger Receipts 1; Freight Receipts 3, General Accounts 0; General Superintendent 2, Local Agents 1; Freight Claims 2, Engineers No. 2 1. Good totals were scored by Bertel 521, Hall 540, Schmitt 546, Wachter 534, Milberg 550, Lohrman 540, Moore 528 and Dickneite 569.

Otto Stein Proves Star.

Surprises ere many in the weekly round of the Major City League on the Roger's Recreation alleys. The deadlock for first and second place honors was broken, the Trumbulls now being in undisputed possession of the top honors, due to the whitewashing handed the Hill Thomas five.

The big surprise was the performance of the Cabannes, who took the strong Wooster Lamberts into camp for three. The Kastors went on a whitewashing spree and doused the David Jones crowd for three while the Puritan Oils, Silver Seals and Budweisers each took the odd from the Majestic Gardens, Witter Razz and Medarts.

Otto Stein gained individual honors with a high game of 259 and a three-game total of 622.

Two-Man Tourney Tonight.

A two-man contest, with the entry list open to all bowlers in the city, will be rolled tonight at the Roger's Recreation alleys. The entry fee is $4 a team, with 40 per cent of all entry money being returned in prizes. There will be several other prizes. Three games will be rolled and alleys changed after each game. Bowling starts at 7 o'clock.

GAMBLE REACHES THIRD ROUND IN SINGLES OF COUNTRY CLUB TOURNEY

Clarence Gamble, former city champion, defeated Henry Cushman in the feature match of the St. Louis Country Club tennis tournament yesterday afternoon, 10—8, 6—4. Gamble's accuracy gave him victory. Gamble is now in the third round. Eighteen matches have been played in the five events. There were 52 entrants, the largest number in the club's history.

RESULTS.

Langford Won Two Titles In England, Then Went Back And Won $50,000 by Mistake

Intending to Bet $10,000 on Himself, He Got a Ticket Calling for 10,000 Pounds and HAD to Win His Fight.

Finding it difficult to get fights in this country, Sam Langford went to England in 1907 and knocked out the English middleweight and heavyweight champions. In this excerpt from his life story, as told through a representative of the Post-Dispatch, Langford relates how he won the two titles and got another fight which netted him a big scare and $50,000 through a mistaken wager.

(Copyright, 1924.)

After I gave Jack Johnson that tough evening up in Chelsea, nobody wanted to fight me. The promotors tried to get Johnson again and Jeanette and all the big boys and the little boys, but all of them said they surely would love to oblige but they had previous engagements. Business was terrible.

Just about then a boy I knew, named Al Delmont, a bantam, said he was going to Engalnd to fight there and I asked him if he thought I could get some work there. He said he guessed I could, so in 1907 I sailed for England. Soon after I got there I looked up a Mr. Bettison, matchmaker for the National Sporting Club. I said to him: "I'm a fighter and I'll fight anybody in England and you can name the price."

Mr. Bettison said: "That sounds sociable. We've got a man here named Tiger Smith. He is the middleweight champion. Would you care to fight him?"

"Anybody—anybody" I said. "When do we fight? Make it soon."

I fought Smith before the National Sporting Club. I was last to get into the ring. I looked in the other corner—and there I saw a fighter with a mustache.

Then the gong rang. Out came Smith. I loked and then I stopped. Smith was standing with his right foot forward and his right hand out.

He was a southpaw—the first I had ever seen. It was kind of hard to reach that boy ofr a while—just for a while. I reached him in the fourth—and that's how Sam Langford, weighing 148, became middleweight champion of England.

Then they sic'ed me onto Jeff Thorne. I flattened him in about one minute.

I then asked all the welters and middles in England to please step forward and get acquainted with me. But they just wouldn't.

"Well, well," Mr. Bettison said, "it looks as if you've run out of opponents."

"No sir, no sir," I told him. "They just ran out on me. But you've got some heavyweights around, haven't you?"

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Bettison. "We have Ben Taylor, who is our champion. He is a big, powerful man and weighs 195 pounds. You wouldn't care to fight him, would you?"

"I just love to fight big men," I said. "You get him for me."

I knocked out Taylor in less than two rounds, and that's how I became a double champion in England.

It looked as if I was out of work again, when a theatrical man came to me and offered me a job touring music halls in England. I grabbed the job and was on the road two months, giving exhibitions. When that was over, I bundled up $4600 and my two championships and sailed right back home.

Back from England, I found that fighters of my own or near my own weight, were still unwilling to meet me. So I had to fight heavyweights through that year—and the next, and I couldn't coax many of them in the ring. Most of them figured they couldn't gain much beating a little fellow and they could lose lots by losing to me.

I fought Joe Jeanette to a draw late in 1907, and met Jim Barry three times in no-decision battles. In 1908 I knocked out Barry, pushed over John Willie in two rounds, flattened Jim Flynn in a round and took on Jeanette again, and Tony Ross and Sandy Ferguson.

Then business got bad.

Early in 1909 I could get only two fights. I won both, stopping Morris Harris in seven rounds and knocking out Willie again in two rounds.

Just about then I got an offer of $10,000 and expenses to go to England and battle Iron Hague on May 24, 1909. I just naturally ran myself dizzy getting to the telegraph office to wire those folks "yes."

A Punch to the Chin Saved Fight and Large Wager for Sam

Joe Woodman, my manager, went along with me, as did Bob Armstrong, George Byers and John Davis, who acted as my trainers. This Hague had been busting up people kind of scandalous in England, and over there they thought he would do the same to me.

They wanted to bet on Hague. I felt sure I could whip him. So on the afternoon of the fight, Woodman and I appointed Davis to be our betting commissioner and told him to go out and bet our $10,000 at even money on me to win. We didn't have the money to put up, because we hadn't collected my purse. But over in England an oral bet was as good as a Government bond.

So John went to some gambling place, told them who he was, and said:

"I want to bet ten thousand on Langford."

The bet was aceepted very quickly.

John got lost on his way back and didn't catch up with us until about 20 minutes before fight time. He found us in my dressing room.

"The bet is down," he said. "Ten thousand on you to win at even money. Here is the ticket."

I looked at it, took a second look—and nearly fell dead. Joe grabbed the ticket, took a look—and I thought he was going to die. Davis looked at the ticket, over Joe's shoulder and says:

"What's the matter with it—isn't it all right?"

Joe was the first to get back his voice.

"John," he said, "if Sam doesn't win this fight tonight, we lose $50,000, we can't pay it, and we go to jail."

Davis looked puzzled—then he said:

"I can't see how we can lost $50,000. I only bet $10,000."

Joe pushed the ticket close to John's eyes and said:

"Look—look! It says 10,000 POUNDS—not 10,000 DOLLARS. That's what you went and bet! And 10,000 pounds means about $50,000."

Davis looked, his eyes seemed to pop out of his head—and then he fell over in a dead faint. We were still working on him when the order came for me to get into the ring. And I'll say when I staggered through those ropes, I was the most scared man in the world.

I wasn't afraid of Hague—I was just all rattled and turned upside down because I know about those English laws and what they do to felows who make bets and then "welch" on them. You pay or go to jail. And I sure don't like jails.

The first bell rang—and I was so worried thinking about that bet that I didn't know what the fight was all about. And this Hague tore into me and punched me dizzy in that round and he repeated in the second.

In the third Hague hit me on the chin and I went down. That punch saved the fight for me. It made me mad and I forgot all about that $50,000 bet and everything else except that Hague had dropped me. I got up at "six" and then I tore in after that boy with everything I had.

I knocked out Hague in the fourth.

The next day Joe collected our $50,000 winnings, and with that money and the $10,000, we all sailed back home.

STRONG OKLAHOMA TEAM SURPRISED AND BEATEN BY NORMAL ELEVEN, 2-0

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NORMAN, Ok., Oct. 4.—The University of Oklahoma team of gridiron weterans, looked on as the greatest combination Bennie Owen had developed since 1920, went down in defeat today before the Central State Normal by a score of 2 to 0. Capt. Bristow was downed behind his own goal posts for the only score of the game after his punt had been blocked in the third quarter.

Costly fumbles and frequent penalties cost the Sooners the game. They drew nine penalties for a total of 80 yards and fumbled five times.

It was the first time in the 17 years of contests between the schools that Central has emerged victorious.

White Sox Gain Third Straight Win Over Cubs

Blankenship Allows Only Four Hits, Shutting Out Rivals, 13 to 0.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—The White Sox slugged themselves to their third straight victory over their Cub rivals today, 13 to 0. The American Leaguers outplayed their rivals at all stages of the game and made it easy for Ted Blankenship to register a shutout. He allowed only four hits, and only two men reached second base, one getting there in the third and the other in the last frame, when no effort was made to get Grantham, who had reached first on a single.

Tony Kaufmann, who lasted two innings in the second clash, essayed a comeback, but was forced to the showers before he could retire the side. Fred Blake took up the burden and for a while held the White Sox in check, but another attack in the fifth inning caused his retirement and Rip Wheeler was called to the rescue. Wheeler was touched for a pair of runs in the seventh, and then gave way to a pinch hitter. Guy Bush, Killefer's young rookie, made his appearance in the eighth, but could not stop the attack until the White Sox had counted five more runs.

Mostil was the only American Leaguer to go hitless, while Willie Kamm led the slugging for his club with four blows, two of which were doubles.

This was the final game in which the players share in the receipts, which amounted to $31,090.68. The winners will receive 60 per cent and the losers 40 per cent.

Today's figures follow: Attendance, 22,956; gross receipts, $20,475.85; players' share, $10,442.68; commission share, $3071.38; each club share, $3480.89.

Runner-Up in the Futurity Outspeeds $60,000 Nicholas in Winning.

Of the New York World Sport Staff

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Mad Play, the Rancocas stable's best 3-year-old, will be very much in the running of the third international special at Latonia, a week from today. Mad Hatter's little brother won the Continental Handicap, at one mile and a furlong, at Jamaica today, in track record time.

Coming from behind the pace Zev set for seven-and-one-half furlongs, he stepped the distance in 1:49 3-5, and won going away by four lengths from Priscilla Ruley, which beat Zev a neck for the place.

Both the Rancocas stable entries were "hot" horses, today. Zev, though he was mean at the post, broke on his toes and stepped right to the front. Priscilla Ruley went with him while L. Fater was content to place Mad Play third, just off the pace. Aga Khan, which was fourth, Rialto and Lucky Play never were prominent in the running.

Hildreth's Tactics Win.

Forcing the pace as gamely as she always does, Priscilla Ruley stuck a length back of Zev to the stretch turn, where C. Kummer, who had the leg upon Zev, bore out just enough to let Mad Play through—the old Hildreth tactics. From there on Mad Play just romped, while Zev stuck it out better than usual.

The fractional time of the race was: 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 3-5, 1:37 3-5, 1:49 3-5. The Rancocas stable, which has not been doing so well in the way of purses, picked up $5900 by the victory of Mad Play and $400 Zev's third money.

Stimulus, which ran second in the Futurity, proved that he is a horse of considerable quality by picking up 125 pounds and showing the way to a smart field of 2-year-olds in the Oceanus Handicap, at six furlongs, the other feature of the card.

Stimulus Outgames Nicholas.

Some luck attended him, for he beat the gate. Nicholas, running one of his good races, moved up fast and raced head-and-head with him for more than half a mile. Stimulus, however, was game enough to come away at the end and beat Beatrice, winner of the Champagne Stake, a length, while the Rancocas Stables Nedana was third, a nose behind. Nicholas was fourth. Nedana had all the bad luck of the race, for, breaking slower than usual, she was shuffled to ninth in a field of 10, and then, coming up on the outside, was running strongest of all at the end.

Stimulus ran the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5 and the Oceanus Handicap was worth $4175 to Marshall Field, his owner. The card was nothing out of the ordinary and only an ordinary crowd turned out.

Apparently the long run of beaten favorites this week had taken toll of the regulars. Favorite players started off the day no better today, for Quarantine, the choice, was unplaced in the opening event at six furlongs for platers. Polycarp, a cast-off of the Oneck Stable, took the track and won handily with Buck Pond second and Better Times third.

Bear Grass did much the same in the second event at one mile and 70 yards. Briggs Buchanan chased him all the way while Blue Hill, the favorite, was third.

Incidentally, F. J. Kearns saddled the first two winners and Allen kicked them home.

That aptly-named horse Superbum beat a cheap field off in the mile and a quarter event. Rated off the early pace of Wynnewood, he came round the leaders at the head of the stretch to win by four lengths with Good Night second and Bar Gold, the favorite, third.

LOMBARD STAR IS INJURED IN CLASH WITH NOTRE DAME

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 4.—Notre Dame's powerful eleven crushed Lombard here this afternoon, 54 to 0, in which the brilliant open field running of the fleet Notre Dame backs featured. In the second period Quarterback Lamb, captain and star of the Galesburg team, was carried off the field with a dislocated collar bone and will probably be out for the season.

Coach Rockne used three different teams. The playing of Lamb and Caze was best for Notre Dame.

PRINCIPIA GAINS 19-0 VICTORY OVER YEATMAN

The Principia Academy football team defeated the eleven from Yeatman High, 19 to 0, in a game on Francis Field yesterday. Coach Marquard's players scored in the first, third and fourth quarters.

Individual work by Quarterback Still, Capt. Browne and William Green, substitute at left end, aided the Academy team in its victory. The North Siders were on the defensive throughout the game with the exception of a few minutes in the fourth quarter, when several end runs enabled them to carry the ball into Principia territory.

Capt. Eames at left half and Cooper, substituting at left end, were the individual stars for Yeatman.

With the players on the six-yard line, Capt. Browne went through left tackle in the first quarter for Principia's first touchdown. A forward pass and an offside penalty against Yeatman gave the academy another point.

In the third quarter Principia, on a series of plays, advanced to Yeatman's four-yard line, but lost the ball on downs. Yeatman attempted to kick from behind the goal line, but the kick was blocked. Browne, the Principia fullback, took the ball and fell over the goal line for the second touchdown. A forward pass for the extra point failed.

In the last quarter Principia advanced to the Yeatman three-yard line by brilliant line bucks and end runs. Ireland, left halfback, then went though center for the third touchdown, a place kick by Stitt fell short of the goal post.

The score:

Principia	7	0	6	6—19
Yeatman	0	0	0	0— 0

The lineup:

Principia.		Yeatman.
Deal	Right end	Cooper
Preston	Right tackle	Heidman
Mattery	Right guard	Baggot
Walker	Center	Blumenkamp
Hansen	Left guard	Werner
Buettner	Left end	McCaully
Stitt	Quarter back	Randall
Ireland	Left half	(Capt.) Eames
Tumelson	Right half	Smith
Browne (Capt.)	Full back	Korkern

Substitutions: Principia, Green for Buettner, Fowler for Stitt. Yeatman: McKeane for McCaully, Bender for Pabst, Ohlander for McKeane.

Officials—Beck, Nebraska, referee; Lewis, Washington, umpire; Kamp, Washington, headlinesman. Time of quarters—12 minutes.

Ky. Cardinal Wins Queen City in Record Time

Two-Year-Old Colt Establishes Self in Latonia Autumn Feature.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 4.—Kentucky Cardinal, the 2-year-old chestnut colt from the racing establishment of the Desha Breckenridge stable, established himself as one of the greatest juveniles of the 1924 season, when, with the aid of a well-timed ride, he took possession of $7275, which was the winner's share in the Queen City handicap here today.

The event was contested before some 25,000 racing patrons at the Latonia course.

Kentucky Cardinal made his run from the eight pole home. The son of North Star III steadily gained upon Captain Hal, the pace setter, and flashed across the wire a length in front, while the Kaiser colt, which was two lengths in front of Almadel and Mark Master.

Annihilator was up among the leaders during the early running, as was Mark Master, but the former faltered badly under punishment and failed to finish close.

Brown Sugar Fails to Show.

Brown Sugar, the pride of the Bradley stable, coupled with two others, Boone's Knoll and Buttin' In, failed to show impressively at any part of the journey and, although both made a bid for the honors on the back stretch, the speed of the leaders was too much for them. Sanford, the only representative from the East, failed to get away into a contending position and he was shuffled about, as was Sweep Park, and neither could run when the opportunity came, but it was useless with the other horses so far in front.

The mile was run in 1:38, which is a record for this event. The best time previously made was established by Jane Francis, which won the event first Queen City handicap race run at Latonia, when she ran the race at the same distance in 1917 in 1:39. Wise Counsellor won the event last year in 1:39 3-5.

The field of 13 starters lined up at the barrier and got away almost to a perfect start.

A Hard Race.

It was a mad dash to the first turn and Captain Hal with his early speed, reached there first and at once let his colt run closely followed by Annihilator, Kentucky Cardinal, Mark Master and the others. At the half mile pole, Heupel took a hold of his colt and rated him along at a good speed, but Almadel and Kentucky Cardinal were running easily while Mark Master appeared as if he would be dangerous. On the far turn Heupel turned loose his hold on Captain Hal and he responded gamely, and went out to a three-length lead, but Harry Stutts, on the winner, released his hold and at the stretch turn Kentucky Cardinal was but a half length behind. Here the latter gained with every jump and Heupel went to bat, but Kentucky Cardinal had plenty of run left and won handily. Almadel made a sensational rush and took the show end of the purse from Mark Master, who made a creditable showing under a good ride.

Epinard On Parade.

Epinard, the great French colt, which will be the favorite for the International next Saturday; Wise Counsellor, which won the first International at Belmont, and Ladkin, winner of the second International at Aqueduct, were paraded between the third and fourth races. Each receiving much applause while the band played the Marcellaise and My Old Kentucky Home.

DAN O'LEARY, 84, WALKS 12 TIMES AROUND THE BASES IN 9 5-6 MINUTES

Dan O'Leary, 84-year-old pedestrian, yesterday circled a regulation diamond at the All-Stars baseball park 12 times in 9m 50s, walking under heel-and-toe conditions.

The event was a preliminary feature to the game between the negro All-Stars and Mickey O'Neil's all-professionals.

The actual line distance around the sacks is 360 feet and 12 circuits would make the total 4320 feet. As the pedestrian had to swing wide on each turn, the total distance he covered probably amounted to about one mile.

O'Leary will today attempt to walk one mile while a relay team of two ball players runs two miles. O'Leary says he expects to make the circuit of the sacks today in 9½ minutes.

The negro players defeated the hand-picked collection of big leaguers in the game yesterday, score, 5 to 2. Batteries, Rose and Murray; Muich and O'Neil.

Jones' Victory in National Amateur Proved Popular One

If Bobby Plays in Coming Events as He Did at Merion, He Is Likely to Win Several Titles in Succession, Gene Sarazen Writes.

By Gene Sarazen.
(Copyright, 1924.)

The victory of Bobby Jones in the National Amateur Golf Championship at the Merion Club in Philadelphia last week was one of the most popular ever recorded in a major tournament in this country. Jones has been due for a long time to win this event and last week he left no doubt about the result.

Bobby and I are about the same age, but the Atlanta lad gained prominence in golf long before I ever won anything. Eight years ago he made his debut at Merion and it is quite fitting and appropriate that he should have won the title he desired most on the course where he started his notable career.

When I began to go to tournaments I heard a great deal about Jones and his wonderfully, natural, golf swing. But it wasn't until 1921 in the open championship at Washington that I had a good chance to see something of his game. In that tournament I was paired with Bobby for the first two rounds. I remember we had a large gallery trailing us all day long None knew who I was and I guess that none was particularly interested in my play. Everybody was out rooting hard for Jones, who has always been a very colorful player.

Admits He Was Nervous.

I recall that I was very nervous playing with Jones. His game was perfection itself, and I was constantly trying to get out of his way. Although I might have played better in that tournament had I not been playing with Bobby. I learned a valuable lesson and the experience of playing in front of a large gallery was of great benefit to me later.

Many golf enthusiasts have wondered why Jones has done so well in medal competitions against better fields than he has in match play tournaments. They could not understand his being beaten by inferior golfers whose records do not in any way compare with his.

Knowing how well and how easily Bobby plays golf I am not surprised he has won the open before the amateur championship. Hitherto in match play tournaments Jones would play along easily getting his pars without much trouble. Then suddenly an opponent would go wild and knock out a few birdies. Often these opponents would miss some shots and still manage to get pars or birdies. Instead of playing his own game and patiently awaiting the breaks, as Hagen does, Bobby would then go after birdies himself. Good scores never are made when you are trying hard. You score best when you are playing easily and without extra effort. Birdies come when you are getting par scores without difficulty. Bobby's impatience in past years has lost him many matches.

"Parred Course to Death."

At Merion, though, Jones simply parred the course to death as we say. And what was the result? Bobby romped in without having what could be called a really hard or close match. Par golf is hard to beat in any kind of tournament. Jones has the ability to get par figures consistently. His record in the last five open championships, which is far better than any other golfer's, averages something like 74 strokes per round, or 2 over 4s for the 18 holes.

That kind of golf will win nine matches out of every 10 against any golfer living. It is the kind of golf Jones played at Merion, where he shot so many pars at the boys they were dizzy. Most golfers will make several mistakes on every round. If Jones makes more than three per round he is having a bad day.

As Francis Ouimet said in discussing Jones victory, "Bobby played unbeatable golf. Nobody could have stood up against him there."

If Jones plays in the coming amateur championship events as he did this year, he is likely to win this event several times in succession. In order to beat him an opponent will have to break a record. And records over good courses do not come often, especially in competition.

y Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"Irregular markets and dearer money have come with the first eek of October. A tightening in the money market in connection with Oct. 1 settlements is only natural. The current advance was a comparatively small affair, the sensitive rate being lifted only 1 per cent and falling back half of the rise to 2½ per cent. Whether a further relaxation to the previous 2 per cent will occur remains to be seen. The Federal Reserve System reveals a sizeable increase in circulation and another decrease in gold reserves. The latter are, in fact, $70,-600,000 smaller than a year ago, and this despite the heavy gold imports of the first six months of 1924. A large part of this loss is due to the policy of putting gold back into circulation. It is worth noting, however, that gold has come into the country less rapidly of late and that exports of the metal have increased. In addition, new capital issues are increasing in volume. On the other hand new and heavy purchases of bills in the open market by the Federal Reserve banks seem to indicate an official disposition to prolong the period of monetary ease.

"With call money slightly higher and with the election drawing closer, the securities markets have been somewhat reactionary. Profit-taking was provoked by previous advances, and the spectacle of declining prices had the usual unsettling effect on sentiment. Looking at the other side of the picture, industrial news remains fairly good while the unusual cheapness of money remains a strong prop under the market.

Car Loadings Increased.

"In the meantime, the agricultural outlook has grown even brighter. Wheat and certain of the other grains have advanced sharply to new high levels. Crop deterioration has rallied corn, but no such influence has been at work in the cases of wheat and rye. Here it is strong foreign buying that caused the advances. They represent, accordingly, net gains to the farmers! Cotton, too, has shown much strength, gaining nearly 5 cents in two weeks. A moderate reduction in the Government crop estimate started this rise; but the upswing has been stimulated by short covering that showed that the market had been oversold, and by foreign buying. Existing prices for farm products are such as to encourage a belief that a beneficial revolution in the agricultural position actually is under way.

"Car loading reports continue to be distinctly encouraging. Showing a steady improvement, they are now above the level of a year ago. The last week to be reported set a new high record for that particular week of the year and came close to the high record for any week in any year. Heavy grain shipments are helping to swell the volume, but a pickup in coal mining and continued large movements of general merchandise are important contributory factors. Railroad earnings are correspondingly good. The steel industry seems to have reached an equilibrium, with production at a little less than 60 per cent of capacity and with new buying not quite as good as during August. Industrial profits generally are smaller than those of a year ago.

German Loan Progress.

"Reliable signs indicate that the German construction loan is becoming a near thing. Negotiations have been going on at London between the Bankers, the Germans and the reparations authorities. Many of the details seem to have been arranged. Successful flotation of the loan and conditions appear favorable for such a result, will put the Dawes plan in actual operation. It would thus free the markets and industries of Europe and start an increased measure of activity the world over."

"Financial markets generally were steadier today and appeared to have been benefited by the rather extensive selling of the previous day. Stocks were far from strong and made further recessions in the early trading, chiefly on selling orders which came in over night as a result of the previous losses. After this, however, the tone improved and at the close the list was no more than irregular. Although upward moves in stocks fail to attract a consistent buying demand, weakness so far has not induced any determined and long continued liquidation and the market still holds to its trading area. Bonds were moderately active and steady.

Exchange Is Steady.

"The leading foreign exchanges, such as sterling and French francs, continued to hold quietly steady on confirmation of reports that negotiations for the German loan virtually have been completed in London. Sterling sold ⅛ higher at $4.46, while francs were ⅛ or a point lower at 5.25¾ cents. Other Europeans were 1 to 2 points higher. Chief interest, however, was centered in the South American exchanges, Argentine pesos and Brazilian milreis again adding substantially to their recent gains.

"The statement of the New York Clearing House as of the close of business Oct. 4, showed the following changes: Loans, discounts, investments, etc., increased $14,829,-; net demand deposits, increased 427,000; time deposits, decreased 000; circulation, decreased 000, and excess reserve, increased 154,740."

"Irregular markets and dearer money have come with the first week of October. A tightening in the money market in connection with Oct. 1 settlements is only natural. The current advance was a comparatively small affair, the sensitive rate being lifted only 1 per cent and falling back half of the rise to 2½ per cent. Whether a further relaxation to the previous 2 per cent will occur remains to be seen. The Federal Reserve System reveals a sizeable increase in circulation and another decrease in gold reserves. The latter are, in fact, $70,000,000 smaller than a year ago, and this despite the heavy gold imports of the first six months of 1924. A large part of this loss is due to the policy of putting gold back into circulation. It is worth noting, however, that gold has come into the country less rapidly of late and that exports of the metal have increased. In addition, new capital issues are increasing in volume. On the other hand new and heavy purchases of bills in the open market by the Federal Reserve banks seem to indicate an official disposition to prolong the period of monetary ease.

"With call money slightly higher and with the election drawing closer, the securities markets have been somewhat reactionary. Profit-taking was provoked by previous advances, and the spectacle of declining prices had the usual unsettling effect on sentiment. Looking at the other side of the picture, industrial news remains fairly good while the unusual cheapness of money remains a strong prop under the market.

Car Loadings Increased.

"In the meantime, the agricultural outlook has grown even brighter. Wheat and certain of the other grains have advanced sharply to new high levels. Crop deterioration has rallied corn, but no such influence has been at work in the cases of wheat and rye. Here it is strong foreign buying that caused the advances. They represent, accordingly, net gains to the farmers. Cotton, too, has shown much strength, gaining nearly 5 cents in two weeks. A moderate reduction in the Government crop estimate started this rise; but the upswing has been stimulated by short covering that showed that the market had been oversold, and by foreign buying. Existing prices for farm products are such as to encourage a belief that a beneficial revolution in the agricultural position actually is under way.

"Car loading reports continue to be distinctly encouraging. Showing a steady improvement, they are now above the level of a year ago. The last week to be reported set a new high record for that particular week of the year and came close to the high record for any week in any year. Heavy grain shipments are helping to swell the volume, but a pickup in coal mining and continued large movements of general merchandise are important contributory factors. Railroad earnings are correspondingly good. The steel industry seems to have reached an equilibrium, with production at a little less than 60 per cent of capacity and with new buying not quite as good as during August. Industrial profits generally are smaller than those of a year ago.

German Loan Progress.

"Reliable signs indicate that the German construction loan is becoming a near thing. Negotiations have been going on at London between the Bankers, the Germans and the Reparations authorities. Many of the details seem to have been arranged. Successful flotation of the loan and conditions appear favorable for such a result, will put the Dawes plan in actual operation. It would thus free the markets and industries of Europe and start an increased measure of activity the world over."

"Financial markets generally were steadier today and appeared to have been benefited by the rather extensive selling of the previous day. Stocks were far from strong and made further recessions in the early trading, chiefly on selling orders which came in over night as a result of the previous losses. After this, however, the tone improved and at the close the list was no more than irregular. Although upward moves in stocks fail to attract a consistent buying demand, weakness so far has not induced any determined and long continued liquidation and the market still holds to its trading area. Bonds were moderately active and steady.

Exchange Is Steady.

"The leading foreign exchanges, such as sterling and French francs, continued to hold quietly steady on confirmation of reports that negotiations for the German loan virtually have been completed in London. Sterling sold ⅛ higher at 4.46, while francs were ½ or a point lower at 5.25¾ cents. Other European rates were 1 to 2 points higher. Chief interest, however, was centered in the South American exchanges, Argentine pesos and Brazilian milreis again adding substantially to their recent gains.

"The statement of the New York Clearing House as of the close of business Oct. 4, showed the following changes: Loans, discounts, investments, etc., increased $14,829,000; net demand deposits, increased $27,000; time deposits, decreased $000; circulation, decreased $000, and excess reserve, increased $4,240."

MIXED PRICE MOVEMENTS MARK WEEK ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Today's market on the curb exchange gave evidence of confidence in its ability to absorb offerings following Friday's reaction. Speculative interest hesitated at the opening but in the absence of any selling pressure the tendency was to firm up and numerous recoveries were noted from the low levels reached on the recent slump.

Commonwealth Power and American Power and Light were higher about half a point. Commonwealth Power warrants were dealt in for the first time, sales being reported at 20.

Petroleum shares also held steady on comparatively light dealings. Standard Oil of Kentucky was an exception to the general trend, yielding about 2 points from the previous closing.

During the week the Curb Market included many mixed movements, but with most importance attached to renewed accumulation of various stocks which carried some issues to new high records. Gillette Safety Razor was a feature in this respect, advancing early in the week 17 points to 333 and then losing most of this gain on a reaction. The new stock ranged from 56 to 59. Lehigh Power securities made a new high record on an advance of 4 points to above 90 and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore rose more than 2 points crossing 39 and also making a new high record. Dubilier rose 3 points to the new high record of 57⅝.

These gains were partly offset by losses in other issues. Singer dropped from 177 to 166¼ and Middlewest Utilities slumped from 84¼ to 74¼. United Light and Power after selling at 56¼ yielded to 48. Oil stocks were irregular. Vacuum Oil attracted special attention because of persistent accumulation on which it rose from 69⅝ to 73⅝. Standard Oil of Ohio moved up from 295 to 317. Eureka Pipe Line was unsettled by the dividend reduction and dropped from 91 to 74.

Mining stocks were heavy during the week. Engineers mining fell from 13⅝ to 12 and Consolidated Copper dropped from 3¼ to 2⅝.

New York Sugar

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Saturday sessions were resumed in the raw sugar market today but the spot, raw and refined markets remained closed and will not open for business on Saturdays until after the end of the month. Trading in raw sugar futures was light and prices generally were easier under liquidation, with final prices unchanged to 6 points net lower. December, 3.95c; March, 3.21c; May, 3.30c; July, 3.39c.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximate sales, 11,000 tons; December, 3.95c; January, 3.50c; March, 3.21c; May, 3.30c.

New Oil Prices Posted.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 4.—The Magnolia Petroleum Co. today posted the following new prices per barrel on Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas crude oil: Under 30 gravity 75 cents; 30 to 32.9 gravity, 90 cents; and 33 gravity and above $1.25.

Dry Goods Market Review.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The week in the cotton goods markets closed quietly but with some constructions showing marked strength. Print cloths were quoted at 9¼c for 64x60s and 10¼c for 68x72s, the latter an increase of ¼ of a cent. Ray silks were quiet at Friday's price levels.

Burlaps were firm and the local demand continued steady. New silk lines will be opened next week. Household lines were in better call. Dress lines were under order in a large way. Wool and worsted goods showed improvements as production increased.

FOREIGN DEMAND FOR BREAD GRAINS CAUSES SHARP RISE ON DOMESTIC EXCHANGES

Prices Reach New High Levels During Week—Corn Influenced by Other Grains—Wide Range to Oats During Period.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4.—Continued heavy export demand for bread grains advanced wheat and rye prices to new high levels for the crop year during the week ending Friday night, states the United States Department of Agriculture in its weekly grain market review. Corn prices also advanced during the week, more in sympathy with wheat and rye, however, than because of an increased demand. Barley was sharply higher and oats also made fair price gains. Reports of corp damage in Germany and other European countries, together with unfavorable reports from Argentina and heavy export buying created a very firm situation in the grain market, and wheat prices advanced to above $1.50 per bushel for the first time since 1921. Speculative demand was also very heavy during most of the week, but on Friday there was some reaction and future prices closed about 3½c below the high point reached during the day. Recent estimates place the world's surplus of what in producing countries at around 685,000,000 bushels, while estimates of the requirements of importing countries ranged from that amount to around 750,000,000 bushels, thus indicating a possible world shortage. Higher prices, however, are likely to increase the amount available for export and also to decrease the consumption in importing countries. The movement of spring wheat continued to increase and receipts became so heavy at Duluth that an embargo against shipments of that market became necessary. Prices of cash wheat continued firm, particularly for good milling grades of spring wheat, which were scarce. Number one dark Northern at Minneapolis sold 1c to 20c over the December future price. Durum wheat advanced with other grades and number one amber durum on Friday was quoted at Minneapolis at $1.52 to $1.64, depending upon quality. The movement of hard winter wheat was of small volume and country offerings were rather limited, as farmers are still busy in the fields. Export sales via the gulf were on a basis around 10c ovr the Chicago December price f. o. b. vessel for latter half of October shipment. For latter half of November and early December shipment bids were around 11½c over the Chicago December. Elevator operators sold sparingly, bowver, as they were unable to purchase wheat on this basis. Milling demand for both hard and soft winter wheat was fairly good although somwhat restricted by the sluggish flour demand. Flour buyers have hesitated to follow the advance in wheat prices.

Heavy export sales created exceptional activity in the rye market and December rye reached new high level of $1.27¼. The close at Minneapolis on Friday, however, was slightly below this figure at $1.22¾. The shortage in the world's supply of rye was the strengthening factor. The European rye growing countries have a greatly reduced crop and the United States and Canada have practically the only exportable surpluses and these are not large. Trade estimates are that the exportable surplus of the United States has already been practically all sold.

The barley market was greatly strengthened by the advances in wheat and rye and prices at the principal markets for good malting barley were advanced about 10c per bushel. There was an urgent demand for all arrivals and fairly large export sales were reported. Good malting barley at Minneapolis was quoted at 79c to 95c per bushel, and at Milwaukee at 96c to $1.

The corn market also made good gains during the week, more because of the strength in bread grains than because of any increase in demand. Receipts continued of good volume and the stocks in the principal markets are now more than three times as large as at the corresponding time last year. Some frost damage occurred during the week, but in most of the area a large percentage of the crop was beyond the danger point and no serious damage of great extent occurred. While it is still too early to determine definitely the quality of the crop, private trade estimates are that about 65 per cent of the crop will be merchantable corn. Current receipts at most of the markets were equal to the needs of the trade.

Oat prices advanced about 5c during the week, and while receipts were fairly heavy, they were well absorbed, as buyers generally felt that oat prices were too low compared with the price of other grains.

The flax market fluctuated violently during the week. The relative low prices attracted speculative buying, which caused sharp price advances, but when buyers attempted to take profits, sharp declines occurred. May flax at Winnipeg fluctuated over a range of 37c on Friday. The cash situation was firm. Both local and Eastern mills were active bidders for current receipts at Minneapolis. No. 1 seed sold at the close on Friday at around $2.36 per bushel. The active demand for flax was caused in part by the good demand for oil. Dealers stocks are reported light and it has become necessary for them to replenish their supply for the fall trade.

ST. LOUIS, MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 4.—Grain futures moved up at the closing session of the week. Report of unfavorable weather conditions in Canada exerted bullish influence on wheat. Corn shaded some at outset on warm weather, but steadied and advanced with wheat.

A sharp advance at Winnipeg despite character of receipts and report on export business were factors in wheat while anxiety over possibility of cold wave working down into main corn belt helped corn.

Wheat showed moderate price gains in the early period of trade while corn, after opening lower moved in narrow range, current delivery down and May up. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛c to ½c lower.

December wheat opened at $1.44⅝ to $1.45¼, May wheat $1.49, December corn $1.09½, and May corn $1.11⅛.

There were adjustments of trades today following a most active week which had its origin in enlargement of foreign demand for foodstuffs.

Estimates from the United States Department of Agriculture indicating disparity between the world's exportable surplus of wheat and the import requirements of the various countries, it was said indicated the reason for the urgency of foreign buying, and did a good deal also to stimulate a great volume of speculative purchasing. Unofficial figures putting the total domestic yield of wheat at 866,000,000 bushels, against the Government forecast of 834,000,000 bushels a month ago, failed to exert much influence.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 2959 cars of wheat compared with 2719 a week ago and 2127 last year. Minneapolis receiving 509 cars, Duluth 706 and Winnipeg 1744.

Local wheat receipts, which were 174,200 bushels, compared with 117,000 a week ago and 157,200 last year, included 79 cars local and 55 through. Corn receipts, which were 93,800 bushels, compared with 82,600 a week ago and 75,400 last year, included 48 cars local and 19 through. Oats receipts, which were 10,000 bushels, compared with 92,000 a week ago and 198,000 last year, included 42 cars local and 8 through. Hay receipts, were 23 cars local and 15 through. Last year 2 days.

Primary receipts of wheat were 2,586,000 bu, compared with 4,020,000 a week ago and 2,955,000 last year. Corn receipts were 812,000 bu, compared with 1,272,000 a week ago and 628,000 last year. Oats receipts were 1,579,000 bu, compared with 2,114,000 a week ago and 1,555,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 2,596,000 bu, compared with 2,382,000 a week ago and 1,074,000 last year. Corn shipments were 268,000 bu, compared with 797,000 a week ago and 427,000 last year. Oats shipments were 944,000 bu, compared with 360,000 a week ago and 1,012,00 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago. Corn receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago. Oats receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago. Wheat shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago. Corn shipments were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago. Oats shipments were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago.

Stocks in St. Louis Public elevators were: 3,398,002 bushels of wheat, 121,328 bushels of corn, 280,330 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 22,468 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 547,248 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 47,801 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 1,008,330 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 12,716 bushels of No. 2 corn, 24,977 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, [illegible]576 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 59,[illegible]36 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 141,293 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 12,777 bushels of No. 2 rye, 30,000 bushels of kaffir corn.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft grades of wheat were 2c to 2½c higher. There was demand for good sound wheat, but this grade was scarce. Movement of the common qualities was slow at the advance. More than a dozen cars were taken on orders. There was a close cleanup of hard wheat at 2c advance. There was buying by exporters. There was not much life to the corn market and all offerings did not sell. Yellow corn met a fair shipping order demand, as did white but only a few cars were taken on local order. There was decline of 1½c to 2c in No. 2 white, but other gardes and classes ruled about steady. There was a fair local and shipping demand for white oats resulting in offerings being pretty well cleaned up, but red oats failed to excite much interest. Oats prices were steady to 1c higher. Wheatfeed was firm but quiet. The only sales reported were to go out and comprised 2 cars of mixed feed at $29.50 and 2 split cars, bran at $27.50 and middlings $33.50, the latter being direct sales by nearby Illinois mills. Bran was quoted nominally $26.50 to $27 and gray shorts $32.50 to $33. Oatfeed was quoted $14 and sacked white hominy feed $39.50. The sales of 400 tons of No. 2 alfalfa meal in second-hand sacks to go out (November and December shipment) on basis of $24.60 St. Louis reported. No. 1 in new sacks was quoted $26.50 and choice $28.50.

WHEAT PRICES 8½ TO 9⅞ UP IN TRADE FOR THE WEEK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Wild speculation featured the grain markets throurhout the entire week and prices for most commodities were at the highest levels of the season. The heavy export sales and taking off of th hedges lent courage to speculative buyers.

Wheat at the close today was within a fraction of a cent of the highest price of the season and showed gains of 2⅝ to 3c. For the week prices were 8½@9⅞c higher. It is an abnormal market. Ordinarily after yesterday's heavy realizing the market would have taken a few days to digest the offerings, but speculators at the present time paid little attention to precedent or rules and bought heavily on the opening break just because it was a break. This same thing was true throughout the entier week. There seemed to be a lull in the export demand although it was difficult to get the truth in regards the foreign demand. New York reported 1,000,000 bushels of wheat sold for export, including a cargo of Manitoba to Japan. Local shippers reported bids ¼c out of line with offers ¼c cheaper than the last sale. Winnipeg strength was amazing, that market being up over six cents despite heavy receipts. This stimulated speculative buying in the local market. Weather conditions up there were unsettled and stormy, placing a restriction on the threshing and moving the new crop.

Corn lagged the forepart of the week but the speculative excitement all over the floor soon spread to this market. At the close today prices were 1 to 1¼c higher for the week as for the day. Liquidation has been thorough and longs are now encouraged to replace lines. Weather is perfect in most sections for bringing the crop to maturity and because of this buyers are a little reluctant to take hold. Cash corn failed to follow the advance in futures and showed losses of ¼c in premium. Shipping sales were only 15,000 bushels.

Oats at one time were the speculative leaders this week because some of the active local traders believed the price was too low in comparison with corn. The market made gains of 4⅝ to 4¼c for the week and ⅝ to 1¼c today. The strength in Winnipeg was a factor that caused buying. Shipping demand was light with sales of only 33,000 bushels reported. The East cancelled sales again today.

Lard market showed much strength and highest prices of the season weer again recorded. The buying was based on enlarged export sales. Little interest was exhibited in meats. Lard closed 70c to $1.20 higher than a week ago and 35c to 37½c higher than yesterday. Gains of 45c were made in ribs this week but there was no trade today. Bellies showed gains of $1.05 to $1.60 for the week and prices today were 10c higher to 7½c lower.

Foreign Exchange

(By leased wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Evening Post, in its weekly copyrighted foreign exchange review, says:

"The most important feature of the week's foreign exchange market was the related movements in exchanges on neutral countries and those of the leading allies, resulting in advances in the neutrals' rates and declines in rates to allied countries. These movements were most pronounced on Monday, when Swiss was in demand on a large scale and French and sterling declined. It was then a matter of general understanding that holders in Switzerland had accumulated excessive amounts of other currencies which they had decided to liquidate and had also arranged for a transfer of idle funds from several financial centers, including New York. Swiss rose to well above 10 cents to the franc and it was expected that the movement would continue until the rate reached par. There were operations of a similar character in Dutch exchange, which sold at 38.72 yesterday. Denmark made a gain of more than 50 points during the week, selling as high as 17.50, and Norway advanced 50 points, to 14.25. Sweden was steadily held and showed little variation in its established strong position, ranging around 26.60, against a parity of 26.80 cents.

"Sterling was traded in at a moderate decline, showing a loss of 2 cents to $4.44⅝ at one time, but had intervals of strength when requirements were large enough to be a factor. French exchange, after selling at 5.22½ rallied to 5.31, but yielded again. The upturn came coincident with the announcement of the French budget, which induced some speculative buying for a time.

"There were special movements in other exchange during the week. Brail, after selling at 10.55 rose to 11.25 late in the week. Indian exchange was also strong, rupees checks moving up from 33 cents to 33.25, and a new high for the year was made on Argentina to 36.66. Exchange on Japan, after a short period of strength became heavy, falling from 40.25 to 39.75. Canadian exchange held close to par all through the week."

"The leading foreign exchanges, such as sterling and French francs, continued to hold quietly steady on confirmation of reports that negotiations for the German loan virtually have been completed in London. Steling sold ⅛ higher at $4.46, while francs were ½ of a point lower at 5.25¾ cents. Other Europeans were 1 to 2 points higher. Chief interest, however, was centered in the South American exchanges, Argentine pesos and Brazilian milreis again adding substantially to their recent gains.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Price changes in the two-hour market today were a great deal mixed. The selling of Friday, however, was not renewed and short covering was responsible for a moderate gain in some of the leaders. Trading for the most part was dull, with a disposition to await developments in the political field. The latest news from Iowa did not have a depressing effect but it did have a retarding effect.

The Bond Market.

The week in the bond market closed with the price movement uncertain. Securities of the highest grade, including U. S. Government loans, were fractionally lower. Railroad bonds of the savings bank class also lost a little ground, examples being New York Central 5s and Central Pacific 4s. There were exceptions in individual issues. More or less that has been the rule all the week. All the active liberty loans were down, although the losses have been small. The market as a whole has made no progress since last Saturday. This hesitation makes all the more remarkable the ready sale of new offerings. The $50,000,000 Pennsylvania Railroad secured 5s marketed Friday were heavily over-subscribed, it was learned today.

Foreign bonds were relatively stronger than domestic issues today, as has been the case most of the week. The new Belgian 6½s made a new high record at 98, where they were 4 points above the offering price of September. The old Belgian 8s and 7½s have been neglected.

Czecho-Slovaks of 1961 and 1952 were also in demand today, both above par. No improvement was shown in French issues, nearly all of which are down on the week. Of the South American bonds, Bolivia 8s were fractionally higher.

In other railroad bonds the day witnessed a continuation of the profit-taking in evidence Friday. The junior liens of the St. Louis-San Francisco held fairly well but I. G. N. and Seaboard Air Line adjustments lost ground. The outlook for these three roads is bright. The directors of the St. Louis-San Francisco showed their confidence the other day by putting the preferred stock on a dividend basis. As to the Seaboard Air Line, present earnings are at the rate of more than 14 per cent for the adjustment bonds, on which 12½ per cent back interest is still due.

The week's new offerings in addition to the Pennsylvania issue, already referred to, included three important foreign blocks. These were for the cities of Christiana and Bergen, Norway, and for the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad. All were readily taken. The most important industrial financing was for the account of the United Drug Co., which offered $12,500,000 in 6 per cent bonds, part of the proceeds to be used in retiring the outstanding 8 per cent issue.

HOGS BRING $11.40, TOP PRICE IN TWO YEARS

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle and calves	38,518	40,683	32,684
Hogs	78,387	71,689	81,576
Sheep	9,069	10,901	8,857
Horses and mules	1,282	1,255	2,916
Totals	127,256	124,528	126,033

A sharp advance in hogs featured the livestock trade at the St. Louis National Stockyards last week. Closing top was $11.40 per cwt., or the highest since March, 1922. Desirable native steers and fat lambs also closed higher for the week, while sheep and most other cattle remained steady. Total receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep for the six-day period just ended aggregate 127,256 head, an average supply. Cattle and calves comprised 38,518 head. Virtually all of the medium to good and choice native beef steers and light yearling steers advanced 25c to 50c. Plain native grass cattle and Western offerings, as a rule, failed to share in this upturn. Stocker and feeder steers were uneven, but closed not much better than steady. The week's cattle top was $11.60 per cwt., paid for a choice drove of 1103-lb. Angus baby beeves fed in Randolph County, Mo. Another drove out of the same county followed at $11.35 and other consignments, usually of light weight, scored $11.25, $11, $10.90 and $10.75. The bulk of fat steers scaling 1200 lbs. and better cashed at $7.75 to $9.75. Kansas and Oklahoma shipped something like 100 cars of grass steers, sales of which ranged mainly from $5 to $6.50. A drove of Nebraska steers and heifers (mostly steers), reached $11.25, although most of the good offerings stopped in the $9 column. These sales reflected a 25c advance as a rule. Medium to good heifers, on the other hand, were often lower and plain grass stock, though about steady, found a very slow demand. A considerable part of the grass offering cashed at $3 to $6. Beef cows continued about steady. The bulk brought $3.75 to $4.50. Canner and cutter cows strengthened 10c to 15c, cutters bringing $2.75 to $3.50, and canners $2.25 to $2.75. Bulls closed about steady, medium to good bolognas registering $3.50 to $4 and common, light offerings selling down to $3 or under. Weighty beef bulls centered around the $4 mark. Stocker and feeder steers were most numerous at $4.50 to $6.25. The calf market scored an upward trend. Choice lights closed $1.50 to $1.75 up, closing top $12. Heavy calves registered uneven gains, most bringing $5 to $6, and Southern canner yearlings strengthened, selling at $2.50 to $2.75.

Hog Run Increases.

An increase in the number of swine on sale the past week featured the six-day period, total offerings aggregating 78,387 head, compared with a run of 71,689 for the previous six-day period, and 81,576 for the corresponding week a year ago. Quality was generally good, although the arrivals were lacking a good deal in weight. Buyers were on the market for the weighty grades of swine and these classes when of choice quality commanded the premium prices. New high levels for the year featured last week's hog market, prices reaching the highest time on record since March of 1922. During the week ending March 11, the top went up to $11.45. There is a marked upward trend for the week on all grades of hogs, with the big end of the advance shown by the better weight butcher grades averaging 190 pounds or better. Hogs averaging from 190 to 250 pounds are quotable in a spread of $11.25 to $11.40 largely, the latter figure representing the high sale of the week. These quotations are approximately 50 to 65c higher than the previous six-day period close. The lighter grades met with a very indifferent demand during the early part of the week, although this condition was improved later. The 160 to 180 pound grades show a gain of 50c largely, with buyers securing the big end of these weights at $11 to $11.25, depending of course on weight and quality. Pigs also show a sharply higher trend with the week's closing rounds active on all grades. The better weight kinds from 130 to 150 pounds are selling at $10 to $10.50 largely, looking 50 to 75c higher than last week. Medium weight pigs from 110 to 130 pounds average show a gain of 50 to 75c also, with these kinds clearing at $9 to $10 mainly. Light pigs and pee wees from 110 pounds and down are mostly 50c higher with sales at $8 to $9, according to the weight and quality of the offerings. Packer sows for the week are 50c to 75c higher at $9.25 to $9.50, stags showing a stronger trend with offerings quotable at $7 to $8 largely, some of the smooth light kinds up to the latter figure. Closing quotations on hogs for the week are as follows. Best butchers from 190 pounds and up at $11.25 to $11.40; light hogs and shippers from 160 to 180 pounds at $11 to $11.25. Strong weight pigs from 130 to 150 pounds average at $10 to $10.50; medium weights from 110 to 130 pounds at $9 to $10 and light pigs and pee wees at $8 to $9. Packer sows quotable at $9.25 to $9.50, stags at $7 to $8, a generous quota of the latter figure.

Sheep Offering Not Large.

Last week's offering in the sheep and lamb department made only a modest showing, total number of lambs arriving during the six-day period being 9069 head, compared with a run of 10,901 for the same six days preceding and 8857 for the light period a year ago. The general run of lambs showed good quality, although a fair proportion of the offerings were unfinished stock from Southwest territory. Prices maintained a firm tone throughout the week in all grades of lambs with some kinds showing a higher trend. Top reached $13.75 early in the week for some choice offerings to a city butcher with the packers, however, refusing to go above $13.25 for any of their supplies. Quotations compared with a week ago are approximately 25c up, with good to choice lambs quotable in a spread of $12.50 to $13.50, with the medium to good kinds of lambs clearing largely at $11.50 to $12.50. The off quality offerings grading from plain to medium in quality close at the advance quotable in a range of $9.50 to $11.50, according to weight and quality displayed by the individuals. Cull lambs are clearing to the packer buyers at $7 to $7.50 largely, although butchers occasionally go up to $8.50 on offerings suitable in quality and weight. Skips remain at unchanged prices, $3 to $5, catching the bulk of these offerings. Prices on the aged classes failed to show any change during the past week's trading and prices close fully steady with spots showing a stronger trend. Under modest receipts and a fair demand buyers took the big end of the light fat ewes suitable for killing purposes around $5 largely, with the medium and heavy kinds selling generally in a spread of $3.50 to $4.50. Choppers and bucks are quotable at $2 to $3 largely, canners changing hands in a spread of $1 to $1.50 mainly, a few of the best kinds occasionally up to $2. Breeding ewes continue at $6 to $8.50 mostly, according to weight and quality.

Horses and Mules.

The horse market ruled steady to strong the past week, with strength applying to the desirable Southern classes, a class hard hit in the previous week's trade. Receipts were only moderate and this gave sellers an opportunity to regain some of the loss. In addition to the various classes of Southern horses, there was outlet for a limited number of big horses and Eastern chunks. Approximately 200 horses were on commission, virtually all of which found clearance. Mules were likewise in smaller supply and prices continued steady. Best demand appeared for well-broke cotton mules. Total arrivals of horses and mules on commission and dealer account were 1282 head.

VESPER FARM ON MERAMEC BECOMES A SHOW PLACE

The country place of F. W. A. Vesper, known as Fred-Mar Farms, located on the banks of the Meramec near its confluence with the Mississippi, is developing into one of the show places around the city. Vesper's blooded stock has become well known in recent years, and his farm is considered one of the finest stock farms in the West. He is now rebuilding all the buildings, farms, outhouses, superintendent's houses, caretaker's house and laborers' houses of the native limestone, quarried on the spot.

The large country house itself is modeled after the old type of farm tavern and is used very largely by the family for week-ends and part of the summer. It contains an immense living room, 30 feet wide and 60 feet long. The furnishings have been largely collected from old New England farm houses, and all details which belong to the simple life of the eary settlers have been introduced here. At the same time the room has been given a very modern feeling which has blended perfectly with the old character. It might be said that a new style in interior decoration has been arrived at in this room. Around the sides of this room are large enclosed porches, each with its own fireplace, and all commanding a magnificent view of the river and the hilly country to the south.

The dining room is on the southeast side of the house, its walls virtually of glass, with plants and flowering vines, which really becomes a conservatory during the winter.

The house contains besides the master's suite five bedrooms for guests. Each bedroom has a bath and sleeping porch. The servants' quarters are in a wing one story high running off to the east of the house.

An interesting feature is the sort of court surrounded by a low wall, leading to an old-fashioned well. The house has been planned to be most livable for all seasons of the year. The architects were Study & Farrar, who have designed and built all the buildings on the estate.

The St. Louis High Teachers' Association, which continuing its campaign for creased salaries, issued yesterday statement designed to show St. Louis is at less expense for lic schools than a number of er American cities. The infer drawn is that this city could afford to pay its teachers The teachers' statement is as lows:

"It is pertinent at this time inquire into the cost of public cation in the city of St. Louis compared with other cities. is hardly any doubt that the eral public believes St. Louis spending a comparatively large of money on her schools. The ures below will, therefore, revelation to most people. It is teresting to note where St. L stands among comparable cities total school expenditures for year 1922-1923, the last for which figures are available, and which probably a representative year.

City...	Total School Expenditu

Boston (1921-22)	14,945,000.
Rochester	10,000,000.
Minneapolis	9,729,541.
St. Louis	9,699,161.

"According to data compiled the Bureau of Municipal Re of St. Louis, the total school penditures per capita of pop tion of the cities cited increa from 1917 to 1922 as follows:

Detroit, 273 per cent; Clevela 191 per cent; Baltimore, 156 cent; Pittsburg, 117 per cent; ton, 97 per cent; Los Angele per cent; St. Louis, 72 per cent.

"In 1917 the expenditures capita of population for the cities ranged from $4.17 to $1 St. Louis was next to lowest per capita cost of $6.46. It pears from the above tabul percentage increases that St. L was in 1922 practically outside range of other cities. It may pointed out that from 1917 to the per capita cost for St. L increased 132 per cent, and the comparison is valuable only other cities have maintained relative standing during the two years. However, we have reason to believe that the year which the comparisons were was not a representative year.

"The relatively small school penditures for St. Louis is due cipally to two facts: First, that public school enrollment is compared with other cities; second, because of the low per pil cost, which will be discuss a later time. The data pres indicates very clearly that the of St. Louis has had a compa tively simple task to provide lic education. They show that Louis has a distinct advantage cities because of the small enr ment. They show that St. L could pay salaries sufficiently tractive to monopolize the best ent in the teaching profession still hold the cost of public edu tion far below what other comp able cities must spend. It seem that it is time that St. L should realize this fact and the advantage at her command."

TODAY the President of the United States has more power than any king in the world, or any other president.

In deciding for whom to vote on Nov. 4 for this tremendously powerful office, women should consider first the candidates' character and record. Party platforms and pre-election promises count for little. Experience has shown that party managers, both Republican and Democratic, agree with the Pullman porter who would not let a passenger stand on the platform. He said, "Don't you know that a platform isn't a thing to stand on, but a thing to get in on?"

For myself, I propose to vote for La Follette because La Follette has a record of superb public service, with which neither of the other candidates can compare. He has achieved actual results; has "delivered the goods." From what he has done, we can judge what he will do.

In Wisconsin he fought a powerful and corrupt political ring, conquered it, smashed it, rose to Governor, put through important progressive legislation, and forced the great corporations of the State to pay their fair share of the taxes. His State sent him back to the United States Senate in 1922 with a vote of 375,000 majority.

During his 23 years in Congress he has always fought equally ably and courageously for the rights of the public, and against the great tax-dodging trusts. He deserves a like support from the people of the nation.

onsumer Is Being Fleeced.

La Follette has saved taxpayers 2,000,000,000. No other man living has saved the taxpayers so much money. In 1917-1918 he saved billions of public debt by compelling profiteers to pay higher taxes. In 1919 he saved $900, 00,000 by forcing bloated appropriation bills to go over to a special session, where they were cut own by that amount. In 1921 he saved $300,000,000 by defeating he attempt to exempt foreign rade corporations from taxation, nd $500,000,000 by defeating arding's proposal to lend that um to the railroads. In 1922-24 is estimated that he has saved least $200,000,000 by exposing Teapot Dome scandal and compelling the cancellation of oil ases. And these are only a few his achievements.

The main issue in the United ates today, overshadowing all hers in importance, is the strug between the profiteers and people. For many years the t trusts and corporations have growing bigger and bigger, large concerns constantly allowing up the smaller ones, now almost every necessity life is controlled by a samll p of men who dictate the e, and who keep it artificially h. Sugar, meat, coal, lumber, transportation, etc., each become a practical monopoly. over has told us of the network "open-price associations" all the country that keep up the of every material which en into the building of a house. 25 years the cost of living has than doubled. He said, "Don't you know that a platform isn't a thing to stand on, but a thing to get in on?"

For myself, I propose to vote for La Follette because La Follette has a record of superb public service, with which neither of the other candidates can compare. He has achieved actual results; he has "delivered the goods." From what he has done, we can judge what he will do.

In Wisconsin he fought a powerful and corrupt political ring, conquered it, smashed it, rose to be Governor, put through important progressive legislation, and forced the great corporations of the State to pay their fair share of the taxes. His State sent him back to the United States Senate in 1922 with a vote of 375,000 majority.

During his 23 years in Congress he has always fought equally ably and courageously for the rights of the public, and against the great tax-dodging trusts. He deserves a like support from the people of the nation.

Consumer Is Being Fleeced.

La Follette has saved taxpayers $2,000,000,000. No other man living has saved the taxpayers so much money. In 1917-1918 he saved billions of public debt by compelling profiteers to pay higher taxes. In 1919 he saved $900,000,000 by forcing bloated appropriation bills to go over to a special session, where they were cut down by that amount. In 1921 he saved $300,000,000 by defeating the attempt to exempt foreign trade corporations from taxation, and $500,000,000 by defeating Harding's proposal to lend that sum to the railroads. In 1922-24 it is estimated that he has saved at least $200,000,000 by exposing the Teapot Dome scandal and compelling the cancellation of oil leases. And these are only a few of his achievements.

The main issue in the United States today, overshadowing all others in importance, is the struggle between the profiteers and the people. For many years the great trusts and corporations have been growing bigger and bigger, the large concerns constantly swallowing up the smaller ones, until now almost every necessity of life is controlled by a samll group of men who dictate the price, and who keep it artificially high. Sugar, meat, coal, lumber, steel, transportation, etc., each has become a practical monopoly. Sherwood has told us of the network of "open-price associations" all over the country that keep up the price of every material which enters into the building of a house. In 15 years the cost of living has more than doubled. The American consumer is being fleeced all along the line, and no one feels it more keenly than the housewives.

Monopolies Defy Laws.

The giant monopolies have grown so strong that they now control both the Republican and Democratic parties, and they have built themselves up to their present power and size by defying the anti-trust laws and securing special favors. To resist their tremendous pressure calls for a man of extraordinary force and backbone. La Follette fills the bill. The great profiteering corporations are perfectly willing to have either Coolidge or Davis for President, but they shudder at the idea of La Follette. Through his long congressional career he has stood like a rock against the encroachments of the powerful few. They have been unable either to bully or to bribe him.

First for Woman Suffrage.

Women ought to vote for La Follette for these same reasons that men ought to vote for him, and for some special reasons as well. He stood for equal suffrage when it was intensely unpopular. "La Follette is the only presidential candidate standing unequivocally for woman suffrage" was one of the banners in the famous suffrage parade in 1912. As Governor of Wisconsin he appointed women on important boards when it was still a great innovation, and even his own party was against it, but the high type of women he selected and the fine public service they rendered soon won general approval.

In Congress he has worked untiringly for measures in behalf of women and children, the child labor amendment, bills for the betterment of women's wages and working conditions, maternity legislation, etc.

La Follette has always encouraged the study of public questions by women. He wrote in 1911:

"In all my campaign in Wisconsin I was impressed with the fact that women were as keenly interested as men in the questions of railroad taxation, reasonable transportation charges, direct primaries, and indeed in the whole progressive program. They comprehended its relation to home life and all domestic problems. They understood what is meant for the railroads of the State to escape paying a million dollars of justly due taxes every year. They knew that every dollar lost to the educational, charitable and other institutions of the State through tax evasions by the railroad and other corporations must be borne by added taxes upon the homes and farms. They understood that freight rates were a part of the purchase price of everything necessary to their daily lives; that when they bought food and fuel and clothing, THEY paid the freight.

"As a result, my political meetings were generally as largely attended by women as by men, and these questions were brought directly into the home for study and consideration. It has always been inherent with me to recognize this coequal interest of women. My widowed mother was a woman of wise judgment; my sisters were my best friends and advisers; and in all the work of my public life my wife has been my constant

Our 'First Woman Governor' at Close Range

Political Theories Are Less Interesting for Mrs. Ferguson Than Family and Home Affairs

Represents Her Husband's Hunger for Power and His Drive to Win Vindication From Voters as Result of His Being Forced to Resign Governorship Two Years Ago by Impeachment Proceedings.

Meanwhile Those Texas Democrats Who Do Not Approve of the Fergusons Are Facing a Hard Choice Between Voting for Her or Her Republican Opponent.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TEMPLE, Tex., Oct. 4.

WE WERE the only passengers in the rickety old Dodge that serves as bus between the Katy station and Temple's principal hotel. He had come in from his ranch on business. He was middle-aged, sunburned and angular. His Sunday blue serge glistened, and he wore a black hat with a high, undented crown. His was the melancholy air of a man who finds much in this world that is poison to his soul.

"Well, you have a very interesting political situation down here in Texas," I remarked.

"Stranger," he replied, "we've got a hell of a political situation down here in Texas, and don't you forget it. If a man could tell me how to vote the Republican ticket without feeling like a horse thief for the rest of my life, I'd sure be obliged to him."

"What's the matter with Ma?"

"I ain't got nothing against the woman," he declared, doggedly. "From all I know she's a good woman. But everybody in Texas knows she wouldn't be Governor.

"I'm a brass-collar Democrat, too," he went on. "I never did know anything but to vote the Democratic ticket. But, durn it all, there's some things a man can't stand for, and one of them is Jim Ferguson. I sure would hate to vote for a Republican, but I'm kinder up agin it." And he resumed his mournful contemplation of the row of muddy Fords parked on the public square.

Manifestly, when a Texas Democrat of the brass-collar stripe considers even vaguely the horrible contingency of voting for a Republican, the case must be desperate, indeed. The set of circumstances which had reduced my chance fellow-passenger to this appalling extremity may be sketched briefly as follows:

Ferguson Barred From Office

Gov. James E. Ferguson, a shrewd, forceful politician of the backwoods type, was impeached in 1917 on charges arising from his refusal to appropriate money for the State University and his action in depositing State funds in the bank of which he was president. Anticipating the success of the movement to depose him, he resigned, thus saying in effect to the Legislature: "Come outside and put me out." The Legislature accepted the challenge by enacting a statute for the purpose of forever disqualifying him for State office.

Since then he has made various attempts to rehabilitate himself politically, and this year he filed for the Democratic nomination for Governor. An injunction was sought, and granted, barring his name from the ballot.

During the pendency of the suit Ferguson had threatened that, in the event of his disqualification, his wife would take his place in the race. This she did. She ran second in a field of nine candidates in the July primary, and in the "run-off primary," a month later, she won the nomination over Felix D. Robertson by a majority of 90,000.

As the Democratic nomination has invariably been tantamount to election, it was taken for granted outside the State that Mrs. Ferguson would be the first woman Governor ever elected in the United States. In Texas they are not so certain that she will be elected.

However, this story is about the candidate, not the campaign. The world knows of her as "Ma" Ferguson, but you would never think of calling her that to her face. To her neighbors she is "Miz" Ferguson, just as the housewife next door is "Miz" Smith, and the one across the street "Miz" Brown. The "Ma" has no descriptive value whatever, and no significance. It came into use simply and unromantically from the fact that her initials are M. A., her name being Miriam Amanda. And that is all there is to the "Ma" part of it. To call her "Ma" after you have seen and talked to her seems silly and pointless. It doesn't fit her.

Not a Super-Woman

To find the prototype of Mrs. Ferguson is one of the easiest tasks imaginable. Simply go to the First Baptist Church of any town of 10,000 population, any Sunday morning, and you will find her over in the corner, teaching a Sunday school class of small boys and girls. Or drop into the same church any Wednesday afternoon and you will find her attending the weekly meeting of the Ladies' Society for Foreign Missions. Probably she will be the vice president of it. In the early morning you will find her overseeing the labors of the hired girl with an exacting eye for undisturbed dust or unswept cobwebs in hidden corners.

MRS. MIRIAM A. FERGUSON.
From a copyrighted portrait by the Elliott Studio, Austin, Tex.

Prim and inclined to severity, her face is the face of a woman who has always been mindful of her duty to her husband, to her children and to her church. Her voice, on the other hand, is pleasant and rather girlish, and slurred with the familiar accent of the South. She is 47 years old and appears neither more nor less. In short, a capable-looking woman, who fits perfectly into the prosperous, neat, two-story frame house where I found her.

The occasion was not particularly auspicious. She had but lately returned from Austin, where somebody had been suing, albeit unsuccessfully, to keep her name off the ballot. Her husband was ill and she was suffering considerably from her hay fever, which probably heightened her natural reticence with interviewers. Despite these vexations, she strove to be pleasant and accommodating.

She was born on a farm, she said, not far from Temple. It is an 1800-acre farm, and she has since inherited it. She went to the rural public schools, and subsequently to Baylor College. When she was 22 she married Ferguson, then a rising country lawyer, and moved to Temple, where they have lived ever since, excepting the three years during which they occupied the Governor's mansion at Austin. She was not a suffragist. Another example of the strange and remarkable irony which seems to single out for public office women who never thought that women should have office, or even the vote. There was Miss Alice Robertson, the Congresswoman from Oklanoma, not to mention others.

She Enters a New Field

"Of course, like every woman should be, I was interested in what my husband was doing in politics," Mrs. Ferguson explained. "But I had my family to look after, you know. That kept me pretty busy." She has two daughters, one of whom is married and has a son who is his grandmother's particular pride. One got the impression that she would rather talk about her grandson than about affairs of state.

The writer was curious to learn the name of Mrs. Ferguson's favorite American statesman. From what shining figure would she prefer to take her pattern and her inspiration? Would it be one of the illustrious patron saints of Democracy—Jefferson, Jackson and Cleveland—or did she cherish a secret weakness for Hamilton or Roosevelt?

"Really, I can't say that I ever gave it a thought," she replied. "Of course, they all did some mighty fine things for this country."

"What do you conceive to be the proper function of the State Government?" she was asked. "To just what extent do you believe it should intervene in the affairs of its citizens in its efforts to protect and assist them in the struggle for existence and happiness?"

Mrs. Ferguson thought a moment.

"It certainly oughtn't to do anything to their detriment," she said. "And I believe that we should have a good government, and a clean one."

The talk drifted to the two divergent schools of political thought which have grown up in the country, one advocating greater activity and more regulation by Government in the various fields of business, industry and transportation, the other demanding that the Government keep its hands off everything that might remotely be called the private affairs of a citizen. Mrs. Ferguson said she hadn't thought much about that phase of the subject; she wasnt' sure which way she would lean.

But She's Willing to Improvise

In Texas, as elsewhere, the Governor is the commander in chief of the State's military forces. It would be interesting to know Mrs. Ferguson's attitude toward controversies between capital and labor. Did she believe in State interference or not?

"You know, we haven't any big factories in Texas," she said. "We aren't troubled much by strikes here. I don't remember even hearing the question raised, and I just can't say what my attitude would be. I guess it would depend on the circumstances."

Texas, as she pointed out, is an agricultural state, and cotton is the chief crop. Cotton farmers have had their troubles in the last five years. An Arkansas farm union representative testified at Washington last winter that many cotton planters had been compelled to take their children out of school and put them to work in the fields in order to make ends meet. Was there, in Mrs. Ferguson's opinion, anything that the State Government could do to lighten that burden or help bear it.

"I don't think so," she replied, her mouth settling into a firm line. "Of course, some of the farmers have lost their places. But I think it's mostly because they mortgage them to buy automobiles, or leave them to go and work in the cities. The only thing I see that the State can do to help them is to reduce their taxes. You've read our platform. You know we're strongly in favor of that."

"Are taxes very high in the State?"

"High!" she exclaimed in that sprightly Southern accent. "We're simply eaten up alive with them."

"Why?"

"There you are! Why?" she retorted. "Some lay it to the automobiles—so much road-building, you know—and some lay it to other things, but it's a tax on this and a tax on that, and a tax on everything—away too many taxes."

"Has there been an extravagant amount of road-building recently?"

"Well, I wouldn't say that. Of course, we must have good roads," she reflected. "It's really hard to say whether there has or not."

She Would Seek Advise

As State constitutions differ, so do the powers and functions of Governors vary in different states. What are the most important functions of the Governor in Texas, the writer inquired.

"Well, the Governor must steer the affairs of the State generally," she began. "And I think that when a puzzling question comes up, the Governor should take counsel with those who are capable of giving advice. This is a Government by the people, and all of them should help. None of us can do things alone. Do you think so?"

Then she continued: "The Governor's most important duties? Well, I know, and I don't know. For one thing, he must see after the penitentiary, the eleemosynary institutions, the asylums and so on. The buildings must be kept up. The penitentiary seems to need plenty of attention right now. They don't seem able to put it on a paying basis, for some reason. When my husband was Governor he placed the penitentiary in the best shape it ever has been in.

"One of my main ideas is to aid the rural schools, too. Some of them have only three months a year, now, and it isn't enough. I think maybe some of the money that is spent on higher education might be used better to help the lower schools."

It may be remembered that Gov. Ferguson's big fight, and the one which led to his impeachment, was over the question of funds for the State University. And in the platform upon which he launched his campaign—and which was taken over bodily by his wife as her own platform when he was disqualified—he said:

"Let me again repeat with emphasis that

ALL ANGLES OF POSSIBLE DEADLOCK ON PRESIDENCY AND WAYS OUT DISCUSSED

Selection Law Established by Founders of Constitution Provides for Three Contingencies Others Left to Speculation.

THE campaign manager of the Democratic party has expressed the opinion that, if the election were held today, no candidate has votes enough to win. The prediction is frequently made that the choice of a President will go to Congress. To explain what would happen in that case the Post-Dispatch publishes this summary based upon legal interpretation of the electorial laws.

In the first place, what does a deadlock mean?

The Constitution requires that a candidate for the presidency must have a majority of the electoral college to be elected. A deadlock is always possible with three candidates in the field. Woodrow Wilson was a minority President in 1912. He secured a total of 6,000,000 votes, against a combined 7,500,000 for Roosevelt and Taft.

Why, then, wasn't the 1912 election deadlocked?

Taft made so poor a showing on the basis of states carried (he captured only Utah and Vermont) that in the electoral college, he had only eight votes. Roosevelt had 88 votes. Wilson had 435, and in the electoral college was an easy winner.

It is on the basis of states as units, then, that the election is decided.

Yes. Coolidge and Davis might have a total of 240,000 votes in Nebraska as against 130,000 for La Follette; but if La Follette had more votes than either Coolidge or Davis, individually, then all of Nebraska's eight electoral votes, and not just a proportionate share of them, would go to the third party in the electoral college.

There are 531 votes in the electoral college. Of these 531, 194 are votes in the "Solid South" and in the border states, which a Democratic candidate is reasonably sure of carrying. That leaves a remainder of 337.

A majority of the college is 266. Accordingly, this is the situation:

Would Block Coolidge.

If Davis carries the 194 votes of the Solid South and the border states, then Davis and La Follette, between them, need 72 additional votes to block the election of Coolidge.

La Follette is usually credited, as a minimum, with chances of carrying the five Northwestern states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana and the two Dakotas. That is a block of 39 votes. Thirty-three more, for either Davis or La Follette, anywhere outside of the "Solid South," would prevent the election of Coolidge. Endless combinations can be suggested which provide those 33. New York alone, for example, has 45 votes to deliver.

On the other hand, Davis cannot win his own election in the electoral college unless to his 194 he adds 72 more. And, if La Follette is given 39, then, to win in the college, Davis must cut the Coolidge total to 226.

One can guess the answer any way one likes, but it is clear that, with every state La Follette carries, both of his opponents have an increasingly smaller margin to play with. La Follette's strength is probably not spread evenly throughout the country, as Taft's was in 1912, but massed in separate states. That is why there is talk about a deadlock.

If no candidate receives a majority in the electoral college, what happens next?

The first step is for the House of Representatives to attempt to choose a President from among the three high candidates. But note these facts:

How House Votes.

First, the House does not vote as it ordinarily does, by individuals, but votes by states.

Second, each state counts one vote and only one—New York, for instance, with its 43 members, counts no more than Wyoming, with its one.

HOW THE 531 ELECTORAL VOTES ARE DIVIDED

THE following is a list of states, with the number of votes each has in the Electoral College:

Alabama, 12; Arizona, 3; Arkansas, 9; California, 13; Colorado, 6; Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Florida 6; Georgia, 14; Idaho, 4; Illinois, 29; Indiana 15; Iowa, 13; Kansas, 10; Kentucky 13; Louisiana, 10; Maine, 6; Maryland, 8; Massachusetts, 18; Michigan, 15; Minnesota, 12; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 18; Montana, 4; Nebraska, 8; Nevada, 3; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 14; New Mexico, 3; New York, 45; North Carolina, 12; North Dakota, 5; Ohio, 24; Oklahoma, 10; Oregon, 5; Pennsylvania, 38; Rhode Island, 5; South Carolina, 9; South Dakota, 5; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 20; Utah, 4; Vermont, 4; Virginia, 12; Washington 7; West Virginia, 8; Wisconsin, 13, and Wyoming, 3. Total, 531.

The Constitution requires that the electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for President and Vice President. Certificates are then forwarded to Washington, directed to the President of the Senate. In the presence of the House and Senate, this official opens the certificates and counts the ballots.

A majority is necessary to a choice, and a majority in the present Electoral College is 266.

Third, it is not the new House that does the voting, but the old House—that is, the existing House, even though the election may have changed its membership subtsantially.

Who wins when the House votes?

Once more a majority, and not a mere plurality, is necessary for the election of a President. How large a fraction of the present House La Follette could control in such a contest is debatable. But, for the sake of illustration, grant him his five states again. There are 48 states in all; 25 are necessary for a majority. Each state counts one vote. Set La Follette's aside and all either Davis or Coolidge has to do to block the other's election in the House is to tally 19 votes. For those 19, with La Follette's five, would leave the other party only 24. And 24 is one vote shy of a majority.

Assuming this happens, what follows next?

The House has until March 4 to break its deadlock if a deadlock should arise. The break could come either by La Follette surrendering enough of his state delegations to Coolidge or to Davis to furnish a majority, or by enough Coolidge states going over to Davis, or vice versa, on the theory that a victory for the other side was better than confusion.

Suppose, however, that party lines hold fast. What happens in that case?

Goes to Senate.

The question goes to the Senate. Does the Senate choose a President?

No; what the Senate does is not

Cannon on Party Discipline.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF any competent judge of tommyrot were required to identify the most conspicuous piece of political drivel that has appeared during recent months, his reputation would be gone if he overlooked the specimen credited to the venerable Joseph Cannon in a late issue of the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia, on the subject of "Party Discipline."

Any sort of respect for the conclusions of so eminent a statesman might forbid even a reference to George Washington, who deprecated the indulgence of the partisan spirit as an unmitigated menace. But if somewhere between the first President and the ex-Speaker the truth may be found, one is moved to ask Mr. Cannon what is the duty of a citizen who believes his party has been exploited by its unworthy servants.

If the question is not too personal would Mr. Cannon deny the right of an otherwise respectable inhabitant of his State, calling himself or even herself, a Republican, to review the claim of a candidate for Governor who had rewarded with appointment to responsible offices the members of the jury who had acquitted him of looting the treasury of his State? Instead of the dissolving view of Mr. Lincoln, with which Mr. Cannon favors us, he might have emulated the great Plutarch by leaving to posterity an essay entitled: "Abraham Lincoln and Len Small compared." But if he insists on the text as announced, the country would be pleased to hear him on the subject, "The discipline of Calvin Coolidge in the last Republican Congress," not to mention the discipline of Calvin Coolidge by the last Republican Congress.

Mr. Cannon broadly states that one way to insure party discipline is to cut off the supplies of those who refuse to submit to it. Will the Republican strategists who have trotted out the picturesque old-timer, tell us if Mr. Cannon is advising this treatment for certain Republican Senators and Representatives in the coming election? Not a word about his cure for balking Congressmen when these mockers of party discipline appeared for renomination and indorsement.

Upon what ground then does he invite a re-enactment of these rebellious and undisciplined scenes at Washington, and content himself with browbeating the poor Republican buck private? The reason is plain. These Republican Senators and Representatives may celebrate their contempt for Mr. Coolidge when they please, and nobody, including Mr. Cannon, cares enough to protest. But with any average Republican Congress the Fordney-McCumber tariff may be imposed a little longer. Everybody knows that a Congress which will heckle its presidential leader and nominee at the moment he goes before the country will scorn him after November. But there stands the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, for the reason that there stands Mr. Coolidge, if elected, to veto its repeal. And that is the sole and only object the Massachusetts coterie has in this life.

The Voters' Duty.

Don't Run Over Dogs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WOULD like, through your columns, to appeal to the drivers of automobiles and other vehicles in St. Louis and St. Louis County to have consideration and mercy for the dogs and dumb animals in general, which in the very nature of things are encountered on the public highways. They cannot be chained or penned up constantly—nature did not so intend.

Too frequently nowadays one sees the carcass of a dog or cat on the streets, the victim of some rapid-moving vehicle that it could not escape. True, there are times when it is a physical impossibility for an automobilist to miss hitting or running over a dog. But I am convinced from observation that too often the life of a dumb animal on the streets is held by some drivers absolutely without regard. We slow down or stop for bumps and ruts in the road and, in fact, for any other contact that might do damage to our machines or our own nerves. Cannot we do as much for the helpless, panic-stricken dumb animals? It requires such little effort on our part, but may mean the life of an animal held dear by someone.

I know that I voice the appeal of every dog owner when I say, "Please look our for my dog."

J. C. C.

CORRUPTION IS THE ISSUE.

The Republican campaign slogan this year is "Best We Forget." The administration's record is rarely referred to. The public is not asked to support the Republican ticket on the strength of the party's service. Instead, a bogey has been created. The danger of radicalism, as personified by La Follette, is the peril that threatens. So, we have the lurid fulminations of Dawes against the menace of bolshevism and the academic dissertations of Mr. Coolidge on the beneficences of our constitutional government and the necessity of our rallying to the defense and maintenance of the present order. In adopting this plan of campaign the Republican leaders are again demonstrating their political acumen. The administration's record is a stench. It must be forgotten. The public mind must be diverted from the Washington Saturnalia during the Ohio Gang's dynasty—from Fall, Forbes, Daugherty and the billions handed to the dark forces of our industrial world by the tariff—from the whole Camorra of corruption.

Just the same, the overpowering issue of the campaign is corruption. The supreme necessity is a declaration by the people that honesty in public and official life is the first essential. There is just one way by which the American people can effectively lay down that law and that is by driving out of power the party responsible for the betrayal of the public welfare.

Thomas Jefferson held that the whole art of government consists in being honest. Other qualities, of course, are necessary, but those other qualities are doubtless inseparable from honesty. In any event, where honesty is lacking there can be no government except the tyranny of spoils. Official dishonesty cannot be tolerated, much less condoned, except at the price of disaster.

The Jeffersonian postulate as to honesty as the whole art of government is echoed by the distinguished Englishman, Hillaire Belloc. In his recent book, "The Contrast," in which he points out and traces and undertakes to explain the difference between the United States and Europe, the chapter on the "Political Contrast" is peculiarly timely. "With all forms of government," he says, "the permanent and ever-present danger is corruption; that is, the preference by public men of their own interests to the public interests." How is that danger to be combated? Is the burden of the fight exclusively on the public? Mr. Belloc does not think so. He says:

> I have been told by many Americans (and naturally by all my acquaintances engaged in European professional politics) that this ceaseless exposure and purging of an evil has two great evils attached to it which outweigh its good. * * * Those evils are (1) the certainty that in the general process innocent men will be suspected, and (2) the production, by such perpetual exposure, of a sort of atmosphere or consciousness of political weakness. If the mass of people (it is said) get to believe that their representatives are corrupt the security of the State is weakened.

That our American professional politicians agree with their fellow professionals of Europe on this point is evidenced in the attitude of our present high officials towards their corrupt associates and by the propaganda that flooded the country during the Senate investigations last winter. Mr. Coolidge himself was most solicitous that no innocent man be unjustly accused or condemned and industrial primates like Judge Gary of the United States Steel Corporation, along with most of the party newspapers, deplored the continuance of the investigation after the first shock of the oil scandal. They all dwelt upon the danger specified by Belloc, namely, the destruction of public confidence in the character of our officials and the capacity of government.

With that attitude Mr. Belloc has scant patience. He admits the evils of exposing knavery in public life, but he denies they outweigh the good. He argues thus:

> If an innocent man is accused he must take the rough with the smooth. He has deliberately entered professional politics. He knows his trade to be tainted; he must run the risk. A man does not go in for professional politics without some idea of advantage to himself. He desires to be talked about or to have power, even if he does not desire to purloin public money. He cannot see what goes on around him as a member of these little political oligarchies, without either denouncing their corruption or winking at it. If he denounces it he cannot long remain a member of the assembly he thus betrays. If he winks at it he is a partner in the guilt of his fellows.

Is Belloc's reasoning a counsel of perfection? Who will say so? Certainly the standards of conduct he insists upon in public life prevail in private business. Would a bank officer, for example, aware of a fellow officer's dishonesty, remain silent? If he did he could never justify his silence to the depositors and he would have a hard time defending himself in the criminal action that would follow discovery. We believe, therefore, that the majority of citizens will say with Belloc that "men who associate with and tolerate the corruption of their fellows are in an absurd position when they protest their private innocence of a public evil which they have shamefully condoned. They must have known its effect upon the State. It was their duty as patriots to prevent it and punish it."

In that high duty the present administration has failed badly. By "administration" we mean Mr. Coolidge, his Cabinet officers, the Republican party leaders generally and the Republican press. Their whole policy has been, and is, to minimize the corruption and to befuddle the people into forgetting the evils and the evildoers. If ever a party, by the villainies of its bad men and the complacency of its good men, deserved repudiation by the public it is the Republican party. Nov. 4 ought to be a day of retribution for the spoilsmen and their apologists.

THEY HAVE OTHER THINGS.

It is distressing to observe that our Jackie Coogan does not seem to be getting himself across with the Romans. Somebody has jinxed his show.

Young Mr. Coogan is going to the Far East with a shipload of goodies for the poor little orphans. Concerning this the public has been fully advised, for in such matters it is inexpedient to keep the left hand in ignorance of what the right hand doeth, and a great deal of painful publicity results.

Stops were made in England and France, and in spite of everything that could be done it got out and crowds came to see Jackie in his act of philanthropy. Then, in pursuance of the policy of keeping it as quiet as possible, they came to Rome and somebody in his retinue, to divert attention from the shipload, gave it out that little Coogan was getting $500,000 a year and 60 per cent of the net profits.

That was when the show fell flat. Mere money doesn't interest the Romans. They were unimpressed. If it had been $500,000,000 it would have been the same. "For," said these strange people, "we Romans have other things."

Of course, we Americans know better than that. For what could the Romans possibly have that would compare, for sheer wonder, with, say, a million dollars? But that is the way they feel about it. So Jackie's Roman engagement may be set down as a failure.

THE BISHOP TUTTLE MEMORIAL.

Archbishop Glennon, Rev. Dr. W. C. Bitting and a number of clergymen of various denominations are united in support of the movement to erect the handsome and useful building as a memorial to the late Bishop Tuttle. This is as it should be, and the example will, undoubtedly, be followed by clergymen and laymen in and out of St. Louis who knew of or had come in contact with Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, who so devotedly and acceptably ministered for 56 years as a Bishop in the great West, and was for 20 years before his death the beloved and revered presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

The campaign to raise the necessary fund for the memorial building will begin Oct. 12. It is hoped to raise during the 12 days of the campaign $1,250,000, of which St. Louis' quota will be $750,000. The success of this movement will mean that a man among men and a church leader of extraordinary achievement and merit will be fittingly honored in his memory, and that St. Louis and the Southwest will acquire a building, as an addition to the beautiful Christ Church Cathedral, which will be of architectural excellence and also embody many institutional features, such as club and class rooms, swimming pool of use to residents and visitors. It will also be a center for diocesan activities and headquarters for the Bishop of the State.

This memorial is something of which Bishop Tuttle would have approved, because it is no mere monument to be gazed at, but will to some degree continue the work in which he gladly spent a long life. It is the kind of memorial any good man would desire. And all contributors to the fund will be assured that in the erection and uses of this building they will not only honor their great friend who has passed, but contribute to the welfare of generations now living and to come.

LIGHT FOR A DARK PLACE.

The Associated Press carries by telegraph from New York an interesting statement from Gov. Smith on the practicability of reducing the Ten Commandments to two. Any plan for eliminating the don'ts, whether religious, legal or parental, has its following assured beforehand.

Says the dispatch:

> Gov. Smith, in his address before the State Democratic convention at Syracuse last week, stated that the Ten Commandments could be reduced to two. When asked today by the Evening World to elucidate, he said: "The Ten Commandments could be expressed in these two: First, thou shalt love thy God with thy whole heart, mind and soul. Second, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."
> "The theory is," the Governor said, "that if a man loves his God with his whole heart, mind and soul and loves his neighbor as himself, he cannot commit any of the sins enumerated in the Ten Commandments handed down to Moses on the mount."

Now the reporter might have saved himself a journey to see the Governor if he had but turned to the twenty-second chapter of Matthew, thirty-seventh to fortieth verses. This assumes there is a copy of the New Testament in the office of the Evening World. He would have read there:

> 37 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.
> 38 This is the first and great commandment.
> 39 And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.
> 40 On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

There are excellent Sunday schools in New York, but they are not as well attended as they should be.

BIGOTRY'S EDUCATIONAL MASK.

Posing under the guise of zeal for the public schools, the Ku Klux element in Michigan is again trying to have a constitutional amendment passed compelling every child in the State, up to the age of 16, to attend these schools, the effect being to close all other schools. The same thing was tried in Oregon, where the Ku Klux Klan succeeded in getting such a law passed, but the Federal Court declared it unconstitutional. The validity of the law was contested on the very good grounds that it restricted the rights of parents, children and teachers, and deprived organizations and corporations of their property without due process of law. The court upheld these contentions.

Fortunately, in Michigan, the question will be decided by a vote of the people. If it were left to the Legislature, Michigan might be saddled with the obnoxious law and be compelled to take it to the courts, as the victims of the Oregon law did. As in many of our states at present, the rural legislators dominate the Michigan State Assembly. One district in Wayne County, which includes Detroit, has about a third of the State's residents, but has only 5 of the 32 Senate seats and only 14 of the 100 House seats.

The truth may as well be told that all this false patriotism and prejudice in religion and education emanates from the more or less benighted country districts, where certain ill-educated preachers hold forth in "hymns of hate" for all things they do not comprehend. With regard to Michigan, the vote for Senator Couzens, put over largely by Detroit and Wayne County, is an indication of what will probably happen to the Ku Klux school amendment.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

Socrates: I suppose you young men know all about the League of Nations and what has been done about war?

Glaucon: We have been reading about it.

Socrates: You know, of course, that after floundering around in the way we have been doing in this country we finally find ourselves precisely as any outlaw gang finally finds itself—that is, in peril of law.

Polemarchus: Do you think the rest of the world would be able to take us in hand if we did start a war?

Socrates: I think so. In the first place, let us assume that the first thing the rest of the world did was to catch all of our citizens in foreign countries and lock them up as enemy aliens. That would put Washington in a fine hole, wouldn't it?

Thrasymachus: It would indeed.

Socrates: I don't think we realize what we have got ourselves in for. Suppose Haiti, which is quite capable of doing so, renewed her struggle for independence with us just for the purpose of taking her cause to the league. Our sole interest in Haiti is our investments there. We hold her bonds, which command a very high rate of interest. It is the sort of thing for which we will fight, but if the League of Nations denied us the right to fight we would have a choice between looking to the league for our money and risking a war with the rest of the world.

Glaucon: A bitter choice, truly.

Socrates: Yes. Yet that is not, so far as I know, an exaggeration of the situation. The league has declared war upon war. All the members have pledged themselves to stand against any nation starting war. All causes are to be judged by the league, and any nation refusing to abide by its judgments shall be declared the common enemy of the rest.

Polemarchus: That is enough to make Wilsonus spring from his grave crying: "Glory!"

Socrates: So it is, but the world, we may be sure, was not thinking of Wilsonus. It was thinking of its own need. Let us take the case of France. Her terror has kept Europe in turmoil ever since the war. It was Germany's terror that kept Europe in arms before the war. France wants to breathe easy, and so does the world. There is only one way in which this can be made possible. It is the way of Wilsonus, now happily become the way of the world. Our own country can choose between accepting it or going the way of Jesse James. There is only one end to going the way of Jesse James.

Polemarchus: You have it, I think.

Socrates: Very well. Now let us keep still with Coolidge.

MISSOURI.

(In honor of the dedication of the new Capitol on Oct. 6, 1924.)

The voice of prophecy they heard
In distant climes long years ago;
The spirit of adventure stirred
Within their breasts and bade them go
And conquer and a nation found;
Their course was ever westward bent
Until they reached their wondrous ground,
The heart of a great continent.

Here paused their covered wagon train
Until they saw you proudly stand
Upon your prairies rich with grain,
And fruited hills; held in your hand
The torch to light the path that leads
To amity and brotherhood,
Until mankind your message reads,
And Liberty understood.

Old trails from out your border led
To Santa Fe and Mexico;
To plains on which the bison fed,
To gold beyond Sierra's snow
That lured the men of "Forty-nine";
On where sea winds the palms caress,
Or wave the northern fir and pine
In Oregon's vast wilderness.

Your long swift rivers seaward glide,
They bear the argosies of trade,
Where once the savage in his pride,
The wild Missouris and Osage,
Held lordly sway until there came
The brave La Salle, the pioneers,
And Boone, with spirits all aflame
With visions of the future years.

In dream they saw before them rise
Your inland empire of renown,
And still there gleams from your fair skies
The star of destiny to crown
With peace and might and affluence
Those who the light of truth revere,
Who law and justice reverence
And seek to build love's kingdom here.

Former Suffrage Leader Backs La Follette Cause

companion. It has always seemed to me that women should play a larger part than they do in the greater housekeeping of the State."

Stands for Peace.

La Follette stands for the conservation of our natural resources. It was a La Follette resolution which recently saved the oil fields.

He stands for peace, and seeks to insure it through international arbitration, reduction of armament, abolition of conscription, a referendum on war, and the abandonment of imperialistic foreign policies.

The huge corporations of which he is the constant enemy because they are the chief menace to the American people at home are also the greatest peril to our peace abroad. They invest their immense profits in enterprises in shaky Latin-American republics, and in Europe and Asia, and then want to send our young men abroad to fight and die to safeguard their investments. Thus the oil interests are always trying to drag us into war with Mexico.

La Follette stood out against having the United States enter the war with Germany, though once we were in, he supported every appropriation bill to carry it on. Sincere in his belief that we ought not to go in, he had the force to withstand the tremendous sweep of the wave of war excitement. The one virtue that is admired equally by good people and bad is courage. Whether he was right or mistaken, to take the stand at that time required magnificent courage. A man who could withstand that pressure can withstand any pressure that may be brought to bear to plunge us needlessly into future wars. Ramsay MacDonald in England took the same stand; and his coming to power in Great Britain has changed the whole atmosphere of Europe in the direction of peace.

For Men Above Dollars.

Above all, women should support La Follette because, in the constant struggle going on between human welfare and the "almighty dollar," he is for human welfare every time.

If the people knew the truth about his record, La Follette would sweep the country. But most of the daily papers are controlled by the profiteers, and for years they have denounced and misrepresented him.

He has been held up as a wild-eyed radical because he was in advance of his time. Woman suffrage is only one of a score of righteous reforms which he was ridiculed for supporting, and which he has lived to see triumph. Twenty-seven of the 31 measures proposed in previous La Follette platforms and denounced at the same time as radical have since been adopted by the conservative parties and made law!

He is accused of calling himself a Republican when he is not. He has stood by the old principles of the Republican party, when it demanded equal rights for all and special privileges for none. It is the present Republican leaders who have no right to the name, since they have made it the party of special privilige and the blackest reaction. They are ready to applaud even murder, if committed by and for special privilege.

In Good Company.

In Butte, Mont., a masked mob took a crippled labor organizer out of his hotel at midnight and hanged him to a bridge. In denouncing Senator Wheeler, who was investigating the Department of Justice, the National Republican, recognized as the organ of the Republican National Committee, reproached him with his record in Montana, where as District Attorney he stood up for the legal rights of workingmen who had displeased the great Anaconda Copper Co. It said this went on "until the decent patriotic American citizens of Butte hung one of them and ran the rest out of town." That masked mob of cowardly murderers were described as "decent, patriotic American citizens" by the National Republican, and no "regular" Republicans rebuked them.

La Follette is reproached because he wants to take away the power that has been usurped by the United States Supreme Court to nullify acts of Congress. He is in good company, Abraham Lincoln said in his first inaugural—"If the policy of the Government, upon vital questions affecting the whole people, is to be irrevocably fixed by the decision of the Supreme Court, the people have ceased to be their own rulers." Roosevelt advocated the "recall" of judicial decisions.

For Law Enforcement.

It is said that La Follette is opposed to prohibition. He is in favor of law enforcement. He voted for the submission of the national prohibition amendment to the States, because he believed the people had a right to decide; and he can be trusted absolutely to carry out their decision, for law enforcement is to him a fundamental principle of government.

It is said he has the support of the "reds." The ultra reds—communists—have nominated another ticket. The moderate reds, the Socialists are supporting him because he favors so many progressive measures, although he is not a Socialist, and they openly lament the fact. On the other hand, La Follette opponents have the support of all the great profiteering corporations, and they are much worse than a few reds.

It is said his election would ruin business. When he became Governor of Wisconsin, the State was in debt. When he resigned after five years, to go to Congress, the State was out of debt and had a surplus in the treasury. Today, after many years under progressive influence, Wisconsin has not a dollar of public debt, has a multitude of public improvements, and has no higher taxes than neighboring states of comparable size and development.

OUR "FIRST WOMAN GOVERNOR" AT CLOSE RANGE

car there are too many people going hog wild about higher education. This disease first started in the university, but now it has spread to the whole family. The State teachers' colleges, the College of Industrial Arts and the A. and M. now lead the procession as a spender of the people's money. I am not opposed to higher education if it does not get too high. That is what is the matter now."

Ferguson's Own Views.

Other quotations from the platform are illuminating. Under the section promising reductions in the expenses of the Board of Health, this occurs: "Fighting mosquitoes is certainly not a proper function of government. If we undertook to kill all the mosquitoes in Texas it would absolutely bankrupt the State, and then we couldn't do it, nohow."

Under another heading: "The next item is $132,000 for the Department of Agriculture. Lord, O Lord, what iniquity is wrought in thy name! To begin with, I would veto the items of $11,000 for Chief of Edible Nuts and Edible Nuts Assistants. This is a bunch of nuts, sure enough."

Under the heading, "Tick Catching": "A most interesting item is this $180,000 for the animals known as tick catchers or inspectors, which infest the cowmen worse than the ticks ever did the cows. Now, listen. After eight long years of bitter experience I know to my own satisfaction that this tick eradication is an impossibility. I would veto this appropriation, and save the money for the taypayers, and stop all this strife and ill-feeling that ought to stop."

Rely on Klan Issue.

It may be remarked that the issue which made Mrs. Ferguson famous, and which undoubtedly caused her nomination, has not been mentioned here—the klan issue. Her opponent, Robertson, had the klan indorsement, and Mrs. Ferguson, or, more properly her husband—for he did most of the speaking in her behalf—declared that klan control was the issue, and certainly he convinced a majority of the voters that it was the issue.

His enemies have insisted, and still insist, that he seized upon that issue as one upon which he first, and later his wife, could ride into office. They maintained that the real issue was his record in the governorship. Mrs. Ferguson explained it to the writer in this way:

"The klan wanted to get control. In order to do that, they raised the prohibition question. Prohibition is not an issue. The law is here. My husband saw that, and he turned the tables on them by making klan control the issue.

"You know," she said, "that we have no business with a klan in this country. What good does it do? What good can it do? It stirs up more hate than it ever tried to do good, and that's the truth about it."

A Shadowy Influence.

The interview was over. It was plain that Mrs. Ferguson was anxious to get back to the bedside of her husband. It had been a pleasant visit, but one left with a feeling of emptiness. Something had been missing, and the picture was not complete without it. One's imagination constantly strayed to that strong, crude, dominating man who lay on his back in the sickroom upstairs. Mrs. Ferguson was obviously what she was. If the people of Texas wanted for their Governor a capable housekeeper, a faithful wife, a good mother and a conscientious churchworker, certainly they could do no better. But it was impossible not to feel the presence of a stronger influence, even though it was invisible. Beyond the conventional figure of this pleasant woman stood the shadow of a man, cunning, implacable, resourceful, hungry for power.

The Republican candidate is Dr. George C. Butte, former dean of the School of Law at the State University, and by all accounts a man of character and culture. It would take great hardihood, even now, to venture the assertion that he stands a chance of election; but this is certain: No Republican candidate in Texas has ever stood as good a chance.

SHRINE POTENTATE TO STUDY NEEDS OF HOSPITAL HERE

Aid Is Expected for Project for Relief of Convalescent Cripples.

James E. Chandler of Kansas City, imperial potentate of the Shrine, and the imperial trustees of the order, will arrive in St. Louis next Friday and will stay here several days to study the needs of the Shrine Hospital for crippled children, established and maintained by the Shrine.

An important need is a home for convalescent patients, where they may be housed before being finally dismissed as cured. The foundation, a sum in excess of $100,000, was provided in the will of the late C. A. Sinclair, and it is expected the imperial trustees will materially augment this amount.

POLITICAL DEADLOCK WOULD LEAVE ELECTION "UP IN AIR"

to elect a President, but to elect a Vice President from among the two highest candidates for that office. The Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution provides: "A quorum * * * shall consist of two-third of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice."

What happens if a Vice President is elected?

He proceeds to act as President and the incident is closed.

But if it not difficult to believe that if the deadlock was carried this far, it might go one stage farther.

To be sure, the contest is narrowed down by this time; one man is ruled out, and the choice before the Senate is now between the two highest candidates for Vice President. But suppose these two highest are Dawes and Bryan. There are three Republican votes (La Follette's, Frazier's and Ladd's) which would almost certainly go to Bryan; there are two Farmer-Labor votes (Shipstead's and Magnus Johnson's) which would go in the same direction. That would tie the voting, 48 to 48.

Or, to prevent a majority until party lines broke, these three Republicans, two Farmer-Labor men and perhaps several of their more insurgent colleagues, might refrain from voting either way. The Constitution requires a majority of the whole membership, and not merely a quorum, for an election.

For the sake of illustrating all the possibilities which the situation holds, grant that another deadlock blocked the Senate's action. What would follow after that?

It would take a fortune-teller to feel certain. For the Twelfth Amendment, which lays down all these complicated rulings, leaves off here and nothing takes its place.

Hughes Might Succeed.

It has been suggested that Secretary of State Hughes would fail heir to the presidency, because of the presidential succession act and the provisions of Article II, Section I of the Constitution. But if that is true, the same statute also requires him to call a special session of Congress, and, in this case, it might be the duty of the incoming Congress—the statute doesn't specifically affirm it or deny it—to elect a new President and Vice President.

It has also been suggested that the Supreme Court might be asked to pass on both the interpretation of the Constitution and the constitutionality of the statute. But the question raised, the method of electing a President, might be classed with what the Supreme Court calls "political" questions, over which it has no jurisdiction.

Other theories suggest all manner of emergency methods, from the appointment of an electoral commission, as in the Hayes-Tilden controversy, to the theory that the present occupant of the White House simply continues to hold office until his successor is elected.

Why is the law so vague?

Because it was drawn vaguely and we have never improved on it. The plain fact is that the Constitution makes no provision for the election of a President in the case of a deadlocked Senate and deadlocked House. Quite aside from the year 1924 and as a matter of good government, the Twelfth Amendment needs amending. It begs the issue. It puts extraordinary power in the hands of a Congress already voted out of office. It can work effectively only with two parties, not always then, and never if the two parties subdivide to three. It invites intrigue inside of Congress and, if it were invoked, would stir up public anger and distrust.

The country has gone muddling from the problem, on each occasion when it has faced it, only because the will to put the national house in better order has died down when the emergency is passed.

BRIDGE REFERENDUM TO REMAIN ON BALLOT

Election Board Decides Matter of Dismissing Suit to Condemn Land Shall Go to Vote.

Unless court action intervenes, the proposed referendum to prevent dismissal of the city's suit for condemnation of property for a northeast approach to the Municipal Bridge will remain on the ballot for the November election.

After a hearing Friday, in which the legality of the referendum was attacked by Glendy B. Arnold, counsel for the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Election Commissioners decided to stand by its previous action in presenting the issue to the voters.

Arnold, in his protest against the referendum plan, asked the board to reject petitions for it on the ground that the ordinance directing dismissal of the condemnation suit was not a legislative enactment, but merely an administrative order or resolution and therefore not subject to the approval or disapproval by the voters. He cited numerous court decisions in support of his argument.

Miss Emma Bobb, member of the Election Board, said yesterday it was not within the board's province to decide whether or not the ordinance was legal. An action identified by the Board of Aldermen as an ordinance, she said, must be assumed to be legal unless declared illegal by the courts.

Frank H. Gerhart, who was active in obtaining petitions for the referendum, and David Kreyling, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union, spoke in defense of the referendum.

City officials favored the ordinance because it stopped action on the northeast approach of the bridge. The city maintains there is insufficient money for the approach and no assurance that the railroads would use it if it was built as planned. Cost of the approach was estimated at $5,000,000 while the bond issue provided $1,500,000 for it.

MILK IN GLASS-LINED TANK IS SWEET AFTER SIX DAYS

Container Cooled to 36 Degrees Fahrenheit Before Being Filled With 1350 Gallons.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 4.—Milk that was transported nearly 600 miles in a glass-lined tank mounted on a motor truck, from Pittsburg to the National Dairy Show at Milwaukee, still is sweet after six days, association officials announced today. This test shows, the announcements says, that in an emergency milk could be brought from the Pacific Coast.

The truck left Pittsburg last Saturday night and reached Milwaukee Tuesday. The official test showed only .00127 per cent acidity. The trip covered approximately 56 hours.

The milk before being run into the ttnk was colled to 36 degrees fahrenheit. The milk, 1350 gallons, was taken to the fair grounds and 28,000 glasses of it dispensed free.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED

Men With Seasoned Bond Experience Preferred

The Brookmire Economic Service of New York, the oldest organization in the field, will shortly issue a new investment feature that will offer remarkable opportunities to some few bond men.

For years our work has thoroughly covered the fundamental business situation, commodity and investment markets, the building and lumber situation. We are now developing other features that will give to men qualified to become its representatives a selling equipment embracing the widest conceivable field, including merchants and manufacturers in every line, bankers, estates, insurance companies, institutions, sales and credit managers and private investors.

The very nature of its work and its educational value must of necessity place these men in important positions in their community. This connection will be on a commission basis and presents potential earnings considerably greater than nine out of ten men can make selling bonds.

An interview will be arranged by appointment only, Telephone Olive 4778.

WARNS AGAINST CROOK DURING V. P.'S VISIT

Detective Chief Suggest Methods to Circumvent Burglars and Other Thieves.

Chief of Detectives Hoagland issued a statement yesterday warning the public to beware of thieves and housebreakers during the celebration of the Veiled Prophet's visit and offering advice concerning the protection of property and valuables.

"As a precaution to prevent depredations by burglars during Veiled Prophet festivities, do not leave valuables at home unguarded," Hoagland said. "If possible, leave some member of your family at home or place your jewelry in safety deposit boxes at some bank or trust company.

"Leave a light burning in your home, but try to have the house appear otherwise to be deserted. Should you hear noises as of someone trying to enter your house, do not attempt to investigate the sounds yourself, but telephone the police and let them do the investigating for you. Your activity might result only in frightening the burglar away. Have every house a decoy for the housebreaker. Do not answer the telephone or door bell, as the caller might be a thief, simply trying to learn whether anybody is at home. Don't be afraid to phone the police, Olive 5000, if you hear or see any activity that seems suspicious.

"Those attending the parade should not wear valuable jewelry or carry large sums of money. In crowds and at street-car transfer points, keep a watch on your purse. If you detect a pickpocket in the act of looting your pockets, grab him and call for the police and be sure he is turned over to no one but a policeman. Pickpockets may be either men or women, black or white, flashily or shabbily dressed.

"Strangers coming to the city should beware of chance acquaintances on the street who are 'only too glad to show you around.' Ask only policemen, firemen or mail carriers for directions."

VICE CHAIRMAN FOR YORK RITE FUND DRIVE NAMED

Plans to Raise More Than $1,000,000 Will Be Discussed at Meeting on Tuesday.

Julius Seidel, general chairman of the campaign organization which plans to raise more than $1,000,000 to complete York Rite Masonic Temple, Lindell boulevard just west of Grand, announced yesterday the names of several who will act as vice chairmen of the General Executive Committee. They are W. Frank Carter, Edwin H. Conrades, William F. Gephart, Clarence H. Howard, William T. Koken, John G. Lonsdale, M. E. Singleton and Aaron Waldheim.

Seidel said that a General Executive Committee of more than a hundred representative business and professional men had been named and that these would meet at Hotel Statler at noon Tuesday to discuss the campaign.

The actual soliciting of funds will begin on Oct. 23 and continue until about Nov. 5. Preliminary organization work has been in progress for more than two months. About $2,000,000 already has been raised for the Temple and the building of the structure has reached a point where the cornerstone will be laid the latter part of this month.

AIR CAPTAIN IS AUTO VICTIM

Linton Cox Jr. of Indianapolis Killed Driving to Dayton, O.

NEWCASTLE, Ind., Oct. 4.—Linton Cox Jr., 26 years old, a captain in the Aviation Reserve Corps, and secretary to Merrill Moores, Seventh District Congressman, was fatally injured early today when an automobile which he was driving to Dayton, O., overturned near Straughn, Henry County. Three members of the Indianapolis Police Department, who also are Reserve Corps officers, escaped with minor injuries.

Cox was a member of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's squadron during the World War. The party was en route to the Dayton air races.

'FIRE PREVENTION WEEK' ON

Observance in Accordance With Proclamation of Mayor.

Observance of "Fire Prevention Week" begins today, in accordance with a proclamation by Mayor Kiel designating Oct. 5 to 11 as a period wherein the "citizenship of St. Louis will give the matter serious consideration."

The Mayor points out that the loss from preventable fires is enormous and that an educational campaign will do much toward eliminating losses.

Do Trifles Annoy and Upset You Do You Have Frequent Headaches Do You Quarrel With Those You Love Do You Jump When the Door Slams ?

Well Known Hospital Physician Says These Are Some of the Danger Signals of Exhausted Nerve Force—What To Do

One of the most terrible of all human ailments is exhausted nerve force. It weakens all the vital organs of the body and as a result all kinds of alarming symptoms may appear. Some people get nervous indigestion, pains over the eyes, in the heart and across the small of the back; in others the first symptoms are mental instead of physical—sleeplessness, worry over trifles, or inability to concentrate on your work.

The nervous mother is upset by her children, squabbles with her husband, has frequent fits of the "blues" and bursts into tears over the smallest troubles. In such cases it is worse than useless to waste time taking stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs; the starving nerve cells must have nerve food which is supplied by the blood. Any physician will tell you that if the blood supply were cut off from any nerve in your body that the nerve would die.

If you have any of the symptoms of nerve force exhaustion, you should at once take steps to enrich your blood. This can be quickly and most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron, which not only increases the activity of the blood making organs, but feeds true red blood food directly to the blood itself and thereby helps to create millions of new red blood cells.

The discovery of organic iron as contained in Nuxated Iron is one of the most valuable red blood making scientific discoveries since the creation of modern medical science, and its effect in helping to create new nerve force and revitalize worn-out exhausted nerve cells is sometimes most amazing.

Try Nuxated Iron for two weeks and if at the end of that time you have not obtained all and even greater benefits than you expect, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

NUXATED IRON INCREASES THE NERVE FORCE AND GIVES NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

FAT PEOPLE! LISTEN!

Here Is How I Took Off 50 Pounds In TWO Months. Simple, Easy, Harmless Way.

New French Discovery Creates Sensation in Paris and New York—No Weakening Diets, Absurd Creams or Worthless Garments.

At last you fat folks can have it all over your slender friends. For once you can give them the Ha! Ha! No more of these well-known phrases: "How fat you are getting"—"She would be a good-looking woman if she was not so fat"—"we do not carry a size large enough to fit you," or "don't eat this and don't eat that, it will make you fatter." No more puffing, pains, rheumatism or tired feeling. A new French discovery is doing away with fat for good. Amongst hundreds who have already tried this marvelous new way, Madame Elaine's case, of 350 West 31st St., N. Y. C. convinces you that no matter how fat you are or how many things you have tried before, now you can be relieved. Her case was an obstinate one, she had tried everything to reduce, and still she was getting fatter, until one day in Paris she found out the secret used by actresses and beautiful women to keep their figures slender, and with which she herself lost 50 pounds in two months—we are giving below exact directions she followed—already hundreds of men and women have found them successful.

DIRECTIONS.

EAT ALL YOU WANT: Do not weaken yourself with diets.

TAKE IT EASY: Do not tire yourself with exercises.

BE COMFORTABLE: Do not torture yourself with so-called reducing garments.

BE SENSIBLE: Do not rub yourself with worthless reducing creams. Simply go to any good drug store, get a package of SAN-GRI-NA tablets (do not accept any substitute). SAN-GRI-NA is now introduced in America for the first time, so you cannot say that you have tried anything similar before, but be sure to get SAN-GRI-NA. Take two small tablets before each meal and watch the fat disappear — NOTHING MAGIC, NOTHING DONE OVERNIGHT, BUT A STEADY LOSS IN WEIGHT AND A STEADY GAIN IN STRENGTH, HEALTH, BEAUTY, ENERGY.

NOTE: These tablets are the formula of a French physician. They cannot possibly hurt your stomach or your health. They are GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS and, while the fat disappears, they act as a general tonic on your system. Sold on a money-back guarantee.

On sale at any of Speckart Bros.', Draper's, Enderle's, Otto's, Judge & Dolph's, Wolff-Wilson's or Kranson Bros.' Drug Stores.

HARMLESS LAXATIVE
All Children Love Its Pleasant Taste

Mother!

Give Bilious, Constipated Child
"California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will sweeten the stomach and thoroughly clean the little bowels, and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the pleasant taste of this gentle, harmless laxative. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

MUSIC LEAGUE GETS LOCAL INDORSEMENT

Junior Chamber of Commerce to Get 200 Memberships; Other Civic Bodies Approve It.

At the close of the first week's drive in behalf of the Civic Music League of St. Louis, it was announced yesterday that the Junior Chamber of Commerce had made itself responsible for 200 memberships, and that the undertaking had been indorsed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Optimists, Rotarians, Phi Beta Psi, Cosmopolitan and Co-operative Clubs. The campaign closes next Friday.

The organization is said to be one of 75 similar enterprises in the country, the purpose of which is to popularize music and widen its appeal. The plans for the coming season comprise five concerts, to which only members are to be admitted, and the cost of which will be $5 for the season, or $1 each. The artists to be presented are Vladimir de Pachmann, Cyrena van Gordon, Claudia Muzio, Tito Schipa and Mischa Elman.

It is stated that no profit will be derived by any individual or organization. One feature promised is that program notes will be mailed to members a week before each concert, so that they may not go unprepared.

Officers of the Civic Music League are Mayor Henry W. Kiel, honorary president; F. W. A. Vesper, president; Thomas W. Garland and Isaac A. Hedges, vice presidents; R. F. McNally, treasurer, and Elizabeth Cueny, secretary-manager. The executive board includes W. Frank Carter, E. M. Grossman, John H. Gundlach, Adolph A. Meyer, C. F. G. Meyer and Aaron Waldheim.

ALASKA SALMON COUNT MADE BY USE OF FENCE

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 5.—For the fourth consecutive year hundreds of thousands of red salmon have been stopped and counted as they made their spawning "run" from the Karluk River into Karluk Lake on Kodiak Island. The work was under the direction of C. H. Gilbert, fisheries expert of Stanford University.

A weir, or fish fence, was built across the river during the fishing season. The salmon were forced to pass through small gates in the fence to enter the lake. A watchman counted them.

Prof. Gilbert points out that if the number of fish that return at maturity to the spawning ground in a certain year can be ascertained, there will be definite information as to the number to be saved each year for reproduction. The count also will determinate the maximum of the salmon run. Tabulation for the fourth consecutive year will enable the packers to ascertain the number of four, five, six and seven-year salmon.

TO COMMAND AT LAKEHURST

Capt. Steele, Now With ZR-3, Made Naval Air Station Chief.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Orders were issued today at the Navy Department assigning Capt. George W. Steele, now in charge of the observation party with the airship ZR-3 in Germany, to command the Navy Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., upon his arrival in this country.

The raeson for the assignment was the intention of the department that Capt. Steele should take command of the ZR-3 when it is turned over by the German crew to the commanding officer at Lakehurst.

Colorado Assessment Declines.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 4.—Assessed valuation of all property in Colorado for the year 1924 amounts to $1,540,667,674, according to the State Tax Commission. This is a decrease from last year of $2,544,218. The loss is accounted for by depression in farming and livestock industries.

GARDEN AND FLOWER EXHIBIT BY CHILDREN

First Prize in Collective Display Awarded to the Dewey School.

Garden products grown by school children, including nearly all the flowers and vegetables profitably grown in St. Louis, besides small quantities of hemp, flax, tobacco, cotton, corn, broom corn, sorghum and the like, were displayed last week at the Educational Museum, 3640 North Market street.

More than 60 varieties of vegetables and farm products were shown, besides a few cans of vegetables grown this year. About 75 varieties of cut flowers and ornamental plants also were displayed.

The Dewey School won first prize among the collective school exhibits with the largest exhibit of vegetables, farm products and flowers. Second place was awarded the Stix School for an ingeniously arranged collection of flowers, and third place went to the Meramec School, which exhibited a special collection of potted ferns and cut flowers in vases, each specimen being adjudged nearly perfect.

Special recognition was given the Emerson School for a small display of vegetables and flowers in glass jars stained with enamel by pupils of the ungraded department. Colors were well blended and enhanced floral beauty which might have been lost in less attractive vases.

The St. Louis Avenue Boys' Class showed a collection of butterflies and moths flanking a mass of mixed cut flowers in a way to suggest comparison of the insect and flower coloring. The insects were under glass, each being imbedded in cotton in a separate box, and their wings were spread to show the full pattern. A bat shown with them was considered appropriate, since bats feed on harmful insects.

BLEACHERIES MERGER LIKELY

By the Associated Press.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 4.—A merger of several of the principal bleacheries and cloth-converting concerns of the country, includin the Lowell Bleachery plants here, at St. Louis, Mo., and at Griffin, Ga., is under discussion.

A capitalization of $5,000,000 is proposed, and a meeting of stockholders of the Lowell Bleachery has been called for Oct. 10. The National Fabric & Finishing Co., probably will be the name. Other cloth converters that may be involved include the W. A. Lippincott Co. of Philadelphia, the Seiser Ballantyne Co. of Cincinnati, and the Kallman-Newcomb Co., the Farnsworth-Hoyt Co., and the W. H. Holbrook Co., all of Boston.

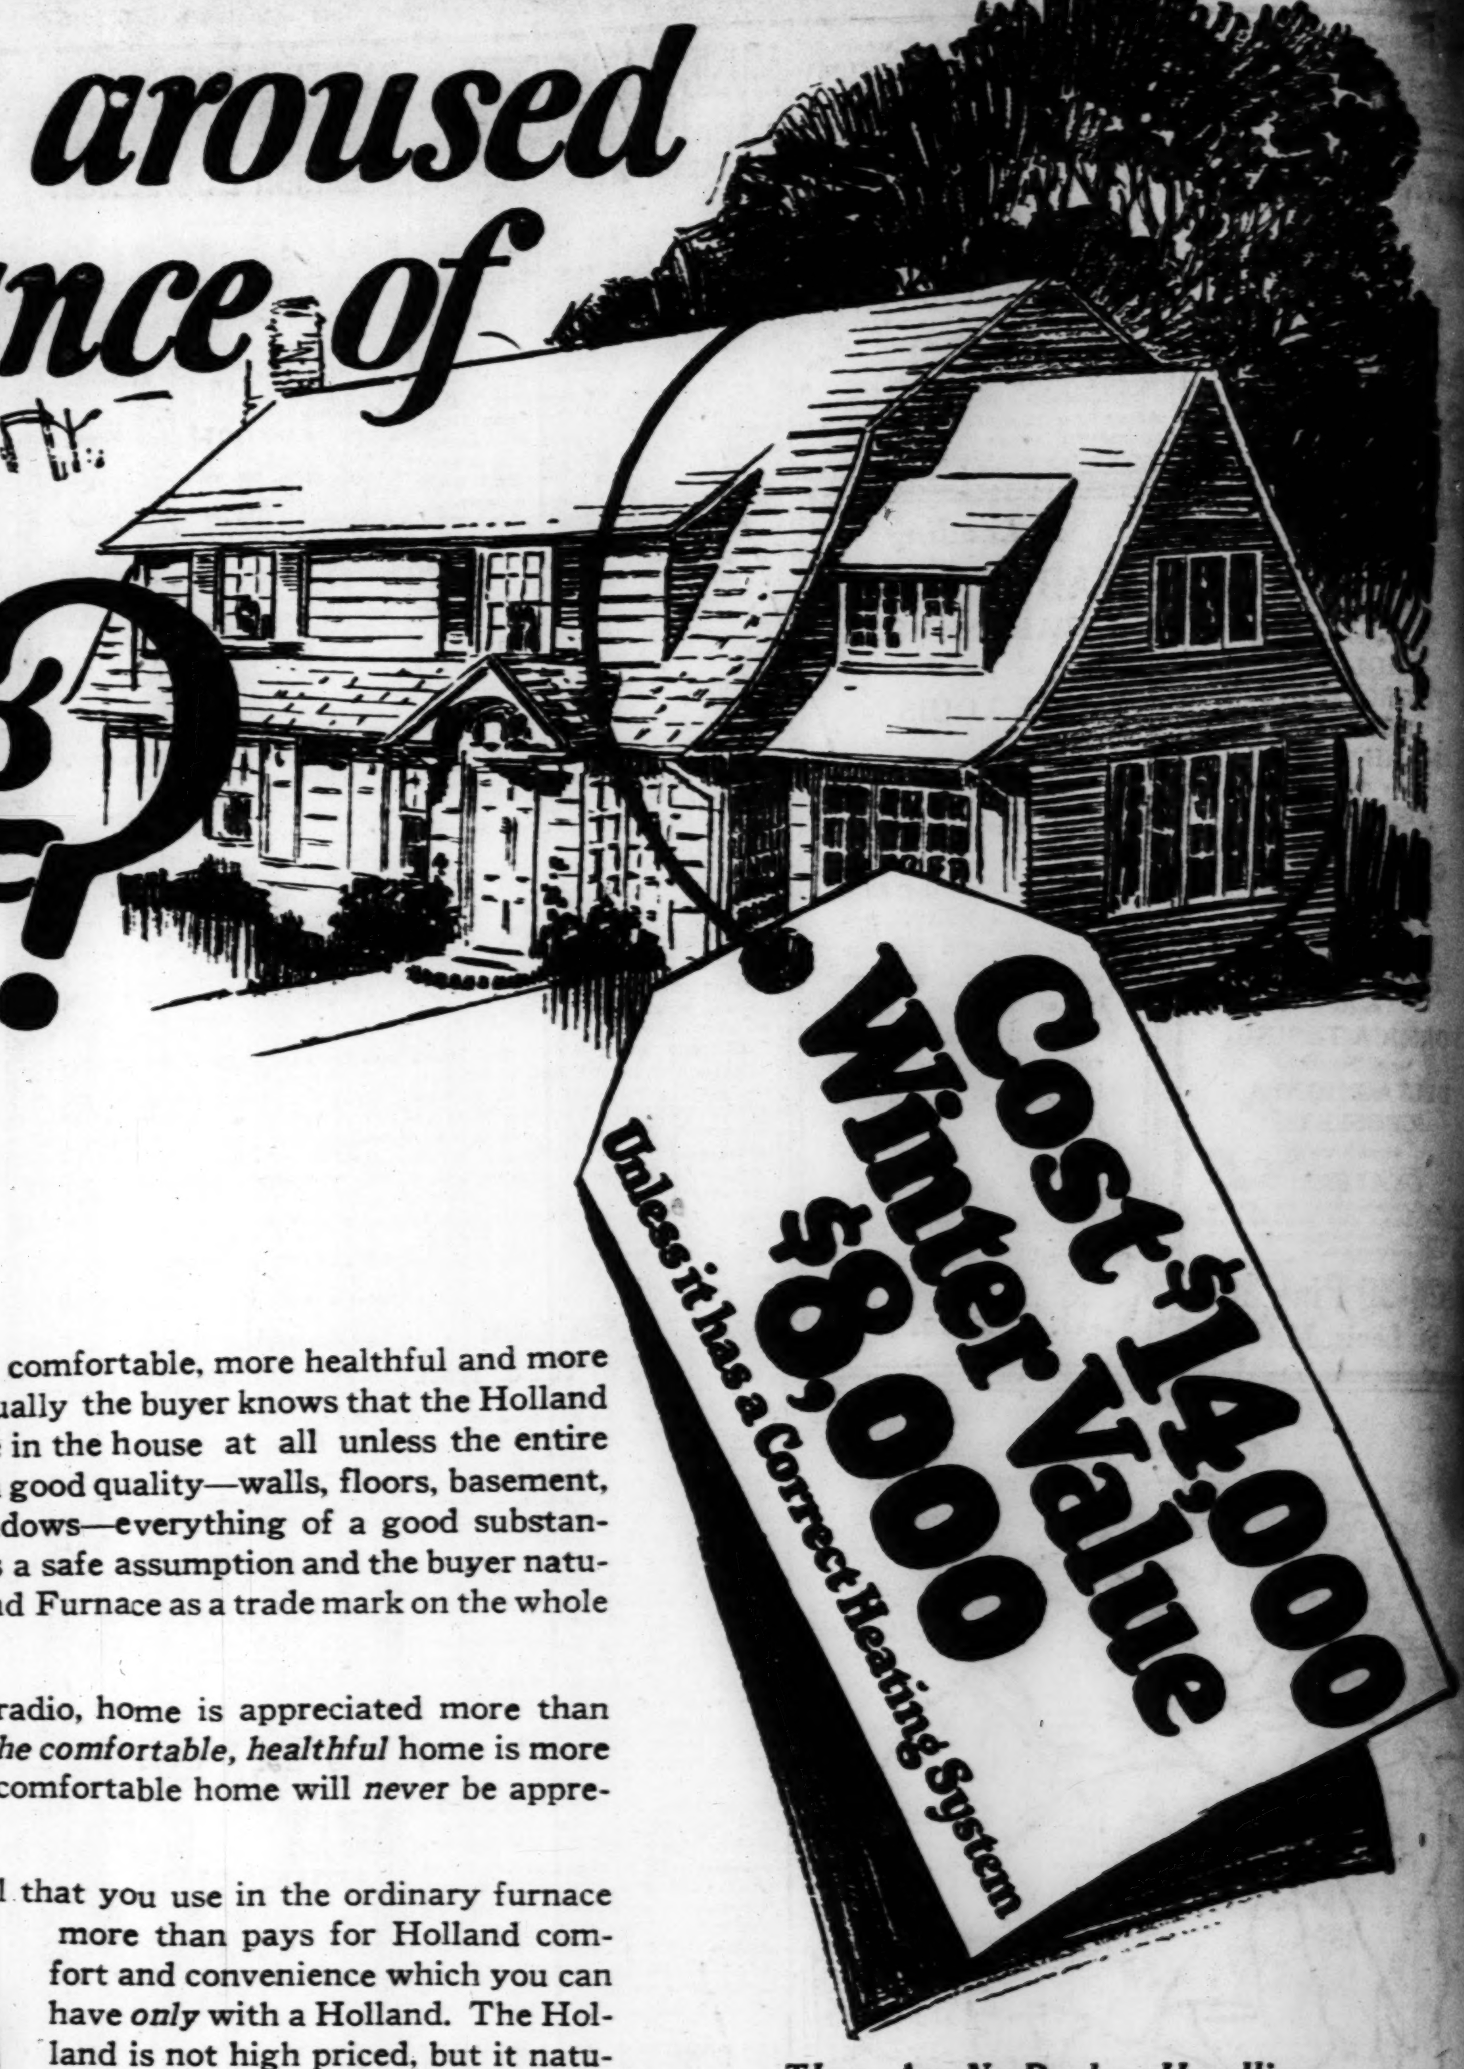
Are you aroused to the importance of Better Home-Heating?



Cost $14,000
Winter Value $8,000
Unless it has a Correct Heating System

Do You Realize What The Holland Home-Heating System Can Mean In The Lives of Yourself And Family?

Good bread is often looked upon as a standard among food values. And yet the Holland System of Home-Heating is more nearly standard in the heating field—in hundreds of cities, great and small—more nearly standard than bread as a food.

This is largely true because hundreds of thousands of people have learned to demand more of the Holland System and have made certain that they get more.

In hundreds of cities, there are more Holland Furnaces sold than all competing furnaces combined.

Burns Any Fuel

The fact that the Holland Furnace burns soft coal just as efficiently as hard coal, makes it popular among the many foresighted people who want to be prepared for any coal emergency.

But what, first of all, do you want when you pay your good money for a heating system? Don't you want your entire house kept comfortable and clean—at the least possible expense—and with most convenience?

That is exactly what the majority of thinking people pay for. And that is what the Holland Contract and Holland Guarantee Bond positively guarantee you.

You wouldn't think of drinking water from a stagnant pool. Yet many people are breathing stagnant air, and very dry air, heated by steam, hot-water or the old-fashioned "hot-air" system.

The reasons that Real Estate men get more for Holland-Heated Homes are very simple. People know that the name Holland on the door of a furnace means that the whole house is more comfortable, more healthful and more economical. And usually the buyer knows that the Holland Furnace would not be in the house at all unless the entire building were of extra good quality—walls, floors, basement, roof, foundation, windows—everything of a good substantial grade. All this is a safe assumption and the buyer naturally takes the Holland Furnace as a trade mark on the whole property.

With the coming of radio, home is appreciated more than ever before. That is, the comfortable, healthful home is more appreciated. The uncomfortable home will never be appreciated.

The unnecessary fuel that you use in the ordinary furnace more than pays for Holland comfort and convenience which you can have only with a Holland. The Holland is not high priced, but it naturally does cost more than a furnace that is sold with no other advantage than price. Why pay the price of a Holland, and much more, in doctor bills and fuel and dirt?

Annual Visit of His Majesty, The Veiled Prophet, To Open Social Season This Week

ebutantes, Most of Whom Will Make Their Bow at Court of the Mystic Potentate Wednesday Night, to Occupy Center of Society's Interest--Parties on Calendar for Week.

NE of the world's few remaining crowns, that of his majesty, the Veiled Prophet, has been taken from its wrappings, and is being prepared for its annual appearance at court Wednesday night. Hundreds of loyal subjects await the coming of a much-loved kindly potentate, and the chivalry and romance inherited from the famous Louis courts France will again be manifest at the colorful ball to be given in his honor.

e would think that the pomp and pagtry of a make-believe court in an imagiy kingdom would die of sheer ennui, and the entrance of our gala prophet, who tes himself for the remainder of the year, e signal for ever-increased applause, and breath-taking minute before the identity e new Queen is revealed never fails of int.

On Tuesday Miss Margaret nother debutante, will entertain at luncheon for another out-of-town guest who is visiting her—Miss Ellen Cook of Atlantic City.

Wednesday society will spend in preparation for the evening's festivities. In addition to the ball itself, there will be brilliant dinner parties at the various clubs, chief among which is the party at the St. Louis Club with the new queen of love and beatuy and the immediate court seated around a central table. More than 800 reservations have been made for this house alone. A few of those who will entertain guests are Miss Mary Louise Cotter, daughter of William Cotter, who bids fair to be a popular member of the debutante contingent; Miss Alice Muckerman, another deb; and Miss Frances Fristoe, who came out last year.

The wedding of Miss Lottie Merrell, daughter of Mrs. Mattie H. Merrell of Waterman avenue, and Charles Willis Dean Jr., of East Orange, N. J., will take place that evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Merrell, 6209 Washington boulevard.

Occupying the stellar place on Thursday's calendar is the wedding of Miss Betty Hodgman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hodgman, and Willia mM. B. Freeman of Brookline, Mass., at St. Michael and All Angels' Church at 6 o'clock. Miss Eakin will be hostess at a dinner for Miss Ceek that day, and Miss Marjorie Frampton will give a party for the debutantes at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Frampton, on Westmoreland Drive.

Friday will keep the debutantes busy. There will be a luncheon at Bellerive Country Club at which Miss Elizabeth Dyer will be hostess; a similar affair by Miss Whiteside for Miss Louise Fownes of Pittsburg, her guest. Miss Dorothy Bolin will be hostess at a luncheon for Miss Harriet Gregg of Cleveland, and a

MANY ST. LOUISANS AT MURPHY-PALMS WEDDING

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 4.—St. Paul's Church at Grosse Pointe never presented a lovelier appearance than today for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Celimene Palms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Palms, and Edward Murphy. The bride was gowned in wonderful old rose pointe lace, which for four generations has been worn by brides of the family. The lines of the gown were straight and it was unadorned save for orange blossoms which held the drapery in place. The sleeves were of lace and the court train from the shoulders was of satin back crepe, softened with a fall of lace on either side. A coronet of lace and orange blossoms held her tulle veil in place and her bouquet was composed of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Bridesmaids in Blue.

The bride's attendants were in turquoise blue from their velvet ostrich trimmed hats to the tips of their dainty slippers. They were attired alike in one-piece gowns of moire, finished around the bottom of the skirts with silk fringe, a pink rose fastened on the right shoulder furnished a pleasing color contrast. Their bouquets were ophelia roses and lavender flowers. Comprising the bridal cortege were Mrs. Charles L. Palms Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor, and Miss Charlotte Dey, Miss Eleanore Jewett, Miss Betty Hendrie, and the following St. Louis

Arrangements for the wedding of Miss Audrey Faust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust of 1 Portland place, and Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr., on Nov. 8, have been completed. The bridal party, comprising 22 persons, will be the largest in St. Louis in a number of years. That of Miss Elizabeth Carter was a close second. At her marriage to Wayman McCreery Allen a year or two ago 10 young women and an equal number of men accompanied her to the altar.

Miss Dorothy Simmons, who is to become Mrs. Walter J. Hock of Detroit, Oct. 18, will be matron of honor for Miss Faust, and her other attendants will be Mrs. Leicester Faust, sister-in-law of the bride; Misses Grace and Janet Wallace, sisters of the bridegroom; Misses Catherine Louise Crunden, Mary Denman Clark, Elizabeth Cook, Eleanor Simmons, Frances Collins, Mary Taylor Allderdice of Pittsburg, Pa., and Betty Stoddard of New York. Asa Brookings Wallace will be his brother's best man, and the groomsmen will include Boyle Rodes, Leicester Faust, Garneau Weld, Clifton Scudder Jr., John Curlee, Albert Bond Lambert Jr., Ira E. Wight Jr., Samuel C. Capen Jr., Walter J. Hock of Detroit and Frederick Gardner.

The ceremony will take place at the Faust home at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. George E. Norton, former rector of St. Michael and All Angels' Church, will officiate.

Society Ready for Opening of Season's Formal Functions

Summer Travelers Have Returned, Winter Homes Are in Order and New Wardrobes Have Arrived.

The early autumn finds society almost intact. Summer travelers, with few exceptions, have returned from the resorts, and, their winter houses in order and their new wardrobes fresh from the makers, they await the opening of the formal season.

Mrs. Charles W. Moore of 36 Portland place and her family have returned from Watch Hill, R. I., and a visit in New York. Mrs. R. Van der Woude, who, with Mr. Van der Woude, formerly occupied the Blaksley Collins house in Portland place, was Mrs. Moore's guest during the summer, and will come to St. Louis this week for a 10-day visit. The Van der Woudes now reside in Tampico, Mex. Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Van der Woude attended the polo matches at Westbury, L. I., and were the guests of Dwight F. Davis, formerly of St. Louis, in the box adjoining that of the Prince of Wales.

Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott of 31 Westmoreland place has returned from a summer trip. With her daughter, Miss Alice, she spent the early season at her bungalow in Santa Barbara, Cal., and later went to Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., where another daughter, Mrs. Thomas Blumer, has a summer home. Miss Alice Scott is still in the East. Mr. and Mrs. George Drake will make their home in St. Louis this winter, and are with Mrs. Scott until they find an apartment. Mrs. Scott was Miss Mary Keck of New York.

From resorts along the Atlantic Coast, a group including Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg of Westmoreland place, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Simpkins of Waterman avenue, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis of Portland place, and Daniel K. Catlin of Westmoreland place, returned a few days ago. Mrs. Catlin accompanied her daughter, Miss Gertrude, to Farmington, Conn., where she attends Miss Porter's School. Mrs. Arthur B. Shepley and her daughter, Miss Emily Catlin Shepley, have also returned home. They spent the summer at their home in Maine, and Miss Shepley attended the wedding of Miss Sally Sage in New York en route to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiggins of 17 Portland place are expected home Wednesday from their summer home at Rye Beach, N. H. They have been touring during part of November, and attended the hundredth anniversary of girls; Miss Josephine Bates, a cousin of the bride; Miss Dorothy Simmons and Miss Mary Denman Clark, as bridesmaids.

Breakfast Outdoors.

The men in the wedding procession were Nortbert Sullivan, best man, and G. Hammond Casgrain, Earle Pungs, George Johnston, Richard Reaume, Edward Duane, R. Lockhart Wilbur and John Reynolds.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Palms on Grosse Pointe boulevard, the breakfast being served out of doors under a huge marquee.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will sail soon for Europe on their honeymoon, to be gone three months.

Included among the guests from out of town at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Chouteau Walsh of New York and Mrs. Robert A. B. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. William Maffitt, Mrs. Thomas Pierce and Mrs. Julius S. Walsh Jr., all of St. Louis, uncles and aunts of the bride. She is a granddaughter of the late Julius S. Walsh.

the Troy Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y., of which Mr. Wiggins is an alumnus.

Mrs. Edward H. Simmons of Hanley road has returned from New York, where she went with her daughter, Miss Dorothy, to purchase Miss Simmons' trousseau, and stopped at Detroit, where a home is being built for her daughter and the latter's fiance. Miss Simmons will become the bride of Walter J. Hock of Detroit, Oct. 8.

Mrs. H. Blaksley Collins of 50 Portland place spent the month of September in the East. They are now in New York and wil return home about the middle of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims of 56 Portland place have returned from their summer home at Wood's Hole, Mass.

Miss Mary Porter Scott and her father, William D. Scott of 5414 Delmar boulevard, have returned from New York. Miss Scott spent the summer in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. J. D. Perry Francis is home from a summer's visit in California.

Mrs. Edwin T. Nugent of 5228 Westminster place and her daughters, Misses Marie and Edwine Nugent, have returned from their cottage at Eastern Point, New London, Conn.

Miss Judith Dana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana of Brentmoor, has returned from the East. The Dana family occupied their summer home at Wianno, Mass., and later Miss Judith visited a cousin in New York.

Mrs. Bertha Chouteau Turner of the Buckingham Hotel has returned from Douglas, Mich.

Mrs. W. W. Boyd has returned from Chautauqua, N. Y., and will be at Fairmont Hotel this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Firmin Vincent Desloge of 4445 Lindell boulevard have returned from Brielle, N. J., where they leased a cottage for the summer. Their youngest son, Ted, spent the summer with them, while the two older boys were at camp in Maine.

Mrs. Dalton T. Francis of 310 North Newstead avenue and her children have returned from a summer spent at Northport Point, Mich.

Mrs. Edward Sicher of 4961 West Pine boulevard and her son, Stanley Homer Sicher, have returned home from Europe. Mr. Sicher was a student at the American Conservatory of Music in Fontainbleu.

Shoes That Fit Don't Deform

Breathes there the woman who hasn't yearned to secure a true fit in fashionable Shoes? When spindle heels and pointed toes were in fashion, that was, of course, impossible. Nature didn't make feet and time couldn't deform feet sufficiently to fit perfectly into Shoes so fashioned. But now—in the Cantilever Shoe, women can secure fashionable footwear that fits.

THIS is a typical Kline Big Sale Thousands of women know — their pocketbooks know—what that means. There are no ifs nor becauses about our unequaled market dominance, for we not only maintain a great specialty establishment in St. Louis, but others equally as large and important in Detroit, Kansas City and Cincinnati. Small wonder that when our buyers go into the market, manufacturers are willing to do everything in their power to make our Big Sales never-to-be-forgotten events! This Coat Sale IS such an event. In fact, it would be impossible to gather so many wonderful Coats without such a compelling influence.

WE wish here to publicly thank the dozens or so Coat manufacturers who have gladly sacrificed profit in order to make this marvelous sale a pace-setter in every sense of the word. We want to commend the efforts of our buyers who have beseeched, begged and demanded Coats that would fittingly fulfill our merchandising manager's battle cry for this event. And we say unqualifiedly, that in styling, in workmanship, in trimmings, in linings, in fur trims it is a notable effort—one we are very proud of and you will long remember—IF YOU BUY A COAT.

MANY WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Mrs. W. K. Roth of 5798 Pershing avenue, was hostess at a bridge luncheon Wednesday for 40 guests, at which she announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Eleanor Roth, and John O. Price. Miss Roth is a graduate of Mary Institute and received her degree at Washington University in June. She also attended the University of Wisconsin for two years, and became a member of Alphia Xi Delta sorority. Mr. Price is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price of McComb, Miss.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Engel, daughter of Mrs. Maude Gunnison Engel, and Samuel G. Hallett, took place yesterday morning at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. George W. Gunnison, 5108 Raymond avenue. The Rev. Dr. Russell Henry Stafford, of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. Miss Dorothy Engel was her sister's maid of honor, and Robert Abbott was best man.

Mr. Hallett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hallett, of 5156 Cabanne avenue. He is a graduate of Purdue University and served as a naval officer during the World War.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman S. Waldron of 5367 Pershing avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Waldron, and George Lester Schaberg, on Sept. 6. Mrs. Schaberg was formely of Dallas, Tex. She is a graduate of Ward-Belmont College in Nashville and of Wells College, where she received a bachelor of music degree. Mr. Schaberg is a graduate of Principia, class of 1911.

Miss Carol Tuckley Heineman, niece of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rodney of 720 Interdrive, will become the bride of Leo F. Lausketter of Webster Groves at All Saints' Church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Miss Marie Lausketter will be maid of honor, and Walter O'Keefe best man. A breakfast will follow at the home of the bride's parents. Several parties have preceded the wedding, among the largest being a bridge for 40 guests, given last night by Mrs. Leslie C. Cox, 5936 Clemens avenue.

Announcements have been sent out for the marriage of Hiss Hazel Dell Willing and Raleigh R. Conklin of Chicago, Ill., Saturday, Sept. 20, at the home of Mrs. Mabel Case Lawrence, in Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Conklin is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Mae C. Willing of Cates avenue. She was on a visit to Chicago when her marriage took place, and the event was a surprise to her St. Louis friends. After Dec. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Conklin will be at home in Hotel Aragon, Chicoga.

Regarding the $6.60 Hats

by

Shirley Deane

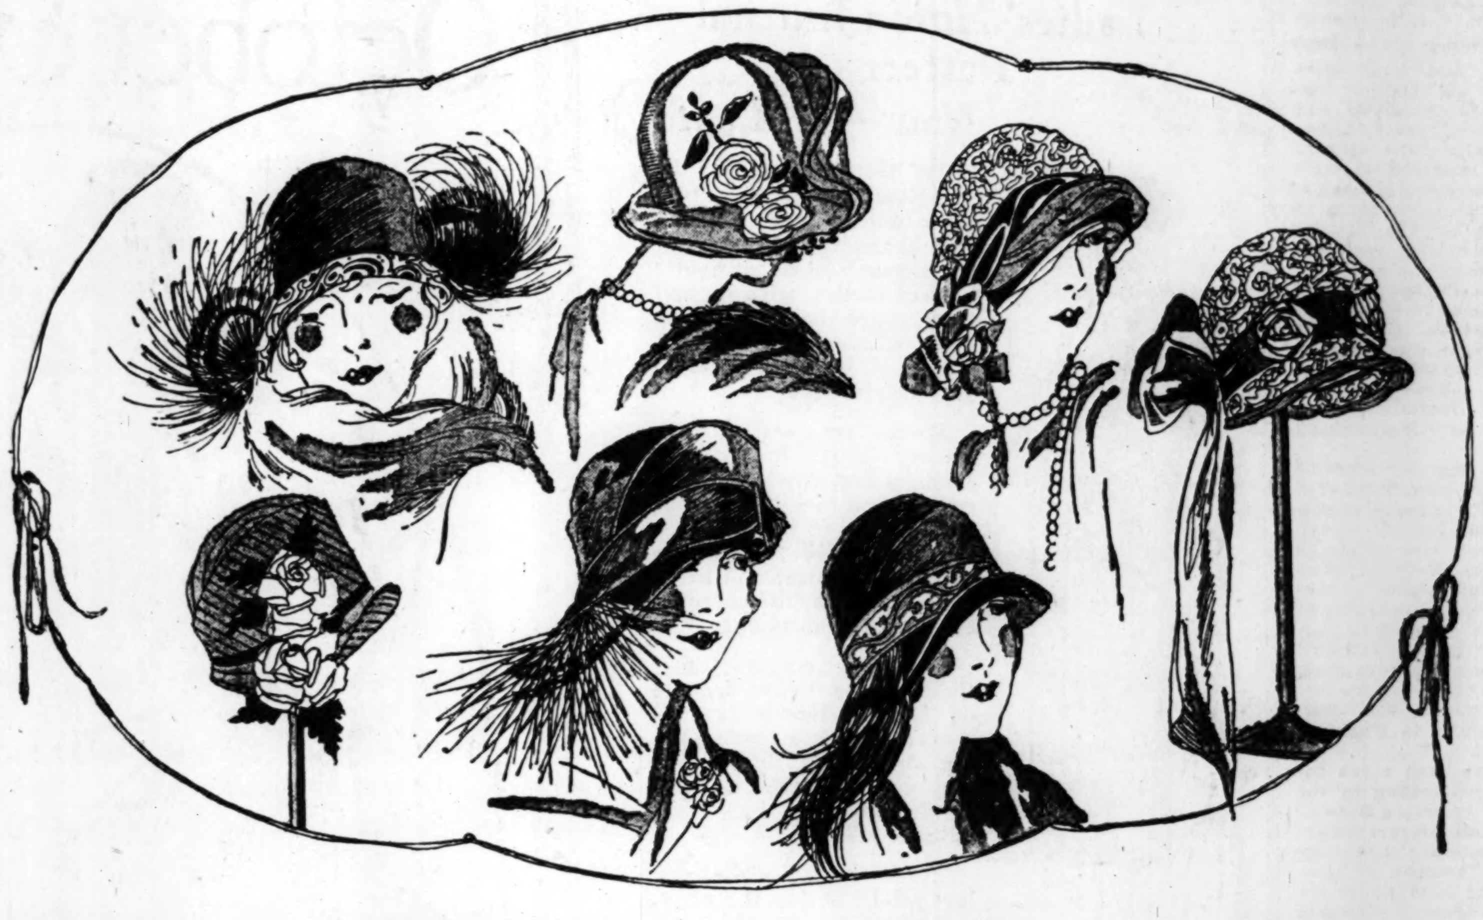
With every new shipment of Hats received, I have noticed more and more tinsel, metallic cloth and gold and silver stitchery, cleverly combined with Winter millinery fabrics. It is the most advanced Winter note and the Hats in Monday's $6.6o Sale typify this new mode in many stunning versions.

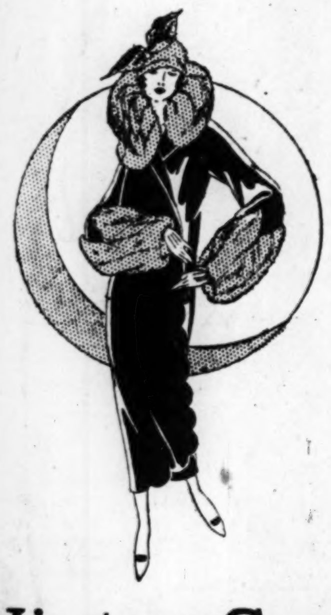
The Influence of Windows

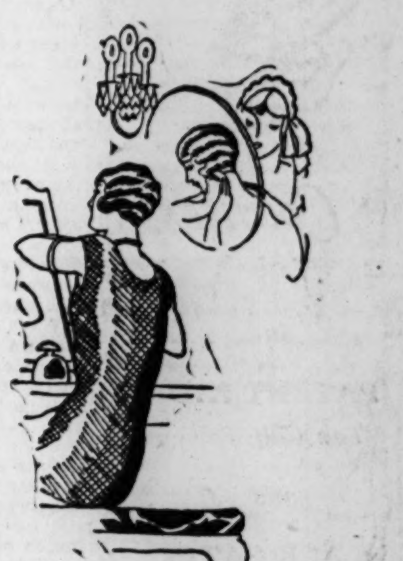
by

Shirley Deane

By this I mean Shop Windows. I couldn't venture to guess the number of people that gaze in our windows daily. Thousands, maybe tens of thousands. And for this reason every smallest item for window trimming is new, authoritative. With every Frock the correct accessories are associated. Beauty and authenticity combined!







Sale of 600 New Winter Hats

Advance Styles Bought in a Special Purchase

Our tremendous purchasing power enables us to provide at all times exceptional values; and to secure several times each season such concessions from manufacturers that we can offer values quite beyond the power of smaller establishments. Such values are offered in this Sale!

$6.60

Satin, Lyons and Panne velvet, silver, gold and metallic laces, metallic, tapestry and allover embroidery cloths, are fashioned into every new shape, with such trims as monkey fur, badger fur pompons, burnt goose, hackle feathers, French flowers, laces, metallic ribbons and embroideries.

All Are Styles Suitable for Mid-Winter Wear
All Are Worthy a Place in Our French Salon

(Millinery Shop—Second Floor.)

Winter Coats and Topcoats

A Comprehensive Collection of Matrons' and Misses' Frocks Provides the Unusual for Daytime and Evening Wear

The charm of many of the Evening Gowns may be attributed to their simplicity. For in addition to the many brilliantly beaded creations, there is a separate and distinct type quite simple, in comparison, and yet conspicuously alluring. They are the more fluffy type, the chiffons, soft Georgettes, laces. They are not entirely innocent of adornment, but choose furs and feathers, French flowers, and less elaborate pearl and rhinestone embroideries. They are usually in high colors or contrasting ombre shades.

The Daytime Frocks have many exquisite interpretations in satins, plain and Jacquard failles, and crepes in the newer versions. But they do not neglect the tailored fabrics. Charmeen, in navy blue, takes the guise of coat dresses, or tunic frocks, and even of ensemble costumes, in tailored modes of extreme originality. Rows of buttons, fur bands, lace jabots, vivid bits of embroidery lend chic in a variety of ways. The wood shades also offer a number of styles in this price group.

Actress Tells Secret

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES OF MISSOURIANS IN CAPITAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Robert Woods Bliss, United States Minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss, who arrived in Washington last week, were hosts to about 100 friends on Wednesday at an informal dinner marking the opening of their new chateau in Georgetown, one of the show places of the capital. Before returning to Sweden in November, the Minister and Mrs. Bliss will visit their native city, St. Louis.

Mrs. Frederick Irving Cox, wife of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Cox, will go to St. Louis next week to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wells Blodgett Priest. Mrs. Cox has placed her son, James Houston Simpson Cox, in Mercersburg Academy.

So successful was the Missouri night at the Blackburn Davis Club last week that it was repeated yesterday with Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, of Missouri, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Edwin S. Puller, of Missouri, as the principal speakers of the evening. Mrs. Bernard La Jarman, a member of the Missouri colony here, sang a group of State songs and dancing followed the formal exercises. About 300 Missourians now residing in Washington, were present.

Washington has been much interested in the publication in the Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine of an informative article on "The Electoral College," by Mrs. James M. Thomson of New Orleans, who was Miss Genevieve Champ Clark, daughter of the late Speaker and Mrs. Champ Clark. Mrs. Thomson gathered the material for this story while in Washington in August and it will be followed shortly by a newspaper series on women and politics.

Mrs. John B. Henderson, widow of the late Senator from Missouri, will resume in November the dancing class of which she has been a moving force for 14 years. It will meet on Monday afternoons from 5 to 6 o'clock and many social celebrities of resident, official and diplomatic circles, will attend its sessions.

Miss Beatrice Henderson, granddaughter of Mrs. Henderson, will not have a formal coming-out party but will be considered among the season's debutantes. She will continue her studies under private tutors meanwhile, leaving her school at Foxcroft, Warrenton, Va., after Thanksgiving in order to spend more time with her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Pritchett Allen Harris of 5727 McPherson avenue, announce the birth of a son, whom they have named Pritchett Allen Jr. Monday, Sept. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansur Tebbetts are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, who is named Nancy Park Tebbetts.

A cable announcing the birth of a daughter to Lieut. and Mrs. C. N. McFarland at Schofield Barracks, Honolulu, was received Thursday. Mrs. McFarland, before her marriage, was Miss Eugenia Stephens, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Stephens of Knickerbocker Apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. Belmont F. Marsden of Detroit, Mich., are being congratulated on the arrival of a son, whom they have named Dean. Mrs. Marsden was Miss Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Smith of University City.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dozier Conant of 4396 Maryland avenue announce the arrival of a son, whom they have named Judson Bemis Conant, for the baby's grandfather. Mrs. Conant was Miss Elizabeth Bemis.

o'clock in the evening. Mrs. George B. Haar, formerly Miss Marie Zukoski, a sister of the bridegroom, will be matron of honor, and Misses Ruth Edom, sister of the bride, and Miss Ruth Warren, bridesmaids. Arthur Zukoski will be his brother's best man, and John Becker and Jack Atwood of Ferguson, groomsmen. After the ceremony there will be a reception for the families and close friends. Mr. Zukoski will take his bride on an extended honeymoon trip, and they will occupy their new home at Elizabeth and Darst road upon their return. Miss Edom received her bachelor of arts degree at Washington University in June and will obtain her master's degree this year.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Gertrude Rittenhouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rittenhouse of 4935 Arlington avenue, and George La Mont Sanders, of Webster Groves, which took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. William Forney Hovis officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Florence Honerkamp and the bridegroom by Henry Fisher. Arrangements were informal and only a few relatives of the couple attended. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders are taking a brief honeymoon trip, and will be at home at Big Bend and Berry roads, Webster Groves.

Very smart Jacquette of Jap weasel in a becoming golden tan; novel sleeves gathered to a tight cuff. Collar of beige fox. $275.

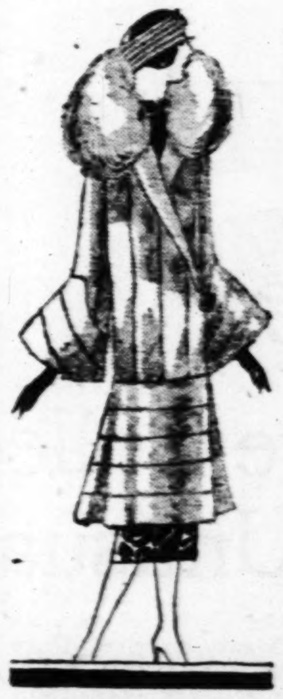
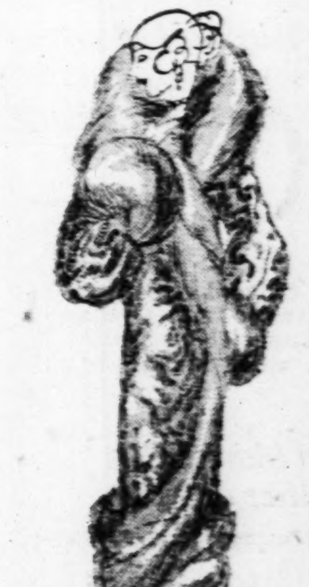
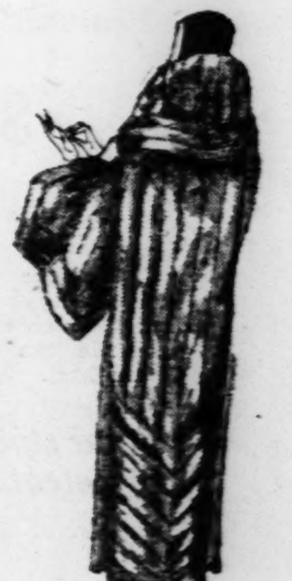
THE mode in Furs, as definitely established for the Winter season of 1924-1925, finds its authentic presentation to St. Louis women on the occasion of our October Exhibit and Sale. Furriers have done new and wondrous things with familiar pelts—shaping them into lines of exquisite grace, matching them into new and intricate ways, treating them almost as fabrics, perfecting their color, and producing unusual combinations—until there has evolved a new order of Fur Fashions. This occasion, rightfully taking a premier position among its kind, presents distinctive expressions of this creative art, in garments modest and costly—each one bearing a price mark so low as to make a definite buying appeal.



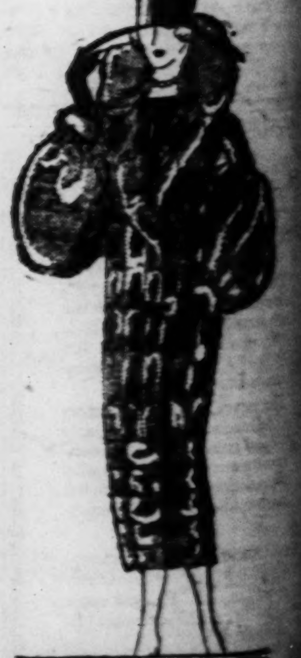
Antelope—one of the short-haired pelts so smart this season—fashions this Coat with circular flares. Large Fox collar. $275.



Soft, silky Fox forms the deep collar and deep bands of this beautiful Wrap of American Broadtail (processed lamb). Exquisite in soft cocoa shade. $550.



Luxurious Wrap of Eastern mink; dark, lustrous skins, beautifully matched. Deep reveres, and large collar; wide sleeves. $1650.



Two tones of gray—Mole for the wrap, and Squirrel for the collar and ingenious sleeves—achieve a most unusual effect. $375.

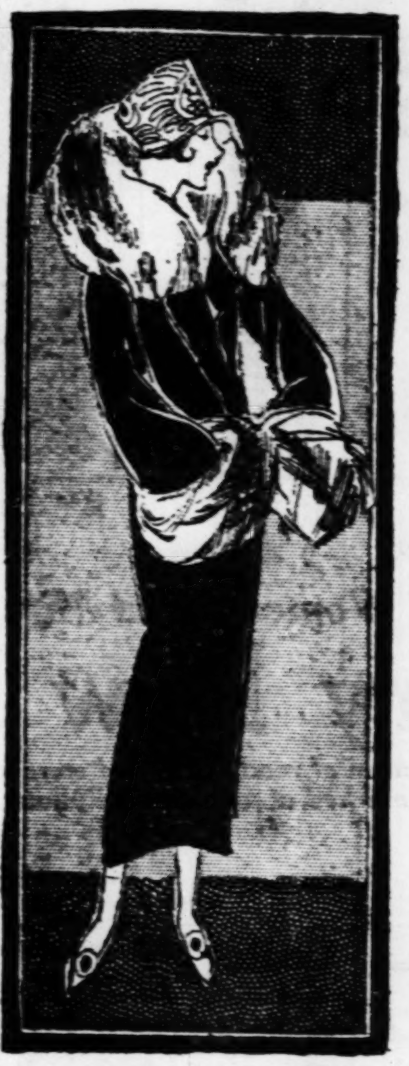
Women of St. Louis—Monday Is the Big Day

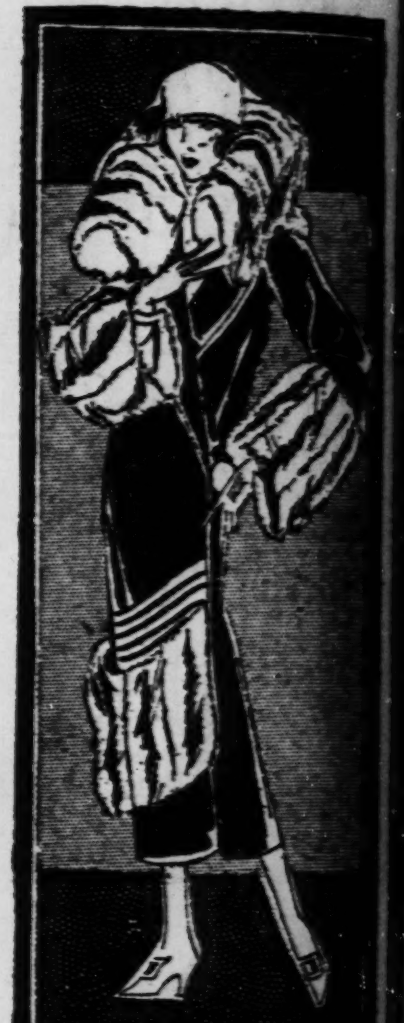
Our Annual October Sale of Women's and Misses' Winter

COATS



We Advise Early Attendance

Many Only One of a Kind



Great as have been these sales in the past, greater values will be found in the sale which we hold Monday. Last year we sold more than 500 Coats in a single day.

Sale Starts at 9:15 A. M.

Many of These Coats Have Fur Collars and Cuff Sets

Many With Fur Borders—and Most All Silk Lined and Interlined

Good news for fashion-loving St. Louisans. A sale in which style and beauty share honors with the utmost in values. For more than a month we have been preparing for this Great, Great Sale—1147 Coats have been assembled from 15 of America's famous Coat makers—the "cream" of their stocks and because of volume orders placed by our "combine" stores we receive price concessions much beyond the ordinary. In fact, at our sale price—$29.50—you could hardly procure the materials and fine furs used in the making.

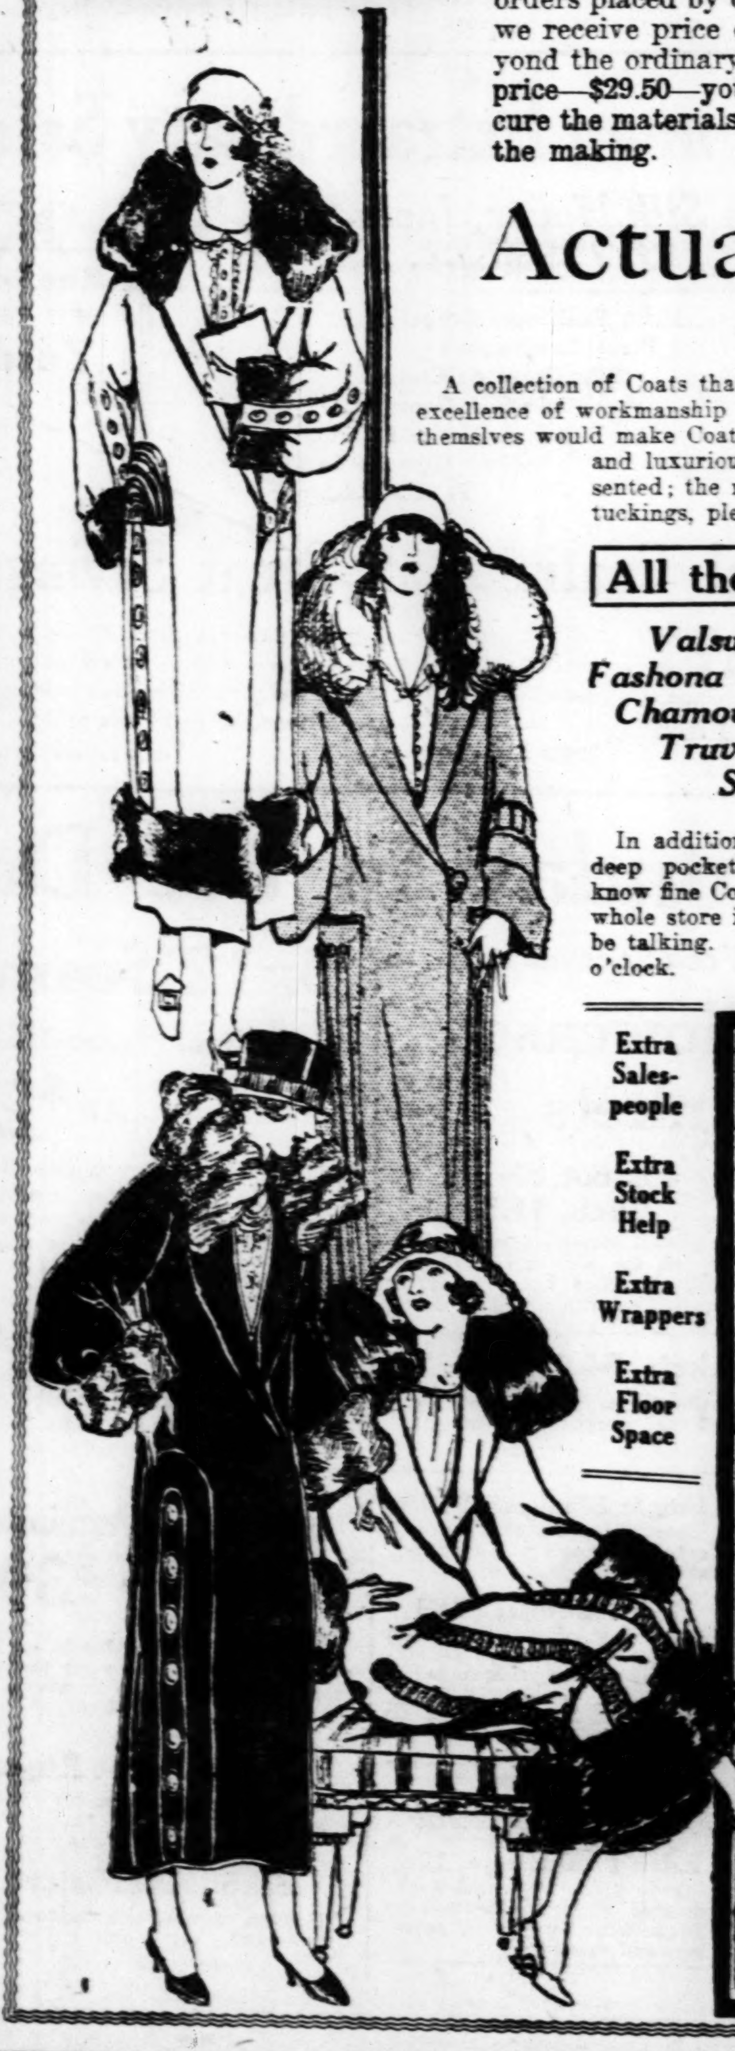
Actual $35 to $70 Coats

Many "Sample" Coats Included

A collection of Coats that we are proud to offer and still more proud to sell at only $29.50. In beauty of line and excellence of workmanship these Coats cannot be excelled—even at their regular prices. The beautiful fabrics in themslves would make Coats worth much more than $29.50; but we have secured fur-trimmed Coats—fashionable, rich and luxurious—that are seldom seen under $40 to $70. Every new style note is represented; the new barrel cuffs, puffed, chin, shawl and convertible collars, embroideries, tuckings, pleatings and other new effects.



All the NEW Fabrics

Chamovette Teddy Cloth
Truvonnet Velora
Sport Fabrics

All the NEW Furs

Natural Squirrel Marmink
Dyed Squirrel
Marmot Black Wolf
Platinum Wolf Moufflon
French Seal (Coney)

In addition to fur collars and cuffs, many of the Coats have wide fur borders and deep pockets of fine furs. Every Coat is well lined and interlined. Women who know fine Coats will discover Coat values that will make them doubt their own eyes. The whole store is talking about this event—these Coats. By Monday night all St. Louis will be talking. There are dozens of models you'll want, but for FIRST choice come at 9:15 o'clock.

OPENING OF OCTOBER FINDS CLUB WORK QUITE ACTIVE

The Wednesday Club of St. Louis will resume its activities this week. The following officers and directors will serve for the year 1924-25: Mrs. Edgar Rombauer, president; Mrs. William C. Rumsey, first vice president; Mrs. George H. Capen, second vice president; Mrs. Sydney C. Johnson, third vice president; Mrs. Wm. P. Durkan, recording secretary; Miss Bertha M. Flach, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edmund H. Wuerpel, treasurer; Mrs. Walter G. Clark, auditor; Mrs. A. V. L. Brokaw, Mrs. Charles A. Houts, Mrs. Ernest Klipstein, Mrs. James L. Munger and Miss Mildred McCluney, directors.

Tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. the executive board will hold its regular monthly meeting. Mrs. William C. Rumsey, first vice president, will preside.

The history and literature section will hold its first meeting on the afternoon of Wednesday at 1:30. The subject for this winter's study is "Social Problems in English and American Fiction." Mrs. William A. Sellers will present the work of "Dickens as Social Reformer and of Thackeray as Social Satirist." Mrs. Edward E. Magill will speak on "George Eliot and the Social Conscience." Miss Ellen Brooks Johnson is the new chairman of the section and Mrs. Frank C. Beiser the secretary.

On the same day at 3 o'clock there will be a business meeting at which Mrs. Edgar R. Rombauer will preside. Mrs. William C. Rumsey and Mrs. Richard A. Jones, both delegates to the biennial of the General Federation held at Los Angeles last May, will give their reports. Delegates to the State federation meeting in Kansas City will be elected.

The current topics section will hold its first meeting Thursday at 10:30 a. m. "You Are a Citizen of the World, Boswell and I Delight in Your Travels," Dr. Samuel Johnson. Travel talks will be given by Mmes. Oscar Johnson, George Mepham, Herbert S. Hadley, Harry M. Pflager and Fred J. Taussig. Mrs. G. N. Seidlitz is the chairman of the section and Miss Eleanor Horton the secretary.

The September meeting of the St. Louis Chapter, D. A. R., was held at Jefferson Memorial on Sept. 26, Mrs. Shelby H. Curlee, regent, presiding. Mrs. John N. Booth, chairman of the Committee on the Ozark School, read a letter of appreciation from its president. Every year since 1907 this chapter has contributed $150 to educate in that school some native American boy or girl. The present holder of the scholarship, a boy, will graduate from the school the coming June, and the chapter is planning to aid him through college. The chapter historian, Mrs. Frank Scott, paid a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Milton Marshall, lately deceased, and long a very active member. Mrs. Curlee read a paper on Arrow Rock Tavern. Mrs. Frank Howard sang three old-fashioned numbers, to the accompaniment of Mrs. W. M. Weatherford, musical director.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Chamber of Commerce will be held Thursday, Oct. 8, at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Eighth and Locust streets. This will be an all-day session, with luncheon at 12:30. The revised constitution will be read and presented to the membership for a vote.

The afternoon program includes an address of welcome by F. W. A. Vesper, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and also a word from A. G. Mungenast, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; a group of songs by Miss Helen Moore (Miss St. Louis); Mrs. Emily Grant Hutchings, art critic, will interpret the State Capitol mural decorations with slides loaned by Arthur Kocian; addresses by Judge Charles W. Rutledge and Willam Fahey. Mrs. Adophe Neuville, chairman of civics, will give a short talk on "What the Civic Committee Is Doing."

Mmes. George Dietz, Gilbert Fox, A. Reton, August Frank, H. McKim, Roy Butts, Otto Meyer, J. McKean, Quincy L. Slocum, Ida S. Dorsey, J. A. Bleakney and O. P. Blackstead will act as hostesses. Everyone is invited and reservations for luncheon can be made through the office, Olive 5289, or the secretary, Mrs. M. F. Ruler, Lindell 3466W.

The Book Club held its first meeting of the season at the home of the president, Mrs. O. J. Krummenacher, 5943 Waterman avenue. Mrs. Krummenacher's address and announcements were made in thymed verse as were also both the papers which followed: "Book Club Presidents" by Mrs. W. McCargo and "A Sermon" by Mrs. W. B. Knight. Mrs. Maples sang two songs, accompanied by Mrs. G. O. Stone. The program was concluded by a guessing contest.

The first meeting of the Ensee Study Circle, M. F. W. C., for this year was held at the home of Mrs. D. A. Nylander, Sept. 29, Mrs. Fred Armstrong, hostess. Subjects discussed, "Relations of the United States With Other Countries" and "M. Carey Thomas" by Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Hollis Marsh. Mrs. Borders gave a talk on the Big Sister work. The next regular meeting will be Monday, Oct. 13, and Mrs. Marsh will be hostess.

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly, and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Delphian Chapter was held Thursday, Sept. 25. The new members enrolled, making a total of 55, which closes the chapter, follow: Mrs. M. H. McClung, Mrs. R. A. McClentic, Mrs. L. L. Ray, Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. G. V. R. Mechin, Mrs. A. M. Bobier, Mrs. Ada A. Ledden, Mrs. E. E. Rudolph, Mrs. Eliot Flint, Mrs. W. B. Stephenson, Mrs. Harrison V. Pettengill, Mrs. George M. Blair, Mrs. M. H. Marshall, Mrs. S. A. Hardin and Miss Charlotte L. Ledden. The next meeting will be held at the Cabanne Branch Library, Oct. 9, at 9:30 a. m.

Phi Delphian Chapter held its regular meeting at the Cabanne Branch Library Wednesday at 2 p. m., Mrs. H. W. Dawson, president, in the chair. A most interesting program on Roman history was conducted by Mrs. James Boyd, assisted by other members. The next meeting will be Wednesday Oct. 15.

The Confederate Dames Chapter U. D. C., will send as delegates to the State convention at Jefferson City, Oct. 15 to 17, Mmes. William H. Fowler, Arthur Payne Richardson, Millard F. Watts, George F. Bergfeld, Robert E. McCulloch; alternates, Mmes. Sam B. Jeffries, C. D. Purdon, J. N. Cornatzar William O'Oench and Frederick H. Starr.

The Mothers' Club of Soldan High School will hold its first meeting of the season tomorrow at 2 o'clock. There will be an election of officers and an address by Principal John Rush Powell on the obligation of the parent to the school.

The Gamma Chapter of the Delphian Society met Monday, Sept. 29, at the Barr Branch Library. Seven members answered the roll call and discussed a paper on civic responsibilities called "Recreations." Mrs. La Rue became a member of the chapter. The subject for the next meeting will be "Greek Mythology."

The St. Louis Tercentenary Shakespeare Society will open its season with a public program in the Vandervoort Music Hall on Tuesday, Oct. 14, at 2 o'clock, with a Shakspeare lecture by the Rev. Robert Hall Atchison.

The St. Louis Lonely Club will have a theater party tonight at the Empress. Next Friday there will be a "kid party" at Westminster Hall, 3506 Olive street.

Invitations are to be issued in a few days for an interesting series of dramatic recitals at Hotel Chase in November by Mrs. Donald MacDonald of Lindell Hall. The course includes impersonations from Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire," Clemence Dane's "Will Shakespeare," and from Mrs. Alice Lavelle-MacDonald's own play of Napoleon and Josephine, called "Puppets of Fate."

St. Louis Chapter, N. S. U. S. D. 1812, celebrated its first birthday Saturday, Sept. 27, at Hotel Chase. The birthday cake, donated by the regent, Mrs. L. C. Reilly, and her mother, Mrs. P. A. Crow, beautifully decorated with name of chapter in red, white and blue, was cut by Mrs. Crow. The receiving line was composed of the officers, Mrs. P. A. Crow and Mrs. John Gay Reilly of Mexico, daughter of the regent. Mrs. Frank Howard, accompanied by Mrs. W. M. Weatherford, sang beautifully, two groups of songs, and Mrs. Donald McDonald gave two delightful readings. Preceding the tea was a short business meeting. Two vacancies were filled in the executive board. Those elected were Mrs. E. L. Barber, recording secretary, and Mrs. E. W. Feiger, registrar. The following delegates and alternates were elected to attend the State Council, at Carrollton, Mo., Oct. 21: Delegates, Mesdames F. T. Hatch, J. L. Hawk, H. W. Choate, L. M. Ottofy, R. A. Burns, George McElhiney, James Martin, J. T. Buchanan and Miss Nancy Reed; alternates, Mesdames H. E. Wagoner, Frances Burkhardt, F. J. Woulfe.

The Cleveland Parent-Teachers Association will hold a reception Friday evening, in the auditorium of the Cleveland High School. Fathers, mothers, teachers and friends of pupils of the school are invited to attend and to join the association.

The monthly meeting of the Kennard School Mothers' Circle will be held in the school Thursday at 2 p. m. Miss Mary McElroy will talk on "New Ideals and Activities of Women and Girls in Many Lands," and the pupils of Strassberger's Conservatory will give several numbers. Final arrangements will be made for the Manufacturers' dinner which the circle will serve at Harmony Hall Nov. 7, the proceeds of which will go to the scholarship fund.

The Pleasant Hour Club, M. F. W. C., held its first meeting of the season Sept. 24 at the home of Mrs. H. J. Goebbels, 5508 Cabanne avenue. The new officers were installed. The club voted to contribute to the Near East Relief Fund. Mmes. Aoy A. Butts and B. E. Tate were appointed delegates to the ..ennial meeting of the M. F. W. C. at Kansas City, with Mmes. B. M. Cornwall and H. J. Goebbels as alternates. Committees were appointed for a card party to be given Nov. 5 at Mrs. Goebbel's home. Mrs. Joseph Kelly read "The Discovery of America" and Mrs. J. A. Konzelman "A Journey Through Brazil." The club voted to indorse the Civic Music Committee. The next meeting will be held Oct. 15.

The St. Mark's High School Alumnae Association held its annual business meeting Sept. 19. Election of officers resulted: Rose Conlon, president; Florence Brown and Blanche Sanguinet, vice presidents; Emily McKenna, secretary; Marie Kelly, assistant secretary; Clare McElevey, assistant treasurer; Jane Hennessy, historian.

The Sorority Circle met Thursday afternoon at Cirode studio, Mrs. W. S. McIntosh presiding. Mrs. F. H. Britton and Mrs. Childs talked on "Parent-Teacher Associations;" Mrs. J. F. Cook of Webster Groves gave a talk on "Organization Work Throughout the County." Mrs. Norman Windsor read a paper on "Child Conservation." Mrs. William Buchanan gave a few songs.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, and bladder disorders.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and other organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Girls! Say Goodbye To Yellowish Teeth

New Safe Liquid and Special Paste Whiten Stained Teeth—Instantly.

Every man admires personal daintiness in the fair sex. But no girl can be truly dainty and charming with dull yellowish teeth. Bleachodent Combination costs only few cents and whitens teeth instantly, at home. Leaves teeth flashing white, lustrous and clean. Contains mild, safe liquid which loosens and softens stains—and a special paste which gently removes them. Works instantly. Quicker, surer, safer than old scouring methods which injured enamel. Money instantly refunded if not delighted with first application. WARNING: Don't accept cheap liquid imitations. Always insist on genuine Bleachodent Combination, the SAFE treatment. A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

OPENING OF OCTOBER FINDS CLUB WORK QUITE ACTIVE

Mrs. A. Sherwood accompanying her.

The St. Louis Gold Star Mothers' Staff No. 1 will meet at the Disabled American Veterans' Club tomorrow at 8 p. m. for a general business meeting, with Mrs. Elizabeth Piper presiding.

The Woman's Synodical Society of Missouri, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, will meet in the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church Oct. 14, 15 and 16. There will be a young people's banquet Tueday evening, followed by an inspirational meeting; a popular meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, and a luncheon Thursday at the Gatesworth Hotel. Miss Emma Jessie Ogg and Mrs. Charles K. Roys of the New York Board of Foreign Missions will be the speakers.

The Confederate Dames Chapted, U. D. C., will hold its annual election of officers at the Jefferson Memorial, on Oct. 6 at 2 o'clock.

An enrollment of 14 persons has been secured for the Americanization training class which will be started Thursday afternoon, Oct. 9, in Room 417 of the Victoria Building, by the Americanization department of the Board of Religious Organizations. Dr. George B. Mangold, the new educational director of that board, will give lectures, telling of the setting and background of the foreigners. Mrs. Elizabeth Joy Hoffmann will instruct in the best ways and means of gaining the interest of the foreign women in their homes, where the English language is to be taught as well as American customs and ways. One prime purpose will be to show the foreign-born women the importance of becoming citizens and exercising the franchise. The class will continue at 2 o'clock each Thursday afternoon for five weeks.

The Town Club will give a tea Thursday, Oct. 9, at 3:30 p. m., at which Mme. Olga Petrova, author, playwright and actress, will be guest of honor. Mme. Petrova will discuss the various phases of her work.

An appeal has been sent out to the members and friends of the Catholic Woman's League for cast-off clothing, furniture and household articles for the annual rummage sale which will be held Oct. 22 to 25, at Hellrung & Grimm's warehouse, 918 Morgan street. The proceeds of the sale will be used to help finance the welfare department of the organization during the winter. Mrs. J. C. Muckerman of 4464 West Pine boulevard, president of the league, will arrange for collecting offered articles.

The Home Economics Club of St. Louis held their first fall meeting Oct. 2 at the home of Miss Margaret Maloney, 3822 Flad avenue. The following officers were installed: President, Mrs. S. A. Weintraub; treasurer, Miss Bertha Wagoner, and secretary, Miss Margaret Maloney. Subsequent meetings will be held each month.

FOUR CHILDREN ESCAPE FROM WRECKED AUTO UNHURT

Four children narrowly escaped injury at 10:30 a. m. yesterday when a Ford truck, struck by another automobile, hit the Ford sedan in which they were sitting in front of the Liberty Theater, on Delmar boulevard, west of Grand. The truck and the sedan were were wrecked in the accident, which was indirectly the result of a third traffic accident a few minutes earlier several blocks away.

The children were Melba and and Dorothy Schick, 9 and 8 years old, respectively, daughters of Fred Schick, of 2807 Wyoming street, and Alfred Peters, 4, of 3191 Nebraska avenue, and Audrey Hawkins, 5, of 2805 Wyoming. Schick had gone inside the theater.

Irving Lee, 30 years old, of 5011A Page boulevard, approached from the east in another automobile carrying an injured man to his home. The man was Isidor Librach, of 1490 Belt avenue, who had just been run over by an automobile at Compton and Lucas avenues. When almost opposite the parked sedan, Lee attempted to pass the truck, also westbound, but grazed its left front wheel, causing it to carom into the sedan, wrecking it. The children were severely shaken, but emerged from the debris unhurt. The truck was being driven by S. Griffen, a negro.

ORIENTAL RUG FAKERS AT WORK

Better Business Bureau Issues Warning Against Them.

The Better Business Bureau yesterday issued a warning that rug salesmen are offering bargains in "Oriental rugs" which are cheap imitations, and not worth the prices asked for them.

According to persons who had reported to the bureau that they had been swindled, they were approached by the solicitors with offer of bargains. The solicitors explained they represented an Eastern rug manufacturer and were disposing of samples because they needed funds to return to the factory. The bureau asks that all persons similarly approached communicate with its offices in the City Club Building.

Dr. Mangold to Speak.

Dr. George B. Mangold will deliver an address on the child labor amendment before the Women's Christian Temperance Union at 3628 Delmar boulevard at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. A delegate will be elected to the national jubilee convention of the organization at Chicago, Nov. 11. The State convention will be held at Springfield, Oct. 13.

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL FUND COMMITTEE IS NAMED

Festus J. Wade to Head Business Men in Endowing Institution for $1,500,000.

An executive committee of 45 business men, headed by Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., has been formed to take charge of the St. Mary's Hospital campaign, the purpose of which is to endow the hospital with a fund of $1,500,000. Other officers of the committee are John S. Leahy, vice chairman; George L. Dyer, organization chairman, and M. L. Wilkinson, treasurer.

The plan to raise the money with which to endow the hospital is by means of an insurance plan. Citizens are asked to insure their lives with a five-year endowment policy and name St. Mary's Hospital as beneficiary. They are required to pay five annual premiums, after which the hospital becomes the owner of the policy. At the death of the insured the full value of the policy, plus accruing dividends, will be paid to the hospital. The endowment will permit the Sisters of St. Mary to make a social service hospital of St. Mary's Infirmary, 1530 Papin street.

CITY'S BANNER YEAR IN PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS

Cost of Work in 1924 Placed at $8,876,000 by Head of Service Board.

There is more construction of public improvements under way in 1924 under the department of the president of the Board of Public Service than in any previous year of the city's history. The cost of this year's work, most of which is under the $87,372,500 bond issue of 1923, is placed at $8,876,000 in a memorandum sent to Mayor Kiel yesterday by President Kinsey of the board.

The memorandum shows that a good deal of miscellaneous work under the bond issue is under way. The greatest previous year for city construction was about eight years ago, when the municipal bridge and the Mill Creek sewer were being built.

The division of street and sewer construction has work amounting to $5,045,000 in the contracts. The year's program includes paving or other improvement of 31.79 miles of streets. There are street, alley, sidewalk and sewer contracts to the number of 196, and all but a few of the sewer jobs will be done this year. The biggest item is a section of the huge bond-issue job of making a closed sewer out of the River des Peres.

Work in the division of bridges and buildings amounts to $3,831,000 in contracts, including $2,976,000 for work under way, $540,000 for work carried over from last year and finished, and $315,000 for buildings to be erected.

Outside of the president's department of the Board of Public Service, the biggest bond-issue work under way is the new $12,000,000 waterworks plant at the Missouri River.

AUCTION OF UNDELIVERED MAIL BRINGS NEARLY $2000

Unclaimed Parcel Post Packages Are Cleared Out of Postoffice.

That package which never arrived at its destination and was without return instruction has gone the way of all lost mail. Thousands of dolars worth of unclaimed parcel post packages was sold at auction, Friday, at the parcel post annex of the St. Louis Postoffice, Seventeenth and Walnut streets.

Unclaimed packages, not identified within six months, are sold at public auction for what they will bring. The proceeds of Friday's sale amounted to nearly $2000.

Frank C. Staley, Federal Superintendent of the Division of Dead Letters and Dead Parcel Post, who is on a tour of inspection of auction methods throughout the United States, was in St. Louis at the auction.

"We are trying to perfect a system of auction whereby the Government will be partially reimbursed for paid claims," said Staley. He stated, also, that due to the immense amount of unclaimed merchandise returned from Russia, there was to be a special "Russian auction" in New York soon. "On account of a high duty placed on such things by the present Russian Government," Staley explained, "many people in that country are unable to claim the packages. They are returned to this country, and if not claimed within six months, are placed under the auctioneer's hammer."

BURLESQUE ASSOCIATION LEASES NEW YORK HOUSE

Theater in St. Louis to Be on Same Circuit as Playhouse on Broadway.

Joseph Oppenheimer, lessee of th Garrick Theaters in St. Louis and Des Moines, has, in conjunction with the Mutual Burlesque Association, taken a long lease of the Lyric Theater in New York and will take charge immediately.

The lease of the Lyric gives to the Mutual Association, its fifth theater in Greater New York, and a Broadway House for its productions. The Lyric will be booked with the regular shows now playing the circuit. Thirty-six shows are now being operated over the circuit which extends as far West as Kansas City, Des Moines and Minneapolis.

DRY GOODS EXPERTS COMING

Traffic Group to Hold Annual Convention Here This Week.

The fifth annual convention of the traffic group of the National Retail Dry Goods Association will be held at Hotel Statler for three days, beginning Wednesday.

Traffic experts, including J. H. Butler, general manager, department of public relations, American Railway Express Co.; A. L. Green of the same company, and F. C. Horner, consulting engineer, General Motors Corporation, will address sessions of the convention. Horner's address, "Store Door Delivery in England and America," will be illustrated by slides and motion pictures. The entertainment program for delegates includes a theater party and a sightseeing tour of the city. Several hundred traffic experts, representing the largest department stores in the country, are expected to attend.

Woman Swallows Two Pins.

Mrs. Anna Smith, 21 years old, 8512 South Broadway, walked into the receiving room of city hospital at 5:30 p. m. rFiday, saying she had swallowed two pins. An X-ray picture was taken to determine the location of the pins and Mrs. Smith may have to undergo an operation.

Magic Glasses Banish Headaches

Among those heathen races without knowledge of optics—Glasses are regarded as a species of magic, so wonderful is their power to banish eyestrain, headaches and enable victims of defective vision to read and work in comfort.

Only Glasses specially ground to correct your particular defect of vision should ever be worn by you.

Knowledge, training, and long experience are essential in scientifically testing eyes and grinding lenses.

For 21 years I have specialized exclusively in the correction of visual defects by properly prescribed Glasses. No drops or drugs are employed. No pain or annoyance of any kind—and the most reasonable prices in St. Louis.

Kennard's
Established 1856

IN 1856 the House of KENNARD was founded. From the day of its opening certain business principles were applied and have been maintained ever since.

To establish CONFIDENCE in the house, to render SERVICE to the customer, and to give VALUE

One need only to make a visit to KENNARD'S to become convinced that everything offered for sale carries the right price and that NO MERCHANDISE IS HIGH-PRICED. VALUE is one of the strongest links in the chain which has enabled KENNARD'S to hold successfully its early clientele and to keep adding to it for 68 years.

These early business principles of VALUE given, plus CONFIDENCE when buying added to SERVICE cheerfully rendered, are greatly responsible for the high reputation enjoyed by KENNARD'S.

We want you to inspect our merchandise, believing we will add one more satisfied customer to the ever-increasing number.

Beautiful Walnut Dining-Room Suite
SPANISH RENAISSANCE
Four Suites Only—Specially Priced at $585

The finish is in a soft mellow brown. Panels are of burled walnut, embellished with an ebony border. Chairs are upholstered in blue denim. Ten pieces, consisting of Extension Table, China Cabinet, Hutch, five Side Chairs and one Host Chair. A sumptuous set at a particularly attractive price. Because of the limited number, early inspection is suggested.

Fine Old English Dining-Room Suite
Six Suites Only—Reduced from $550 to $475

In deep-toned brown and of impressive aspect. A very charming Suite, compactly massive and therefore not requiring unusual space to give it artistic advantage. Chairs upholstered in tapestry. Ten pieces, consisting of Extension Table, China Cabinet, Hutch, five Side Chairs and one Armchair.

Oriental Rugs

Every Persian and Chinese Rug in the Kennard collection is a noteworthy example of native weaving. An interesting hour may be spent in examining these luxurious floorcoverings. Their value is in their handsome appearance, richness of color and long wearing qualities. This makes them an economical purchase.
Small scatter Rugs to the largest room sizes, and many unusual dimensions. We believe we have a size to fit practically any floor space.

Examples of Small Sizes:

Kurdistans
Soft Rose, Blue, Old Gold Backgrounds. Small Persian Designs.
Average size, 3 ft. x 5 ft.
$32.50

Mossuls
Heavy Pile, Soft Colorings. Small Designs.
Average size, 3 ft. 6 in. x 6 ft.
$45.00

Examples of Unusual Sizes:

One Lillahan
6 ft. x 8 ft.
$235.00
Light rose field—blue medallion allover floral design in light blue and tan—blue border.

One Lillahan
5 ft. 6 in. x 9 ft. 4 in.
$250.00
Magnificent rose field, floral design in light blue and gold—blue border.

Axminster Rugs
9 feet by 12 feet—Regularly $72.50, Special at........ $55

These Rugs are seamless and because of their exceptional quality have not been usually offered at a special price. The cost of production was high and the makers have discontinued their manufacture. We were fortunate in securing an excellent selection at a considerable concession and so offer them in turn at a very low price. Perfect goods and not soiled or shop worn. Persian, Chinese and New Art designs. Taupe, sand and tan grounds in beautiful colorings. Suitable for any room in the house.

Our Private Qualities of Wilton Rugs

These Rugs are made for us by one of the foremost manufacturers of fine floorcoverings in America. Long wearing fabrics, exclusive designs and a marvel of soft colorings give these qualities a pleasing claim upon the public desiring floorcoverings at no greater cost than such qualities are actually worth.

BUSY WEEK FOR ALL CANDIDATES IN MISSOURI

Two Democratic Senators From Other States and One Former Senator Also to Be Heard.

ALL SECTIONS OF STATE TO BE VISITED

Nelson and Baker, Rivals for Governorship, to Speak in the Northeast Counties.

Beginning the last month of the State campaign, the Democratic and Republican state organizations have arranged for speeches covering nearly every section of the state by all candidates on their state tickets. In addition the Democrats will have Senator Harrison of Mississippi, Senator Heflin of Alabama and former Senator Lewis of Illinois in the state.

The campaigning for the week will begin tomorrow in Jefferson City, where all state candidates will attend the historical pageant at the dedication of the State Capitol, and while it is not expected there will be political speeches by candidates, advantage will be taken by them of the opportunity to mingle with the crowd expected there.

The two candidates for Governor, Arthur W. Nelson, Democrat, and Sam A. Baker, Republican, will speak in Northeast Missouri towns once or twice a day the remainder of the week. Their itineraries are arranged so that they will not appear in any town the same day.

Itineraries of Nelson and Baker.

Nelson's itinerary: Tuesday, Palmyra in the afternoon and Hannibal at night; Wednesday, Lancaster in the afternoon and Memphis at night; Thursday, Wyaconda in the afternoon; Friday, Unionville in the afternoon; Saturday, Milan in the afternoon.

Baker's itinerary: Tuesday, La Plata in the afternoon, Macon at night; Wednesday, Wyaconda in the afternoon, Kahoka at night; Thursday, Lancaster in the afternoon, Kirksville at night; Friday, Huntsville in the afternoon, Moberly at night; Saturday, Warrenton in the afternoon, St. Charles at night.

Democrats have arranged an unusual two weeks' tour for their candidates for minor State offices. They will start Tuesday morning from Jefferson City on an automobile tour through 20 counties, going south nearly to the Arkansas State line, then east to the Mississippi River and then north to St Louis. In the party will be Carter M. Buford, nominee for Lieutenant-Governor; Mrs. Kate Morrow, nominee for Secretary of State; Elmer O. Jones, nominee for Attorney-General; George H. Middlekamp, nominee for Auditor, and John H. Stone, nominee for Treasurer.

Towns to Be Visited.

Their itinerary for the week is: Tuesday, Westphalia, Vienna, St. James and Rolla; Wednesday, Licking, Houston, Babool and West Plains; Thursday, Alton and Doniphan; Friday, Neeleyville, Poplar Bluff, Dexter and Bloomfield; Saturday, Bernie, Malden, Kennett and Caruthersville.

Itineraries of other Democratic speakers are:

Former Senator Lewis, St. Joseph, Monday night.

Senator Harrison—Mexico, Friday afternoon; Columbia, Saturday afternoon, and Fayette, Saturday night.

Senator Heflin—Sedalia, Monday afternoon; Pleasant Hill, Tuesday afternoon; Warrensburg, Wednesday night; Richmond, Thursday afternoon; Lexington, Thursday night.

Former Senator Wilfley—Mexico, Friday morning.

Program of Republicans.

The dates for Republican speakers are:

Senator Spencer — Tuesday, Columbia in the afternoon, Boonville at night; Wednesday, Keytesville in the afternoon, Carrolton at night; Thursday, Kingston in the afternoon, Trenton at night; Friday, Milan in the afternoon, Unionville at night; Saturday, Edina in the afternoon, Hannibal at night.

Phil A. Bennett, nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, and Secretary of State Becker, nominee for reelection, will speak in Hillsboro, De Soto, Potosi, Flat River, Farmington, Fredericktown, Marble Hill, Cape Girardeau, Jackson and Perryville. Robert W. Otto, nominee for Attorney-General, will make veseral speeches in Southwest Missouri, and L. D. Thompson, nominee for State Auditor, will visit counties in the central part of the State.

PROPOSITION NO. 5 UPHELD TO VOTERS BY BUSINESS MAN

M. L. Wilkinson, Chairman of Local Statewide Good Roads Association, Addresses Women's League

SHOWS WHOLE COST IN PLAIN FIGURES

License Fee on Ford Cars Would Cost Only $3.60 More If Measure Carries, He Says.

Merits of "Proposition No. 5," the good roads amendment to be voted on Nov. 4, were defined from the standpoint of a business man in an address Friday by M. L. Wilkinson, chairman of the local Statewide Good Roads Association, before the Twenty-eighth Ward Club of the League of Women Voters.

Wilkinson, who is president of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Dry Goods Co., said he looked on the Missouri road question as purely a matter of business expediency. In spite of much effort, he releated, the State still has no connected highway system, good every day in the year. However, our money has not been wasted and good roads are "just around the corner," to be made more readily attainable through this proposition, he said.

The speaker told how the centenial road law provided that the $60,000,000 bond issue be spent on construction work proceeding as nearly simultaneously as possible in every county, so that now, when contracts for more than $50,000,000 of road work under State, Federal and local funds have been let or completed, tourists are still avoiding Missouri mud. Wilkinson continued:

"A few months ago a new crisis arose in the building of our highway system. Despite the demand for speed, it was found that the anticipated revenue from automobile license fees next year would just about take care of the interest on the road bonds already issued, provide for the retirement of $2,000,000 of these bonds, as required by law every year, and maintain the roads already built.

Preserve Existing Roads.

"In other words, preserve these roads, on which millions of dollars have been spent, so they will not wear out. So the State Highway Department decided that unless additional funds were provided it would be impossible to issue any additional bonds, and consequently, to make any new contracts for new road mileage in 1925.

"On the other hand, it was estimated that by imposing a tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline used for motor vehicles, and raising the State automobile license fee 50 per cent, it would not only be possible to proceed with the work of highway construction, but to speed up that work, without in any way sacrificing the parts of the highway system already completed and in use.

"So that is the meaning and purpose of Proposition No. 5. It allows the issuance in any one year of not more than $15,000,000 of the $35,000,000 of the State road bonds still unissued. That means that if Proposition No. 5 carries, more than $15,000,000 of new road work, including Federal aid, will be contracted for next year, and an equal amount in 1926, and the remainder of the system contracted for in 1927.

Completion in Six Years.

"It means, as Chairman Gary of the State Highway Commission, has pointed out, that the entire system of 7640 miles can be completed in six years. The St. Louis-Kansas City road, whose completion will do more than any one thing to lift the stigma of backwardness from Missouri roads, can be completed within two years, if Proposition No. 5 carries, we are told.

"On the other hand, if the voters should, for any reason, fail to approve No. 5, it may be many years before Missouri has a connected road system. Certainly it will not be until the money sought to be raised by the proposed gasoline tax and increased automobile fees is provided from that or some other source. In the meantime the State's efficient road building organization will be lost or impaired and the momentum of the highway-building program slowed up.

"Thirty-six states now impose gasoline taxes of from 1 to 4 cents a gallon, so there is nothing unusual in that. The consumer, of course, pays the tax in the end, so the tourist from other states who uses Missouri's roads will help pay for them under this plan.

Would Open Up Ozarks.

"The proposed increase of automobile registration fees would amount to only $3.50 a year on a Ford car; $5.50 on a Buick, and $7.50 on a Packard. Surely nothing extraordinary in that, but it will mean the difference between poor roads and good roads in Missouri.

"From a business standpoint, Proposition No. 5 is sound. Its adoption will serve notice to the outside world that Missouri intends to have the best system that money can buy. It means closer business and social relations between the 800,000 people of St. Louis and the 3,000,000 people in the rest of the State, and consequently a large increase of trade.

"It will bring to the state and city tourists from all over the world.

"It will open to the people of St. Louis and to the world at large, the wonderful beauties and reservoirs of health of the Ozark Mountains now denied them because of bad roads.

"There is no valid reason why any intelligent voter should oppose No. 5. There is every reason why the intelligent, forward-looking citizen should support this proposition cordially and with enthusiasm."

City life and Constipation—fellow conspirators

Many people, susceptible to constipation, are engaged in occupations that require their constant and uninterrupted presence during working hours.

School teachers and others who fear to subject themselves to the uncertainty of ordinary laxatives can take Pluto Water with the knowledge that it will act at a time when convenient.

In 30 minutes to two hours after taking, Pluto Water starts removing the disturbing accumulations from the intestinal tract—safely and insistently but without griping. Time counts when you need a physic. Delay may lead to pneumonia, influenza or appendicitis. Pluto Water is health insurance.

Prescribed by physicians, sold by druggists and bottled at famous French Lick Springs in Indiana.

TICACEKS TO CONTINUE WEDDING FEAST TODAY

Fifth Brother in Family of Nine to Marry Servant Girls Is Sure of a Good Cook.

The marriage feast celebrating the acquisition of a good cook as a wife by another of the nine Tichacek brothers, which began yesterday after Miss Milada Hochman, 21, was wed to Charles Tichacek, 32, continues today at the Tichacek home, 3616 South Grand boulevard.

Charles is the fifth of the Tichacek brothers to marry a servant girl. Three brothers married girls trained in the Tichacek home by the mother of the family, and a fourth married a girl employed in the home of a friend. Another Tichacek married a stenographer, but he had an eye for good cooking, too.

Three-Story Wedding Cake.

When the feast began the big home seemed filled with good things to eat, prepared last week by the sisters-in-law and the prospective bride. Everywhere, it seemed, were hampers of "kolatch," a Bohemian pastry. On the dining room table stood a large three-story wedding cake, all frosting, and several shelves were occupied by its less imposing contemporaries. There were 24 chickens.

The new bride arrived from Bohemia last January. Her employer, Mrs. Edward F. Zumwinkel of 4200 Lafayette, one day soon after, had Charles Tichacek speak to Miss Hochman in her native tongue they were engaged.

"The trick isn't simply in marrying a servant girl," Tichacek said. "I've gone with several servant girls, and I'll tell you there's a lot of difference in them. But I am convinced a servant girl makes the best wife. She knows how to keep house, and her working experience helps her to understand a man. We can't always be on dress parade."

She Fits Composite Sketch.

Mrs. Tichacek is a blond, like the type indicated by a composite sketch of their ideal which was given to the Post-Dispatch in 1913 by the five brothers then unmarried. This was after the brothers received hundreds of letters from women as far away as England and Spain, who hoped to come up to the Tichaceks' ideal, when the Post-Dispatch called attention to the unusual family.

Charles Tichacek was stationed at Camp Funston for 15 months in the World War. The four unmarried brothers, including Charles, have kept bachelors' hall since the death of their mother in 1920, and so Charles remarked, they now appreciate a good housekeeper the more. He intimated that another of the nine is likely soon to acquire a good cook. Meantime, Mrs Charles Tichacek will be "the lady of the house," pending completion of a new residence.

IDENTIFIED AS PARTICIPANT IN BANK HOLDUP AT COLUMBIA, ILL.

Prisoner Held in East St. Louis Denies He Had Any Part in the Robbery.

One of the three men arrested in an automobile, on suspicion, by East St. Louis detectives Friday was identified yesterday, police announced, as one of the six men who robbed the First National Bank of Columbia, Ill., of $12,637 on Sept. 3. The identification was made by E. H. Brucker, assistant cashier of the bank, one of those held up, and H. J. Arnin, a merchant.

The prisoner identified said he was Cy Brinkley of 1925 Washington Park, East St. Louis, but denied a part in the robbery. His companions, who are being held, but have not made statements, said they were Tom Fuller of East Madison and Arthur Edgar of 2015 North Twenty-fifth street, East St. Louis, whose mother owned a machine they were in. The police say Fuller and Brinkley had revolvers when arrested.

BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT HERE

Delegation From Massachusetts Is Due Here Tuesday.

Plans for the entertainment of a delegation from the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce, which will arrive in St. Louis Tuesday morning, have been completed by a local committee appointed by the St. Louis Chamber. There are about 75 business men in the aprty.

After breakfast at the Jefferson Hotel, the visitors will be shown department stores and downtown banks, followed by luncheon of the Advertising Club at the City Club. For the afternoon an automobile tour of the parks and residential districts has been arranged. Then after dinner at the Chamber of Commerce, the visitors will view the Veiled Prophet parade. They will depart at 10:30 p. m.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or tearing method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-six years and in more than nine thousand cases. The book is sent postpaid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, 506 Parkview Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.

PART FIVE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 5, 1924. PAGES 1—14.

Olga Petrova, Author and Star, Here Tonight in "The Hurricane"

Russian Actress at Shubert-Jefferson, Fannie Brice at Orpheum, "Cappy Ricks" and "Alias Jimmy Valentine" at Pershing and Empress.

HAVING appeared here two years ago as author and star of "The White Peacock," Mme. Petrova is experimenting with that double function in "The Hurricane," which begins a week's engagement tonight at the Shubert-Jefferson. This play, according to advance claims, holds the record for duration of run at a New York roof theater. It is said to have played four months atop the New Amsterdam.

The story concerns a Russian Ilka Olczweski, who has not been trained to earn a living, but is suddenly faced with the necessity of taking care of herself in a world none too chivalrous. Of course, without any essential sacrifice, she develops herself into a noble woman and a distinguished artist, to boot. The New York cast is promised in Mme. Petrova's support.

Walter Hampden, with his eventful production of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," comes to the Shubert-Jefferson a week from tomorrow night. This will be followed by a mystery melodrama, "In the Next Room," by Eleanor Robson (Mrs. August Belmont) and Harriet Ford.

English Comedian at Orpheum.

THE Orpheum's headliner this week is Fannie Brice, who will appear in a program of songs and character sketches, interpreted with her genuine gift for broad comedy, pathos and drama. "Wee Georgie" Wood, a popular comedian of the London music halls, who is making his first visit to America, will appear in "His Black Hand," a skit of English boyhood's adventures and fancies. On the bill also are William Seabury and Alcova, dancers; Al and Fanny Stedman, comedy pianists; Del Chain and Lou Archer, Jean and Charles Granese, and Mascot, a cultured pony.

The Woodward companies are offering "Alias Jimmy Valentine" and "Cappy Ricks," at the Empress and Pershing, respectively. The latter was seen here five years ago at the Shubert-Jefferson. The title role will be played by Arthur S. Ritchie, a newcomer with the Woodward Players. Edward Darney will play Matt Peasley, and Rhea Dively will appear as Florence Ricks. At the Empress, the principal roles will be given by J. Glynn McFarlane and Hazel Whitmore. "Alias Jimmy Valentine," based on O. Henry's story, "A Retrieved Reformation," is one of the classic crook plays.

Variety and Burlesque.

THE bill at the Rialto includes Henry Bergman, the Crisp sisters and Lou Handman; "The Parisiennes," singers and instrumentalists; Cully, Claire and Mennette Weber; Earl and Carl Pearson and Cleo Newport; Eddie Schwartz and Julia Clifford, Sally Goldie and Madeline Beatty, and Halkings' comedy silhouettes. The program beginning Thursday will feature Joe Bennett and a company in "The Telephone Tangle."

The Grand Opera House announces Ralph Dunbar's "Nightingales," the Seven Brown Girls, John Rucker and Sidney Perrin, the Toyama acrobats, Earl Faber and Margie King, Kingston and Ebner, and Wire and Walker.

The stock company at Liberty Music Hall is giving "Broadway Scandals," with "Rube" Fulkerson, comedian, as a new addition to the troupe. The film is "Big Timber," with William Desmond.

The burlesque announcements are "Laffin' Through," at the Garrick, and "Hippity Hop," at the Gayety.

"Old Hickory" Reduced to Soft Pulp, in Play

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Critic of the New York World.

WHEN a dramatist goes into the history books, it seems to me that he is under obligation to improve upon the chronicles. He may, of course, decide that some great figure was in fact a greater person than the records indicate. From the pages of the play general or president may step larger or smaller, but he must step. He ought to be able to stand on his own legs. And with the aid of wigs and scenery and actors it is a pretty poor playwright who cannot make history a little more vivid than it was when the historians left it.

And so it appears to me that John Farrar and Stephen Benet have done uncommonly badly in their comedy called "That Awful Mrs. Eaton," which deals with Andrew Jackson, and which was presented Monday night at the Morosco, with Katherine Alexander in the title role, and Frank McGlynn as "Old Hickory."

Andrew Jackson was more alive when I knew him merely as a piece of homework. As I remember, our school book called him a "rough soldier," and so I assumed that he swore proficiently. In the play this is not the case. He has just one oath, according to Farrar and Benet. Apparently his vocabulary of rage and indignation was limited wholly to "by the 'tarnal!" After the first five or six scenes, it seemed the weakest of expletives.

Actually Kisses a Man!

BUT probably the greatest injustice of all is that which the play has visited upon Mrs. Eaton. She was not mentioned in my school book at all, but through superficial research I have discovered that she was a woman of personality, courage and a considerable talent for shocking conduct. This is not the Mrs. Eaton of the play. Here her most scandalous piece of behavior is to kiss a young man on the cheek. She is no more than a sweet soubrette, and white as any musical comedy soprano.

Accordingly, the play becomes nothing more than still another version of "Daddy Longlegs" and the whole line of plays in which a middle-aged gentleman befriends a young girl with the best motives in the world. Indeed, Mr. Farrar and Mr. Benet have taken "Old Hickory" and reduced him to singularly soft pine.

Scant Story Fearfully Elaborated.

A VERY scant story is told without economy. The playwrights have practically nothing to do except to tell the manner in which Jackson forced Washington society to accept Mrs. Eaton, wife of his Secretary of War. All this is done with fearful elaboration. In the last act Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, John Quincy Adams and Dolly Madison pass by like supers in a revue number. Practically all the historical characters seem acutely

Liszt and Brahms on De Pachmann Program

THE program which Vladimir de Pachmann, erratic pianist, will give Oct. 14 at the Odeon, will consist mostly of his specialty, the compositions of Chopin, but will also include numbers by Bach, Schumann, Liszt and Brahms. This concert will open the music season, and will be the first of five recitals to be undertaken by the new Civic Music League.

The program will begin with Bach's Concerto in the Italian style, and his Fantasia in C. Minor. The Chopin selections will include the posthumous Nocturne, Op. 72; the C-Sharp Minor valse, three Preludes, the A-Flat Major Mazurka, Op. 50, and the Scherzo in E-Major, Op. 54. Schumann's "Nachtstueck," Liszt's Eclogue, "Anees de Pelerinage" and the Brahms Rhapsody, No. 1, in B Minor, complete the program.

What They Are Doing in Movie Studios

The story that the blase residents of Hollywood, Culver City and other movie capitals are so used to seeing pictures made that they pay no attention to street chases, mob scenes, etc., is a myth. They do not tire of seeing pictures made any more than the farmer in the field tires of seeing the Twentieth Century Limited pass. He will always stop work to watch it go by, and so do people living where pictures are made every day.

The filming of two Regal pictures, both adaptations from successful stage plays, has been completed. "The Chorus Lady," from James Forbes' play of that name, starring Margaret Livingston, and "The Mirage," from Edgar Selwyn's play, starring Florence Vidor, both deal with "ladies of the stage."

Viola Dana makes a transition from English society girl in James Cruze's latest to "beach rat" in "As Man Desires." In this First National picture, being taken at Santa Catalina Island, she [illegible] role of a Tahitian dancing girl, who tries a cave-woman type of vamping on austere Milton Sills.

Helene Chadwick sat up in bed last week for the first time in several weeks. A severe attack of appendicitis made necessary a rearrangement of the producing schedule of the Warner Brothers' picture, "The Dark Swan," in which she is starring. During her illness, Miss Chadwick's mother arrived from New York and herself was taken sick. Both mother and Helene are now on the road to recovery.

Antonio Moreno will play the lead in Rex Ingram's picturization of "Mare Nostrum," by Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen." The star will be accompanied on his foreign jaunt by Mrs.

"Her Love Story", "Siren of Seville" On Local Screens

"Potash and Perlmutter," With Remarkable Cast, and "The Red Lily," an Original Niblo Film Story, Are Also on View Here.

GLORIA SWANSON in "Her Love Story," adapted from "Her Majesty, the Queen," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, is one of the several attractions at the Missouri Theater this week. This is a colorful court romance between a beautiful princess and a member of the King's guard. The royal pomp of the King's palace offers a wide opportunity for sumptuous settings and gorgeous gowns. In the supporting cast are Ian Keith, George Fawcett and several other prominent screen artists.

President Coolidge and John W. Davis address the audiences of the Missouri Theater at each performance through the De Forest Phonofilm. In talking moving pictures the rival candidates discuss in brief the campaign issues.

Harry Langdon the Mack Sennett comedian, is presented in his latest comedy "The Handsome Cabman."

Joseph Littau and his Missouri Symphony Orchestra will present their first Sunday concert at 4 p. m., with the enlarged Missouri orchestra. The concerts will be presented each Sunday at the same hour.

The latest adventures of the famous characters, Abe Potash and Mawruss Perlmutter, are revealed in motion picture form this week to open Big Picture Month at the Grand Central and West End Lyric Theaters. The title of the comedy drama is "In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter." The cast includes Alexander Carr, George Sidney, Vera Gordon, Betty Blythe and Constance and Norma Talmadge.

George Sidney is a new man in the role of Abe Potash. This famous character was conceived by the late Barney Bernard, who died since the last Potash and Perlmutter film was made. Vera Gordon is Potash's wife.

The story deals with the failures of the firm in making pictures and a final effort to create one that will be a tremendous hit with the public as well as the film buyers. There are thrills and there is romance, but comedy, of course, is the principal feature. In fact, the program at the two houses is billed as Laugh Week, a Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton comedy being an added attraction.

"A Neapolitan Night" is the stage presentation at the Grand Central, featuring solos by Roy Dieterich, tenor, and Eva Olivotti, soprano. Willard Andelin, basso, Stuart Barrie, organist, and Gene Rodemich's Orchestra also are on the program.

Priscilla Dean in "The Siren of Seville" is featured at the Kings and Rivoli theaters.

The story deals with Gallito, a rising young matador, and his peasant sweetheart, Dolores. The picture opens with a scene showing Gallito practicing his art while Dolores watches. Wishing to help her lover to success, Dolores cajoles Pedro, the premier matador of Spain, into introducing Gallito to the Seville arena. Pedro agrees, and Dolores and Gallito go to Seville. There Pedro forgets his promise, but the presidente of the arena, Cavallo, sees Dolores, becomes enamoured of her, and places Gallito. Pedro is killed in the arena and Gallito takes his place.

Success goes to Gallito's head. He forsakes Dolores for Pedro's old flame, Ardita, a dancer. Losing his love, Dolores becomes a dancer of great success, aided by Cavallo. But she still loves Gallito. Cavallo plots Gallito's death. The plot is foiled by Dolores.

The Capitol and Delmonte theaters this week will present Fred Niblo's production, produced from an original story by himself, "The Red Lily," featuring Ramon Navarro, Enid Bennett and Wallace Beery.

As its special attraction the Capitol will have the Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton comedy, "Jonah Jones," while the Delmonte will feature a new version of R. C. Jones' "Review of Revues" and a Bray cartoon, "Throwing the Bull."

"The Red Lily" is laid in Paris. It is a drama of circumstances and coincidence. Two lovers go to Paris after having been forced to do so because the father of the boy objected to their marriage.

In the station at Paris they are accidentally separated. In the weeks that follow they live in the same neighborhood, meet the same

Romance of "Cyrano" and Walter Hampden

WALTER HAMPDEN, now recognized as one of the leading actors and producers of the American stage, brought a record of professional heroism to his conception of Edmond Rostand's heroic lover, poet and duellist, Cyrano de Bergerac. He will make his first St. Louis appearance, a week from tomorrow night at the Shubert-Jefferson, in a role which has won for him flattering comparisons with his predecessors in the part, Constant Coquelin and Richard Mansfield.

Hampden was born in Brooklyn of Celtic ancestry. His full name is Walter Hampden Dougherty. His father was J. Hampden Dougherty, a lawyer. His younger brother, J. Hampden Dougherty Jr., is an attorney in New York City, and his elder brother, Paul Dougherty, is a well-known painter of marines. Hampden was educated at Brooklyn Polytechnic and Harvard University.

He did his first Shakspearean acting during his Brooklyn schooldays, undertaking Shylock when he was 16 years old. His first professional work was in England as a member of Frank R. Benson's Shakspearean company. With this troupe he played 70 Shakspearean parts, large and small, before he was 25 years old, winning especial favor as Hamlet and Romeo.

"The Servant in the House."

HE returned to America 16 years ago, with a play which Charles Rann Kennedy had written for him. It was "The Servant in the House." No London manager would accept the play, but Henry Miller saw its possibilities. First, however, he presented Hampden and Alla Nazimova at the Bijou Theater, New York, in Ibsen's "The Master Builder." This was Hampden's American debut. Later in the same season, at the Savoy, Miller produced "The Servant in the House."

Later, Hampden fell on bitter days. He was compelled to accept parts in such ephemeral pieces as "Good Gracious, Annabel," and "Be Calm, Camilla." Managers whom he besieged would have nothing to do with his ambitions for classical productions. So, while acting at the Booth Theater in "Be Calm, Camilla," he took destiny in his own hands. He had a cash capital of about $500. He trudged about town, picking up bargains in properties and furnishings. He got together a company willing to take chances with him, and announced a series of Friday afternoon performances of "Hamlet" at the Plymouth.

Was Compared to Booth.

THE result of this one-man venture was brilliant. Critics praised Hampben's Dane as the finest since Edwin Booth. What was expected to be an engagement of a couple of special matinees grew into a run of 63 performances, Saturday morning performances being added to the Friday matinees after the third week. The spectacle of a theater-full of people assembling week after week at 10:30 o'clock on Saturday morning to witness a Shakspearean tragedy had therefore been unheard of.

Still the managers remained obdurate, and it was only after he had financed his own tour of principal cities, and made a success, that they finally agreed to book him on the usual sharing terms. Then came his coup of last summer, when he leased the National Theater, in New York, for a year, on his own responsibility as star and manager.

Repertory Plan Fell Through.

HE had planned a repertory season, beginning with "Cyrano de Bergerac," and including "Othello," "Hamlet" and other Shakspeare plays. But the extraordinary triumph of his "Cyrano" sent these plans sky-high. The play ran for 250 performances and Hampden was forced to postpone his repertory idea until the present season.

His current tour, preceding the reopening of the National Theater, is a brief one, extending to only 10 cities. These are Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, Newark and Brooklyn. He promises to bring the New York production intact, and the identical cast, with two exceptions. There are 42 speaking parts, making a total personnel of 81. Prominent in the cast are: Jeanette Sherwin, Baliol Halloway, Charles Francis, Cecil Yapp, Ernest Rowan, H. E. Humphreys, Reynolds Evans, Mary Hall, Mabel Moore, Elsie Herndon Kerns, Ruth Cherpenning, Thomas F. Tracy, Cedric Weller and William Sauter. The local engagement will be limited to one week.

Tomorrow's list consists of Beethoven's overture to "Egmont," Tschaikowsky's barcarolle, "June;" Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song," the Saint-Saens aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," and Hollins' "Triumphal March."

Miss Irma Summa has returned to her home, 4253 Washington boulevard, after a tour of five months with the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet in South America. She also appeared with this ballet at the opening performance of the San Carlo Opera Co. in New York.

Eight on One Program

THE following phonograph performers will appear in a concert Thursday night at the Odeon: Henry Burr, Billy Murray and Albert Campbell, tenors; Frank Croxton, bass; John Meyer, baritone; Monroe Silver, monologist; Rudy Wiedoeft, saxophonist, and Frank Banta, pianist.

The first of a series of vesper musicales devoted to the works of American composers will be held at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Pilgrim Congregational Church. The composers in order are Ernest R. Kroeger, George W. Chadwick, Harry Rowe Shelley, Harry H. Matthews, James H. Rogers, Ethelbert Nevin and P. A. Schnecker.

Moreno and upon completion of the picture will visit his mother in Spain. The picture will be staged in Paris, Bordeaux and Barcelona.

Conway Tearle is lamenting his return to the conventional garb. For over a month Tearle has experienced the breezy freedom of typical Western clothes, flannel shirt, boots and all in his portrayal of the part of Steve Ghent in "The Great Divide." Now it's back to tailored broadcloths, tight collars and vests for the immediate future holds no further characters of the West for him.

A bust of Raymond Hatton, noted character actor, has been modeled by Zella Ingraham, daughter of Lloyd Ingraham, the director. The bust will be sent to New York by the sculptress as her entry in an international exhibition.

Any actor will say that the first requisite of good acting is to know how to walk. Robert Frazer mastered this particular phase of the art some time ago, but he now has a differnt problem confronting him. He must walk like an Indian, for he is playing the role of a red man in "The Birth of the West." Bob is having considerable difficulty mastering the slinking stride of the Indian brave.

Because of his recent success in "The Virginian," Kennett Harlan has been chosen for the leading male role in "White Man," the big outdoor story which D. P. Schulberg has already started as his next preferred picture. Harlan welcomes this transition from dress suit roles to a hero of the wide open spaces and in this adventure romance to be directed by Gasnier he will play opposite Alice Joyce who makes her return to the screen in this picture.

B. P. Schulberg, producer of Preferred Pictures, has signed Walter Long as villain in Gasnier's next production, "White Man." Long has an extensive record of film treacheries behind him and will add another portrait to the screen's Rogues Gallery in his characterization of a fugitive from justice who becomes a river thief in the African jungles.

GANZ PLANS PROGRAMS FOR CHILDREN'S CONCERTS

Director to Begin Rehearsal Last of Month for Symphony Season.

Rudolph Ganz, director of the Symphony Orchestra, has gone to New York after a visit of six days here, during which he planned programs for five children's concerts to be given under the patronage of the Symphony Society. He will return the last of the month to begin rehearsals for the regular season.

At the first of the children's concerts, on Nov. 20, at the Odeon, he will demonstrate the string instruments, singly and in combination, and conduct these works: Weber's overture to "Oberon," the second movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Handel's "Largo," Mozart's "Minuet," Delibes' "Pizzicato," Ries' "Perpetum Mobile, Moszkowsky's "Malaguena" and Berlioz's "Rakoczy March."

Numbers chosen for succeeding concerts include Quilter's dren's Overture," Rossini's ture to "William Tell," the from Dvorak's "New World phony, Sibelius' symphonic "Finlandia;" Deems Taylor's "Through a Looking Glass gar's "Pomp and Circu march, the Strauss waltz Danube," and Weber's over "Euryanthe."

Old Hickory" Reduced To Soft Pulp, in Play

scious of the fact that they are ing revived.

Miss Alexander, as Mrs. Eaton, is altogether easy and confident, there is plenty to indicate that h a reasonably good opportunity e will show to advantage. Mr McGlynn, formedly the Lincoln of Drinkwater's drama, plays the role Jackson with great vehemence, nd yet is not able to make any cene seem significant. It is not in he script.

Miss Gillmore's Best Role.

MARGALO GILLMORE gives the best performance of her reer, and one of the best performances any actress has given around this part of the world ing my time, in "The Far Cry," Arthur Richman, which was ented Tuesday night at the rt. Nobody can fly so high ithout some fuel from the playright, and so it must be conceded at Mr. Richman has written an eresting play and fashioned a e role.

This I grant a little grudgingly, from my point of view the amatist has been guilty of a good al of treachery in the fashioning this same fine role. Claire arsh is the daughter of an erican mother, resident in Parwho has drifted away from the ventional moral code of our try through sheer slackness inertia. Claire, also, is a nonformist, but with a difference. r rebellion is based on an honconviction. As a young school , Claire ran off and married a rming and worthless young chman and then divorced him. is filled with repugnance to institution of marriage. It seems to her an infringement of her freedom.

Count Disrupts Establishment.

TO be sure, as we see her in the first act, she has nothing very tangibly glamorous to show for her rebellion, but in the second act she puts her theories into practice and they work. There is a young American painter who has fallen in love with her, with no great good to his work since their attachment has produced nothing but a good deal of rowdying around the town together. The boy's mother comes to Paris to break off this state of affairs, and at the threat of interference Claire takes her young man under her arm and marches off with him to Florence. Here they live together without marriage and the young man sets to and begins to be a fine painter for the first time in his life.

A friendly and flirtatious Italian Count is responsible for the disruption of the establishment. He makes bold, though unsuccessful, love to Claire, and the young artist flies into a jealous and accusing rage which sends the girl flying back to Paris, leaving an invitation to the Count to follow her.

Mr. Richman has painted the portrait of an honorable woman, and yet he sends her sniveling around throughout the last act in a frenzy of self-accusation. She must have at least a dozen lines in which she cries out that she is no good. Mr. Richman may say that I am merely up to my old trick of hailing anything immoral as honorable. That is not the point.

The Code of Revolt.

MY judgment of the heroine's conduct and the dramatist's judgment of her conduct are equally irrelevant. My assertion is that the Claire Marsh of this play could not have acted with the forthright courage and frankness allotted to her in the first two acts without having a warm inner conviction of her own righteousness. The code of revolt is just as exacting and just as heartening as that of conformity. The mistake of the moralists is the assumption that all consciences in all people operate under the self-same body of common law.

It seems to me that Margalo Gillmore plays the girl as a sincere and sensitive person. When she plans to elope with the Count she is acting, and knows she is acting, on what seems to her high and inevitable principles. She does not identify jealousy as a mortal sin which must be scourged even though it occurs in the man she loves. The striking thing about Miss Gillmore's performance is its depth and its intensity.

Cracked Window On Life.

SEVERAL of the minor figures in "The Far Cry" are well done. There is, for instance, a fine bit of foolery for Jose Alessandro as the charming Parisian loafer. Michelette Burani could not possibly be better as the Italian servant. Frederick Worlock is capital as Count Sturani, the potential second beau to the heroine's string, and Kenneth MacKenna does well as the hero, even though the playwright has given him a rather unprepossessing role.

In the end we are led to believe that the hero and the heroine are to serve a penance of parting and then to marry. The dramatist seems to feel that this solves everything. He seems to believe that jealousy is wholly an affliction of those who live outside of marriage. And so I say that "The Far Cry" provides the theater with a magnificent performance, a good deal of interest and entertainment, and a cracked window on life.

A Hungarian Farce.

THE theme of "Marie Odile" is turned into farce in "The Little Angel," at the Frazee, which is adapted from a Hungarian play, "Rozmarin Neni," by John S. Vajda, author of "Fata Morgana." We have the story of a young girl, brought up in absolute innocence, who swoons at a ball. Later it is discovered that she is going to have a baby. Her aunt is shocked and amazed, and the amazement of the young girl is just as great. Her's has been a venial sin.

This may be a legitimate theme for a broad farce, but I can only report that to me it was not very funny. Because of my inhibitions, or something, I could not smile much. When Vajda wrote of the first adventure of a young man in "Fata Morgana," it did seem to me amusing. Maybe this is sex discrimination.

But aside from that, there is far less tenderness in "The Little Angel." Vajda is rather distractingly callous in the first scene. Later he thinks better of it, and in the last two acts he grows sentimental about the expectant mother. Also, the character of the straitlaced aunt takes on some inspiriting heroism as the play goes on. We see her first as a woman whose innocence seems not a little like feeblemindedness, but later we meet her as a fine, two-fisted fighter. The character of the aunt is well played by Clare Eames, and Mildred McLeod gives an excellent performance as the young girl.

LETTER TRAVELS 25,000 MILES

WYMORE, Neb.—A letter written by Julius Neuman of this city to his grandson, Rollie W. Neuman of Detroit, has been delivered, according to word received here, after traveling more than 25,000 miles. At the time the letter was written the lad was in the United States navy and the letter was addressed to his ship at Port Limon, Costa Rica. It was forwarded by postal employes until it had crossed the United States four times, the ocean twice and had laid at various ports in foreign countries, following the moves of the naval ship, until it recently reached the man.

WANTED! 15,000 SUFFERERS FROM

CATARRH

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

DR. W. O. COFFEE, Noted Catarrh and Deafness Specialist

I want the names of 15,000 people who suffer from catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises. I have an original home treatment for these distressing conditions which I want you to try without cost or obligation. I suffered for many years. Tried many different treatments. Had two surgical operations, all of which failed to give permanent relief. I began experimenting on myself and finally found a treatment which completely healed my catarrh, restored my hearing and stopped the terrible head noises. I want you to try this splendid treatment entirely at my own expense. Just send me your name and address.

15,000 Treatments to Be Given This Month FREE!

I am so proud of my treatment and so anxious to have other sufferers know about it that I have packed and have ready for shipment 15,000 treatments which I will give away this month absolutely free of all cost. I want to prove to 15,000 people entirely at my own expense that my original home treatment will give quick relief from catarrh, catarrhal deafness and head noises. The results are quick and convincing. You can feel the difference almost immediately. This treatment costs you nothing whatever. You are under no obligations. Simply write me, I'll gladly send the treatment Free. It is the best treatment I have ever found in over forty years daily practice as an Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist. I want you to try it Free.

Don't Neglect Catarrh

While catarrh in itself may not be dangerous, when neglected it often leads to all sorts of complications. Authorities claim that nearly 90% of all deafness is caused primarily by Catarrh of the head and ear passages. Others state that it leads to indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach and many other distressing conditions.

Just Try it Free

I don't ask you to send one penny for this free treatment. Not even postage. I send it to you prepaid without cost or obligation. I am doing this to quickly advertise my original home treatment to sufferers from catarrh, catarrhal deafness and head noises. Writing me places you under no obligation whatever. I believe I treat more cases of catarrh, catarrhal deafness and head noises than any other physician in the United States and I know this treatment is the best I have ever used. Accept my free offer. Send me your name and address today. State whether you suffer from catarrh, only, or are also troubled with deafness and head noises. This notice may not appear again so write me at once.

Profiteering in Grain by Ancient Romans Revealed

Inscription Found by University of Michigan Excavators on Site of Antioch in Asia Minor.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

YALOVACH, Asia Minor, Sept. 3.—The remains of a massive triumphal arch believed to have been constructed in the early part of the first century A. D., Latin inscriptions of that century, and a head of Augustus in white marble, are among archeological finds which have been unearthed by the University of Michigan expedition which is excavating under the direction of Prof. David M. Robinson of Johns Hopkins University on the site of Antioch in Pisidia in Asia Minor. It was this expedition which recently uncovered the foundations of a large early Christian church.

The arch, which was recently discovered, spanned a road near the base of the large oval hill on which the city stood. The road probably connected with the highway to Lystra.

Letters Six Inches High.

The arch had a single passageway, with a span of about 14 feet. The piers contained arched recesses as if for statues. They were embellished with superimposed pilasters exemplifying two varieties of the Corinthian order. These carried the main entablature, of which the architecture bore an inscription in bronze letters six inches high. Only one of the letters has been found, buried in the earth where it fell, but from the holes in which the letters were fastened it will be possible to decipher the inscription.

Important among other recent finds is the head of Augustus, which in respect to technical skill and expressiveness is reported to rival the best of the remarkable series of sculptured portraits of this Emperor in European galleries.

Another interesting discovery is a long Latin inscription in which are recorded the efforts of Antistius Rusticus, a Roman Governor in office near the end of the first century to control the price of grain in time of famine so as to prevent profiteering, and also to provide sufficient food until the next crop.

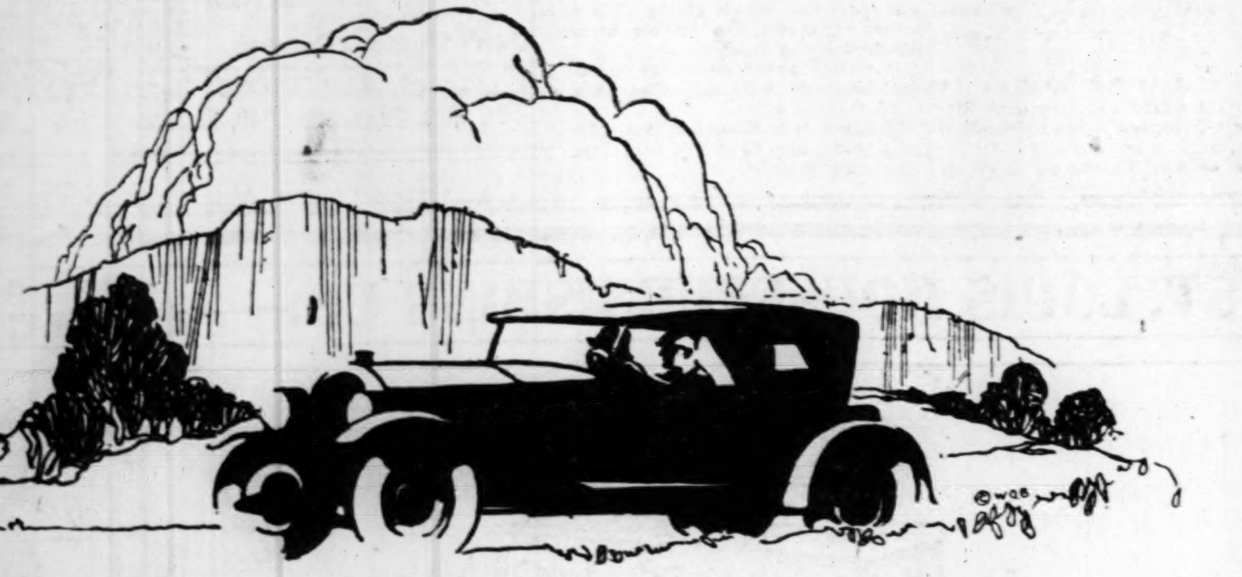
Antistius died in Asia Minor and his ashes were carried by his wife, Nigrina, in a small urn in her hands all the way to Italy. Her devotion is recorded in a famous epigram by the Roman poet, Martial, who was a contemporary.

The ruins of Antioch in Pisidia are near Yalovich, northwest of Eonia, which was the ancient Iconium. Both Antioch and Iconium had much repute in the early church because of their association with the missionary work of Paul and Barnabas.

The wages paid to the workmen employed in the digging have been a godsend to the natives, many of whom were at the point of starvation owing to failure of crops in the region last season similar to that recorded in the inscription of Antistius Rusticus.

Spring Changes to Sulphur Water.

GLASGOW, Ky.—Zion Spring, ancient water source near Zion church, has changed suddenly from clear water to sulphur water. Shocks from shooting oil wells in the vicinity are credited with being the cause.



Everybody Owns an Auto

It sounds all wrong, but it's all right.

Everybody owns a car. You do, in spite of vigorous denials. It is either in your garage or in your subconciousness.

This subconscious region of the mind is the seat of desires and ideals. All you have ever dreamed and hoped for is there; the fortune you have imagined, the travels you have planned, the friendships you have wished to enjoy.

So is the car—with visions of fields and forests, shaded valleys and mountain lakes.

Your problem may be to translate these things from the realm of desire into actuality. It requires time of course, and a steady, constant striving towards attainment.

But there are often short cuts to realization and in the case of your car, it can be lifted out of the realm of desire and into the kingdom of reality without a long wait.

The Post-Dispatch's Classified "Automobiles" columns is the medium of accomplishment. They contain a host of cars which have seen some use but whose capacity for giving comfort, pleasure and practical service is almost unlimited.

A list of the makes that interest you, a call upon the dealer or owner, a satisfactory test, an agreement upon terms, and the car which yesterday was a mental possibility may be actually put into your garage tomorrow.

SULPHUR Heals An Eczema Skin

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

BISHOP REESE TO CONDUCT EPISCOPAL MISSION HERE

Will Preach Twice Next Sunday and Every night During Week at Church of the Ascension.

A week's mission, to be held at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Goodfellow and Cates avenue, beginning next Sunday evening, will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Theodore I. Reese, Bishop Coadjutor of Southern Ohio, who will preach next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. and during the week every evening at 8 p. m. Bishop Reese will also have a class in personal religion every week day afternoon, except Saturday, at 8 o'clock in the parish house of the church.

Bishop Reese is a member of the National Council of the Episcopal Church, and is one of the best known bishops in the country, being in great demand for missions. He has a class of almost 500 which has weekly meetings in Columbus, O., his home, with lessons in Bible study and personal religion. The general subject of the Mission at the Church of the Ascension will be "Christ as Needed in American Life Today."

Eagles' National Secretary to Speak

John S. Parry, national secretary of the Eagles' Lodge, will deliver an address at the lodge building, Jeffla Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. There will be a smoker and cabaret.

ICE FUND STILL HAS DEFICIT OF $1786

Missouri Theater Sponsoring Series of Pop Concerts to Raise Most of Amount.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged	$5129.70
Ben Mutchnick, 2947 Thomas street	13.00
Show, 2718 Dayton	6.00
H. E. R., 4611 McPherson avenue	3.00
Gertrude Keane	2.00
Total	$5153.70

The Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies' Milk Fund is short $1786.16 of the amount needed to pay the ice bills for the past summer. Of this deficit $1237.16 was used during September, when 714 families were cared for through the efforts of the organization—100 families more than have ever required assistance in any previous year, and $559 of the August bills remain unpaid. The total budget for the season amounts to $7200, but the $5153 already contributed, together with a $600 surplus from last summer, leaves $1786.16 yet to be raised.

The management of the Missouri Theater will sponsor a series of four pop Symphony concerts by Joseph Littau and his orchestra, beginning this afternoon, in the endeavor to earn $1400 of the needed funds and money still outstanding from benefit affairs already given will add a possible $200, but even then unless friends of the babies rally in a final effort in their behalf the fund will be obliged to close its twentieth season with a deficit.

For the benefit of those who do not already know, it should be stated here that the Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies' Milk Fund is the only agency in St. Louis which distributes ice to tenement children, and many of the families who benefit by its activities are referred to the fund by other accredited charitable organizations. All are thoroughly investigated before being placed on the list to receive ice.

Four contributions during the past week added $24 to the fund. Ben Mutchnick, 2947 Thomas street, earned $13 selling tickets for a show; H. E. R., 4611 McPherson avenue, sent $3, and Gertrude Keane gave $2. A show at 2718 Dayton street on Sept. 17 by a youths' club, the Ata-Gara, earned $6. Those who took part were: Nathan Krutchik, Herman Thaller, Jacob Sarashon, Harry Stone, Simon Baumgarten, David Lieber, Isadore Krasner, William Krasner and Joe Kolton. Rebecca Baumgarten and Miss Stone assisted with the production.

Soak Your Stiff Swollen Joints With Wonderful New Oil

New Discovery Brings Quick Relief for Joint Sufferers.

If you are one of the thousands who suffer from stiff, swollen and enlarged joints, you can now get relief as any druggist will tell you about Buhler Oil, the wonderful new discovery which soaks right into the affected joint and brings quick relief.

The wife of a court officer in St. Paul, had been afflicted with arthritis for eight years and suffered terribly with pains in her knee joints. She had tried about everything and failed to get relief. After using one bottle of Buhler Oil, she wrote it was the finest thing she had ever tried—the only thing that had ever given her relief.

Swollen, painful and distorted stiff joints, whether it be in the ankle, knee, thigh, shoulder, wrist, elbow or fingers of your hand, are due to some infection which has involved the tissue lining of the joints. This in most instances, can be traced to internal poisons such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth, or a diseased tonsil which gives off poisons which are carried in the blood to the joints, thereby setting up inflammation of the delicate membrane lining of the joints, and causing the joints to become enlarged, swollen and extremely painful. Buhler Oil when applied to the affected joints, is readily absorbed by the tissues and soaks right into the aching joint, neutralizing the pain-causing poisons in much the same way as milk of magnesia neutralizes an acid stomach, giving relief.

Get a bottle of Buhler Oil today and try a few applications in one evening. It gives good results because it soaks right in and contains a certain ingredient which at once penetrates to the poison-infected membrane in the pain-causing, swollen joint. Your druggist has it and we guarantee it to help you or it costs you nothing. For sale by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Stores (3 stores), Keiffer Drug Co. (2 stores), Enderle Drug Co. Happy Is The Mother when the baby is well

Constipation is the bane of babies. Prevent it with half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

IT requires no long experience in the bringing up of children to understand that food waste must pass out of the system promptly, and so the intelligent mother will watch the baby's stools.

In infancy the child should have two or three passages in 24 hours, and in childhood one or two. Less than that will soon tell in canker sores, coated tongue, foul breath and restlessness. As these signs develop, promptly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in a few hours the symptoms will vanish.

Thousands of mothers have reared proud families with no other medicine than Syrup Pepsin, for it has relieved their families of constipation for thirty years. Rev. Mary F. Malcolm, Belle River, Ill., and Mrs. James Richmire, Sterlingville, N. Y., have had great success with it and constantly urge others to use it.

Here you have a laxative ideally suited to family purposes, as it acts gently and without griping, is exceptionally pleasant to take, and contains no opiates or narcotics.

The formula is clearly stated on every package and is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. A bottle, which can be had at any drug store, lasts a family months and costs an average of less than a cent a dose. Give one-half to a teaspoonful, according to age, for constipation, biliousness, loss of appetite, flatulence, belching, and to ward off fevers and colds. You will be grateful to see your child have natural sleep without the use of opiates.

Use it yourself and give it to the adults in the family. There will be less sickness, less absence from work and school. When you see what Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does for you you will discard pills and powders and salts and coal-tar drugs disguised in candy. A remedy like this, that sells over 10 million bottles annually, the largest sale in the world, must have superior merit. We guarantee it or refund your money.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

Solved the Problem

"I was almost distracted with stomach trouble, gas and colic attacks and didn't know what to do. I had tried everything I heard of, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend told me about Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and it has solved the problem, as I can now eat anything and have no distress." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph (3 stores), Enderle Drug Co. (5 drug stores), Brown-Cloughly, Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Curling Iron Kills Hair; Silmerine Improves It

Many a woman loses the silky, fluffy and brilliant appearance of her hair through habitual use of the curling iron. Certainly it can do the hair no good to dry up its natural oil, singe the life out of it, making it hard, brittle and dull. And there's no excuse for that, now that it is known what can be accomplished by the simple silmerine method. Liquid silmerine really preserves the life, luster and beauty of the hair. The curliness is perfectly natural looking and most captivating, and it will last the longest time. If you've never tried it, by all means procure a few ounces of liquid silmerine from your druggist and apply a little with brush just before doing up your hair. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use.

IN STUDIO AND GALLERY

FOUR floral still life paintings in the American Exhibition at the City Art Museum have proved to be of especial interest to local artists working in subjects of similar classification. "Hollyhocks," by M. Elizabeth Price, and "Orange, Green and White," by Emma Fordyce MacRae are hung in Gallery 31 at either side of the Wayman Adams. Both pictures, similar in character and handling, have an unusual decorative quality. Unlike the "Gloucester" floran still lifes, extravagant in the use of elementary color, these pictures achieve a luxuriant beauty in low tones; they smoulder instead of flame. They are rich in an old, mellow fashion, not dazzling in the new, flashy way. It is difficult to imagine either of these pictures surrounded by new style furniture. They belong in a high-ceiled old house filled with dark, heavy furnishings, where dignity and the solemnity of passing generations create the prevailing atmosphere.

"Satsuma Rose Jar and Lilies" by Paulette Van Roekans is a careful study in subject, arrangement and color. It is well thought-out and executed with delicacy without weakness. The intense contrast of green and white that exists between lilies and their leaves is handled in low, premeditated tones. The ancient charm of Satsuma and the succulent, exotic beauty of the lily have been coupled most interestingly.

Frank Gavencky's "Bowl of Flowers" is more usual than the foregoing three paintings. It is a characteristic decoration, warm and inviting and pleasant to own. Its background is dark, making the colors of the flowers gain force by contrast.

Two "Kang Hsi Porcelains" seen before a beautiful old tapestry have been painted by Emil Carlsen. The artist's profound admiration for the Chinese treasures is reflected in the excellence with which the picture is painted. Study of the qualities of the ancient Oriental art has made such a rendition possible. Carlsen's finest work plus the beauty of subject makes this picture one of the outstanding in the show.

"Deer Season," by Rockwell Kent, is among the most modern pictures in the exhibition. It is full of subtle significances. Soft purple planes indicate the smoky hazes of autumn; gray and yellow bands of light intersect the purple like shafts of sunlight; pale blue stretches curve away as the fall winds swirl across the open country. And in the foreground, idealized figures of deer are seen in action. Much as the modern French and German sculptor distorts a realistic figure for emphasis of an outstanding characteristic, Rockwell Kent has portrayed the sleek, fleet attributes of the deer by representing them thus.

A splendid piece of technique is Orland Campbell's "Beatrice in Autumn." Its qualities are sculpturesque, the detail carefully modeled. A tall, statuesque young woman wearing a faultlessly tailored suit of warn red is seen in profile silhouette against a great expanse of sky. The background is a representation of a hill top, with distant hill contours reiterating the stately curves contained in the figure work. The intricacies of the embroidered design on hat and vesting are executed after the meticulous fashion of the old Flemish masters. The picture recalls the Henry I. Stickroth in the American Show last year.

Strong painting added to the fascination of daring composition constitutes the attraction of Hayley Lever's "Storm." Division of interest, usually conceded to be very bad policy in the arrangement of a subject, has here been exercised forcibly. The picture may be divided into four sections: The background (the village on the hillside), and the three sections of the foreground; the pounding ocean on the left, the breakwater in the center, the canal on the right. Hayley Lever's work, ranking well among the best in the country, always contains fine color quality and this time is distinguished by an extraordinary pattern.

VICTOR HIGGINS of the Taos colony gives us a very ambitious picture entitled "The Valley of Waiting Souls." Of the picture, as many explanations exist as there are spectators. Some say that the figures in the foreground, with arms upstretched, signify unborn humans; others say that the souls are not waiting for entrance into this world, but for exit. The latter seems more logical and certainly wiser. The exact significance of the great, furrowed mountains in the background is difficult to determine. Are those heavy undulations designed only to create the impression of solitude? If so, why such a company of souls? They could scarcely be meant to signify the reality of the world as a backing for the soul, for few thinking people in this day and age make the mistake of placing the soul and this earth in such juxtaposition.

Frank Nuderscher is represented by a landscape filled with splendid gray and yellow tones that vibrate into the atmosphere of autumn. The scene is one, no doubt, in Southern Missouri. The bright colors of October lend their cheer to the picture, and the brilliance of the foreground is emphasized by the soft, purple haze in the distance. Nuderscher's manner of painting is especially adaptable to the transcription and interpretation of landscape sentiment.

Harry Vincent, belonging to the Rockport colony of painters, contributes a strong wharf marine painted in an unusual manner. Small squares of paint have been placed adjacently like colored tiles and cemented together with a heavy backing of black paint.

Every Gray Hair a Sign Post of Age

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

SILVER JUBILEE OF K. OF C. BEGINS TODAY

Fourth Degree Exemplification at Hotel Statler First Event on Week's Program.

The silver jubilee week of the Knights of Columbus, commemorating the foundation of the first council west of the Mississippi River 25 years ago, will begin this afternoon with an exemplification of the fourth degree of the order at Hotel Statler. The first organization here was St. Louis Council. After the fourth degree exemplification, in which a class of 250 will participate, there will be a banquet at which officers of the supreme council and the board of directors will be present.

The next event in the silver jubilee week will be tomorrow evening, when the second degree will be exemplified. Mass for deceased members of the order will be said at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday, and the third degree will be conferred Wednesday night. St. Louis Council will hold its jubilee banquet Thursday night at Hotel Chase. The 1300 members of the fourth degree here will attend vesper services at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Grand and Lindell boulevards, Friday evening, and the observance of the week will close next Sunday, Columbus day, with exercises at the Columbus statue in Tower Grove Park at 3 p. m. and the annual Columbus day banquet at Hotel Statler at 7 p. m.

St. Louis Council was organized here in 1899, holding its first meeting at a hall at Ninth and Market streets. The second council in Missouri was organized in Kansas City. Marquette Council was the second organization for St. Louis, getting its start in 1901. Since then, 11 other councils have been organized in St. Louis.

The Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, St. Louis and Garrison avenues, will celebrate three anniversaries today. It is the thirty-fifth anniversary of Grace Church, the thirty-fifth anniversary of the first English Lutheran church in the city and the eleventh of the dedication of Grace Church's present sanctuary. Prof. W. S. Sommer of Concordia Seminary will speak at 10:30 a. m., and the Rev. William Dallmann of Milwaukee in the evening.

WHY 35% LESS??

Read the Logical Answer to This Question of Furniture Values

THE specials illustrated in this announcement are not being run as a sale nor is it claimed that their former prices have been greatly reduced. The comparative values shown herewith are merely to illustrate what these goods would have to bring if they were purchased in ordinary quantities to be retailed in the usual way. Quantity buying power, purchasing in trainload lots, concentration only on live numbers, huge volume and small profits comprise the reasons why these specials can be offered at these prices only at Welch & Co. during the coming week. You save 35%. Your charge account is invited.

e Bennetts will tell you, however, that true, providing you have a right to . They are William H. Bennett and who have been indicted at Chattanooga urder.

is a strange-sounding word—murder— spoken by either William Bennett or ife. At least, it struck the correspondent as very odd indeed the first evening he talked with them. On the Bennett front porch one is inclined to place the word "alleged" before each mention of the murder, moved not by fear or diplomacy, but by genuine doubt. This solid, prosperous appearing business type of man and the woman accused as his confederate seem so far away from plottings and bloodshed. That they could have had any connection with a grewsome, ghastly slaying seems unbelievable, weird. You shake hands with them and feel a pressure that is frank; you return their smiles without distrust; you hear their talk and it rings true.

They Discuss the Charges Frankly

Yet—there is the story.

It is given to you soon, this story. It is told in a few words and the sinister ugliness of it escapes, or is lost in the shadows of the porch, the gentle rustling of the trees around the house, the calmness of the very words that tell it.

"We weren't prepared for this thing," Bennett said. "The officers came down here from Chattanooga one day and told us that a skeleton had been found under the floor of the basement in the house where we used to live."

Then Mrs. Bennett added:

"They say it is Aunt Gussie's skeleton and that we murdered her."

A skeleton is found one day in Chattanooga and the Bennetts of Rome, Ga., are arrested. An ugly whisper sweeps up Second avenue. The fabled family skeleton in the closet becomes a reality.

Years of respectability in Chattanooga. Years of respectability in Knoxville. Years of respectability in Rome. Then, suddenly, a charge of murder and a hideous story. And the Bennetts, sitting on their front porch, talking about it. They are bitter.

"It's damn near driven us crazy," said the husband. "We're not afraid of the trial, but the scandal is something we can't stop. The newspapers got the State's side of it, and we couldn't tell them our defense. We know that we can disprove every statement made against us when we go to court. But the damage has been done."

"Our friends have stayed by us," put in Mrs. Bennett from the porch swing.

"Yes, they have," her husband conceded.

The feeling of the town crowded in upon their words. It was clear that it comforted them to believe that Rome and its people had not changed color since the indictments. Some towns and some people might have been a little worked up over a murder mystery. But one could not imagine Rome being stirred by mere scandal. There is an ivy-grown age to its church towers; an historic air in the statues to the women of the Confederacy on Broadway, a quiet sanctity to the hillside cemetery which overlooks the town that promises a mellowed gentleness. In Rome, Ga., one believes, even culprits might find loyalty to the last.

How His Railroad Stands by Him

"Mr. Bennett is division freight agent of the Southern Railroad here," said Mrs. Bennett. "When this thing came out the railroad published a notice in the local paper saying that it had granted my husband an indefinite leave of absence on full salary so that he could devote all his time to defending his good name."

George, one of the Bennetts' two grown sons, joined his parents at this juncture.

"Our friends have been real friends," he supplemented. "When dad and mother were at Chattanooga, more than 50 of their friends there called on them, and sent mother flowers and telegrams. She had more flowers than she could carry home."

Questioned further, Bennett said that the Southern Railroad's division attorneys, the firm of Phillips, Allison & Lynch, at Chattanooga, is handling his case. He has been with the road for 33 years in one capacity or another. George Bennett also is employed by the Southern. The other son, William Jr., is cashier of a furniture factory at Rome.

The Bennetts are not alone, then, in their fight to clear up this murder mystery—if indeed it is a murder—in which they are involved. Their neighbors in Rome, they say, and the correspondent heard others say, cannot believe them guilty.

Augusta Hoffman's Disappearance

Bennett's chief at Chattanooga took up the case with high officials of the Southern at New York, and orders came to give him aid in every legitimate way. He is a Mason and a church member. His standing in Rome up to the time of the murder indictment several weeks ago was unimpeachable, and townsmen say public opinion in the town has not altered since.

So much for the accused persons and their neighbors and their friends. What of the mystery?

"Augusta Hoffman was my mother's sister," Bennett related. "She lived with us in Chattanooga. In 1915 she left our home, saying that she was going to Knoxville and marry a man there named Brown. She was always very secretive about her private affairs. We demurred at her decision, and there was a definite break between Aunt Gussie and me when she left. My mother lived with us also, and it was to her that Aunt Gussie wrote after she left.

"My mother got letters from her from Knoxville, Washington, New York and Cleveland during the next year. She received also a postal card from Santa Cruz, Cal., signed by this man Brown, in which he said that Aunt Gussie was well. My mother died in 1916, and, after her death, we never heard from Aunt Gussie again. We supposed she still felt piqued at us. Anyway, it was a lost trail.

"During the next years we made efforts to locate her, but, supposing neither that she was in want nor had met with foul play, did not go to the police. That's all we know. We didn't hear any more about her until the discovery of this skeleton.

"When the detectives came down here we gladly volunteered to return to Chattanooga and aid in clearing up the mystery. Then they arrested us."

The Bennetts added that since their indictment they have developed other points in defense, but are not at liberty to disclose them for fear of weakening their case.

From the Rome (Ga.) viewpoint, from meeting the Bennetts and their friends, the case appears incredible.

"What would those people want to kill an old woman for?" the citizens of Rome ask.

"Are they sure it is Miss Hoffman's skeleton?"

"Aren't those Chattanooga police just trying to explain away their own bewilderment?"

"The Bennetts have always been thought well of here." All the talk here is like this.

The Other Side of the Story

But at Chattanooga, where District Attorney-General George Chamlee and Chief of Detectives W. H. Hackett are getting evidence together, the story takes a diametrically opposite turn. These authorities have pieced together a circumstantial case, which if it has weak points here and there, was sufficient to convince a grand jury. Since then, other evidence has been added so that Chamlee told the correspondent there is no likelihood of a dismissal. The trial will come this month, it is expected.

Miss Augusta Hoffman appears to have been a pathetic old woman, living as a boarder with her sister, Nancy Bennett, and her nephew, William, at No. 15 Bluff View. She had a little property in Knoxville and $1300 in the Knoxville Bank and Trust Co. This bank failed and she was being paid her money in installments during the liquidation. This money was not sufficient, so she did needlework for Mrs. Mollie McGraw, a dressmaker. Once in a while she would make a dress for Mrs. J. S. Hunt, who owned No. 15 Bluff View and lived next door at No. 13.

No one bothered much about Miss Hoffman. She lingered from a passing generation with only sisters and one brother, widely scattered, to rely on for interest and sympathy. The neighbors in Chattanooga were all Southerners. The Bennetts and Miss Hoffman were from Pennsylvania. Southerners, in a good residence district such as Bluff View, are slow to make friends with Yankees.

One day, in 1915, Miss Hoffman disappeared. She did not tell Mrs. McGraw she was going any place. In fact, her week's pay as a seamstress was still in Mrs. McGraw's purse. She did not tell Mrs. Hunt she was leaving. She had disappeared and that was all.

Reported Visiting in the North

Mrs. McGraw asked the elder Mrs. Bennett where her sister had gone.

"She's visiting in the North," was the reply.

Later the Bennetts explained to Mrs. Hunt that Miss Hoffman had gone to Knoxville to get married. The landlady expressed surprise that a woman 60 years old would so quickly make up her mind to take such a step, but it was disinterested surprise. No one really cared about old Miss Hoffman.

In 1917 William Bennett and his family moved from Chattanooga to Knoxville. His mother had died. It was not noticed that in printing the announcement of her funeral the Bennetts had neglected to place Miss Hoffman's name among the surviving sisters. The notice as displayed in the Chattanooga Times was as follows:

"Mrs. Nancy Bennett, aged 84, died at the home of her son, W. H. Bennett, division freight agent of the Southern Railroad at Chattanooga, 15 Bluff View, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after a short illness. She is survived by her son, one brother, P. R. Hoffman of Williamsport, Pa., and four sisters, Mrs. J. C. Fry and Mrs. H. L. Ely of Williamsport, Mrs. Clara Parker of State College, Pa, and Mrs. E. D. Dimmock of Chillicothe, Mo."

No mention of Sister Augusta Hoffman. The State now contends that the Bennetts knew Miss Hoffman was dead, or they would have named her in the notice.

At any rate, the Bennetts left Chattanooga, and for nine years no one thought about Miss Hoffman. The home at 15 Bluff View was rented to other tenants. The Bennetts' stay in Chattanooga seemed like the stay of any other family. They were there and they left, and that was all.

Then, last July Mrs. Hunt decided to have workmen take up the wooden floor of the basement of No. 15 Bluff View. Half of it already had been removed for installation of a furnace. The carpenters, who went down to do the work, were careless. They decided that the boards were rotten and not worth saving, so they hacked and pulled away. One workman's hammer sank through to the dirt beneath the floor and pulled up a bone.

"That's funny," he said.

They dug around some more and then carefully uncovered a shallow grave. In the grave lay a skeleton. Of its clothing only the shoes were left. Shoes and a pair of spectacles and false teeth grinning eerily from the skull.

The police were summoned. At first, they did not see much of a case in it. The bones looked old. There seemed to be so few marks of identification. But newspaper reporters began questioning Mrs. Hunt, the owner.

"You know," she said, "now that you speak of it, there was an old lady here one time who disappeared suddenly. We were told she went away to get married."

Thus it came about that the police decided that Miss Augusta Hoffman had not gone away at all. That she had slept all these years under the basement floor.

Mrs. Hunt remembered something else.

"I noticed a peculiar odor about this house just after the Bennetts told me Miss Hoffman had left," she told the Attorney-General. "It wasn't like anything you could think of. I didn't say anything about it"——

"Didn't the Bennetts seem to notice?"

"No, they didn't. That's why I kept quiet. I thought that as long as they didn't complain, I wouldn't."

Several weeks were spent in trying to identify the skeleton. The State's investigators developed the following points:

Miss Hoffman's sisters said that she had very thick ankles and wore button shoes, with the buttons set over to give more room. The shoes found with the skeleton were button shoes, the buttons had been set over and the soles and heels were worn in a manner which the dead woman's sisters declared was characteristic of her.

The spectacles had been sold by the H. J. Cook Jewelry Co. of Knoxville. There, it was said that employes had a dim recollection of having sold a Miss Hoffman some spectacles and the name appears on the books.

A dentist in Knoxville identified the false teeth as plates he had made for Miss Hoffman. The dead woman's niece, Mrs. A. C. Stevens of Arcadia, Fla., said she recalled when her aunt had had the plates made and

BAFFLING MYSTERY ATTENDS $200,000 GEM THEFTS IN HOUSES WHERE WALES WAS GUE

"INSIDE JOBS," SAY POLICE, WHO ADMIT ALL THEY CAN DO NOW IS TO WATCH "FENCES" FOR LOO

This Form of Robbery Is Invariably Carried Out With Such Skill as to Cause Detectives to Class It as One of the Arts, but, in Nearly All the Cases Here Recited, the Evidence Has Indicated That Crooks Who Gained Access to the Houses or Persons of the Victims in Confidential Roles Have Been Employed by the Ring That Makes Thefts of This Sort a Specialty.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.

JEWEL-thieving has made such progress in the last two or three years that police are almost ready to classify it as one of the arts. This ancient endeavor has been so refined through the centuries by earnest workers that in America as early as twenty years back it had come to be definitely above bank-robbing, payroll hold-ups, and kidnaping.

The modern jewel thief has proved himself supreme among crooks. There is a color to his work that makes the labor of even the cleverest oil stock salesman drab by contrast. The jewel thief deals in glittering gems: blue-white diamonds, emeralds of clearest green, sapphires of first-run azure; rubies of bloody scarlet and pearls, "the tears of angels." His life is cast with the so-called best people, only they being able to afford gems worth the taking.

There is a permanency to the profession, too. People some day may grow wary of stock salesmen, and banks suspicious of their cashiers; companies may learn to pay by check and citizens may decide to shoot it out with hold-up men. But the jewel-thief deals almost entirely with women. And women, as everybody knows, never change. They will be wheedling men into buying pearl necklaces and diamond tiaras a thousand years from now. They will be strutting over ballroom floors with a fortune in precious stones distributed here and there about their anatomies and there will always be jewel thieves to shadow them and maneuver them out of their precious possessions in some way.

Rich women and their passion for extravagant display are elements on which the ambitious young crook anxious to engage in a "profession" with a future, may always count. He is sure of a stable supply of prospects and is reasonably certain that, if he watches vigilantly opportunity will present itself for him to get his hands on them. Nor is the equipment necessarily expensive. He must buy or rent a dress suit and other accoutrements, but the outfit can be obtained for about one-half the price of a good set of burglar's tools.

Ring of Thieves With This Specialty

The recent robbery at the Sands Point (L. I.) home of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Cosden is an example of the finished jewel thieves' work. Gems worth $150,000 were spirited away in a twinkling. When the police arrived they found a blind trail.

As for the Cosdens and their guests, Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten and the Hon. Mrs. Richard Brinsley Norton—of the Prince of Wales party, the Prince being also a guest there—they could only say, "The jewelry was here when we retired. Now it is gone."

Consider the fine points of the affair. The Cosden party returned home at 5:30 a. m. after an all-night party given for H. R. H. the Prince of Wales at some other Long Island estate. The 40 employes on the Cosden estate, not having awakened for the new day, Mrs. Cosden prepared breakfast for her guests in the kitchen. Then they retired.

The thief, or thieves, had calculated to a nicety just what would happen. Cosden, wearied by the night of gayety, carelessly tossed his dress shirt over the back of a chair. He neglected to remove a pearl stud worth $8000. Mrs. Cosden at her dressing table removed a pink pearl ring valued at $40,000; a black pearl ring, $25,000; a pigeon blood ruby ring, $22,000; a diamond bracelet, $8000; another $1000 bracelet; and a diamond bow knot pin worth $4000. This small fortune she placed in an open jewel box on the table.

Evidences of Help From Inside

Lady Mountbatten, meanwhile, was casting carelessly on her dressing table two rings set with diamonds and rubies, a scarfpin and a ruby ring, all valued at $42,000. Jewels, particularly diamonds, are only casual matters with her, as she is a granddaughter of the late Sir Ernest Cassel, who, with Barney Bernato, once owned the famous De Beers diamond fields in South Africa, and he left millions in diamonds to his family, including Lady Mountbatten. Her husband tossed his wallet, containing $8900, beside the jewelry. The wallet, by the way, and its contents were not disturbed.

MRS JOSHUA COSDEN.
Who with her husband joined the Prince of Wales' party on its gay excursions during the Prince's recent visit on Long Island. She lost $100,000 worth of jewelry to thieves. Her Long Island mansion was turned over to the Prince as his home during his stay in America.

Only Mrs. Norton had been cautious enough to weigh the chance of theft against her desire to show off before the Prince. She had left most of her valuable trinkets at her home in England.

Between 5:30 and 8:30 a. m. someone crept through the rooms where host and hostess and their guests were sleeping and gathered up the loot. When Cosden's valet appeared at 8:30 to put his master's room to rights he discovered that the pearl stud was gone, and the other losses were speedily revealed.

The detectives who arrived had every reason to suppose that the thieves had worked through one of the 20 house servants. But which one? The agent of the ring had been allowed plenty of time to get rid of the jewels, for all readily submitted to search. It was an inside job, presumably from the fact that four guards had been on duty about the estate during the night.

Without bloodshed, without disturbance, almost without effort, $150,000 had been stolen, and no clews were left. The only chance of recovery now rests in a careful watch of the known "fences" to whom the right might sell its booty. But there are many "fences" and they are shrewd.

It came to light just the other day that a second of the homes the Prince visited on Long Island was likewise raided by gem thieves. John Sanford, a man of large fortune, admitted to District Attorney Weeks at Mineola that his summer home, "The Chimneys," had been robbed of jewelry valued at $50,000. He had not complained to police because he wished to escape publicity.

Detectives learned of the robbery through Sanford's filing of an insurance claim to cover his loss, but were met with silence when they sought to question Sanford. From the details they gathered the crime appeared very similar to the Cosden "job," in that it must have been worked from the inside. Sanford was summoned to appear before the grand jury to tell what he knows of the theft.

Another robbery to which students of the business point with pride, and which occurred within the last three weeks, was the theft of jewels and art curios valued at $100,000 from Miss Edith Bobe, an ultra-fashionable New York modiste, with a large clientele among movie stars. Here again, as with the Cosden robbery, the thieves gathered their data carefully. As it was known that the Prince of Wales' playmates would deck themselves in gems, so was it known that Miss Bobe always sparkled when she made a tour of the bright lights with her friends.

LADY MOUNTBATTEN.
Who is said to be a favorite dancing partner of the Prince of Wales and accompanied her husband, Lord Louis Mountbatten and the Prince of Wales on his recent visit. Jewelry valued at $42,000 was stolen from her when a house guest of the Cosdens.

MRS. EDSEL FORD.
Daughter-in-law of Henry Ford who was robbed of $100,000 worth of jewelry by thieves who entered the Ford estate through a cordon of guards.

Ordinary hold-up men might have accomplished the robbery, but with long odds against its success. Exponents of the stick-'em-up-and-take-it-away-from-them school would have tried a street hold-up as Miss Bobe and her escort descended from a taxicab. There might have been shooting and there certainly would have been a pursuit. That is not the way the jewel thieves work.

"The Most Bejeweled Woman"

One of their spotters, the police have learned, reported on the evening of the robbery, "The Bobe lady is rounding the cabarets with a ton of ice on her." The thieves judged that some time after midnight she and her escort would return to her apartment at 158 East Fifty-third street. They went to the apartment hours in advance, held-up, gagged and bound Miss Bobe's maid and took possession of the place. Piling everything of value in the rooms into a bedsheet, they settled into easy chairs to await Miss Bobe's return, refreshing themselves with a few bottles from her private stock meanwhile.

When Miss Bobe and Robert L. Hague, marine superintendent of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, her escort, stepped into the living room they were faced by four armed men. Miss Bobe was obliged to take off her jewels, part of the collections of which she foolishly had boasted would make her "the most bejeweled woman in the world." The thieves worked quietly and quickly. They locked Miss Bobe and Hague in a room, gathered up the bedsheet with its treasure and walked out.

Miss Bobe's losses were: diamond bracelet, Mah Jong slave bracelet set with diamonds and sapphires; eight and one-half-carat diamond ring; diamond necklace; baby ermine coat with white fox collar; 15-carat emerald ring; a dozen pairs of earrings; diamond set wrist watch; emerald and sapphire wrist watch; pearl and jade bracelet and a dozen clocks, most of them curios from the Orient. She is said to have a large collection left.

"If you don't stop making such a flash with your jewels they'll get the rest," a detective told her.

Schoellkopf Robbery a Classsic Theft

Of all the owners of gems none was more flamboyant in their display than Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, young wife of Hugo C. P. Schoellkopf, wealthy manufacturing chemist of Buffalo, N. Y. The Schoellkopf robbery, which was staged on New Year's Eve, 1923, had its last development only the other day when John W. Mahan, the fence who bought the Schoellkopf gems from the thieves, returned the last article so as "to clear his conscience." Mahan died last week after surrendering $300,000 worth of baubles for which the thieves told police they got only $39,500.

The Schoellkopf robbery is the classic of recent jewel thefts because it contained all of the elements necessary to a well-executed plot.

Mrs. Schoellkopf was inordinately proud of her jewelry. She liked to wear all of it at once. She pasted loose diamond on her cheeks and up and down her back. Her arms were heavy with bracelets and her head heavy with jeweled combs and a tiara and earrings. Her fingers were always covere monds; necklaces of pearls and rubie lieres and sunbursts—all at once.

FIGHT OVER TEXAN'S WILL RESULTS IN TRAGEDY WHEN SON SHOOTS AUTHOR OF BRIEF THAT "INSULTED" MOTHER

Testimony of Negro Coachman About Alleged Circumstances of Courtship of Nearly 30 Years Ago Which Was Barred by Trial Judge as Irrelevant, but Incorporated in Argument to Appellate Bench So Infuriated William Crawford That He Shot Its Writer Down on Sight—Now the Flood Gates of Publicity From Which He Sought to Shield His Parent Are Opened by the Necessities of His Defense—Members of Dallas Bar Raise $5000 to Aid the Prosecution.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 4.

A FRIEND told him:

"I hear that Paul O'Day has written a brief dragging out that old talk your father and mother, Bill. I'd have k at it before O'Day reads the thing in if I were you."

ng William Crawford, with high con- ions of family honor, replied that he attend to the matter at once. Crawford hurried to the office of Paul , prominent Dallas attorney. O'Day out. Crawford guessed that the brief in tion was one which the lawyer planned resent to the Appellate Court as an argu- that the will of W. L. Crawford Sr. ld be set aside.

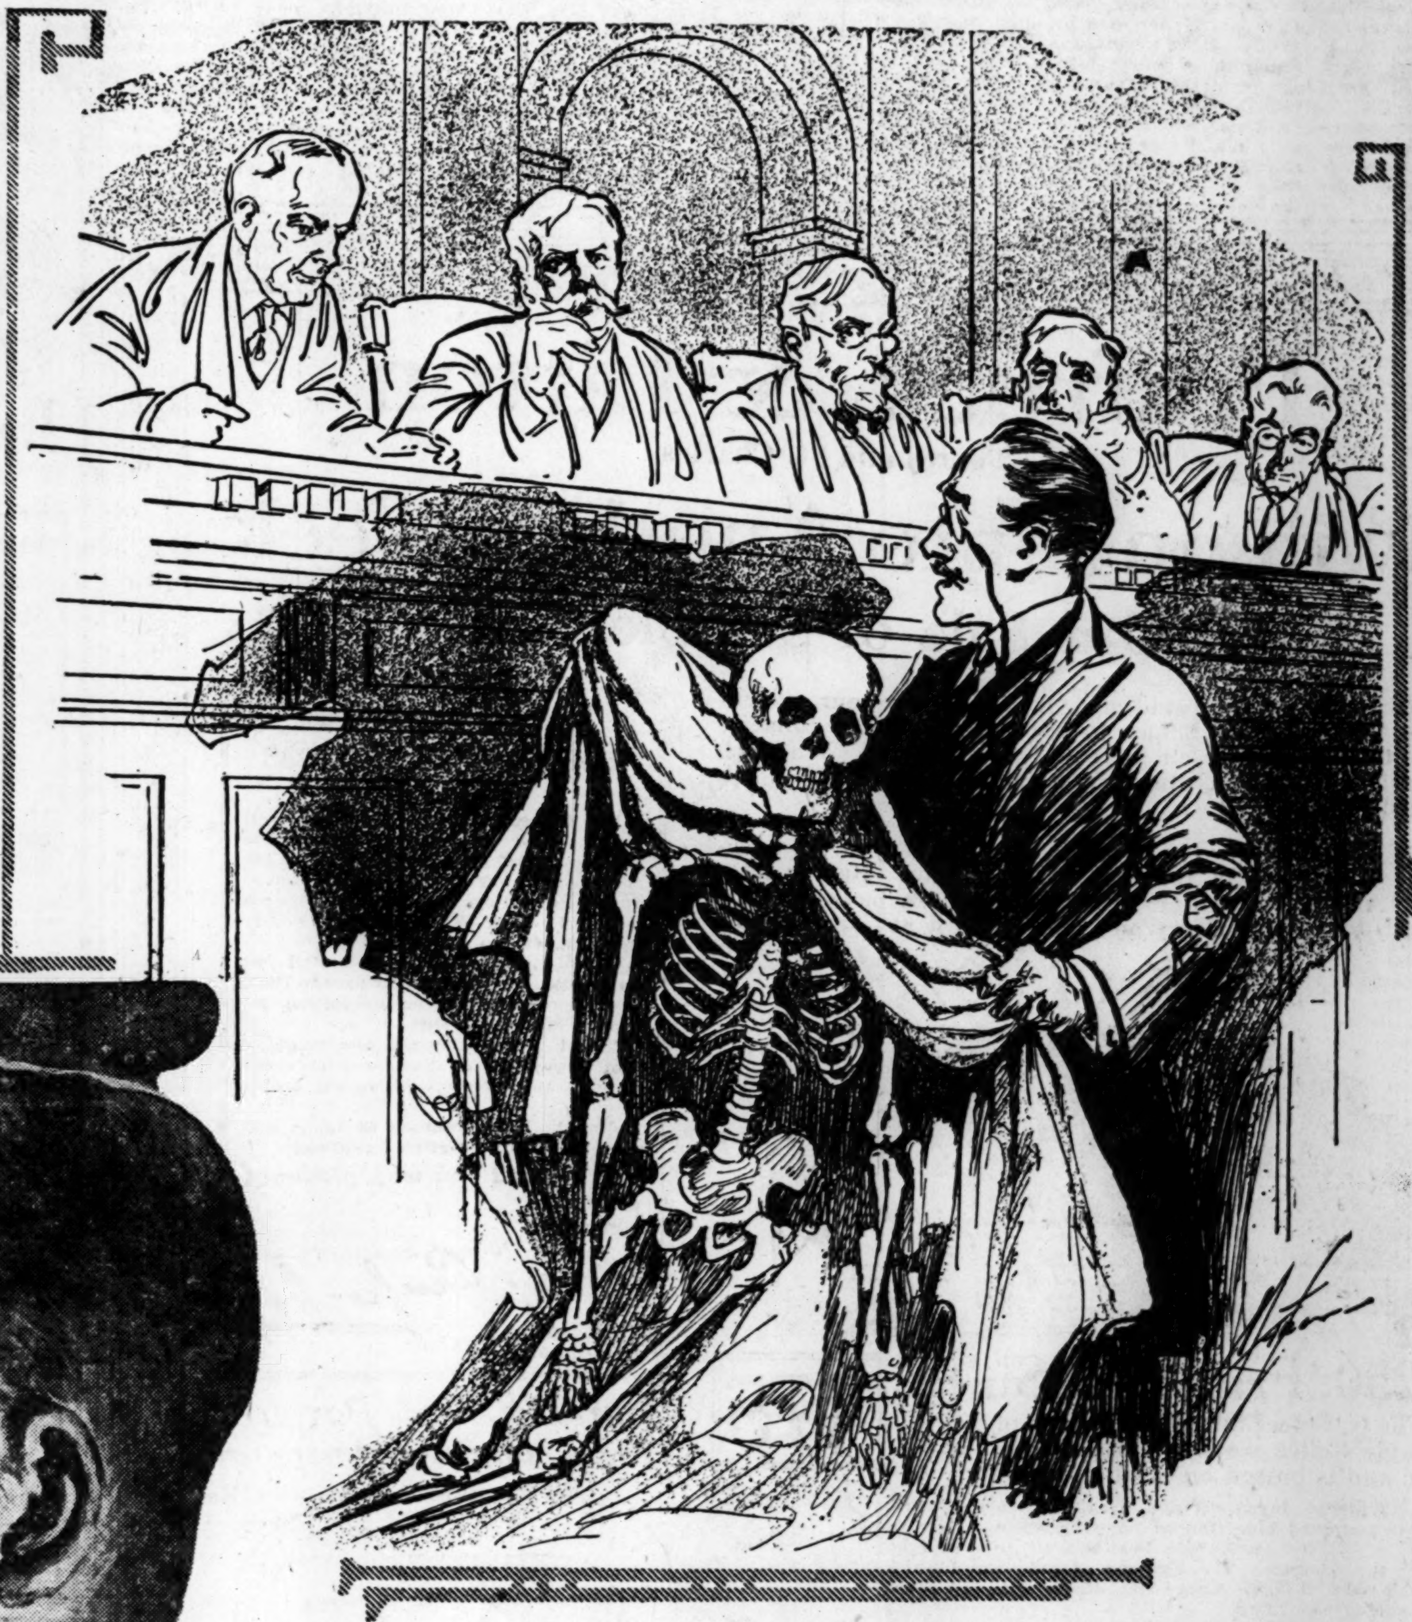
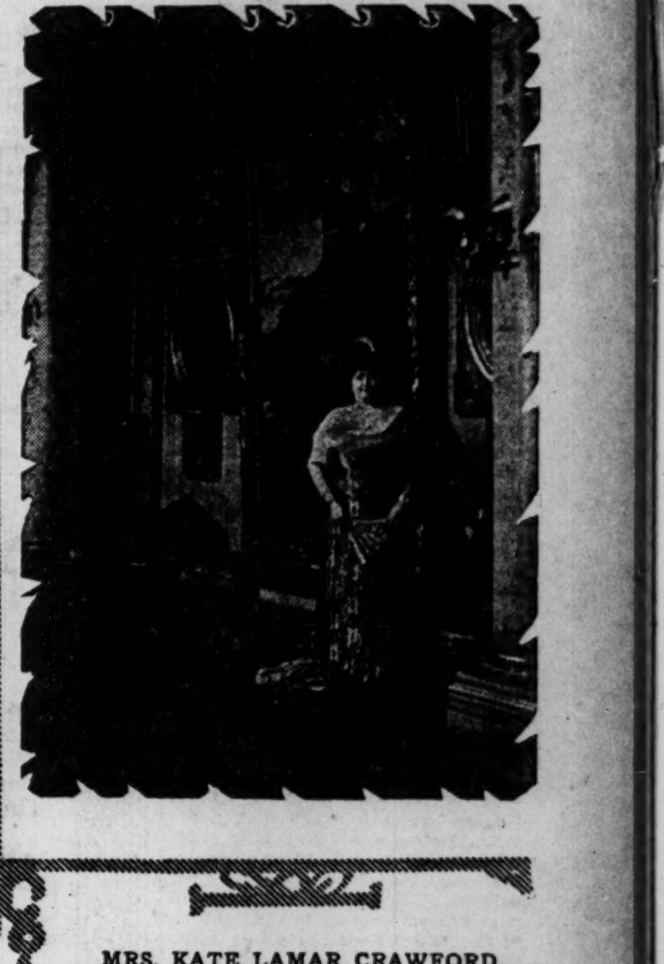
Dallas attorneys who led the move to raise this fund point out that O'Day as a lawyer was within his rights in presenting any evidence helpful to his clients so long as the evidence was introduced to court record in the proper way.

Brief Basis of His Defense

Attention, of course, is centered on the brief O'Day wrote which was the direct cause of the shooting. On the wording of this brief counsel for Crawford hope to convince a jury of Texans that he was justified in acting as he did. They will be asked to render judgment whether the brief offered grievous insult to Mrs. Crawford and whether her son had a right to avenge the slur.

Crawford's only hope of acquittal rests on this brief, which describes happenings 25 years ago.





MRS. KATE LAMAR CRAWFORD.
A snapshot of Crawford's mother taken in the art gallery of her handsome Dallas home.

WILLIAM LESTER CRAWFORD.
The young Dallas lawyer who killed Paul O'Day, fellow attorney, because O'Day had prepared a brief dragging out what was alleged to be the selection in the Crawford family closet.

In order to understand the testimony set down in the document, it is necessary to be acquainted with a few more facts about the Crawfords.

William Lester Crawford Sr. was a noted criminal lawyer of Texas. He first resided at Jefferson, Tex., and, after the death of his wife, moved with his three children to Dallas. In 1896 the beautiful Mrs. Kate Lamar, wife of L. Q. C. Lamar, a son of the famous Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar of Mississippi, came to Dallas for a visit. She was at that time about 30 years old and Col. Crawford was 58.

Mrs. Lamar won the Colonel's heart. They saw a good deal of each other before and more of each other after Mrs. Lamar filed suit to divorce her husband. The divorce granted, she married Crawford within a short time. William Lester Crawford Jr., the defendant in the O'Day shooting, is their son.

When the elder Crawford died, it was discovered that he had not provided for his three children by his first marriage. Substantially all his property was left to his second wife and her son.

First Children Attack Will

The other children brought suit to break the will through O'Day, their attorney. They alleged that their father had been unduly influenced by his second wife because of certain facts concerning their courtship. These alleged facts were contained in the statement of Willis Evans, Crawford's negro coachman, who made affidavit as to the visits Crawford paid Mrs. Lamar before her divorce and after. Some of these were night visits, according to the coachman, and from his remarks O'Day sought to show that the then Mrs. Lamar was attracted to Crawford because of his large fortune.

At the trial of the suit in the lower court to break the will, O'Day tried to place the coachman's testimony in evidence but the Judge ruled it inadmissible as having no direct bearing on the case, because of the time that had elapsed between the events and the death of the testator. The jury upheld the will and, on appeal to a higher court, O'Day was preparing a writ of error holding that the coachman's testimony should have been admitted by the trial judge. The brief over which he lost his life had been drawn by O'Day for presentation to the Appellate Court in support of his writ of error and in it was incorporated the testimony of the coachman rejected by the trial judge.

It is possible that the higher court would have upheld the view of the trial judge that the coachman's testimony was inadmissable and declared its incorporation in the appeal brief as improper and ordered it stricken out on these grounds, whereupon no publicity would have attached to it, for the newspapers would have been barred from printing it on the ground that it never became privileged, not being of record. But, because he elected to kill O'Day on the ground that the story, recited in the coachman's testimony was an "insult" to his mother, this makes the brief the basis of his plea of justification and attaches to it a public interest it never would have invited otherwise.

The deposition was taken in O'Day's office with Mrs. Kate Crawford and Willis Evans, the negro, present. As has been stated, whether young Crawford also was present is a disputed point that will be the subject of inquiry at the trial. The following extracts from the O'Day brief, so important to this murder case, are the questions of O'Day and the answers of Willis Evans as to the alleged courtship of Crawford and Mrs. Lamar (later Mrs. Crawford):

The Coachman's Version of Visits

Q. How often did you drive Colonel Crawford to Mrs. Lamar's house? A. Well, I couldn't say just how often, but I would suppose once or twice a week; anyhow, he would have me drive them over there.

Q. You say it was in the summer of 1896? A. Yes, sir, it was.

Q. Do you recall the occasion when Mrs. Lamar got her divorce from her husband? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it before or after the divorce that you drove Colonel Crawford over there? A. Both.

Q. When you would drive him over to Mrs. Lamar's was there any one with him or was he alone? A. He was alone.

Q. When you drove Colonel Crawford over to Mrs. Lamar's house what time of day was it? A. It was in the evening, after supper.

Q. Would you always wait for him after driving him to Mrs. Lamar's? A. No, sir, not always.

Q. Would he tell you at times to wait for him and at times not to wait for him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When he told you not to wait for him would you leave or wait? A. I would go home and put up the team, yes.

Q. When you were told to wait where would you wait, Willis? A. Well I would use my own discretion. He wouldn't let me stand in front. He told me to drive around on Leonard street or jog around so that I would be on the side so that whenever he got ready he could go.

(Here the deposition went into a relocation of the streets and the Lamar house. It also discussed the absence of the negro coachman from the city for several years and whether he would be able to locate the old Lamar house now.)

Q. Where did you say you would wait for Colonel Crawford? A. Well, I would walk my horse around you know and use my own discretion about that. You know that is the way. I didn't stand up in front of the house.

The Light Was the Signal

Q. How did you know when Colonel Crawford was coming? A. Well, when he would open the door, the door on the east side I would see the light from the door that way. When they opened the door on the porch it would shine on the board fence and of course the transom was over the door, and when he got ready to come I could tell from the light on the board fence.

Q. Well, now, what would you do when you saw the light coming? A. I always came when he was ready to go.

Q. By that do you mean you would drive up in front of the house? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then what would you do. A. I would wait for him. He would come out and get in, you know.

Q. Well, now, Willis, how late did you wait there for Colonel Crawford? A. Oh, I always waited until he came out. I never left him. I always waited for him to come out.

Q. How late, or at what hour would he come out? A. Well, sometimes it would be along about ten o'clock and like that; sometimes later.

Q. How often later. Which was the latest that he came out? A. Well I do not know just the time. I couldn't say just the time that was the latest. On two occasions he was late. One of them the chickens were crowing and I fixed it before day. The other was between midnight and day, that was the latest. I know of, from the chickens crowing; it was in the summer time, nice and cool.

Q. Willis, on those two occasions did you drive up in front of the house? A. Yes, I would always drive up to the sidewalk close so he could get in and out.

Q. On those two occasions did you go into the house or go to the porch? A. No, sir. Yes, I have been to the porch on those two occasions.

Q. Why did you go to the porch on those two occasions? A. Why he called me and I went.

Q. In what condition was he on those two occasions, Willis? A. Well, the Colonel had taken just a little too much on those two occasions.

Q. Was it necessary for you to help him into the carriage or not? A. Yes, it was necessary for me to assist him there and I took him home and put him to bed."

Q. Did you see Mrs. Lamar on either of these occasions? A. On both occasions, yes.

Taken Home Late at Night

Q. Did she assist you? A. She did on one occasion.

Q. Which one of the occasions was it? A. Well, on one occasion she came out when he had a little too much, you know, and he was talking loud and she walked to the carriage with him.

Q. Well, Willis, when you say he had taken a little too much, what do you mean by that? A. I mean drinking, you know.

Q. Drunk? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he drunk or not? A. Well, I consider him so, yes. He was usually—of course, he would talk loud and stagger a little bit you know and of course I took him home and being careful with him I put him to bed.

Q. Did you assist him to the carriage on both of those occasions? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the occasion when Mrs. Lamar walked with him to the carriage did you and she both assist him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did she make any remark or statement to you on that occasion? A. Well, she always on the occasion would say, "Willis, take good care of the Colonel." Yes, she said that.

Q. On the occasions when she and you helped the Colonel to the carriage, what else, if anything, did she say? A. Well, she would say, "Willis, take good care of the Colonel. He is all I have got and what he has got is all I have got." That was the remark.

Q. Willis, how was Mrs. Lamar dressed on that occasion? A. She had on a wrapper, you know, about like this—cut this way—and skirts; it was summer time—just had on a loose wrapper, you know.

Q. Was it a street dress or an out-of-door dress? A. No, sir, just a house dress like they wear, you know those loose wrappers short ones, I think.

Q. Willis, on those two occasions you mentioned, you say on one the chickens were crowing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it daylight or how near to midnight was it on that occasion? A. Well, it was before I got him to bed on one occasion.

Q. Was that the occasion when Mrs. Lamar came out of the house? A. I do not remember just which one it was. . . .

Q. On that occasion did you drive Colonel Crawford directly from Mrs. Lamar's home or not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was daylight before you got home, you say? A. Well, before I got to bed. I put up my team about daylight.

Q. On the other occasion how close to daylight was it? A. Well, it was not long before daylight.

The arguments advanced by O'Day to the appellate court were that in view of the foregoing testimony it was clear that "unconventional relations" existed between Mrs. Lamar and Crawford before their marriage; that the difference in their ages indicated that "Mrs. Lamar was not a victim of the grande passion" and that the fact that she married him 14 days after her divorce showed "she was after his property."

Young Crawford, reading O'Day's contentions, decided that they were an insult to his mother.

$150,000 GEM ROBBERY WHERE WALES VISITED A BAFFLING THEFT

the entire loot, and though stricken with paralysis kept his word to the police and sent back virtually everything that had been stolen, before he died.

Another robbery in which ostentatious display of jewels gave the thieves all the facts they needed was that staged at the East Hampton (L. I.) home of Enrico Caruso in June, 1920. Mrs. Caruso was the daughter of Park Benjamin, New York multimillionaire. Her friends had showered her with jewelry as wedding presents and the bridegroom had dowered her handsomely with gems. Private detectives had been on guard at the wedding, so the plotters bided their time.

The first intimation Mrs. Caruso (who, after her husband's death married Captain Ingram and is being sued for divorce at the present time, because she insists on being called Mme. Caruso) had of the robbery came one evening when she and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Park Benjamin Jr., were talking together in a downstairs room. The burglar alarm on the second floor went off. Mrs. Caruso rushed upstairs to find a small safe in which her jewels valued at $400,000 had been kept was missing.

Guards on the lawn fired at a skulker, but he escaped. After a careful investigation, detectives decided that the taking of the safe was only a bit of camouflage and that the real robbery had been carried out by a servant two days before while Mrs. Caruso was away.

For all their occasional strong-arm work and hold-ups jewel thieves prefer to work with artistry. Their general plan is to plant a confederate—a maid or a houseman—in the home marked for robbery. This method was followed with perfect success in the robbery of the Edsel Ford place last June. Despite the presence of guards who were keeping watch after the automobile manufacturer's son had been threatened by a crank, and despite the fact that the thieves had only two hours, between 10:30 p. m. and 12:30 a. m. in which to work, they obtained pearl necklaces and other jewelry belonging to Mrs. Ford which were valued at $100,000.

RAILROAD GIVES OFFICIAL LEAVE ON FULL PAY TO FIGHT MURDER GHARGE

identified them by type and structure.

Miss Hoffman's height was known to have been about 5 feet 3 inches. The skeleton, with allowances made for flesh and cartilage, indicated that it had been the frame of a person of that height.

A physician in Knoxville who had treated Miss Hoffman said he had marked her peculiarly shaped skull. He declared that the skull of the skeleton was "very similar" to his recollection of the contour of Miss Hoffman's.

The body to which the skeleton belonged appeared to have been burned with acid, for the hair was gone and the clothes destroyed, which, experts say, would not ordinarily decay completely in nine years.

These points of identification will be challenged by the defense, the State expects. In order to maintain its case, the prosecution must establish corpus delicti, or the bodily evidence of crime, in other words that the skeleton is that of Miss Hoffman. With this in mind, there was some delay before the indictments against the Bennetts were voted.

Nothing about the skeleton indicated the manner of death.

How State Built Up a Motive.

The Chattanooga detectives then went about evolving a possible motive for the crime. They learned that not a relative of Miss Hoffman's outside the Bennett family had ever received word from Miss Hoffman since she was said to have departed from Chattanooga in 1915. Mrs. Ely and Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Fry, her sisters, frequently wrote to Mrs. Nancy Bennett asking for news of Augusta. They received reply that Miss Hoffman was married and living in one city or another. As far as the rest of the family was concerned, Miss Hoffman vanished without trace in 1915. Only Mrs. Bennett, now dead, ever claimed to have heard from her.

The next step in the investigation showed that Miss Hoffman had not drawn all her money from the liquidators of the Knoxville bank. The last check they sent her was in December, 1915. This check, for $65.95, was cashed nearly a year later. Its signature now reveals, the State's experts declare, marked differences from the other signatures. Two chcks, mailed to her in 1917 and 1918 at the Bluff View address, were never delivered. The cashier of a bank in Knoxville, familiar with Miss Hoffman's signature, said that the signature indorsement of the $65 check "looked to him like a forgery."

That she sholud have cashed a check in 1916, a year after her disappearance and should not have written to her relatives, with whom she had been on terms of frequent correspondence, is a point the State will bring out at the trial.

The police of Chattanooga gathered evidence to show that the Bennetts, when they lived there, were frequently in distress for small sums of money. One tradesman related that he had dunned Bennett for his bill and that Bennett had replied: "I gave Mrs. Bennett the money to pay that bill." When the tradesman, asked Mrs. Bennett about it, she is alleged to have replied: "Don't tell my husband that I didn't pay you, and I'll make it up in a few days."

In Attorney-General Chamlee's hands is a series of letters which were exchanged between Miss Hoffman's sisters, elderly women, all, and of slender means. The letters show that they suspected something of an untoward nature had happened to Miss Hoffman, and that they did not believe the elder Mrs. Bennett's explanations. In one of these letters from Mrs. Parker to Mrs. Ely there is the following passage:

"I wrote and asked Nancy if she had heard anything from Gussie. She replied that she had received a postcard and a letter and was sending them on to me. This letter arrived Wednesday. Friday I got another letter from her saying that she had sent the postcard and letter. But neither came. I wrote back, saying: 'Now, Nancy, what do you mean by saying you sent those messages when you did not send them? If you had sent them I would have received them, as I got the letter which said you were going to mail the messages and the letter which said you had mailed them the day before. If these two letters reached me the other one would, too.'

"Now, Clara, I suppose I made Nancy mad by doubting her word, but I think it is awfully funny. Jane (another sister, Mrs. Jane Fry) thinks that the Bennetts are not telling us everything. She says she wrote to Matey (the younger Mrs. Bennett) and asked what had become of Augusta's things. Matey wrote her first that Gussie had taken only a few things with her and that she had sent the rest on to her at Knoxville. Later Matey wrote and mentioned that Gussie had taken everything along with her when she left. Don't you think that looks queer? I criticised Jane severely for being so suspicious, but I just wonder."

Through it all, the rather harsh conclusion appears that not one member of the family ever really tried to locate Miss Hoffman. Mrs. Fry planned a trip to Chattanooga to see for herself, but Mrs. Bennett's death halted her. A cousin in Nashville went to see the Bennetts at Chattanooga, but they told him not to discuss the case in the house for fear the shock would kill old Mrs. Bennett, he says.

Some of the letters alleged to have been written by Bennett's mother to her sisters telling them not to worry about Miss Hoffman are going to be challenged by the State as forgeries.

Detectives have carefully searched the records at Knoxville and at Washington, D. C. but there is no trace of a marriage license being issued to Augusta Hoffman or a man named Brown. This "Brown" is not known in Knoxville and has never been heard from.

"We're going to try to prove," said the Attorney-General, "that Miss Hoffman never left Chattanooga. We're going to point out that she disappeared and there was no hue and cry. We intend to show that she dropped out of sight and no one raised a finger to find her. We shall prove that while the Bennetts lived upstairs, the poor old lady was lying dead under the floor of their cellar."

PORTABLE HIGHWAY BEING BUILT FOR USE ACROSS DEATH VALLEY

A PORTABLE highway is being built on order of the California Highway Commission for use across the shifting sands of Death Valley.

For years highways of various materials have been tried across the desert, but without success. When the heat of the desert sun did not crack the surface, the shifting sands would cover the roadbed overnight.

This new "portable highway" is to be five miles in length and constructed of redwood blocks and timbers. After the pieces have been fashioned they will be taken to the desert and fastened together with bolts. The timbers are to be laid flat upon the sand.

On each side of this wooden roadbed will be eyebolts. When a storm covers the planks with sand, a tractor will be sent out. Hooks hanging from a crane will be fitted into the eyebolts and a section of the highway lifted into the air. The entire highway can be gone over in this manner and cleared of sand within a few hours.

ROMANTIC STORY IN EVOLUTION OF GASOLINE VEHICLE

Modern Closed Car Is Direct Descendant of Crude Chariot and Jeweled Coaches of Kings.

The modern automobile to be exhibited this week at the closed car show in St. Louis designs are the culmination of many phases of evolution through which the vehicle body has gone, not only since the invention of the automobile, but for centuries prior to that when vehicles were drawn by horse or conveyed by man power. From the crudest chariots of the early ages to the elaborate gold and jeweled vehicles of the European and Asiatic kings, certain influences are visible in the latest fall styles of motor car body.

The history of the enclosed vehicle is more than casually interesting. When one stops to think that the leading vehicle of the world for more than 2000 years was merely the open chariot, which was spectacular but afforded no degree of comfort, one wonders why inventive thought was so sluggish in those days. The early Etrurians are said to have been the first who thought of erecting a canopy upon it, and they used elaborately decorated awnings with beautiful traceries.

No Springs for Centuries.

Because of lack of roads, for centuries the demand for vehicles other than for war and agricultural purposes was limited and no thought or care was given to high-

Fall Motor Car Exhibition Will Be Feature of Veiled Prophet Week

Every Auto Distributor in City, Save One, to Be Represented by Full Displays of Their New Enclosed Models.

Elaborate Decorations and Features Await Visitors to Exposition in Building at Ninth and Walnut Streets.

AN urgent need for a fall showing of closed cars has been felt by the distributers of St. Louis because of numerous changes and improvements in winter types of automobiles which have just been announced or are yet to be announced by the manufacturers. Some of these changes are radical, others are of a character to excite marked interest and curiosity on the part of buyers. It therefore was felt that it was imperative at this time to hold a fall exhibition of the closed cars so that these models may be placed before the buying public en masse just at the beginning of the buying season for that type.

Striking Decorations.

To meet this situation, the members of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, which comprises every automobile distributer and dealer in St. Louis, will open its Fall Closed Car Show at noon tomorrow in the new Downtown Garage building, on Ninth street just south of Walnut street. This is a specially constructed automobile building with access to the second floor and to the roof by easy and wide ramps. It is laid out to fit automobile show conditions, which require posts not less than 24 feet apart.

For the last two weeks nearly 100 men have been at work inside the building, decorating it, painting it, erecting lattice work, installing additional electric lighting and otherwise preparing for the exhibition of motor cars. The decoration scheme is one of the most elaborate ever seen at any automobile show, and consists of a combination of Veiled Prophet's colors, purple and gold, intertwined and interspersed with brown and golden forest leaves brought in from the foothills of the Ozark Mountains by the decorator, W. R. Webster. The Show Committee has paid special attention to beautifying the main entrance to the building, so that the first view for visitors to the show will be one of striking and unusual coloring.

Use Veiled Prophet's Colors.

The holding of the show during Veiled Prophet week was planned as a tribute to this great civic celebration in St. Louis by combining with it another big civic event, the Automobile Show. It is to carry out this co-operative effort, aimed to attract the attention of the thousands of the visitors who will be in St. Louis as guests of the Veiled Prophet, that the Automobile Show is using the Veiled Prophet's color scheme.

Every distributor in St. Louis, except one, will be represented at the show with from two to 16 models of cars. These will include every type of the closed car, such as coupes, sedans, broughams, limousines and the various intermediate and indeterminate types by which the manufacturers differentiate their body styles.

Cars of Every Price.

The show will include cars of every price, ranging from the Ford, which is the cheapest car, with its three lines of closed vehicles, up to the top-price cars such as Packard, Cadillac, Pierce-Arrow, Dorris

SHOW PRIMARILY FOR BENEFIT OF THE AUTO BUYER

It Enables Him to See All Makes Together and Make Comparison, Says Dealers' Head.

By F. C. McDONALD,
President of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association.

There is perhaps no other single thing in commercial life in which people are so generally interested as the automobile. With few exceptions, every one who thinks he can afford to own a car has one. Those who can't afford to hope to, and most persons who own cars are considering their next ones. Therefore, nearly every person, sooner or later, is a possible automobile buyer.

For this reason, an automobile show always is interesting to the public. It affords them the opportunity to make comparisons between the competitive makes in which they may be interested, and displays under one roof, for their benefit, the latest developments in mechanical construction and body building.

Saves Time for Buyers.

In an hour or two at the Automobile Show, a person can gather information that would take him days, perhaps weeks, to get otherwise.

The automobile dealers spend thousands of dollars to make this possible. It is estimated by the committee in charge of the closed car show that the cost of conducting this show will amount to $30,000. This expense, of course, is

OVERLAND CAR TO END 7-DAY GRIND TOMORROW NOON

Thousands in St. Louis See Auto on 168-Hour Non-Stop Endurance and Economy Run.

The Overland car which is making a 168-hour non-stop run over St. Louis city streets and county roads is scheduled to finish its long grind at noon tomorrow, in front of the Willys-Overland factory branch at Washington boulevard and Twenty-third street. Thousands of St. Louisans have seen it as it has traversed the streets of the downtown and various residential sections, while in the county it has traveled Manchester road, Olive Street road, Page avenue and the St. Charles road.

At noon, Friday, the Overland finished the fourth day of the test, which is not for speed, but solely for endurance and economy. At that time it had covered 2370 miles. It had used 86 gallons of gasoline and 4 quarts of oil, but no water had been put in the radiator. So it was doing 27.5 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

High Mileage to the Gallon.

The first day the car ran 543 miles. The second 24 hours it covered 607 miles. The third 24 hours, ending at noon Thursday, it made 613 miles.

The total mileage for the first 72 hours was 1763 miles on 66 gallons of gasoline, or 26.7 miles to the gallon. Much of the driving was through traffic which, necessarily, meant less mileage to the gallon than if the test was conducted only on the open road.

Dan Hyland, president of the Automotive Accessory Association, one of the judges of the test, locked the speedometer when the Overland started Monday noon from the Willys-Overland branch. The gasoline tank also was locked, the only key to the lock being kept at the filling station where the tank is refilled at stated intervals. Thus it is possible to figure the gasoline consumption accurately.

Four Drivers Work in Shifts.

The car is being driven in regular four-hour shifts by four employes of the Willys-Overland branch—Cliff Watson, C. A. Politte, Walter Miller and R. W. Young, who is in charge of the test. The engine is not allowed to stop, even when the car is halted long enough to permit filling of the gasoline tank. Drivers change seats while the car is in motion.

No effort is being made to establish any speed records. The sole object of the test is to show what stamina and operating economy are built into the Overland car.

SHOW PRIMARILY FOR BENEFIT OF THE BUYING PUBLIC

pro-rated among the automobile dealers in St. Louis. The show is not a money-making proposition in any sense of the word. There never has been a motor car show in the city of St. Louis where the admission charges have covered more than part of the expense.

For Convenience of Public.

The shows are held for the convenience of the public and upon their approval depends the success.

Some persons have taken exception to the fact that admission charged for an automobile show, feeling that it was entirely a commercial proposition and that the public were being asked to pay to look at merchandise that they might buy. They, of course, do not realize that primarily the show is held for their convenience at an actual expense to the dealers.

Automobile shows have played a very important part in the development of the automobile. It is only natural that each factory and each dealer would want to put the best foot forward at an automobile show and exhibit something new and proved. The public, of course have made this possible, by their support of the automobile shows.

Every dealer in St. Louis for the past month has been in touch with his factory to get special cars to be exhibited at the coming automobile show. Many of the dealers have gone to the factories and arranged for interesting displays that involve a very heavy expense, in order that the people may feel that their visit to the automobile show has been profitable.

The closed car show will be held at the Dowtown Garage Building as this seemed to be the most desirable location. The dealers chose Oct. 6 to 11 as the dates for this show because it is Veiled Prophet week and it will give the out-of-town visitors a chance to view the latest developments in the automobile industry and make them acquainted with the improvements in the various makes of cars.

This show will be for closed cars only, although factories now putting out open cars with permanent tops will display these. Accessories also will be shown, particularly those accessoris pertaining to closed cars. Everything possible is being done by the committee in charge to make this show unusually successful.

On the Show Floor

Auburn

The brand-new Auburn "straight eight" models at the closed car show include a brougham and a sedan. The Auburn six line is represented by a new English coach model. Full sized balloon tires and four-wheel brakes, 12-leaf springs and a 70-mile an hour engine make the Auburn eight chassis of unusual interest. The "eight" boughham is a close coupled, four-door, five-passenger job, upholstered in finest wool broadcloth with silver finish fittings. The sedan has a solid aluminum body, has two auxiliary seats, and is done in wool broadcloth with dull silver fittings. The Auburn six coach has full balloon tires, and is a most comfortable and distinctive appearing car. The Auburn exhibit is made by the Mound City Automobile Co.

Buicks

Buick has included in its 1925 line the "A" models, open cars equipped with permanent tops and glass inclosures. The sides of the inclosure are fitted with ventilating windows and all joints are weather-tight. Each of these "A" models is fitted with a heater in the tonneau. For summer driving the sides are easily removable. These "inclosed-open" models are intended to supplement the very completely variety of Buick closed cars, which include coupes to carry two, three or four people, and sedans that will carry five or seven. A town car is included in the line and no expense or detail has been spared in building a car of the very finest type of this particular model. All Buick closed cars for 1925, as well as the entire line of models, have four-wheel brakes and low-pressure tires. The new ventilating windshield is used on all sedans and coupes.

Cadillac

Cadillac will be represented at the closed car show, as well as at its own style salon in its building at Washington and Leonard avenues. As many of the standard Cadillac closed models as there is room for will be seen at the show, and also the new custom built cars. It is hoped that during the week of the show it will be possible to display there every one of the numerous closed models which make the Cadillac line so complete. Standard and custom built bodies are mounted on the Cadillac V-63 eight-cylinder chassis, and all are characterized by the dignity and elegance of appointments that always have been associated with the name of Cadillac.

Chandler

Two new Chandler sedan models of striking beauty in design and richness in appointments, are featured by the Lewis Automobile Co. They are the chummy sedan, the distinctive Chandled two-door model that combines the advantages of a five-passenger sedan and a four-passenger coupe, and the metropolitan sedan de luxe, both of them glorified models of cars that have long been leaders in the Chandler line. Both models are equipped with a new type of single pane windshield. The new bodies, while distinctively Chandler in appearance, are a striking departure from previous sedans of the same make. Both are much lower, giving the appearance of great length, an effect that is heightened by the new model belt of molding, the lower bead running the full length of the car. The interiors are as greatly in advance of the previous models as are the exteriors.

Chrysler

Two new Chrysler six models, the Crown Imperial sedan and the coupe, are attracting much attention. The new Crown Imperial is a five-passenger car, finished in beige, striped in Canterbury blue and carrying such distinguishing features as a full nickel radiator, oval windows set at an angle in the sides of the rear quarter, top and rear quarters covered with heavy landau grain leather cloth, new type Fisher one-piece windshield, and several other items not heretofore shown in cars of this class. The coupe is receiving the same enthusiastic reception that was accorded the Chrysler roadster last spring. In fact, it is quite similar to the roadster in that it is a so-called two-passenger car with a rumble seat that will accommodate two additional passengers. The lines, like those of the roadster, are low and rakish. All Chrysler models are the same except as to body styles, as the one that Ralph de Palma has just driven 1000 miles at 59.52 miles an hour on a California track. The Chryslers are distributed by the Ward Motor Co., Inc.

Cleveland

Two new five-passenger closed body styles are the latest additions to the Cleveland six line of closed cars for 1925, distributed by the Cleveland Motor Sales Co. They will be known as the four-door sedan de luxe and brougham. Beauty and refinement are the dominant characteristics of these latest closed car creations. Patterned after European body design, which conveys an impression of length, accentuated by low sweeping contour, blending in harmony with the beautifully designed radiator, rounded cowl and fuel molded fenders, these closed cars are the most attractive closed types Cleveland six has ever introduced. In keeping with the exterior beauty of the Cleveland six four-door sedan de luxe and brougham models, the interiors of the cars are finished in a rich shade of gray to match the mohair upholstery. Beautiful door pockets, different from the commonplace, add much to further an air of refinement. The instrument board and window moldings of the sedan de luxe are finished in circassian walnut. The front seats of the broughams are individual and when not in use the one opposite the driver's seat folds forward. Wide, full swinging doors afford easy entrance and exit.

Cole

Dignity and beauty of line characterize the master model closed cars in the Cole eight line which will be shown by the Benjamin Motor Co. They include the 4-5-passenger Brouette four-door sedan, the seven-passenger "Royal" sedan and the seven-passenger "Royal" limousine, all engineered for and equipped with full balloon tires mounted on special disc wheels. All Cole bodies are on the standard Cole chassis with powerful eight-cylinder motor, and are attractively painted in harmony with the design.

Durant

Two models in the Durant line, a sedan and a coupe, are to be exhibited by the Spalding Motor Co., Inc. "Both these cars," says H. W. Spalding, head of the Spalding company, "live up in every way to the modest Durant slogan, 'Just a real good car.'" The sedan to be exhibited is a special job in gray, while the coupe is the standard model. The Durant car is the first to bear the name of the organizer of the great Durant automobile manufacturing enterprises, and, says Spalding, embodies his ideals of design, equipment, construction and performance.

Flint

Closed car silence depends largely on the engine and the frame. The Flint engine, due to its smoothness, does not develop vibrations transmissible to the body. Through its entire range of speed it is free from what engineers call periodic vibration. This smoothness is due to a large extent to the heavy, seven-bearing crankshaft. The Durant tubular backbone used in the Flint car prevents the side members of the frame from bending and twisting.

Lasting beauty is a feature of every Flint closed car. Like practically every car in the highest-priced class, the Flint is permanently beautiful, so that a 1924 model will be as artistically fine two or 10 or 20 years from now as it is today.

Ford

Three Ford models are to be exhibited at the show—a four-door sedan, a two-door sedan and a coupe. All are the familiar standard models, serviceable and at the same time good form for any occasion. It may safely be predicted that no exhibit will attract more attention than this. Lines of Ford closed models have been modified somewhat from time to time until today they are interesting examples of what may be done in building a most serviceable car that can be sold at the lowest of prices.

Franklin

It is hoped by the Franklin Motor Car Co. of St. Louis to have all types of Franklins in the show, including the five-passenger demi-sedan, the four-passenger brougham, the four-passenger coupe, and the five-passenger sedan. All these models are mounted on the new Series 10-C Franklin chassis, with air-cooled engine that develops 49 per cent more power than the previous Franklin and gives 100 per cent reserve power at 40 miles an hour. The new closed models live up in every way to the Franklin reputation of providing cars luxuriously upholstered and equipped, and extraordinarily easy riding under any and all road conditions. Springing and balance in the Franklin are such that full advantage can be taken of the motor's power no matter how rough the road or how many the grades and curves.

Gardner

The Mound City Auto Co., St. Louis, distributor of the Gardner car, will exhibit a five-passenger coupe, a Radio Special sedan and an all-season touring car at the closed car show, all on the Gardner chassis with five-bearing engine.

The coupe is a two-door type with individual front seats for driver and one passenger, while the rear seat has room for three. The upholstering is in two-tone brown velvet with polished silver fittings. The outside body finish is limousine blue with a stripe encircling the belt-line. The sedan is of the de luxe type. It carries as standard equipment trunk, trunk rails, step and scuff plates, cowl lamps, nickle radiator, front bumper, windshield wiper, rear vision mirror, five full balloon tires, disc wheels, etc. Like the coupe, it is finished in limousine blue, and while the interior is done in two-tone velvet, the color and texture of the material differs somewhat. The all-season car is a five-passenger job built for the man who insists on having an open car in summer but wants closed-car protection in winter. It has a rigid top which looks like an open car top, but can quickly and conveniently be converted into a comfortable, compact closed car.

Rickenbacker

A · CAR · WORTHY · OF · ITS · NAME

There Are Some Things You Cannot Picture Nor Describe

The Silent Swiftness: the Soft Smoothness: the Fleetness: the Flexibility—the Luscious Luxuriousness—of this "Vertical-8-Superfine" are indescribable. You must see and feel, to understand

SINCE IT WAS DISCOVERED, the great writers of the world have tried to describe, and famous artists essayed in vain to portray, the magnificence of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

YET YOU WHO HAVE SEEN IT—and who had read extensively about it—were speechless with emotion when your eyes first gazed upon this American Wonderland.

AND TRY AS YOU WILL, you cannot now describe it to your friends. When they ask you, you exhaust your vocabulary and finally in despair exclaim—"You must see, to understand and appreciate."

ANOTHER EXAMPLE is the Taj Mahal—Palace of Love—wrought with gems of priceless value and of transcendent beauty.

THAT STRUCTURE has been for centuries the despair of writers, the distraction of painters.

YOU MUST SEE. And seeing, you "feel" something that expresses itself through no other sense.

YOU CAN APPRECIATE THEN, his feeling of impotence, when this writer is set the task of describing the various phases of performance of this latest product of the Rickenbacker laboratory and shops.

HIS ONLY MEDIUM—his only means of access to your mind—the words which have become the nomenclature of this trade up to now—while that which he would describe is more advanced than the language of the day.

IN TIME, THIS AND LIKE CARS will develop terms which will more nearly depict its quality. But not yet.

FOR NO WORDS CAN CONVEY to your mind any idea of that which you have not yet seen or felt.

IMAGINATION CANNOT GO beyond the limits of experience.

SO ALL WE COULD TELL YOU, must be interpreted in terms of your past experience with other cars.

AND EVEN THO THAT EXPERIENCE has been with the best the world has produced, still your pre-conception of this "Vertical-8-Superfine" will fall far short of your realization.

WHEN FOR THE FIRST TIME, with your own hand on the responsive steering wheel, your own foot on the sensitive accelerator, you tool her down a straightaway and round a turn, you will admit that never before, have you handled a real automobile.

HOW SHE "ROADS!"—hands off at a mile a minute or more, and still she holds straight as an arrow the crown of the road. Yet the slightest urge on the wheel—and she responds like the thoroughbred she is.

NOW FEEL THE ACCELERATOR—you must press it gently at first for the response is instantaneous.

CLOSE YOUR EYES and try to estimate how rapidly she accelerates.

NOW GLANCE AT THE ROAD—but not at the speedometer—and tell if you can, by the feel, how fast you are going.

NOW LOOK!—and you are going twice as fast as you thought.

WHAT IS THAT AHEAD?—looks, from here, like a steep hill.

BUT IT IS NO HILL—unless your senses deceive. For you are almost unconscious of your extra pressure on the accelerator, and she takes it as easily as if it were level stretch.

YOU WONDER HOW MUCH STEEPER it would have to be to offer any perceptible resistance to this powerful car.

THAT GIVES YOU SOME idea for comparison with the best cars you have previously driven.

FORTY MILES FEELS LIKE TWENTY, sixty like thirty—seventy like thirty, too!

NOW TRY THE BRAKES—those wonderful Rickenbacker 4-Wheel Brakes—which set the standard for present safety codes and revolutionized an industry.

THOSE 4-WHEEL BRAKES—that have proven the solution of the traffic problem—just when it seemed insolvable!

THOSE MECHANICAL BRAKES—that act just as quickly and surely in winter as in summer—because there are no pipes, tubes, valves, nor hose to leak—no liquid to congeal and impede their action or render them useless.

THOSE "INTERNAL, EXPANDING" brakes—enclosed and protected from water and sand in summer, from freezing in winter—and which are therefore always ready and always sure.

TRY THOSE BRAKES! First at 20 miles per hour—if you are not used to first class 4-wheel brakes.

THEN WHEN YOU HAVE SEEN what it feels like to stop in 14 feet at that speed—without shock or jar or a squeal from the contact of shoe with drum—

TRY THEM AT 40—50—60—or as fast as you dare to drive. You will be amazed to find that at any speed they are just as smooth, just as certain and just as silent.

NOTE THAT THEY DO NOT affect your steering in the slightest.

NOW ASK YOURSELF what was the basis of all that propaganda against 4-Wheel Brakes when, a year ago, Rickenbacker first made this great improvement; what were the arguments then—what the explanations now—by those makers who then condemned, but have since adopted, this feature.

BUT—WHILE WE ARE TALKING you are "feeling" something you cannot describe.

THAT IS ALWAYS the experience of those who first drive this car. And the greater the past experience of the driver, the more intensive and thrilling the sensation—the more poignant the emotions.

NOW YOU UNDERSTAND why it is futile to attempt to describe that which we have felt—and know you will feel—when first you drive this car.

SO WE INVITE YOU to come in and see; study in detail the many points of excellence.

YOU WILL FIND in this "Vertical-8" many features that are as yet to be found in no other car in the whole world.

COME IN TODAY—store will be open to receive you.

DON'T DELAY. Come right now—or phone. Lindell 7280 and a demonstrator will be at your door.

OF PUBLIC FAVOR BY CLOSED CARS

Prices Have Decreased as Steadily as Proportion of the Type on Streets Has Increased.

The development of the closed type of motor vehicle in respect to its improvements and artistic refinements, the steady leveling in cash price and its wide popularity, is one of the most interesting phases in the history of individual transportation.

In 1915 and 1916 closed cars produced in the United States represented only 1½ per cent of the total output. By 1917 they had advanced to 4 per cent of the total; in 1918 to 7 per cent; in 1919 to 10 per cent; in 1920 to 17 per cent, and in 1921 to 22 per cent, or less than one-quarter of passenger car production. These figures exclude makes of cars of which the touring model sells for less than $4000.

It was in 1922 that the motoring public seemed generally to realize that the closed car possessed virtually all the advantages of the open model, plus many that the other lacked. The output in that year jumped to 30 per cent of the total and last year it had advanced to 34 per cent.

What the figures for the current 12 months will show is problematical, but that another great step forward will be registered is the expectation of all who are familiar with conditions in the industry.

A natural corollary of the increase in production of closed cars has been a steady decrease in their price. Quantity production, stabilized labor conditions, more scientific manufacturing methods and other factors have worked toward this end. There has been radical price reductions during the few years comprising the history of the closed car show.

Since 1921, when that type of automobile exhibition was inaugurated, the reductions in the prices of sedans have ranged from $300 to $1500.

The average reduction in the field of the popular makes of medium-priced sedans has been close to $700, bringing them at the present time to a level less in cost than touring models were four years ago.

Notwithstanding these reductions, closed cars have made their appearance from year to year with finer lines, better upholstery, larger window space and a greater variety of high-class fittings. Appointments, in respect to conveniences in the closed car, virtually have been stabilized, but every car shows various minor improvements contributing both to artistic appearance and utility of the car.

Monday would be impossible.

No Danger for Ordinary Driver.

When both roads are dry and well dragged, choice of a route depends on preference as to scenery. The southern route offers much more variety of scenery than does the northern. The northern route has fewer and generally shorter grades. An ordinarily good driver should have no difficulties or dangers on either route.

During rain, when rain threatens, or within two or three days after rain, the southern route is infinitely preferable. The northern route becomes a sea of mud for a large part of the distance when wet. The southern route is mostly gravel surfaced. Where it is not graveled, there is a natural gravel or a dirt that does not become so villainous when wet as does the dirt on the northern route. Also, the southern route can be traveled without chains, unless there has been rain for several days. In fact, if all Missouri secondary roads were as good as the graveled stretch from Jefferson City to Loose Creek, there would be reason for rejoicing.

There has been much exaggeration about the 10 creeks that must be forded on the southern route. Most of the 10 are rivulets. Three of them have solid concrete bottoms. At one ford there is a so-called "high water bridge." Construction is such that a car's wheels are led onto the bridge easily and naturally. There is one ford that might cause trouble after heavy rain. But ordinarily it is fordable without difficulty.

Conditions Exaggerated.

There has been exaggeration also about conditions at several bridges on the southern route. Several of them must be entered or left on sharp curves, but there is no excuse for coming on them unexpectedly or for having trouble on any of them. Floors which had been described as full of holes were found Monday to be firm and solid, with planks showing only a reasonable amount of weathering. The planks were not new, and there was no evidence that they had been substituted.

A letter printed in a St. Louis newspaper recently, purporting to be from a tourist, described the southern route as, it was loose rock until we struck the Manchester road." Nothing like that was seen on Monday's trip. Nor was there even much loose gravel—possibly three miles of it altogether.

Impressions of Trip.

Outstanding impressions after Monday's trip were that a tremendous amount of splendid road construction has been done on both routes, that both have many miles of road that cry aloud for improvements, and that if money can be supplied for carrying out the Highway Department's plans, there will be very satisfactory highways between the State's capital and its largest city. All that is required is to build concrete and gravel roads to replace the dirt and natural gravel, to widen narrow stretches, and to rebuild a number of bridges. To do this, and to keep the highways always in good condition, it is essential that Proposition No. 5 be adopted at the coming election. Every condition noted on Monday's trip was an argument in favor of No. 5.

How the Routes Compare.

Here is a review of conditions on the two routes as taken from the Automobile Editor's notebook:

From the St. Louis border to Foristell a concrete highway has been open to traffic for some days.

Beyond Foristell some new concrete roadway has been opened to traffic, ending at mileage 48.2 miles from St. Louis. Then begins the series of dirt roads that make this route a terror in wet weather. First came a dirt detour, very rough, over the railroad tracks. Then rough gravel with enough dirt on top to make it slippery when wet to mileage 50.0, when it became a bit smoother. Soon came two bad "S" curves and good gravel into Wright City, with very rough going for 150 yards, a mean ditch across the road and then rough gravel which presently changed into rough dirt on which a small car would rattle the teeth out of its passengers if they tried to make time. At 59.7 there was fairly good gravel, with occasional bad bumps. Just beyond Warrenton, at 62.6, there was a bad hole, then a rough dirt detour with some gravel on the hills. Back into the main road at 67.6 and more dirt, rutted, but dragged enough to permit making fair time. At 68.6 a dirt detour, dragged and pretty good. At 69.4 a bad "S" curve and almost immediately two more mean ones. Then a sharp left turn, a right turn and another left in Pendleton.

Some Slow Going.

Then came a narrow dirt road, with a number of curves, dragged but with some rough stretches. Much of this road is 15 to 20 mile an hour going at best. At 73.8 the main road again. More dirt with a very rough spot at 74.3 and then fair going into Jonesburg at 76.4 Then fair to good dirt road, and the first stretch of really good going since leaving the concrete. But this stretch still bore traces of the plowing and sliding done by motorists who tried it after the rain of two days before.

The road grew rougher, then smoothed out and at 79.5 was very rough over a grade crossing. Then for a mile it was rather badly rutted. At 81.0 High Hill, then roughish dirt road to 82, where very fair gravel was encountered. At 84.1 back on rough to fair dirt road.

At 85.4 fair gravel road that gradually improved until it dropped on a long winding grade down the once notorious Mineola hills. This grade now is one of the best gravel stretches on the cross-state road.

Out of Mineola there is fair to very good gravel to 98.2, where there is a dirt detour, very bad when wet. At 98.5 the old road again, very good dirt. Then a stretch all plowed up wiht ruts.

Some Mean Spots.

At 99.2 a detour on narrow dirt road that is rough, but widens into a fair country dirt road. At 100.9 back on the main road, which is dirt and very fair 40-mile an hour going. At 103.7 jiggly dirt, then at 105.8 a mud hole, corduroyed, but mean when wet. At 106.0 a narrow little bridge over a ditch. This would be mean at night.

The road grew worse. At 106.6 another mean little bridge. At 106.7 back on main road, dirt, roughish to very fair. At 110.7 very fair gravel, good for 45 miles an hour. At 112.0 a grade down

St. Louis Car Owners:

Tomorrow morning, at eight o'clock, our new Factory Branch Service Station will throw open its doors at 2918-20 Washington Ave.

A large corps of experienced battery men, trained in the Willard Factory, will be on hand to show you the new station, and to serve all your battery needs.

An attractive souvenir of this opening has been prepared, and will be given to every car owner who drives in during opening week.

Easy Drive-In

The first thing you'll notice is how easily you can drive in from the street. All service is given inside, so you're not bothered by cold or rainy weather. Convenient drive-out, too.

Service on All Makes of Batteries

Don't think for a minute that we service Willard Batteries only. You get the benefit of genuine Willard Service no matter what make your battery may be. Our first principle is promptness, courtesy and service to every car owner.

24-Hour Service

No need to wait two or three days for your battery. Bring your battery in at noon one day—get it at noon the next day, FULLY CHARGED. Latest apparatus makes this speed possible.

Demonstration of Willard Charged bone dry Batteries

See a Willard Charged Bone-Dry Battery start its life. Plates and insulation are both dry, and the meter says: "This battery has not started its life." Then solution is poured in. Immediately the meter shows that the battery has gone into action. A Willard Charged Bone-Dry Battery is ready to start your car the minute it is filled. You get all the life. It's the only automobile battery of its kind.

Come in and See These Batteries

RADIO

If you're a radio fan, you'll want to see the Willard rechargeable A and B Batteries. And you'll want a copy of the two booklets, "Better Results from Radio" and "Proper Use and Care of Radio Storage Batteries." Tune in with WTAM, Willard's own broadcasting station and radio research laboratory. Wave length 390 meters.

Reasonable Prices for Repairs

You'll be surprised. Our prices are the lowest in the city for first class work. Every car owner gets a square deal here, and we tell him what the repair will cost before we make it.

Free Testing and Filling

This applies to all makes at any time, and regardless of the age of your battery. We feel that car owners are entitled to this service and that no charge should be made for it.

Free Auto Tour Book

Here's a souvenir we are proud to give you. This handsome 256-page book is bound in flexible leather. It contains all principal routes, shows distances between points, and is indexed for quick reference. One copy only, to each car owner who drives in during opening week.

DANGERS TO AVOID IN ROAD BUILDING LISTED

Department of Agriculture Enumerates 13 to Be Guarded Against.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Thirteen dangers are enumerated by the Department of Agriculture which highway engineers should remove. An announcement by the department says:

"Engineers of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, who have made a close study of the couses of highway accidents in order that Federal air roads may be built as safely as possible, have listed the following causes of accidents:

"Blind curves and road intersections; sharp curves on embankments; unprotected embankments; narrow bridges; sharp convex vertical curves; slippery road surfaces; steep grades; narrow road surfaces; low or rough shoulders; steep crowns; sharp curves at bridge and underpass approaches; grade crossings; unsuperelevated curves.

"This list takes into account only the dangers which the highway engineer should eliminate by removing the cause, if possible, and if this cannot be done by erecting proper warning signs. A complete solution of the problem can be effected only by building safe roads and educating drivers to use them in a safe way."

EXAGGERATION IN STORIES OF ROADS TO STATE CAPITAL

to a bridge and up a hill on good gravel. At 113.8 Calwood. Road good for 45 miles an hour. At 117.7 gravel, a bit rougher but still good for speed. At 120.2 roughish for a mile or two, but not bad. Rougher for a mile into Fulton.

Rough out of Fulton to 124.0, then a jiggly road, not so bad and good for 35 to 45 miles an hour. At 125.4 the road was bumpy to a new dirt fill at 127.2. This stretch, though wide, would be very bad if wet. For several miles newly graded dirt road ranging from very fair to rutted on two long grades and at times with rutted tracks winding over the roadway. This would be very mean if wet At 132.5 rough going-up a long dirt grade that still permitted 35 to 40 miles an hour speed. At 134.7 the road had been dragged and was very fair. Most of this road would be a race course if thoroughly dragged and dried out.

At 135.5 New Bloomfield, where there was a rough and rutted detour that became better at 136.3 and then was none too good, soon becoming mean, jiggly going. At 137.3 a bad "S" railroad crossing. Very mean going for a small car. Rougher and meaner at 138.4. None too good to very bad at 139.8. Then a quarter mile of road all torn to pieces. Then mean pulling in loose gravel, a rough stretch, and at 141.7 dirt road again. Then a stretch of really fast dirt road, and a long grade down into the Missouri River bottoms which would be hard pulling if wet. Then Jefferson City.

The Southern Route.

Leaving Jefferson City, there was a good macadam and then gravel road for many miles. Most of this was fine, high-speed going, at times a parklike road through the hills. at mileage 5.0 from Jefferson city there is a long curve, then a grade down to a sharp curve onto a bridge, with a sharp curve off the bridge and a chance to ram the abutment if careless. A red flag warning sign has been destroyed. There is no danger at this bridge with ordinary careful driving.

For miles this gravel road is better and faster than anything on the northern route, as it winds up and down through a very pretty country. At 10.5 a bad "S" curve. Still a fast, fine gravel road on a ridge, with views on both sides. Then a fine road down into the Osage River bottoms, over a bridge and up a slight incline over the new road that replaces the old road with its hard pulling over a hill. At 15.2 a causeway and fine bridge over the Maries River. There is a fairly sharp curve off this bridge, but not dangerous. If all the Missouri secondary roads were as good as this there would be no grounds for complaint.

Along the Road.

At 16.5 a long up grade with good gravel surface that permitted a speed of 35 miles an hour clear to the top. This is a beautiful piece of road building.

The road continued fine to Loose Creek, then swung down a good gravel grade to the creek bottoms, avoiding the old, steep hill. For half a mile out of Loose Creek there was a dirt fill, rough and choppy, with a short detour down through a shallow creek around a bridge that is being built. Then very fair gravel up a hill, and good gravel to mileage 19.9, where there was 100 yards of newly graded dirt, then good gravel again. At 22.0 the road roughened up a bit, then almost immediately became good again. At 23.5 a good grade with fine gravel surface replaced a hill that used to cause lots of trouble. At 24.6 the first of the 10 creeks that must be forded on this route. It made a puddle not over two inches deep in the road. It could hardly ever become a serious obstacle.

Then a long, steep graveled grade, a little rough in spots and with loose gravel on the upper half, but not bad going. Then Linn. The road continues very good gravel winding up and down hills and along ridges, becoming jiggly at 27.8 and smoothing out at 28.0. All this road from Linn permits good speed.

Natural Gravel and Dirt.

The road becomes alternating stretches of dirt and a sort of natural gravel, fine and smooth and fast. There is enough body to the roadbed so that only long-continued rain would make it impassable. With an ordinarily heavy shower no chains would be needed. In wet weather there would be no comparison between this road and the one on the northern route. This southern road is much easier to keep in good condition by dragging, and does not rut so easily as the northern road. When wet it does not let wheels down into it so deeply.

At 37.0 dirt from some ditching work has been thrown on the road which is roughened thereby to 37.8 when it becomes fair dirt and natural gravel again. Then newly graded road, rough and rutted more like the northern dirt roads to 38.8, when there was some loose gravel, not bad going. This will make a fine road when worn down.

The gravel continued loose down a grade to the Gasconade River and was loose on a causeway to the fine new bridge that replaces the ferry and enables building good grades down and up from the bottoms. The loose gravel would bother a car going up the grade west from the bridge, but will be worn down soon. There is a stretch of natural gravel off the east end of the bridge, then alternating dirt and natural gravel, rough at times, to 42.4.

Those Fords Over Creeks.

Then a gravel road and at 42.6 a so-called creek ford, where the water was really a puddle two inches deep and two feet wide. Fifty feet farther was another "ford" with water three inches deep and five feet wide. More good gravel road and pretty going along the creek bank. The road became a winding highway through the creek bottom, with plenty of room for passing another car without hesitating. At 44.8 another little creek, really a rivulet two inches deep. At 45.1 another rivulet. For half a mile mud from roadside ditches had been spread on the road, which was rough. At 45.6 another rivulet. Then a good gravel road, and at 45.9 a parklike gravel road

DODGE CAR SHOW IN OWN BUILDING

Special Types to Be Featured This Week—Formal Opening of New Structure.

The Tate Motor Co., Inc., distributer of Dodge cars, and Dodge Brothers are holding their own automobile show this week in the new Tate building at Washington boulevard and Garrison avenue. The week's affair is a joint formal opening of the Tate company's new salesrooms and repair department and a display of open and closed Dodge passenger cars and commercial cars. Beginning tomorrow morning, the show will continue through Saturday night.

An unusual opportunity to exhibit automobiles is afforded by the two large showrooms, one devoted to Dodge passenger cars, the other to commercial vehicles of all types. Both showrooms front on Washington boulevard.

A feature of the show is the special types of Dodge passenger cars, which have recently been added to the line. These are special touring car, roadster Type A sedan and four-passenger coupe. These types have been created for motorists who desire individuality in car appointments and design. In fundamental construction they are identical with standard Dodge cars. They have, however, an accentuated smartness and elaborations of equipment and style. At the same time the special features only increase the beauty and comfort of the standard types, without reacting unfavorably on Dodge values in the used car market.

The special equipment includes nickeled radiator shell, cowl lights, nickeled front and rear bumpers, special striping on body and louvers of the hood, rear view mirror, automatic windshield wiper, and disc wheels with six-ply 5.75-inch balloon tires.

Emphasis also is laid on the all-steel body construction and permanent baked enamel body finish. Benefits to users of this type of body seem to be pronounced. In the first place, steel gives the maximum of strength and rigidity per pound of weight. Dodge Brothers bodies, therefore, have maximum strength and minimum weight.

Again, the bodies are made into one unit by parts being permanently welded or riveted together. There can be no looseness, sagging or squeaking.

The absence of wood parts in the all-steel body allows the use of enamel and baking at high temperature.

CLOSED CAR SHOW IN ST. LOUIS TO OPEN TOMORROW

and Rolls Royce, the latter the highest-priced car in the exhibition. These cars will be placed on the first and second floors of the building. The open roof, brilliantly lighted, will be left open and visitors to the show will be permitted to visit it to view the city. Weather conditions have never bothered the Veiled Prophet, for only in a few instances in the past 35 years have there been rain or disagreeable weather.

In order to permit a complete showing of all the motor cars, it was found necessary at this show to limit the number of accessory exhibitors to eight. These eight are grouped in the northeast corner of the second floor in an attractive position. They will show lines of accessories suitable for use on closed automobiles.

Features at the Show.

An interesting feature of the building in which the show is to be held is the system of ramps leading to the second floor and the roof. Each ramp is designed to handle two cars, one going up and one going down, and the grade is but 11 per cent, a very mild incline, so access moh visitors to the automobile show will be by easy stages and much less fatiguing than climbing stairs would be.

There will be several costly furnished rest rooms fitted with overstuffed chairs and lounges. There also will be telephones for the public and exhibitors.

Under the front door will be a booth maintained by the St. Louis Safety Council, of which the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association is a strong supporter. This will show safety slogans, safety maps and accident maps, and the attendants will bring to the attention of show visitors the Safe Highway Club, which is being organized by the Safety Council to bring about greater safety and fewer motor car accidents in St. Louis.

The show committee, which has had the responsibility of laying out the general design of the show, consists of John T. Salisbury, of the More Automobile Co., who is chairman; A. E. Spielberg, of the Franklin Motor Car Co.; George Weber, of the Weber Implement and Automobile Co., and F. C. McDonald, of the South West Nash Co., who is president of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association.

The executive and direct management of the show will be in the hands of Capt. Robert E. Lee, who has been manager of automobile shows in St. Louis for the past 17 years, during which period he has handled 22 motor car exhibitions.

The show will open tomorrow at noon, and will remain open each day from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. until following Saturday night, Oct. 11.

A feature of the show will be Walter Weber's Jazzartists. Weber has been orchestra leader for the automobile shows for a number of years and has assembled for the fall exhibition a group of the cleverest jazz musicians in St. Louis, who will play both their specialty and classic music.

The passenger car exhibitors at the show are:

Benjamin Motor Co., Cole and Velie.

EXAGGERATION IN STORIES OF ROADS TO STATE CAPITAL

up a grade and then a winding down grade, both having guard rails on the curves. Most of this road has been relocated and is a fine piece of road building.

That "High-Water" Bridge.

At 48.6 the road became a bit rough for a tenth of a mile. At 49.0 is the so-called "high-water" bridge, which has been criticised as perilous, and the alternative of fording a small creek which that day had not over four inches depth of water. There is no reason for failing to make the bridge easily and safely. It does consist of two timbers elevated about three feet above the creek. But there are guards at each end and the timbers are so arranged that the wheels of a car are led right onto the bridge. The creek evidently is fordable except after heavy rain, and unless there is a vertible cloudburst the bridge will stand above the water. The sooner a solid bridge is built at this place the better, but the present arrangement will serve all right.

For half a mile the road is rough, then becomes fair gravel. At 49.7 there is a ford through a creek. There was five inches of water Monday. This is the only ford that might cause real trouble with fairly heavy rain. The road goes up a sharp upgrade that has good gravel footing, becoming rough from 50.0 for a quarter mile, then is very fair to very good gravel to 51.8, when there are more or less rough spots to 52.5. At 53.6 Drake.

For nearly a mile the Old Irom road, which runs from Hermann to St. James, is followed. This is very good gravel. At 54.4 the route swings off on No. 12, on good gravel. At 55.7 there is a narrow little bridge. A bit farther on is an automobile that evidently was wrecked and has been stripped. The road is so good there that it is inconceivable that road conditions could have had anything to do with the wrecking.

Five Miles of Dirt.

At 58.7 to 59 the road is roughish, with a sharp curve. At 59.5 there is another shallow ford. The road is still good gravel. At 62.3 there is a sharp turn onto a bridge over a railroad. The bridge flooring is sound, and only ordinary care in driving is required to traverse this bridge. At 62.9 Rosebud. The road becomes dirt, jiggly to rough, with gravel on the grades. At 64.2 the road becomes good dirt, with enough substance not to rut badly in ordinary wet weather. At 67.2 gravel for half a mile into Gerald. This five-mile stretch is the only one that might really bother in continuous wet weather, and the rain would have to be a soaker, at that.

More Fords Over Rivulets.

Out of Rosebud the road is gravel and good. At 70.2 there is a ford, with permanent concrete bottom. The water Monday was three inches deep. Only a cloudburst could make this ford impassable. At 70.5 there is another concrete-bottomed ford, with a couple of inches of water. At 71.2 there is another concrete ford. Monday the water there was not three inches deep.

At 74.0 loose gravel for a fifth of a mile, then a stretch of dirt at the upper end of a grade, then a tenth of a mile of loose gravel. This is a newly located road that saves two grade crossings. The road was still good gravel at 78.5. At 79.0 it was a little rough over the crest of a hill where a gang was working, but it was not bad. At 81.0 there was loose gravel, not bad, for a fifth of a mile, then a rough dirt fill for 300 yards, then somewhat rough road for a quarter of a mile. At 82.1 rough going up a grade, with a dozen or so rock ledges just showing through the gravel. This could be described by a writer with vivid imagination as very bad. As a matter of fact, it is not bad. At 82.3 very good gravel, with occasional jolting spots.

At 85.6 a bridge over a railroad, with a mean curve onto it from the east. This bridge is not dangerous for the ordinarily careful driver, and the flooring is firm and solid. The elimination of this bridge waits on Proposition No. 5.

Underpass Needed.

For a while the road is jiggly gravel, then there is a mile of very good gravel into Union. Beyond Union, the road is old macadam, which the State maintenance gangs have greatly improved since the days when it was a menace to car springs. It can be driven fast. There is a mean railroad crossing, dangerous because, while one can see an approaching train, yet the grade is so steep up over it that one can not see a car coming from the other direction until he tops the crossing. Passage of Proposition No. 5 will enable building an underpass here.

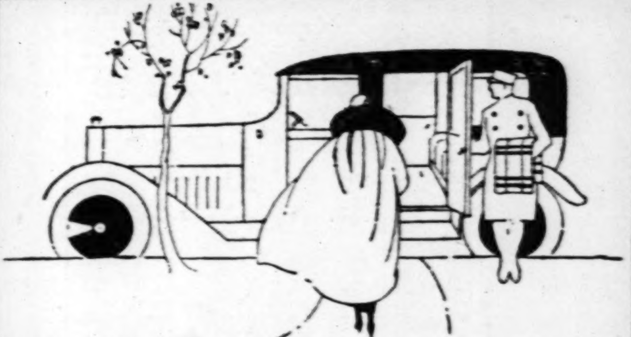
The road averages fair to very good to 95.4, then is jiggly to 96.6, then very fair, with jolting spots, to the junction with Highway No. 14 at 101.8. The road thence is fair to very fair, with rough spots, to Gray's Summit.

That Gray's Summit Grade.

There is nothing noticably wrong with the bridge out of Gary's Summit. The long up-grade is a little rough, but has a hard surface. It can be made in high or second gear, depending on the car driven. The automobile editor described in a recent issue the performance of a 6-cylinder car which sauntered up this grade in high. The driver at one time deliberately let the speed drop to 10 miles an hour, then picked up in high and went over the top flying. If this grade was as bad as it has been described, such a performance would have been impossible.

For some distance the road beyond the grade is very fair but jiggly. At 110.4 there mean grade, stony and rough, at 111.6 there is a long grade it is well to descend in gear, then the road is so-so to the concrete at 112.6.

Between Union and the one would almost have to come to grief to make driving dangerous.



Is Your Car Spotless Inside?

Or are there spots on the seat covers, the upholstery or the inside of the top—spots which are embarrassing when you have guests in the car?

A little Energine will relieve you of that embarrassment. In fact, it just takes a few moments and a little Energine every now and then to keep the inside of your car spotless.

Carry a can in one of the pockets or in your tool kit. Energine is fine for removing grease from your hands after you have been working on the car. Get your handy can. It's only 35c at all drug stores.

Studebaker Sedans

First Public Showing at the Closed Car Show

THE new Studebaker Duplex—totally unlike any other type of car ever made—has attracted nation-wide attention.

It combines the advantages of both the open car and the closed car at an open car price.

Its double utility has changed public motor car preference in less than a month—it was first introduced September 14.

The Studebaker Duplex solves the open-closed car problem—for the first time completely fills a demand which has existed since motor cars were first made.

It can be changed in thirty seconds from a delightful open car to a snug, comfortable closed car, by simply drawing down the side enclosures the same as you would a Pullman shade.

The New Sedans

The new sedans on display are the very latest examples of modern style and sparkling beauty.

The bodies, built completely by Studebaker, are products of new and modern factories and masterpieces of expert craftmanship.

The new Studebaker closed cars with their striking new lines, exquisite appointments, rich, silky mohair upholstery are the very latest examples of modern style in fine closed cars.

Luxurious comfort is made complete with the wonderful riding qualities of genuine balloon tires, long, supple springs and remarkable new type cushions.

There is a multitude of surprisingly new features, for instance, lighting control on the steering wheel, emergency brake on the dash, convenient and beautiful grouping of instruments on a dull silver-faced dial.

To appreciate the beauty of the new sedans, you must see them—and at the same time you will have an opportunity to inspect the new sensation of motordom—the new Studebaker Duplex!

Extra-Value FEATURES

CADILLAC HOLDS OWN STYLE SALON

First Showing in St. Louis of New Custom Built Bodies.

In common with Cadillac organizations all over this country, the Cadillac automobile Co. of St. Louis is holding a style salon this week in its building at Locust boulevard and Leonard street, to show for the first time a new and distinctive line of custom coachwork now being built to order on the Cadillac chassis in the new Fisher custom body department. Also on display will be the full Cadillac line with its many body styles on the "V-63" chassis.

The new custom built bodies are a 2-passenger coupe, a 5-passenger coupe, a 5-passenger sedan, a 7-passenger suburban and a 7-passenger imperian limousine.

The purpose in offering the new custom bodies a few weeks prior to the style-setting shows at New York and Chicago is to provide, at the beginning of the winter social season, for those of its clients who desire the refined elegance which usually has been associated only with costly foreign cars or with the products of individual custom body builders.

On bodies produced during the past year, Cadillac is now offering optionally a perfected Duco finish, which presents a fine, hard, smooth surface of exceptional durability in either a bright or velvet finish.

The chassis for the new custom-built bodies is identical with that of all other V-63 cars, excepting as to length of wheelbase. Heretofore, the Cadillac chassis has been manufactured in two standard lengths—132 inches for private passenger cars and 145 inches for commercial purposes. The new 5 and 7-passenger custom built bodies are on a chassis with a 138-inch wheelbase. For the two passenger coupe it measures 132 inches.

Specifications for the upholstery of the new bodies include, in addition to broadcloth, the option of first selection, highest quality mohair velvet. Clothing is never soiled or worn by contact with it. Dust disappears from its surface and it is not easily spotted. An occasional brushing keeps it clean and when a further cleansing is desired, pure soap and water may be used freely and without injury to the upholstery. Vacuum cleaning or even a rattan beating may be resorted to without affecting the appearance of newness.

ways until the Appian Way materialized in 313 B. C.

Yet for more than 15 centuries, vehicles remained springless. The Romans, whose vehicles were gradually improved until they became most gorgeous affairs, decorated with gold and silver and lined with costly fabrics of wondrous colors, had the seats stuffed with rose leaves or goats' hair to add to the comfort of the riders. It was during the reign of Augustus that vehicles other than chariots came into use and the modern carriage was patterned after these.

Vehicles have played an important part in French history. Charles X of France did much to advance the popularity of the carriage. France, probably to a greater extent than any other country, has managed to preserve an unusually large assortment of the elaborate paraphernalia with which her many monarchs surrounded themselves. In Versailles today may be found an exceptionally large and complete collection of state coaches which record the artistic tastes as well as the fashions prevalent in different periods. The designs are elaborate, often ponderous—gold, silver and jewels were used freely, and many were adorned with works of sculpture.

Pretty, but Comfortable.

Although these royal coaches are noted for their beauty of design, they were entirely devoid of comfort. In spite of exquisite workmanship in an artistic way, the springs were faulty and the ungainly wheels jarred along over poor roads. If we should place a closed present-day automobile beside one of these royal coaches, it would be hard to believe that a couple of centuries could effect such a difference in style, and yet the modern motor car holds the secret of true beauty—simplicity of design.

One of the most famous coaches in the world is that of the royal family of spain. This coach is exquisitely carved and inlaid with mother of pearl—which rather limits its quanity production. Is was used at the royal wedding in Spain in 1906, when King Alfonso espoused an English princess.

In our own country, the development of the vehicle is also interesting. A few private coaches appeared late in the seventeenth century, made in large towns and for town use only, due to the poor condition of the roads. Most of these coaches followed European conceptions. The bodies were usually made of wood or leather and painted in vivid colors.

It is interesting to note that nearly all early coach work had large wheels in the rear and smaller ones in front, the latter to enable easier turning in narrow roads. The early automobiles were constructed in the same manner and for many seasons American and foreign cars were built with two-sized wheels, the larger in the rear and the smaller in the front.

Another interesting feature is that automobiles originally were built with comparatively short springs. By going back to some of the royal vehicles of late eighteenth century construction, it was noted that the designers had learned that longer springs produced greater riding comfort.

When automobiles first were constructed, seat upholstery was only a few inches deep. It was necessary to go back to the styles of the old Romans to realize that deep cushion seats stuffed with curled hair made for easier riding, regardless of spring construction.

Of course the influence of the sedan chair of Colonial and in some cases of Oriental type is noticeable in modern coupes.

Found S. E. Missouri Roads Fine.

"Jim" Ward, manager of the Diesing Motor Car Co., who has just returned from a 700-mile trip through Southeast Missouri in a Rickenbacker, reports the roads in that region even better than he had supposed. He found no bad road in all the mileage he traveled, much of the gravel highways being very well built and fast. He added two dealers to the list of Rickenbacker sales organizations.

Factory Official Here on Visit.

Harrison Goldsmith, Western sales manager of the Cleveland Motor Co. of Cleveland, was in St. Louis Tuesday to visit the Cleveland Motor Sales Co., distributer of Cleveland sixes.

THE USED CAR KING

More Truth Than Gas.

Settling it out of court is conveniently arranged by not having it happen.

Through motoring the average man nowadays misses nothing. Not even telegraph poles and ditches.

A prospect is a motorist who looks forward to having an anxious agency offer him at least twice what his old car is worth.

Hudson and Essex coaches and sedans by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. Both coaches and sedans are finished in blue special striping and their equipment is unusually complete, including trunks, stop lights, spring covers, snubbers, bumpers, onyx gear shift lever balls and tire covers. Not only this but the lamps, radiators and bumpers are finished in nickel.

The Hudson Super-Six coach cost now is exactly that of the Hudson seven-passenger phaeton. Hudson now makes a greater volume of enclosed cars than it does open ones, which is why price equality is possible. This is true of the Essex, too. Hudson sedans are a combination of custom-built quality with quantity price. They long have been famous for excellence of coachwork and unusual distinction and artistic perfection of line.

Hupmobile

Seven Hup models are to be exhibited by the Weber Implement and Automobile Co., including a de luxe sedan, a club sedan with tan Duco finish, a club sedan with blue Duco finish, a four-passenger coupe, a two-passenger coupe, a touring car with Rex top and a touring with Rex inclosure. A new beauty has been built into the Hup. Noteworthy improvements are the Duco permanent finish, choice of blue or beige body and hood, nickel radiator and cowl lights. The lines of all models have been refined and details of upholstery and finish carried out with close attention to harmony of design. "Quality plus beauty and comfort" has been the guiding motive in building the Hup. The standard equipment on all closed models is complete. It is possible also that there will be one of the parts exhibits which have been featured by all Hup distributers.

H. C. S.

The new series IV H. C. S. cars, built by Harry C. Stutz, include sedan and coupe amon gthe closed models. "Butterly balance" of steering and roadability are features of the powerfully engined chassis on which these models are mounted. In addition to refinement of design and colors, emphasis has been placed on making all H. C. S. bodies roomy and comfortable, with deep, soft cushions and ample leg space. As Stutz puts it, "A car not bulky or clumsy, not awkward in traffic, but so perfect in control that it can be handled by any woman under the most trying conditions with perfect comfort and safety. A car with smartness of design and completeness of appointment that immediately characterizes it in the estimation of those accustomed to fine things." The H. C. S. cars will be exhibited by the McCarthy-Arthur Auto Co.

Jewett

Jewett six closed models featured by the Newell Motor Car Co., include the sedan, de luxe sedan, de luxe brougham and coupe. Graceful in line, the sedan has ample seating room for five and is equally generous in height and length. Under the metal panelling is a stout wood frame whose joints are triply fastened. Seats are broad and deep with extra well cushioned upholstery that means so much to ease of riding. They are covered with durable fabric in a neutral tone. The 50-horsepower motor gives this car better than average open car speed. It is for the buyer who desires to drive a motor car that expresses his or her individuality that the Jewett de luxe sedan is designed. All the room of a sedan and the intimacy of a coupe are given by the de luxe brougham at little more than the price of a good open car.

Lincoln

One of the most elaborate exhibits at the show will be that of Lincoln closed models. Among the Lincolns will be a seven-passenger sedan, a five-passenger sedan, a four-passenger sedan of the three-window type, a four-passenger sedan of the two-window type, a five-passenger coupe, a standard four-door berline-limousine, a two-passenger coupe, a limousine with body by Fleetwood and a berline with Judkins body. In upholstery, finish and fitments the Lincolns are among the most luxurious cars made in this country. In fact, they compare favorably with the most distinguished of the foreign-built machines. Equipment also is elaborate and complete.

McFarlan

The new and lighter McFarlan six, with 75-horsepower motor and 127-inch wheelbase, is being especially featured by the McFarlan distributer in this district, the Foster Motor Co. Although smaller than the big McFarlan, which has a motor of 120-horsepower, the lighter six is identical with it in lines and characteristics. The closed models, which include four-passenger coupe, and five and seven-passenger sedans, have the same leather and fabric upholstery, the same fine coachwork and the same excellence of painting. It was built as a "companion" to the 120-horsepower McFarlan, and is in every way upholding the reputation established by its big brother.

Marmon

Just what models in the Marmon line will be exhibited will not be decided until tomorrow morning, but the closed Marmon models offer a variety of selection ranging from the four-passenger coupe through the four-passenger sedan, the seven-passenger sedan, the suburban and the limousine to the dignified, formal town car with richly upholstered rear compartment for five passengers. All models are mounted on the 136-inch wheel base Marmon chassis, with powerful six-cylinder motor and frame 10-inches deep. Marmon craftmanship has built bodies of assured distinction, built them so finely, in fact, that Marmon has sent a car to compete in the automobile shows abroad with the best that Europe can produce. Marmon models will be exhibited at the show by the More Auotmobile Co.

Its Value Proved in Thousands of Cars

The annals of the automotive industry do not record a quicker and more consistent success than that of the Traffic Transmission

(Campbell Patent)

Announced in September, 1923, it is now in use on thousands of Chandler cars.

That fact is important to all who are contemplating the purchase of an automobile; for any man who invests $1600 or more in a car is entitled to enjoy the many advantages in driving that the Traffic Transmission makes possible.

Because it is the only car with the Traffic Transmission, the Chandler is the only car in which the gears cannot be clashed

—the only car in which any driver cannot fail—or even falter—in changing from high to second or low and from low to second or high

—the only car in which it is always possible to make a split-second snap to a lower gear, and brake the car sharply on hills and in traffic

—the only car which solves the difficulties of the old-fashioned transmission without changing the use of the shift lever or the clutch.

That is why the Traffic Transmission will always rank as one of the great steps forward in automotive design. That is why you should see and drive a Chandler today!

Pikes Peak Motor

Its high gear hill-climbing performance made Chandler the stock car performance champion.

4-Wheel Brakes

Specially designed for the Chandler chassis. Offered as optional equipment at a slight extra charge.

CHANDLER

1925 MODEL

On the Show Floor

Maxwell

The Maxwell sedan to be shown by the Ward Motor Co., Inc., has many items of construction that especially appeal to four-cylinder enthusiasts. The body is finished in a Cadillac blue with the much and favorably talked about Duco finish, striped below the belt. The radiator and water indicator are fully nickeled, which furnish a very happy combination with the black enamel and nickel-trimmed head and cowl lamps—an original Maxwell design. The wheels are disc with balloon cord tires. Other interesting Maxwell models are the club coupe and the club sedan. Both are distinctively designed and finished, with lines that always call for admiring comments wherever they are seen. All Maxwell models are mounted on the triad Maxwell chassis, which has been greatly improved by the Chrysler engineering staff.

Moon

The 1925 line of Moon cars, consisting of four series of open and enclosed models, is one of the most complete arrays of cars yet offered by the Moon Motor Car Co. of St. Louis. It is complete from both the standopint of variety of body types and chassis and equipment. Thirteen attractive body styles, on four chassis, with wheelbases ranging from 113 inches to 128 inches, are included in the 1925 Moon line. There are seven sedan models. Equipment on all the models includes full-size balloon tires, four-wheel hydraulic brakes and a very efficient cam and lever steering gear which balloon-tire equipment makes practically essential. Duco is standard finish on all Moon cars, and all are powered with the six-cylinder Red Seal Continental motor. Distinction has been achieved in every one of the 13 styles, from the tourings to the petite sedans.

Oakland

Notable among the Oaklands exhibited at closed car shows throughout the country is the Landau sedan—the most recent addition to the Oakland line. The model is distinctive in appearance and completely equipped and appointed. It was created exclusively for Oakland by the Fisher Body Corporation. Finished in Buckingham gray, with red striping, its harmonious exterior coloring is fittingly matched with plush mohair upholstery, bright nickel head and cowl lights, double bar bumpers in front, fender guards in rear, motometer, wing radiator cap and aluminum running board apron shields touches of brightness and richness. Like all the new Oakland closed cars, it has the new and distinctive one-piece windshield.

In addition to the Landau sedan, there are three other closed body styles of Oaklands, the coupe for four, the Landeau coupe and the sedan. The four-passenger coupe has a deeply-cushioned wide rear seat, comfortable for two, with a substantial folding seat for the fourth passenger next to the driving seat. The sedan has the dignity of the large enclosed car. The finest type springs have been used in all the cushioned seats. This model is finished in Holland blue duco. The Oaklands are shown by the Mississippi Valley Motor Co.

Nash

There are four models in the Nash inclosed line, shown by the Southwest Nash Co.; the new four-door coupe, on 127-inch chassis; the new, luxurious seven-passenger sedan, 127-inch wheelbase; five-passenger sedan, 121-inch wheelbase, and the Special Six sedan.

Appointments in the four-door coupe include dome light, reading lights, silver smoking set, silver-finished vanity set with chain, rear-view mirror, automatic windshield wiper, silk robe cord with silver fittings, heater and foot rest. At the rear is a fine, large trunk, inbuilt with the body and surmounted with guard bars. Appointments and fittings of the seven-passenger sedan are similar to those of the four-door coupe. The five-passenger sedan on the advanced six chassis offers shapeliness of line and design and appointments in keeping with its high-grade construction. In the five-passenger sedan on the special six chassis Nash has produced a low-set body of stunning design. Like all new Nash models, the special six sedan is equipped with full balloon tires and four-wheel brakes.

Oldsmobile

Among the interesting closed models to be seen at the show are the new Oldsmobile coach, exhibited by the De Luxe Automobile Co. and the Olds sedan. These cars,

YOU PAY MORE THAN HE

Why do you see so many Packard Sixes in front of splendid homes and exclusive clubs?

Is it because of Packard prestige and the luxury of Packard motoring?

Yes and no.

In the long run, it costs the owner of that splendid home less to operate and maintain his Packard Six than it costs you to drive your 3-year ordinary car.

Get the facts from him about gasoline and tire mileage, repair bills, insurance, long life and re-sale value. You'll find he has your figures beaten by a wide margin.

So why deprive yourself of all the joys of Packard ownership when they really cost you less than you are now paying?

Many prefer to take advantage of Packard's extremely liberal time-payment plan to enjoy immediately the advantages of a Packard Six or Packard Eight—purchasing out of income instead of capital, just as practically all other necessities are now bought.

Muriatic Acid
See for yourself that this powerful acid does not harm Duco.

Sulphuric Acid
A finish that stands tests like this one will surely stand the hardest usage.

Fire
You can easily believe, after seeing this test, that the hottest sun cannot harm Duco.

Ammonia
In this test the strongest ammonia is used but it cannot damage Duco.

Extinguisher
A fire extinguisher will kill fires but not the brightness of Duco's finish.

Lime Cement
Probably you wouldn't stucco your car, but this test proves that it wouldn't harm Duco finish.

Hot Tar
Ever get road tar on your car? See how easy it is to clean it from Duco finish without harm.

Boiling Water
Even if your car does not get a hot bath, it is fine to know that its finish will stand this test.

Mud
Think of rubbing a muddy car clean with a dry cloth without harm to its finish.

Dust
With Duco you can dust your car as often as you please—it actually improves its appearance.

DuPONT DUCO

Is Applied in Factory Production by the Manufacturers of Many High-Grade Cars and Commercial Vehicles

DuPont DUCO is the Most Durable Finish Yet Devised for Motor Cars and Commercial Vehicles—Improves with age and rubbing, and is so proof against injury that you can drive a car finished with Duco through rain and mud for weeks. Allow the spattered mud, ice, snow and grit to dry on the finish, and quickly and easily wipe off with any kind of cloth, using no soap, water or polish, and the original lustrous body finish is restored in all its beauty, without a damaging scratch or mar. Even tar can be removed without injuring the finish.

Prepare your car or truck now for Winter driving. Snow, sleet, ice or mud cannot possibly mar Duco finish. You can be safe in having your car or truck Ducoed now, with the fullest assurance of having the same lustrous finish next Spring.

In addition to applying Duco, we do metal work, straighten fenders and wrecked bodies, welding and brazing—upholstering, recovering tops, seat covers, replace windshields and glass, nickel plating and lettering.

with their new hoods and radiators, their Duco finish and tried chassis, are sure to attract much attention. The "coach" is virtually a two-door sedan, and in appearance and refinements is identical with other Oldsmobile inclosed models. The graceful rounded curves of the body of the new coach, and the fact that it is practically the same size as the standard sedan, are two other features. The doors are extremely wide and give unusually easy entrance. Ample room for five passengers is provided. Two features of the new car have called especial comment from everyone who has seen it," says George T. Willett,, manager of the De Luxe company. "One is the great width of the windows, which give unusual vision for the passengers, and the other is the excellence of every detail of the finish."

Packard

A special sedan-limousine done in Westminster gray and a sedan in maroon velour, both on the "single eight" chassis, will be features of the Packard closed-car exhibit by the Berry Motor Car Co. Each is a splendid example of the ultra fine enclosed car, and each is elaborately and completely finished and equipped. There are two sedans, two sedan-limousines and two coupes in the "single eight" line. Certain refinements and additions have been made to the Packard single six line, the closed models in which include five and seven passenger sedans, five and seven passenger sedan-limousines, four and five passenger coupes, and a permanent top touring car. All the Packards have bodies distinctive in design and beautifully and carefully painted, with tailored effect in upholstery, wide, and deep seats and backs, and contours designed for easy and comfortable riding.

Overland

A real all-purpose car, the coupe-sedan, will be one of the features in the Overland exhibit. This has seats adjustable for tall and short passengers, and the seats also can be made into a full-sized bed in the car for camping. The Overland sedan and business coupe are other closed models shown in this line. The sedan has unusually clean lines, deep, fine cushions and attractive gray velour upholstery. The coupe has extra wide doors, plenty of rear deck room for luggage and washable Spanidh upholstery.

Paige

Two especially attractive closed car models are the Paige de luxe sedan and four-door brougham, shown by the Newell Motor Car Co. The Paige sedan is fashionably low; it looks its ability to go long distances fast and comfortably. There is ample height, yet the double belt rail gives the appearance of a low roof line. Deep seats, deeply cushioned, restfully sloping, room to stretch out—all is designed for complete ease. Richness is evident—upholstery of finest fabric; tasteful fittings; the best of everything in the inviting interior. The brougham is a full five-seater with four generous sized doors. The smart side-arms of the Dayton style top are pleasingly reminiscent of the demilandau and give an air of cosy snugness. It has 131-inch wheelbase and four rebound snubbers, five-foot rear springs, and deeply cushioned seats.

Rickenbacker

A coupe and sedan on the six-cylinder chassis, and a four-passenger coupe and five-passenger sedan on the vertical eight 74-horsepower chassis, are the closed Rickenbacker cars featured by the Diesing Motor Sales Co. The sedan eight is the most luxurious car Rickenbacker has built, is upholstered in mohair, has a body by Trippensee, and is fully equipped. The coupe eight also has a body by Trippensee and most luxurious upholstery and fitments and full equipment. Fully equipped also are the six-cylinder sedan and coupe, both of which have distinctive and individual lines. All Rickenbacker models have four-wheel brakes and two fly-wheels to do away with vibration. Air cleaners and oil regenerating devices also are on all of them. There is an unusually tasteful range of color combinations for all models.

Reo

Reo models featured by the Kardell Motor Car Co. include the brougham and sedan, each for five passengers, and the coupe. The clean-cut simplicity of straightly sweeping body lines is furthered by a lower hung chassis, by steel disc wheels, by nickel-rimmed, curved hub caps, and by seamless crowned fenders. Hood, radiator, headlight and parking lights are all in harmonizing design. Against a background of richly finished body or wheel are contrasting touches of nickel or aluminum — nickel-rimmed lamps and hub caps, nickel-tipped door handles, aluminum step plates and other fitments according to the model. Body longevity is promoted by the use of steel panels over a stanch framework of selected hardwood. Rigidity is enhanced by the frame being hand-matched and fitted and braced with drop forgings. The roof is of a special slatted construction, sound-absorbing and weather-proof.

Rollin

One of the distinctly different cars is the Rollin, which will be exhibited by the Franklin Motor Car Co. of St. Louis. Two closed models are featured in this line—the five-passenger sedan and the coupe roadster, the one a luxurious family car, the other admirably upholstered and fitted. The design of both models is elegant throughout, with something of the air of the best European cars. The Rollin has been unusually interesting from the first because of the speed, power and lack of vibration obtained from its small-bore European type motor, which is said to deliver 25 to 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline. All models have balloon tires and four-wheel brakes.

Star

Standard closed models in the Star line, distributed by the Spalding Motor Co., Inc., include a coupe and a five-passenger sedan, both on the well known Star chassis with rigid frame stiffened by the tubular backbone used in all Durant-built cars. The Star closed models are characterized by the same economy of operation, reliability and riding comfort as the open cars. At the show, the Spalding company will exhibit a sedan, a new three-passenger coupe and a touring car with winter top. All are powered with the Durant designed Red Seal Continental motor, with force feed lubrication, while unpholstery and fitments are of high quality.

Studebaker

The Weber Motor Car Co. will add to its new model Studebaker cars both coupe and berline models. The standard six models are of particular interest because they are larger, heavier and more powerful than the light six, which they replace. The sedan is finished in two tones of gray with the separation of the colors marked by a thin red hairline. Artillery type wheels in natural wood finish and balloon tires are furnished as standard equipment. The new standard six coupe is finished in lacquer, Navajo gray below and darker Seminole gray above. The special six sedan is finished in a new shade of Studebaker blue, striping in ivory and a nickel-plated radiator, balloon tires and natural wood wheels. The special six victoria has a four-passenger capacity. It is also finished in Studebaker blue with ivory striping, with running gear and fenders in jet black. The big six berline has massive appearance and rich finish. One of the most interesting models of the new Studebakers is the Duplex Phaeton model, furnished on each of the three chassis and replacing the usual touring car.

Stutz

Three series of models on chassis especially adapted to each—the Special six, the Speedway six and the famous four-cylinder car—make up the Stutz line. The 130-inch wheelbase "Speedway Six" is especially featured as a car of unusual possibilities for both city driving and the open road. All the inclosed models on this chassis are designed to produce an effect of dignity and charm, and all have the characteristic Stutz appeal. A car of wide range of uses is the "Speedway Six" sport brougham, of five-passenger capacity. The berline is a real dual type car. By raising or lowering the plate-glass panel at the rear of the front seat, the interior is changed into single or double compartment at will. The suburban model, built for seven passengers, is a conveyance for any climate or any season. Stutz cars will be exhibited at the show by the Wilson Motor Car Co.

Velie

Velie closed models exhibited at the show by the Benjamin Motor Car Co., include the coach sedan for five passengers, the standard five-passenger sedan and the five-passenger "royal" sedan. All are mounted on the standard Velie chassis, powered with the Velie-built 50-horsepower airplane engine. Balloon tires and hydraulic four-wheel brakes are standard equipment. The coach sedan, large and roomy and with wide doors, is finished with three coats of baked enamel and attractively striped. The five-passenger sedan has nickeled radiator, artistic body paint and equipment. The "Royal" sedan has all the standard sedan's equipment and a number of supplementary features. All these cars have the fashionable European air.

Willys-Knight

Coupe-sedan de luxe, standard coupe-sedan, five-passenger sedan, sedan de luxe and seven-passenger sedan—the Willys-Knight line of closed cars is complete. All are mounted on the sleeve-valve motor powered chassis, whose silent operation makes it peculiarly suitable for closed automobiles. "All the luxury of a fine home, all the distinction and convenience a motor car can possess are built into the de luxe models," says the Willys-Overland branch. The standard closed jobs also are elegant of line and finely upholstered and appointed. The seven-passenger sedan is especially distinctive in appearance, for it is finished in Japanese purple lake.

The Cost of Wasting It.

Now that investigations have revealed the exact cost of making gasoline, a matter which is said to have baffled legislators, the next step is to tackle the problem of finding the exact cost of wasting it.

IN the great low-priced field of motor transportation, comprising about 85% of all automobiles bought by the public, choice is confined to a few good lines of established merit but differing in price, engineering features, quality of construction and material, body lines, finish and equipment.

Individual requirements and judgment of quality and value determine the buyer's selection. Our policy is to produce motor cars that deliver reliable low-cost transportation but of exceptional quality and with full modern equipment. More than two hundred thousand Star Cars have been sold to date.

ORE ELECTRIC APPLIANCES FOR CARS PREDICTED

Push Button Auto Operation May Follow Use of Electrical Energy Now Wasted.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Just as he home has been improved by the evelopment and application of ectrical devices for the simplifi- tion of housework, so it is be- eved that the automobile of the ry near future will be rendered ore serviceable through the adop- of numerous new electrical ap- ances. This, in the opinion of who believe that appliances cars today do not satisfy the of such improvements, will "carkeeping" not only pleas- ble, but far more economical it is today.

ch Electric Energy Wasted.

electric buffer, for instance, be serviceable in keeping the of the car and its trimmings ed. There is ample current in average storage battery in ice to operate such a buffer, with this assistance the car er would have little excuse for trying to keep nis car looking esentable.

With engines cranking so easily, ns being sounded so infrequent- and large mileages being piled on odometers it is becoming evi- t to many of an inventive turn mind that a large amount of ctric energy is going to waste. is energy is created at such ht expense of engine power that re seems to be no effort to cut n the output. The logical step refore, is to make better use of energy available.

Electric Fans for Engines.

any of the things motorists do nually, probably will be handled ctrically when the attention of omotive engineers turns to mak- better use of available energy convenience. There are some visualize electric window ners for closed cars and other ally luxurious conveniences, but re is also the trend toward sim- city to consider. Electrical ap- ances that make for complica- are not likely to be looked n with favor, nor are they like- to be needed in view of the many ctical uses for this superabun- ce of electric power.

The most practical developments said to be along the lines of ing work for the engine as well as the driver. For the engine, to illustrate, there is the possibility of the electrically driven fan, while for the motorist there is the electrically operated jack to be considered.

An electric fan for the automobile would probably require a larger battery and a generator with a greater output, though there would be a number of advantages to compensate for such changes, if necessary. An electric fan would be of variable speed and, being controlled by the driver from the instrument board, would offer an opportunity to enjoy the advantages of perfect cooling. On a cold day when engine heat is invariably below normal the driver would shut the fan off, whereas if he were driving in excessively hot weather he could run the fan fast even for low engine speeds. This would be a great advantage in hill climbing, for instance, when the conventional fan is forced to run slow because the speed of the engine has been reduced.

It would also be possible to operate the fan when the engine had been switched off, thus cooling it rapidly in event of overheating from some other cause. Operated in connection with a thermostat, a very efficient type of cooling system would be the result.

Even an Electric Jack.

An electric jack would be a matter of gearing. Some motorists who can hardly crank their own engines operate the conventional jack when necessary. It is obvious that if the starter motor is able to turn over a heavy, high compression engine a motor of equal size and power could raise the car.

A more interesting phase of this subject is the plan of making the conventional starter-motor serve several purposes, thereby resulting in a saving in motors. The starter-motor in the average car is so seldom in use, considering the mileage a car travels, that it has been proposed to use it to operate an air compressor. This, in time, would furnish air for tire inflation or for raising a compressed air jack.

Here again a larger battery and generator might be necessary, though the increased investment in these larger parts would hardly be an obstacle to the development of such ideas. With the rapid adoption of balloon tires and the consequent need for keeping tires at the proper point of inflation all cars will soon need air pumps if they are to be operated as efficiently as possible. If these pumps can be run by electric current that normally goes to waste so much the better.

Could "Plug In" at Will.

One thing that would encourage new ideas in appliances would be the fitting of cars with outlet plugs such as one finds in homes, only suited to the smaller socket sizes used in automobile wiring. More people would be using electric windshield cleaners, spot-lights, parking lights, safety lights, courtesy lights, cigar lighters, trouble lights, etc., if such devices could be "plugged in" at will and without a visit to the repairer.

There are many places where such plugs could be located, and if they were placed at convenient points about the car one trouble-light with a short cord could be used at any place on the car without the customary inconvenience of a tangle of wire.

Closed cars might be equipped with neat electrical fans to keep the interior cool when the machines are standing still as in traffic or in parking on a hot day. Fans in connection with exhaust heaters would also provide better distribution of heat in cold weather.

Since radio equipment is likely to become popular with cars in the near future the "plugging in" convenience would be an advantage, thus bringing the storage battery into use without so much as raising the floorboards.

More practical uses for this electrical energy that usually goes to waste include devices for preheating the intake manifold as a means to quick starting in cold weather, perfected methods of electric gear-shifting, schemes for forcing gas into the cylinders under pressure or for expelling it quickly, and many other plans that will be considered as electricity steps in to make car operation mainly a matter of pushing buttons.

"Carkeeping" and car operation may some day be literally as well as figuritively at the motorist's finger tips.

UNIQUE CAR TESTING TRACKS IN MICHIGAN

All Kinds of Road Conditions Reproduced on 1125 Acres of Hill and Valley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 4.—Unique among car testing tracks is the elaborate series of roads of all sorts of materials, on all sorts of grades up to 24 per cent, that is being built by the General Motors Corporation on a 1125-acre tract near Milford, within easy access from the car and truck plants at Detroit, Lansing, Flint and Pontiac.

The roads wind through and over a level valley and a hill that rises 250 feet above the valley floor. The chief purpose of the proving ground is to provide ideal road conditions of various types and other facilities for making road tests of motor vehicles, for endurance, speed, fuel consumption, acceleration, hill climbing, cooling, braking, riding qualities and so on. Ideal conditions for making tests of this character can not be found on public highways, because of the lack of proper surfaces of suitable grade and length and because tests on public roads are being increasingly interfered with by traffic.

Provides Real Tests.

General features of the facilities for road tests include both concrete and gravel roads. There is one section of the road 20 feet wide, of concrete, which is 5114 feet long; it is absolutely level and straight, with graveled loops at each end, for turning around. This section will be utilized in making many tests, such as acceleration, fuel economy and so on; its length eventually will be increased to 1⅜ miles, when some of the fills on the ground adjoining the section have had time to settle.

Another section of concrete roadway provides adequate tests for hill-climbing ability. This is built in the form of the letter Y. One branch begins at an elevation of 980.9 feet above the sea level and ascends a hill as follows: After 200 feet of vertical curve, the road follows a uniform grade of 11.6 per cent for 1359 feet, or approximately a quarter of a mile. Another vertical curve, 200 feet in length, then leads to a horizontal run of 300 feet, which is followed by another 200-foot vertical curve and a run of 351 feet at 10 per cent. A 150-foot curve reaches the summit of the hill at an elevation of 1213 feet and a total length of 2810 feet, or .53 miles. All of this road is 20 feet wide. After it has reached the summit of the hill, it is continued as a gravel road, 20 feet wide, which makes a circuit and finally merges with another gravel road.

For High Speed Work.

The other branch of the Y is also of 20-foot concrete, uniform in grade at 7.1 per cent, and 1261 feet long. A portion of the main stem of the Y is absolutely level.

The gravel road begins at one end of the concrete straightaway and follows a circuit until it joins the other end of the straightaway. This "loop" is not level, but it has not grade steeper than 6 per cent and the sharpest curve at its length is 5 degrees; all the turns are well banked, and when the straightaway length is figured in, the gravel road forms a track 3.8 miles in length, suitable for carrying on continuous tests at high speed.

Leading out of this track, with its light grades and easy turns, is a circuitous gravel road that will test the merits of any car. There are a number of sharp turns and the grade at one point is 24 per cent.

The chief advantage of the proving ground is that all distances and grades are known accurately, so that all cars under test are subjected to identical conditions, so far as character of roadway is concerned. The level sections are not approximately, but exactly level and the grades are uniform. It is impossible, without proper instruments, to know the exact percentage of grade over a given stretch of hill, but at the proving ground the grades are measured accurately and known exactly.

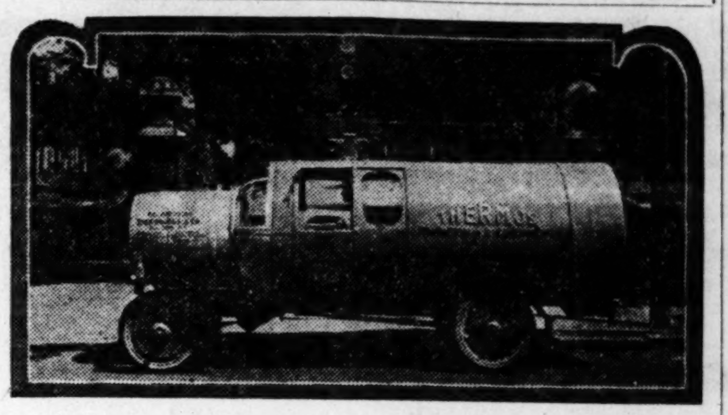
Metal Garages in Demand.

An incident of the expansion of the automobile industry is the rapid increase in the number of metal residence garages. Thomas McHenry & Son, who were pioneers in garage manufacturing, report they have erected thousands of these metal garages in St. Louis and that the demand for them continues to grow. Many persons are building them as investments, because of the demand for space to house cars in residential sections. Factors that have played a part in creating the demand are realization of the inconvenience of walking several blocks in all kinds of weather to get one's car, and the feeling of greater security in having a car housed on one's own premises.

Tiny Miss Drives Her Own Car.

Miss Midget Compton of Clovis, N. M., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitchell, 5190 Raymond street, does not belie her name, for she is only 42 inches tall and weighs only 67 pounds, although she is 22 years old. "I just failed to grow up," is the way she explains it. Miss Compton drives her own Cleveland six brougham. She plans to take an active part at the automobile show exhibit of the Cleveland Motor Sales Co., of which Mitchell is secretary.

Unusual Car to Visit St. Louis



The Thermos bottle car, which is en route from Washington, D. C., to the Pacific Coast and return over the southern route to the Mardi Gras at New Orleans. The body is mounted on a one-ton Ford truck chassis, and carries complete radio receiving set and loud speaker.

This car has had a varied experience. The body, created in France two years ago, was sent to Europe, thence to America, thence to Canada, where it served in connection with the Red Cross Workers during the war, feeding the sick in Toronto during the influenza epidemic. The car remained in Canada for a little over two years, making a round trip from Quebec to Vancouver. On itsc return to Toronto it was mounted on the present Ford one-ton truck chassis and came into the United States at Buffalo.

HUDSON FIRST WITH SEDAN AND COACH

"There is an unusual combination of comfort, performance and beauty in Hudson and Essex inclosed cars," says R. C. Frampton, president of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Co., distributor of Hudson and Essex motor cars. "Motorists will be interested to know of Hudson's long and distinctive connection with inclosed cars.

"Hudson was the originator of the type of car known as sedan. The first sedan ever built was constructed and named by the Hudson Motor Car Co. in 1913. At that time, an inclosed car was a great novelty and Hudson's venture was considered a daring departure. Every sedan you see on the street today is a descendant of the original Hudson.

"Hudson originated the coach, too, as everyone knows. The coach was first applied to the Essex by the Hudson organization, but it was shortly afterward made a part of the super-six line. In a short time the coach business has increased by leaps and bounds until it is by far the largest selling six-cylinder inclosed car in the world.

"The Hudson super-six coach became the first car in history ever to sell at exactly an open car price. Its cost now is exactly that of the Hudson seven-passenger phaeton. Hudson now makes a greater volume of inclosed cars than it does open ones, which makes this price equality possible. This is true of Essex, too.

"Hudson sedans are a combination of custom-built quality with quantity price.

"They are built in a custom-built plant by an old and famous carriage builder. The Hudson contracts to take his entire output, with the result that his plant runs at capacity during the year. This naturally results in an unusually favorable price. Yet the purchaser has all the quality, all the distinction and luxury, and a great deal more real value than than if he had bought a custom job.

"This year's super-six sedans, both in the full seven-passenger and in the five-passenger styles, are well worth the examination of any motorist."

CHAMPIONS CAUSE OF AUTO DEALERS

President of Auburn Company Predicts More Consideration by Factories.

The cause of the automobile distributor and dealer finds a champion in J. I. Farley, president of the Auburn Automobile Co., who was in St. Louis for the weekend visiting Joseph A. Schlecht, president of the Mound City Automobile Co., Auburn distributor in this district. Farley also spoke optimistically of the outlook for the automobile industry.

"The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce," he said, "reported an 8 per cent production increase for August as compared with July. September is expected to show an increase. Yesterday, in Chicago, I talked with a man who is regarded as an authority on the automobile industry from the viewpoint of the banker. As he saw it, good weather and the improved condition of the farmers indicated reason for optimism. He pointed out that savings are increasing in the farming regions and that the farmer is getting into the markets. Even if the farmer doesn't buy an automobile at once, the buying of a new dress by his wife helps the automobile situation because of its effect on business all along the line."

Commenting on the production trend in 1924, Farley saw this year as a wonderful one for the small factory like the Auburn, which, he said, specializes on making a quality car not on production records. The Auburn factory, he stated, was not affected by any production slump and its dealers' stocks have been kept down to a sound margin.

"The automobile manufacturer," he said, "has got to, and already is, taking more notice of actual conditions and the necessity of considering his dealers' inventories as part of his own. Factories are not going to continue building in three months cars enough for a year and jamming every warehouse and dealers' storage capacity with cars. Breaking dealers does not pay.

"Never before have I seen such attention paid to the position of the dealer in the industry. Factories are realizing, as never before, that he stands between them and the consumer and that they cannot be prosperous unless he also makes money.

"More than $20,000,000,000 is involved in the automobile industry and more than 5,000,000 persons derive their living from it. Therefore, its condition is of vital interest to every other industry and to every person in the country, and so the financial stability of the automobile dealer is a matter of importance to our entire business structure."

RICKENBACKER IN ST. LOUIS FOR VISIT

Predicts Next Two Years Will Be Auto Industry's Most Prosperous.

The most prosperous times the automobile industry has known are indicated for 1925 and 1926, according to "Eddie" Rickenbacker, war aviator and vice president of the Rickenbacker Motor Co., who has just paid a visit to the Diesing Motor Sales Co., St. Louis distributer of Rickenbacker sixes and eights.

Business is generally good, and there is no real depression, Rickenbacker told "Jim" Ward, general manager of the Diesing company. He said he had reached his conclusions after an extended tour of the country visiting Rickenbacker distributers and dealers.

The new Rickenbacker "straight eight," he said, was being sold faster than the factory could make them. Ward said he already had sold seven of them here, so he could testify to the demand.

Parlor, Bedroom and Car.

The increase in the number of small apartments is interpreted to mean that the average man figures his car as a living room. By dispensing with the formal room for recreation he is able to motor without financial burden. In summer the car frequently serves as pantry, while at any season of the year it is the simplest means of conducting the family to the dining room which is so versatile as to be anything from a 'one-arm" to the Ritz. Times have changed!

UTILITY OF CLOSED CAR ACCEPTED FACT

Motoring Habits and Possibilities of Nation Changed by Its Development.

The utility of the closed car is now an accepted fact, and the increase in closed car production has been significant within the last few years. The closed car makes its greatest bid for popular approval in that it can be used throughout the year no matter how hot or cold the weather.

Formerly it was the habit to put the car in storage at the first signs of winter and to resort to more antedated means of transportation through the colder months. The closed car has changed all that. Today automobiles are as much in evidence on the streets during the winter as during the more comfortable seasons of the year. Glass enclosed, scientifically heated, wind and weather proof, they provide a pleasing as well as highly useful mode of transportation when the ground is covered with snow and cold weather prevails.

Before the advent of the closed car's great popularity, motoring in winter was a venture to be undertaken by only the most hardy, but nowadays ability to enjoy zero weather is not one of the primary essentials of the modern motorist. Doctors, business men, housewives, persons in every conceivable walk of life, use closed cars extensively in the coldest weather.

But it is not only in the winter that the closed car proves its usefulness, for it is recommended for summer driving as well. The windows which barred the cold winds of winter are opened to the pleasant breezes of summer and the roof which protected the passengers from snow and rain acts as a shield against which the sun's warm rays beat in vain.

Because it can be used all year round, the closed car presents the ideal means of transportation for every section of the country. Tours, interurban runs, week-end trips, shopping trips are all accomplished quickly, safely, comfortably and satisfactorily. A closed car, with all its attractiveness and richness, has been proven as useful and serviceable a means of transportation as there is.

BATTERY SERVICE STATION OPENED

First Willard Factory Branch in St. Louis to Be Ready Tomorrow.

One of the most carefully planned battery service stations in this country will be opened tomorrow at 2918-20 Washington boulevard as the first factory branch of the Willard Storage Battery Co. in St. Louis. In charge of it will be C. W. Lockhart as manager.

The station will occupy a new one-story brick building fronting 78 feet on Washington boulevard and 110 feet deep. The Washington street front will be given up to an automobile and radio battery and display room, an entrance driveway, an office and a stock and display room for distributing batteries to service stations and dealers in this territory. There will be a 19-foot electric sign on the building front.

To Save Waste Motion.

All of the rear of the building, a space 78 feet square, will be devoted to the battery service station, which is planned so that customers may drive in with their cars and be cared for with utmost expedition. Precautions will be taken so that customers' cars and clothing cannot be marred by acid. Service men and attendants are to be neatly uniformed. Only men thoroughly trained in battery work are to be employed.

Testing, charging and repair equipment is to be of the latest design. For instance, one machine tests all the cells of a battery at the same time, instead of one by one. Another tests rental batteries so that a customer may be sure a rented battery will not fail him. Repair and service processes have been planned so as to save all waste motion.

There will even be a room where car owners may sit quietly while they give their orders for battery work, and where there will be an exhibit of damaged batteries and plates so that owners may see for themselves the effects of neglect and may learn how to avoid them.

To Eliminate Guess Work.

The charging outfit is the latest constant optential potential design. There will be provision for speedy distilled water service.

Tomorrow, opening day, car owners who drive their cars into the station will be given leather-bound automobile guides as souvenirs.

The building is said to be the finest yet erected by the Willard company, and its equipment is equal to that in any factory branch service station.

"The aim," said Manager Lockhart, "is to make it the last thing in service stations. Every effort is being made to take the guess work completely out of battery service."

The trunk at the rear is a big trunk, with a carrying capacity you will appreciate when touring.

Balloon tires, disc or natural wood wheels at a nominal extra cost, Duco finish in either blue or beige, and other improvements make the Club Sedan an impressive value.

It is difficult to see how anyone can accept a lesser motor car, when he can buy a closed Hupmobile at the low price of the Club Sedan.

John Smith and His Car

by FREDERICK RUSSELL

THE RIGHT OF WAY.

THE next point of interest on our trip was a resort hotel on the outskirts of a small city. Smith thought his battery needed a testing and so, after registering, I rode back to the city with him in his car. The way in took us along a car line, and it was just our luck to have to keep stopping while a trolley took on and discharged passengers.

"If I thought there wasn't an ordinance against passing standing trolley cars I'd get ahead of this one," Smith said. "That's a thing I've been worried about ever since we started this trip. We've passed through various states, and from the several automobile law manuals I have glanced over it seems that the laws vary considerably. There ought to be some uniformity about them."

"Undoubtedly it would be easier traveling if all motoring laws were similar," I replied, "but such uniformity is not possible nor desirable, because conditions vary widely in different parts of the country. Besides, those who are engaged in framing new laws are seldom of the same opinion, and the consequence is that some states are always coming out with new laws in advance of other states and abolishing obsolete ones. This makes for progress."

To make a little better progress ourselves at this point Smith turned into another street on which there were no car tracks, but at the next crossing he began to slow up because of an awkward traffic situation directly ahead. A car was coming down the street to our right; another was approaching from the left, while a third car was approaching from in front. Smith had been raised on the law that when two vehicles are approaching a crossing, the car to the right has the right of way, provided both cars are approaching at approximately the same rate of speed. To all appearances the car to the right was traveling the same speed that we were; and on this assumption he slowed up to let the other car pass.

What Smith had not counted on, however, was that the driver to his right also had a car to his right, and so on in turn around the circle; consequently Smith found that the man to his left was waiting for us to go ahead. The result was that all four cars came to a stop. The situation was awkward, ridiculous.

Presently one of the more aggressive drivers was starting up again; then another started, and a moment later the two of them nearly collided. And the driver of the third car was bawling us out for "blocking the traffic."

"This proves my contention about uniformity of laws," I said. "Freak laws should be kept off the books, but here you have an instance of a makeshift law which is being too universally adopted. Lawmakers overlook the possibility of four cars approaching a crossing at the same time, a condition which is more frequent than most people imagine. The laws include the word 'approximately' in speaking of speed, but that only complicates matters. For instance, you think you're driving at a reasonable speed now, but I think you're going too blame fast."

It was well that I spoke of speed. We had just approached another crossing and, though Smith was going faster and had the right of way as a consequence, a car coming from the right suddenly put on speed and shot directly across in front of us, barely escaping a smash.

"There's another case where your 'right' nearly worked to your own disadvantage," I said. "Ignorance of the law is no excuse, but here is a case where the driver who knows and obeys the law is liable to get into more trouble than the willful violators who are out looking for it. My suggestion is to either eliminate the law altogether or add a clause which would read that if two, three or four cars are approaching the same crossing from different directions and at speeds varying not more than two miles per hour, the driver who blows his horn first leads the way and breaks up the combination. In order to have a mixup, therefore, all the cars would have to horn and approach at nearly the same speed simultaneously, which condition is so exceptional as to be negligible."

"That might solve the riddle," Smith agreed. "As it works now in practice, the right of way seems to go to the man who gets there first. They might as well carry automobile selfishness to its logical conclusion and make blowing your own horn a requisite. Besides, it might serve to wake up some of these drivers we meet every day on the streets and the highways who forget they have horns on their cars and why it is necessary to blow them."

Next week—"HOME AGAIN."

WHAT BAD ROAD COSTS ONE FARM COMMUNITY

Spending $3600 a Mile Upon It Would Be Profitable Investment.

The normal transportation charge by motor truck in the Baltimore, Md., territory is 3 cents per gallon or 30 cents for a 10-gallon can.

On a milk route which starts five miles from a hard-surfaced highway, milk producers are required to pay one-half cent a gallon in addition to the regular 3-cent rate between October 1 and April 1. Virtually the whole truckload of milk is collected along this stretch of unimproved highway five miles long.

For the 1000 gallons brought in every day the farmers and milk producers must pay $3 a day in addition for transportation because of the inferior type of highway, or a total of $900 in the six months. The penalty for an unimproved road is assessed against these milk shippers at a rate of $180 a mile.

According to this outlay, the farmers could afford to make road improvements to the extent of $3600 a mile if no other traffic was benefited than this one truckload of milk.

World's Largest Selling 6-Cylinder Closed Cars

Starting Monday, October 6th

Learn for your own advantage why Hudson and Essex outsell all rivals.

It is not merely because the Coach exclusively gives "Closed Car Comforts at Open Car Cost."

It is because both Hudson and Essex offer the most astounding value in genuine car performance and reliability.

It is because they have vibrationless motors—exclusive to them because they are built on the Super-Six principle.

More than 250,000 owners know their enduring value.

That is why they outsell all rivals—and why the Coach is the largest selling 6-cylinder closed car in the world.

Double Line of All Models for Your Convenient Inspection

To make it quick, easy and comfortable for you to inspect the greatest values Hudson-Essex ever offered we have provided a double line of each of the latest closed models.

An examination will convince you of quality not obtainable elsewhere within $400.00 to $1,000.00 of these prices.

and This is "Demonstration Week"

OUTSELLING ALL RIVALS

Sales leadership in Detroit is far more important endorsement than its similar position elsewhere. For motor car values are better understood than anywhere else in the world.

To date this year Hudson and Essex sales in Detroit and Wayne County have outnumbered any other car, with the exception of the two lowest priced four-cylinder cars.

This unanswerable evidence is proof of what the most critical and best informed group of motor buyers in the world think of Hudson and Essex.

In the St. Louis territory, Hudson and Essex Coaches have outsold all other closed cars in their price class.

Our sales for 1924 show 25% increase over 1923, our biggest year.

How Fall Revolutionized Navajo Tribe to Control Their Oil Lands

Mellon Company Gets Indian Lease

THE determined efforts made by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to throw open the great Navajo Indian reservation to private oil companies following the discovery of oil there, are just coming to light.

A recent article in the Post-Dispatch told how Fall reversed the established policy of the Government by issuing permits to oil prospectors, to be followed by leases, upon oil lands in the Navajo reservation in Utah and Arizona.

In a suit seeking to cancel the permits, Attorney-General Stone now charges that the permits are illegal. They were granted upon the portion of the reservation which was established by executive order under which Fall ruled the Indians had no subsurface rights.

The following article goes into another phase of the invasion. It tells how leases were granted upon a portion of the reservation in New Mexico established by treaty, under which the Indians clearly hold the mineral as well as the surface rights, after Fall had carried out a political and administrative reorganization of the entire tribe, which reorganization took the granting of the leases out of the hands of the Indians, and placed it in the hands of a commissioner appointed by Fall.

Under the new order, a choice lease was bought at public auction by interests headed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, after a lease granted to another company by the Indians on the same tract had been disapproved by the Interior Department.

LEASE VOTED BY INDIAN COUNCIL IS THROWN OUT, MELLON INTERESTS ENTER

Traditional Rights of Tribal Government Overruled in Scramble for Permits to Exploit Riches in Desert.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SHIPROCK, N. M., Oct. 4.—Renewed activity of the financial interests headed by Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, in the oil fields of the West has served to direct attention to the fact that within the past year the Gypsy Oil Co., one of the many huge companies controlled by Mellon money, has entered two United States Indian reservations and obtained valuable oil leases on lands controlled by the Government. Both leases have been approved by the Department of the Interior under Secretary Work, an associate with Secretary Mellon in the Cabinet of President Coolidge.

The Mellon interests have one lease of 4000 acres on the Tocito structure 25 miles from Shiprock in the Navajo Indian reservation, and one lease on 4720 acres in the Ute Indian reservation near Ignacio, Colo. Both leases were selected by geologists as the choice oil tracts on the reservations.

In the Navajo reservation, the seat of their first operation on Government land after Mellon became Secretary of the Treasury, the Mellon interests obtained a lease which had been refused another oil interest under circumstances which occasioned a legal contest for months in the Department of the Interior, and resulted in much speculation among oil men in Colorado and New Mexico as to the underlying reasons.

Fruits of Intrigue.

Starting in 1921 there developed during the succeeding two or three years an active fight by the Standard Oil interests to capture control of the San Juan field in the Navajo country, from which the Mellon interests, though not openly among the fighters, emerged with the spoils of victory, but only after the Department of the Interior had completely upset the regular system of leasing Indian lands and put into effect an entirely new system.

Through the history of the contest prior to the procurement by the Mellons of the Navajo property there runs a thread of official intrigue and manipulation which culminated in the relinquishment by the Indians of all voice in the leasing of their lands for oil exploration through a new system of tribal government put into effect by former Secretary Fall.

Entwined with this is a thread of New Mexico politics with ravelings reaching off to the Department of the Interior in Washington, then in charge of Fall, for many years the Republican leader and political boss of New Mexico. Politicians in the "Fall gang" were in a fair way to profit handsomely from the manipulations in the handling of Indian lands when Fall suddenly retired from the Cabinet to accept employment from Harry F. Sinclair, to whom he had secretly turned over the Teapot Dome naval reserve, the details of which were so thoroughly aired by the Walsh investigating committee a few months ago.

Fall a Broken Man.

Fall, now living in virtual seclusion on his ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., is not the power he was in New Mexico politics. Many of his old friends have fallen away since his indictment on a charge of accepting a bribe of $100,000 from E. L. Doheny, to whom he leased the Elk Hills naval reserve, but the question remains unanswered in New Mexico as to whether the reason lies in the disappointment of his political friends over the failure to profit from the plan so well under way at the time of Fall's resignation, or in the fact of his indictment.

The history of oil development and Indian affairs at the San Juan superintendency of the Navajo tribe reveals in detail the steps officially taken with the discovery of oil there and its consequent possibilities for wealth for the Indians, and with the opportunity for their exploitation by the mammoth oil companies in their rivalry for increased fields of production.

From a beginning of 3,000,000 acres set aside by treaty for the Navajo in 1868, ending a three-year period of imprisonment for the tribe following many years of war by it against the Government, the Navajo reservation has been increased from time to time by the addition of other lands by order of the President, until now there are more than 9,000,000 acres in the reservation.

Riches Beneath the Desert.

For the most part the land is a desert which grows little except tumble weed and sage brush and was found uninhabitable by most forms of animal life except prairie dogs and rattlesnakes. For scores upon scores of miles it extends in a plain of alkali sand broken occasionally by a butte or a mesa. It was not until the discovery of oil three years ago that it gave evidence of ever having a real value.

Though there has been some legal question as to the exact rights of the Indians on land set aside for their use by executive order, there never has been any question that on treaty land the Indians had undisputed possession forever and owned the oil and mineral rights. In case of leases, all rentals and royalties are used for the benefit of the Indians after administrative expenses are deducted.

In its internal affairs the tribe was left by the Government to shift pretty much for itself, though it has been subject to supervision by the Bureau of Indian Affairs in the Department of the Interior. The Indians were permitted to decide for themselves matters they considered of importance, the superintendent of the agency calling a council of the tribe to permit it to vote. Every member had a voice and a vote in the council. The plan was satisfactory to the Indians and to the Government.

There are six Navajo superintendents, the San Juan at Shiprock, with 7000 Navajo; the Navajo at Fort Defiance, with 11,000, and four others with a total of 12,000, at Pueblo Bonita, northwest of Gallup, N. M.; the Moqui, Luepp and Western Navajo in Arizona.

Coveted by Standard Oil.

In 1921, soon after Secretary Fall took his place in President Harding's Cabinet and took over control of the Department of the Interior, with its jurisdiction over the Indian reservations, geologists and scouts of the Standard Oil Co., working directly for the Midwest Oil Co., a Standard subsidiary, examining the strata of the mesas of the Navajo country, were attracted to the San Juan superintendency. There were five elevations from the desert plain which attracted their attention, the Hogback, a long mesa southeast of Shiprock; the Rattlesnake, west of Shiprock; the Table Mesa and the Tocito, south of Shiprock, and Beautiful Mountain, southeast of Tocito. Of these they selected the Hogback as the more promising for oil exploration.

First on the ground and as discoverers, the Standard interests quietly went about the task of obtaining a lease on the Hogback. They knew the Indians were a suspicious people and that much preliminary work must be done to create a sentiment among them favorable to the granting of a lease. One of their first acts was to enlist the assistance of Chee Dodge of Gallup, a half-blood Navajo, and the wealthiest and most influential man in the tribe.

Dodge was and is a banker in Gallup, being associated with Gregory Page, a bank president, who is active in Republican politics and is friendly to Fall. Page, in fact, as a member of the First New Mexico Legislature, cast the deciding vote which elected Fall to the United States Senate, ending a bitter deadlock. The friendly services of a number of Indian traders, whose trading posts dot the reservation at intervals of from 15 to 40 miles, were obtained, as also was the help of several influential Indians, among them an old Chief named Sandoval and Clohtsaie (meaning Tall Grass).

The Indians were assured that the granting of the lease would mean the expenditure of much money for labor, and that the Indians would be employed at good wages. From responsible sources the information was obtained that frequently advance payments were made to the Indians, in the form of $5 and $10 bills.

"The advance payments were quite numerous," one trader said. "The Indians were told it was for work they would do, and the first job assigned to them was to attend the council and vote for granting the lease."

Put Through Council.

Though the Midwest representatives had anticipated no trouble from Government officials, their request to Evan W. Estep, superintendent at the San Juan agency at Shiprock, that he call a council to vote on the lease, was refused. He said he had no information that the Navajo lands were open to oil development. He consented, however, to notify the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and in reply to that notification he received instructions to call the council, which was duly held April 13, 1921.

Approximately 250 of the 7000 Navajo of the San Juan jurisdiction attended. Chee Dodge was on hand, traveling across the desert the 140 miles from his home in Gallup. Estep took a hand in the preparation of the lease and when, after several hours of debate, it was granted, it contained clauses guaranteeing to the Indians the use of any water which might be found in the wells sunk for oil. It contained the usual oil lease royalty of 12½ per cent, which was to go to the Indians. Supt. Estep believed he had done everything he could to protect the rights of the Indians, but expressed dissatisfaction at the methods of the Midwest in obtaining the lease.

A Rich Strike.

The Midwest began operations immediately and also began to lay plans to get leases on the remainder of the Hogback structure. In 1922 it struck oil of very high grade, in fact it has such a high percentage of gasoline in its crude state that a motor car could be operated on it just as it came from the well. In all, 10 wells were sunk, five of them producing oil.

The Midwest applied for leases covering virtually the whole Hogback, and another council was called. The Indians, however, refused to grant additional leases to the Midwest. Supt. Estep was unfriendly to the leasing of the whole tract to one company. The traders were unfriendly because the Midwest had made one trader its paymaster for the Indians, which meant that to obtain their money the Indian laborers were compelled to go to one trading post, and naturally spent there most of the money received. Many of the Indians were dissatisfied because they found they were expected to take goods from the trader in exchange for their labor for the oil company.

Dodge, upon whom the oil company had relied to a very great extent, also had lost caste with the Indians. They had begun to look upon him as the representative of the Midwest rather than as their disinterested and friendly adviser.

So the second council ended without the Midwest getting additional leases.

A Rush for Concessions.

As in all new fields, the bringing in of a producing well created a furore of excitement. Scouts from other companies invaded the field. Politicians closely affiliated with Fall's faction sought leases, and nearly everybody in Farmington and Aztec, N. M., and on up into Colorado, had in an application or was a member of a syndicate which had an application.

The activity was not confined to the Navajo reservation. Many persons of political prominence filed on Government land and in San Juan County outside the reservation Among them were a number closely related by family ties or political ties to Alfred M. Bergere, Registrar of the United States Land Office in Santa Fe, under the Fall administration.

One of the other oil interests scouting in the field was the Producers & Refiners Corporation, a Wyoming company with principal offices in Denver. At that time it was an independent company, though it is now a Standard subsidiary, having been purchased by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., one of the Standard companies.

Geologists of the Producers & Refiners picked the Tocito structure as the best on the Navajo reservation. The company was not licensed to do business in New Mexico and instead of seeking the lease in its own name used the name of W. E. Lockhart, a vice president and treasurer of the company. An adjoining lease was sought by J. J. Hall, an Oklahoma oil man. Both were represented by A. B. Bouton, a Denver lawyer.

Bouton procured the assistance of traders, who were willing to help him because of their enmity toward the Midwest, and of several Indians. Will Evans, a trader at Shiprock, was active in his interest, as was also Old Tall Barber, a Navajo Medicine Man, and Deshna Clahchucchillege (Left-Handed Curly Haired Man).

New Lease Secured.

At the time an Indian "Sing," a ceremony participated in by hundreds of Indians, and in which they gradually work themselves into a religious fervor through chanting Indian songs, was in progress at Capt. Tom's Wash far out in the reservation. Bouton and Evans took the risk to the plans attendant upon disturbing the Indians at their "Sing," and at an opportune time drew aside several influential members of the tribe and the work of creating sentiment for the Producers and Refiners was under way.

By late summer they concluded the time had arrived for a Council, and at their request one was called for Sept. 23, 1922. So well had Bouton and Evans done their work that when the Council convened with an attendance of approximately 500, about twice the number attending the Midwest Council a year before, the Indians immediately called for Bouton. He asked for two leases, promising that the Indians would be employed at good wages, that they would receive a royalty of 12½ per cent of all oil taken out, and that they would have the benefit of water encountered in the wells. The promise of the water had the controlling influence over the Indians. They knew little about oil, but they did know that water would mean better grazing land for their sheep. They could see that water meant money to them. They were not so certain about the oil.

They voted the Producers and Refiners leases, and then refused to hear the other 19 applicants for leasing, shouting, "Cuddy, Cuddy," when the other applicants sought to present their arguments. "Cuddy," in the Navajo language, means "that's all" or "no more."

Start Drilling Immediately.

With the knowledge that the same routine had been followed in obtaining the voting of the lease that had been followed by the Midwest, which had received official approval in Washington, Supt. Estep notified the Producers and Refiners that the lease was voted and that it could begin work. The company, acting on the same knowledge, and confident that having the approval of the Indians the official approval in the Department of the Interior was a mere matter of form which would be attended to in the usual course of business, moved a drilling outfit to Tocito and began drilling. It had expended about $30,000 in material and labor, Lockhart said recently, when it discovered there was a hitch in Washington and that influences were at work to prevent approval of the leases.

What those influences were have not been disclosed definitely, but the fact that the Midwest lease was approved and the Producers and Refiners disapproved, coupled with the facts that there was an announcement from the department that no leases voted by the Indians would be approved and that the Indians had refused the Midwest additional leases, are considered significant among Western oil men.

Indians Lose Power.

At one council the Indians had definitely rejected Midwest applications. At another they had voted the Producers and Refiners leases, and had even refused to hear representatives of the Midwest. Then came the first intimation of a radical departure from the regular procedure of granting oil leases. The department, under Fall, announced that the Indians were incapable of leasing their property and that that function should be taken over by the Secretary of the Interior.

Bouton hurried to Washington to press his claims. He argued that his clients had gone in good faith to the Indians, that they had followed the procedure which had the approval of the department, that their leases had been voted, and that in good faith they had expended $30,000. He insisted that the department had not the right to have one rule for the Midwest (Standard) and another rule for other applicants.

Bouton was told that the oil belonged to all the Nevajo, and not only to the San Juan Navajo, and that the council which voted his leases was solely a San Juan council. He replied that the council which voted the Midwest lease was solely a San Juan council, and that it was only half the size of the council which voted his leases.

Convinced his leases would be disapproved, but without a very clear understanding of the real reason, Bouton returned to Denver.

Tells of Offer to Split.

"I am convinced," Bouton recently said in his office in Denver, "that there was a way by which the approval could have been obtained. When the lease was pending in Washington I was approached by a Western man who told me he knew the lease would be disapproved, but that if I would be willing to 'split it so that those above and below could be taken care of' that approval could be obtained.

"I did not consider the proposition, and do not even know that this man was authorized by anybody to come to see me, or that he knew what he was talking about. However, the lease was disapproved.."

Bouton refused to tell the name of the man who called on him. "It would be only my word against his," he said. "I could prove nothing. He is a man who is accustomed to creating considerable hell when he wants to, and I do not care to get mixed up with him."

Lockhart, Bouton's client in one of the leases, said he had not been approached by anybody and that he never had heard of the proposal to split the lease.

Bouton said that in Washington he was told by Commissioner of Indian Affairs Burke that if Lockhart and Hall were willing to abandon one of the two leases and take together one lease of 4800 acres covering the apex of the Tocito Dome, that he was confident such a lease would be approved. Bouton sought to bring about such an agreement, but failed. He said the Producers and Refiners would not listen, though Hall was willing to enter such an agreement.

Fall Sends New Official.

Secretary Fall retired from the department in March, and the Producers and Refiners renewed before Secretary Work its efforts to obtain approval of its leases, but again it failed, the leases being finally disapproved April 23, 1923.

While Secretary Fall was in office the fight for possession of Navajo leases had appeared to be principally one by the Midwest, or Standard Oil interest. During that time the Mellon interests did not appear concerned with the Navajo development. There has been no suggestion that the scheme worked out by Fall had in it at the time any idea of benefit for the Mellon interests. Its chief points was that under it the wishes of the Indians in the matter of who should have leases on their property were not to be consulted, and their enmity toward the Midwest, or Standard, interests would no longer act as a bar to the Midwest ambition.

The effect of the new plan was to deny the Producers and Refiners its lease and to take from the Indians their direct method of government, substituting a representative Government, under which each of the six superintendencies would be entitled to one representative in a newly created Navajo Tribal Council. This council would have the first decision as to oil leases under the direct control of the Secretary of the Interior.

As a part of his plan, Fall created the office of Commissioner to the Navajo Tribe, to which he appointed H. J. Hagerman, formerly territorial Governor of New Mexico, an appointment which occasioned considerable surprise in New Mexico because Fall and Hagerman had not been particularly friendly. In fact, it was generally believed in New Mexico that Fall was the influence which caused Hagerman's removal from the office of Governor by President Roosevelt in 1907.

The new job brought to Hagerman the duty of general supervision of the affairs of the six Navajo superintendencies.

The Indians of the San Juan superintendency objected vigorously to Fall's scheme, and were represented in their objections by their superintendent, Estep, who, to his subsequent undoing, fought the Fall plan when it was presented to the Indians at a concil. Estep's objections were:

(1). That Fall sought to take from the San Juan Indians the control over their own lands and transfer it to a council, the majority of members of which were from other superintendencies. He argued that the oil was in the San Juan superintendency and that those Indians were entitled to its benefits just the same as they would be entitled to the benefits of better grazing land than the other superintendencies had.

(2). That Fall's plan proposed to deprive the San Juan Indians of rightful representation in the proposed council, in that it gave each superintendency one delegate irrespective of population. Estep pointed out that there were about 7000 Indians in the San Juan jurisdiction, and only a few hundred in some of the others, yet the few hundred would have the same representation as the 7000.

(3). That Fall in his order creating the council had retained to himself the right to remove any delegate at any time. This, Estep contended, would make the delegates directly subservient to the will of the Secretary of the Interior.

Notwithstanding these objections Fall put into effect his order Jan. 27, 1923.

Dismissal for Estep.

Estep, by his activities, had made virtually certain his removal from the Indian service. He had opposed the Midwest and he had opposed Fall's scheme. It was not difficult in a government of bureaucratic red tape regulations to find a technical charge to place against him.

A search through the files of the Indian service produced a telegram signed by Estep which was classed as an irregularity sufficient to justify his removal. The telegram was one sent by Estep from Los Angeles to an employe in the agency at Shiprock, who had wired him for permission to use Government funds to buy certain automobile equipment. Estep's reply was a refusal of the permission sought, and a direction that the funds on hand should be used to buy food and clothing for the Indians. He concluded the telegram with a statement to the effect that all the money should be used for that purpose and that none of the appropriation should be permitted to lapse. The latter instruction was the offense. Estep was removed in July, 1923.

Information of the action to be taken was rumored over the agency and aroused the Indians, who looked upon Estep with great fa-

RADIO WORLD'S FAIR BREAKS AMERICAN TRADE SHOW RECORD

Patronage Estimated at Almost Twice That of any Previous Industrial Exposition.

The latest report on the first Radio World's Fair, which closed in Madison Square Garden and the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory indicates that it was without doubt the most successful trade exposition ever staged in America. The patronage was almost twice that of any previous industrial exhibition in this country and the amount of business transacted by the concerns participating broke all records.

The exposition was attended by 175,000 people during the week it was open and thousands were turned away daily.

Over $3,000,000 worth of orders were booked by the exhibitors during the first six days of the show. Four companies succeeded in disposing of their entire 1924-1925 output while three others actually oversold their maximum factory production for the coming year from 10 to 30 per cent.

Three thousand and six hundred radio dealers and jobbers from the United States and Canada attended the fair and close to 500 more came from South America, Europe and the Orient.

The exhibits, all of which were of the de luxe variety, were installed by 180 nationally known America manufacturers and 20 of the most prominent wireless laboratories of England, France, Germany and Japan.

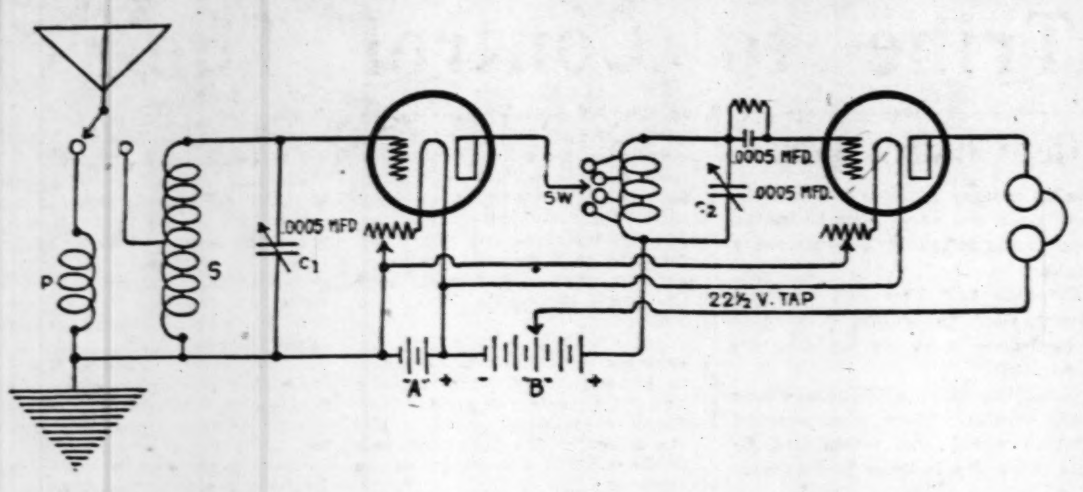
Radio Frequency Amplification Without Potentiometer



The feature of the hook-up shown today is that radio frequency amplification is accomplished without the use of a potentiometer. Oscillations are phased out in the tuning unit and conrolled by the switch on the radio frequency coil. Amplification is accomplished by means of the tuned impedance system.

The parts necessary are as follows: Special coupler, 2—.0005 mfd. variable condensers, 2 rheostats, 2 switches, 2 tubes and sockets, 8 contact points, "A" battery and 45-volt "B" battery, 1 pound of No. 18 d. c. c. copper wire.

The secondary (S) of the coupler consists of fifty turns of No. 18 double cotton covered wire wound on a 4" tube with a tap taken off at the fifteenth turn. The primary (P), consisting of eight turns of the same sized wire, is wound on the same tube but in the opposite direction and spaced about ⅛ inch away from the secondary.

The radio frequency coil consists of 45 turns of No. 18 wire on a 4-inch tube with tape taken off at the 1, 2, 3, 4, 6 and 8 turns. The lever of the switch, which makes contact with these taps, is connected to the plate at the amplifier tube.

The main tuning controls are the variable condensers C1 and C2. When tuning the set, the switch (SW) should first be placed on the one-turn of the coil. After a station has been brought in, the switch should be moved up until the circuit begins to oscillate and then brought back one tap below the oscillation point. A slight readjustment of the variable condenser C2 will then be necessary to bring in the signals loud and clear.

COMMERCIAL LOWWAVE STATION IS LICENSED

Said to Be the First of Its Kind to Enter This Field of Communication.

The first commercial short-wave, low-powered trans-oceanic radio station has been licensed, indicating the recognition of this means of communication by commercial radio interests, following the successful long-distance experiments of engineers and amateurs.

Station WGH of the Radio Corporation of America at Tuckerton, N. J., has been licensed privisionally to operate on 90, 93, 97, 100 and 103 meters by the Department of Commerce. With this new transmitter rated at 20 kw., the corporation expects to establish auxiliary long distance commercial circuits to Buenos Aires, Berlin and Paris, in addition to their seven high-powered, long wave circuits operated from New York City.

When compared with the power and wave length of the main transmitter WGG, at Tuckerton, which is rated at 200 kw. and operates on 15,900 meters, the radical step is obvious; only one-tenth the power is to be used. It is possible, if this new circuit operates successfully, that short-wave, low-power stations may eventually suprecede the expensive high-powered stations previously believed essential in long-transmission circuits.

The range of WGG is approximately 4500 miles, carrying to Buenos Aires, and, if WGH is to establish such a circuit it must also function over great disstances, at least at night, when the peak of the traffic of the Corporation's radio central station in New York is reached.

Radio experts believe this commercial step is especially significant and that, with the development of short-wave transmitters and receivers, sufficient short wave channels will be found for additional circuits of this type. Within the band 90 to 103 meters the assigned wave lengths may be placed much closer together than within longer wave bands. Whether the corporation will also receive on short waves is not known, but it is pointed out that it will probably have no trouble in spanning the Atlantic or reaching South America, receiving on the longer wave lengths until foreign short-wave stations are established. Dr. Taylor of the Naval Radio Research Laboratory stated recently that with his one and one-half Kw. short wave transmitter at Bellevue, D. C., he has been heard in Argentine, Chile and Brazil. Westinghouse experiments have been quite successful in short-wave transmission, and abroad considerable progress has been made. The whole radio industry is watching the practical operation of the type of station the R. C. A. is about to open.

Very Few Swindlers in Radio Industry

No Fraud Orders Have Been Issued Against Radio Concerns, to Date, Is Statement of Post Office Inspector.

There are fewer swindlers operating in the radio industry than in most other lines of endeavor. This, at least, is the opinion of Chief Postoffice Inspector Rush D. Simmons, who has charge of the Government work of bringing to justice people who misrepresent their products in advertisements or those who deliberately attempt to swindle the public through the mails.

The annual toll of the swindlers who use the mails to defraud is nearly a million dollars, records at the Postoffice Department show. These swindlers operate in most every line of work, wherever, as a matter of fact, they think there is an opportunity to defraud the public.

But the richest harvest of all for the swindlers is in some new industry where profits are big. Through fake stock selling schemes, or other means, they find plenty of people who are eager to invest in propositions which are advertised to return fabulous profits.

So far, not a single fraud order has been issued by the Postoffice Department against a radio concern of any kind. Whenever any individual or concern is found by Postoffice Department inspectors to be misrepresenting his or their wares, a fraud order is issued by the Postoffice Department, which automatically shuts off their mail.

The fact that no fraud orders have been issued against radio concerns is rather remarkable, Mr. Simmons believes, considering the fact that for the last two years the radio industry has advanced from mere infancy to a place where it is counted among the largest of the nation.

The most notable examples of using the mails to defraud were provided during the oil and airplane booms. When the Texas and Oklahoma oil fields began to make millionaires over night, the swindlers got busy and organized fake oil companies, stock in which they sold to the public. The operations of the swindlers in the oil industry became so great that Assistant Attorney-General John W. H. Crim went to Texas to personally supervise a campaign to put them out of business.

When airplanes became reasonably safe the swindlers turned to them as a means to defraud the public. Fake airplane corporations were organized and stock in them sold to the public. Another means used in this connection to swindle the public consisted of mail courses in teaching a young man to become an aviator, guaranteeing a position upon qualification.

Just as soon as the radio industry became big or showed prospects of getting big, Mr. Simmons began to tighten up the lines of the postoffice inspector force. He felt that within a short time the swindlers probably would be organizing fake radio companies and that the public would be taken in through their operations.

Much to his surprise, few if any complaints were received by the Post Office Department against radio concerns. Of course, some complaints were received by the Post Office Department of sets misrepresented. But investigations by inspectors always revealed that the advertisers of the sets were willing to return the money, and that the misrepresentation occurred only through their zeal to get the public interested in their product.

Postoffice inspectors have been troubled more by radio schools than by the manufacturers of sets. Complaints have been received by the Postoffice Department against one or two radio schools which offer to make a radio expert within a limited amount of time through correspondence courses. Investigations have revealed that these schools either overestimated the capacity of the pupil or their own ability to convey knowledge. But in these cases, a caution was all that was necessary.

This, of course, does not mean that all radio schools, or even a large percentage of them, misrepresent their courses. The complaints were against only a few institutions and these changed the brand of their advertising when warned by the postoffice inspectors.

The only serious case in connection with radio ever investigated by the Postoffice Department occurred several years ago before radio telephony or broadcasting was attempted. At that time an international wireless company undertook to sell stock in the United States. Postoffice Department officials considered that the promises of this company were too extravagant and an investigation was made of their operations. However, this investigation never resulted in anything and the case was dropped.

Mr. Simmons was reticent about talking of the ways in which the swindlers might defraud the public through radio. He was afraid that if he suggested some method there might be plenty of swindlers willing to try it out.

NEW RADIO SYSTEM WOULD ABOLISH TELEGRAPH WIRES

Simultaneous Transmission of Many Messages Promised by English Inventor.

The network of telegraph wires which link the various sections of the United States may be rendered obsolete by a new invention which permits the transmission of a large number of wireless messages at the same time by one station without the use of a large number of high frequency carrier waves.

This new system of wireless telegraphy has been invented by Hendrik J. Van Der Bijl, an Englishman, who at present resides in South Africa. All rights under the invention upon which a patent has been granted by the patent office, have been assigned to the Western Electric Company.

Whether the new invention will be put into operation in competition with the telegraph offices yet remains to be seen. Experts, however, declare it to be entirely possible and predict that in such an event telegraph rates will go down to a new low figure.

Briefly, the new invention is based somewhat on the theory of the telegraph and telephone systems which permit the transmission of several messages and several telephone conversations on the same wire at the same time. It is predicted that if the invention proves successful in regard to telegraph, a method may be found of also applying it to the telephone.

In its general aspects, the invention is as applicable to transmission of signals by means of waves guided on wires as to transmission by unguided wires. It is also applicable to electrical selective systems of any type as well as to signaling systems.

In the RADIO TESTING LABORATORY
CONDUCTED BY STUART C. MAHANAY

This column, inaugurated with this issue of the Post-Dispatch, will become a regular feature of the Sunday radio section. In it will be found reports of tests conducted with standard manufacturers' parts and sets which have been submitted to the Post-Dispatch radio laboratory for examination.

Apparatus tested during the past week in the Post-Dispatch laboratory consisted of the following:

Western Electric 540-AW loud speaker.

Newman-Stern crystal.

WESTERN ELECTRIC LOUD SPEAKER.

THIS new device is designed along somewhat different lines from the usual loud speaker. The paper cone type of projector is not radically new, but a great many experiments were conducted by engineers, with different kinds and varieties of paper before one finally was found which met the desired requirements.

While the "proof of a pudding lies in the eating thereof," truly the test of a loud speaking telephone is in the quality of its tone reproduction. Of the many models the writer has listened to, this new speaker, which somewhat resembles a Chinaman's hat, delivers the purest, smoothest and most velvety tones of any which have been tested.

It is plain, however, that no one device could be made to supply the needs and desires of everyone. Therefore, this hint is dropped for the class of enthusiasts whose preference is for volume rather than quality. To the former, we unqualifiedly recommend any one of a number of speakers on the market which are fitted with a horn. Without casting any reflection whatever on this variety, there is no doubt but what they will deliver more volume to the square inch than those of any other type.

It is the people who enjoy phonograph music somewhat subdued—so that the sound can be distinctly heard throughout a room of ordinary dimensions—who will be the potential buyers of this new Western Electric model, for it certainly reproduces with unusual tonal quality. Particularly was this noticeable when listening to instrumental music.

A feature of this speaker is that listeners seated behind the projector hear practically as well as those seated in front, as the sounds are evenly distributed about the entire room, such as is done by ordinary musical instruments.

Another point noticed during the tests was that when listening to distant stations, the sounds from this speaker were much louder than when the laboratory speaker was switched on. This may be easily understood when it is realized that the diaphragm of the conventional type of reproducer must be stiff enough to prevent "chattering" when local stations are tuned in. It is then too stiff to readily respond to weak signals without some form of compensatory adjustment.

Many manufacturers, with the above observation in mind, have changed the design of their product so as to permit adjustment of the diaphragm for varying degrees of signal intensity and sound volume, and, to some extent, have thereby overcome a "weakness" of the early models, but in the writers' opinion, not to the same extent as has this new speaker which has recently been placed on the market.

No provision is made for varying intensities of signal strength—probably because it was found unnecessary in this particular one. It however, be adjusted to

The 45-volt "B" Battery to use where variable taps are required

EVEREADY 45-volt "B" Battery No. 767 is designed for use on all sets having not more than four tubes using 90 volts. On account of its large, powerful cells this battery is most economical on this service. It is especially adapted for use on receiving sets having soft detector tubes, as it is provided with seven Fahnestock spring clip connectors giving a range of voltage from 16½ to 22½ and 45 volts. There is an Eveready Radio Battery for every radio use. Buy them from your dealer.

QRX

Eastern Amateur Reaches France With Twenty Watts.

WHAT is believed to be an unusual record for a 20-watt transmitter was established recently when 3BG, operated by Paul C. Peterson of Folcroft, Pa., was in communication with French 8BF for approximately one hour and a half. The account of this record appeared in a recent issue of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Peterson first heard 8BF about midnight, sending a CQ on about 80 meters. When he answered there were some 40 other American amateurs who also had heard the invitation to transmit, and were trying to get their answers across to the Frenchman, so 3BG decided to send a CQ of his own, expecting to work some local ham. When he threw the switch back to the receiver, much to his surprise, he heard F-8BF calling him.

Peterson lost no time in answering and learned that 8BF was the only French station operating on 80 meters and that this was the first night he had gotten "across." The French opeator then asked Peterson to QSY to 108 meters but "Pete" couldn't hear him up there, so he told him to go back to 80 meters and immediately picked him up. They continued talking and testing until 1:30 a. m., when the foreign ham told him the "Great Lite" had arisen, meaning that it was dawn in France, so Pete said "CUL" and signed off with 73's.

Several nights later, Peterson was listening in when he heard a CW station on 100 meters calling CQ and signing 1HT. 3BG answered him and asked who he was. Listening again, he heard 1HT come back and tell him in good English that it was an Italian battleship, the "San Marco," making tests on short waves, and then in Longtitude 27, west, Latitude 7, north, which is about the middle of the Atlantic, just above the Equator, more than 6000 miles airline distance from Philadelphia.

The American ham then game him a report on his signals and asked what power the Italian was using. 1HT replied that he was ACD, the Italian amateur who had operated U-1-MO, and that he was using an input of 1500 watts. He said they were going to the Canary Islands for suppiles and then to Africa.

All this was accomplished by 3BG with four five-watt tubes with an input of about 200 watts, and putting about 1.2 amperes into the antenna, which is a single wire, 80 feet long.

This DX is exceptional for this time of the year, particularly as the ship was in the tropical regions, where static conditions are very bad at the present time.

French Laws Prevent Tests With Australia.

Leon Deloy, the French radio ace (8AB), first to cross the Atlantice with waves shorter than 200 meters, had just arranged for another record-breaking trial, this time with Australia, when he was stopped by the new ruling of the French authorities forbidding transmission by amateurs before midnight. As M. Deloy says, it would be absolutely necessary to begin these trials while it was night over all that part of the globe between Australia and France—that is, at the very fall of evening in Nice.

At the same time, it must not be forgotten that the young amateur, Menars, in the Pyrenees, reports fairly clear reception of an Argentine amateur at a time when only half the distance between them was in darkness, full daylight bein gover the other half.

French Amateur Makes Fine Receiving Record

J. L. Menars (8FJ), the young French amateur who distinguished himself last spring by announcing the reception of over 500 American stations, has just written to the radio paper, L'Antenne, announcing his reception of the Argentinian station LPZ, transmitting on 62 meters, at 10 p. m. on Aug. 2. It was daylight over half the distance covered by this remarkable transmission, yet in spite of a considerable amount of interference the signals remained clear and comprehensible for nearly 20 minutes.

Not Yet Too Late to Enter for Hoover Cup

Entries for the 1924 Hoover cup are now open to amateurs. This trophy has been awarded annually since 1921 to the best all-round American amateur station, the major portion of which has been home-made.

It is the annual gift of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and is considered the highest award that the transmitting amateur can obtain.

Design and lay-out of the apparatus, efficiency, consistent communicating range, record of the station in obeying the radio communication laws, amount of message traffic handled and the accuracy and neatness of the station's log book are points which are considered in choosing the winner.

Awards are made under the auspices of the American Radio Relay League. The first cup was won by 5ZA, the second one by 20M and last year's went to 9ZT.

Amateurs still have time to rebuild their sets and establish some new records, thereby putting themselves in line for this award of honor.

OUT O' THE ETHER

The well known Italian amateur, ACD, was chosen by his Government to take a cruise to South America for the purpose of testing on low wave transmissions. Low wave transmission work has taken the world by storm, all as a result of amateur radio. Who said that amateurs were not useful to the country? Ask the Signal Corps.

It has been reported that more than 65 amateur transmitting stations have been heard by three amateur operators in South America. These were heard during the recent Pan-American tests which were conducted by the American Radio Relay League. Many transmitting amateur stations throughout Canada and the United States took part in the tests and the fact of that many being heard speaks well for the tests.

We wonder if any of the amateurs have succeeded in hearing the ship Arctic, which has sailed for the polar regions. This ship has a 100-meter transmitter on board and should connect up with many of the amateurs who are equipped for the low wave transmission. The operator of the Arctic is capable of taking charge of the transmitter, as he is a well known amateur operator, having had a transmitting station for some years. The call letters of the Arctic are VDM. If you hear this ship, notify the ARRL, who will be interested in receiving any kind of report of their reception. The ARRL has been requested to cooperate in maintaining communication with the ship during its trip northward.

The amateur who bears the call 7AGF probably knows more than most of the hams about CW, and also about building a station. 7AGF is located in Troy, Mont., and when he needed 50-foot masts for his station, he cut two poles, five miles from his home, and brought them down by way of the river, part of which is a roaring rapids. The river runs at a speed of about 12 miles per hour, so AGF had some job to prevent the poles from ramming his motor boat. He got them home safely, however, and started to build his station. All he knew about transmitting was learned from reading QST and other magazines. His call is well known in the West now, so his 15 months' work was not wasted.

French Forbid Short Waves Before Midnight

A peculiar phase of the amateur regulation in France is that while an amateur can transmit at any time he wishes on wave lengths between 180 and 200 meters, he cannot work on anything below that until after midnight. It is this ruling which stopped Leon Deloy, it will be remembered, from trying to get in touch with Australia.

NEW ARRIVALS ON THE RADIO MART

THE Rauland Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, makers of "All-American Transformers," have placed on the market the "All-American perfect tube socket." The shell of the socket is in one piece, being molded out of bakelite. Instead of the prongs of the socket being arranged so as to place an upward pressure on the prongs of the tube, they are placed so as to wrap themselves around the prongs of the utbe. This eliminates the danger of damaging the tube by pressing it in the socket. The socket is provided with both binding posts and soldering lugs.

Radio fans of all classes will welcome the arrival of a medium-priced voltmeter, ammeter and combination volt-ammeter, available in various scale ranges. The new instrument referred to is known as the Beede. A particular feature of this device is that readings may be taken irrespective of polarity of terminals on either the battery or meter.

The A. C. Lopez & Company are distributing three types of low-loss tuners designed to cover wave length ranges of 40-80, 90-225 and 225-600 meters respectively. The first two are for amateur use, while the latter covers the broadcast range.

The antenna coil is wound with a small number of turns of insulated wire so that the antenna circuit is untuned—to simplify tuning adjustments. The coupling to the secondary coil is variable. The secondary coil is "stagger-wound," of heavy insulated wire and is practically self-supporting, air being the only insulation except in a comparatively few places where the windings come in contact with each other when the heavy cotton insulation serves as a separator. The tickler coil is wound with finer wire, since heavy wire is unnecessary in this coil. Inductive coupling to the filament end of the secondary coil is variable and the tickler has little effect upon tuning of the secondary. A cast aluminum bracket supports the coils. These tuners may be used in any circuit combining radio frequency amplification with regenration where they are of great advantage in increasing both sensitivity and selectivity.

Two new models of Garod neutrodyne receivers have recently made their bow to the radio public. The "Georgian," an attractive piece of furniture housing a five-tube receiver embodying all of the details that mark the last minute improvement in the neutrodyne principle. It contains a built-in loud speaker and is fitted with battery compartments and a drawer for accessories. The Garod V, also a five-tube model, has a genuine highly finished mahogany cabinet with a 15-degree sloped panel, five-inch dials and a double-reading weston voltmeter.

The Cannon & Miller Co., manufacturers of two models of "Camco" headphones are now producing a loud speaker. The horn is of one piece brown molded fiber, supported by an ornamented base finished in black. It is 22 inches high and the bell is 10 inches in diameter No adjustment is provided for the speaker unit.

Kapaciton mica fixed condensers may be obtained in sizes of from .01 microfarads to .01 microfarad and in two types. They are made with copper foil firmly soldered to the extension lugs. If wire is soldered to these lugs a soldered connection throughout the circuit results. This is an advantage over condensers which require a lug and binding post to make the connection at the condenser. The elements of Mica Kapacitons are firmly pressed together over their entire surface, not merely at one or two points, and that pressure is maintained permanently by heavy brass straps. They are said to be individually tested for capacity and break-down. Provision is made for attaching grid leak holders.

For the Notebook.

Dry cells cannot be recharged.

Keep connections short and straight. A straight wire from binding post to binding post may not be quite so artistic as the right-angled turns, but it saves wire.

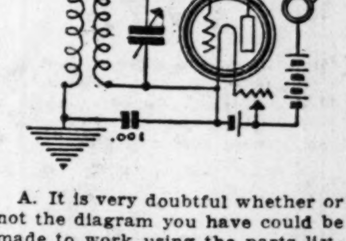
Two dry cells will not work better with a WD-12 tube, but they will have a longer life if they are connected in parallel.

A panel should be virtually moisture-proof. If the panel absorbs moisture, dust and dirt will collect on the panel and provide a path for leakage of high frequency currents between terminals.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

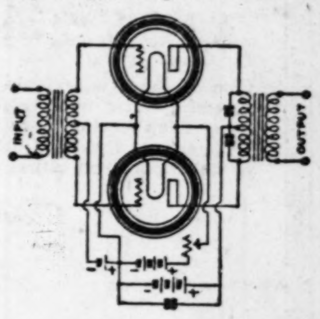
The Post-Dispatch Radio Department cannot undertake to answer questions by mail.

Q. I have been unable to make my set work, using the hook-up enclosed. What is wrong with it? Is the circuit a good one? Do you recommend a different one? If so, kindly publish same for the following parts: Shamrock variocoupler, WD-11 tube, 6-ohm rheostat, 23-plate variable condenser, .00025 mfd. grid condenser and leak .001 mfd. mica fixed condenser, phones and "A" and "B" batteries. A. F.



A. It is very doubtful whether or not the diagram you have could be made to work using the parts listed. The diagram above, however, will no doubt operate satisfactorily.

Q. I have two Como push-pull amplifying transformers which I wish to use with my present circuit, a copy of which is enclosed. Would it be advisable to connect the push-pull amplifier directly to the output of the detector, or to use a stage of straight audio frequency amplification preceding the push-pull? Kindly publish a diagram of a push-pull amplifier. D. M.



A. It would be advisable to place at least one stage of audio amplification ahead of the push-pull tubes. A schematic diagram of connections is shown above.

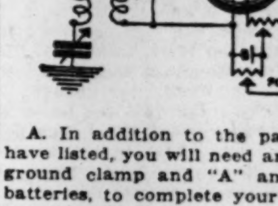
Q. (1) Could I use a receiving tube in a transmitting set? (2) Could "B" batteries supply the high voltage plate current?—T. W.

A. (1) A 201-A or 301-A tube will serve satisfactorily for plate voltages up to 100 or 120, but if 250-500 volts are used, a 5-watt transmitting tube will be necessary. (2) Yes, if storage "B" batteries are employed, but it will be found very expensive to use dry-cell batteries if placed in this service.

Q. I wish to build a push-pull amplifier for my two-tube receiver. Will it be necessary to have one stage of audio frequency ahead of the push-pull amplifier or not? —M. D.

A. While it is not absolutely necessary, it is advisable to place one stage of straight audio frequency amplification ahead of the push-pull amplifier in order that full benefit from the push-pull amplifier be obtained.

Q. I have just bought a number of spare parts for a radio set and would greatly appreciate your giving me a circuit from the many I have seen published that would fit the apparatus I have. The parts are: Three honeycomb coils with mounting. Cardwell .0005 mfd. variable condenser with vernier dial; Freshman .0005 mfd. variable condenser; .00024 mfd. mica grid condenser and leak; WD-12 tube, socket and rheostat; 400-ohm potentio-meter and Brandes headphones. D. E. V.



A. In addition to the parts you have listed, you will need an aerial, ground clamp and "A" and "B" batteries, to complete your receiver. Also a panel about 7" by 9", preferably of bakelite, a cabinet and some assorted wood and machine screws. The diagram is printed above.

NINTH DISTRICT BROADCASTERS UNREPRESENTED AT CONFERENCE

Failure to Agree Among Station Owners Is Cause of Unusual Situation; Appointment to Be Made.

An interesting sidelight on the Radio Conference which is scheduled to open in Washington tomorrow, is the fact that there will be no representative of the broadcasters in the Ninth Radio District until after the opening session, at which time, some member present, will be appointed to represent them.

The reason for this situation is due to the fact that the broadcasters of the Ninth District could not agree among themselves on a representative satisfactory to all concerned.

How Fall Revolutionized Navajos to Control Lands

vor. Chief Hostien Yaze Begay (whose American name is Billy McKinney), judge of the Indian court at Shiprock, sent a long telegram of protest and accusation to Commissioner Burke in Washington, charging that the Standard Oil interests were directing the action against Estep.

Estep was quite conspicuously removed, and recently he has been quite inconspicuously reinstated and placed in charge of the small Yakima Indian agency at Toppenish, Wash. There are no oil lands in the Yakima agency.

Hagerman Supreme.

At the July 7 council at Toadlena, N. M., mentioned by Billy McKinney, the important action in carrying out the plans was taken. Chee Dodge was elected chairman over the protest of the San Juan Indians, and a resolution was put through the council placing in Hagerman's hands full authority to execute oil leases for the Indians. Under that resolution there was no need to even submit proposed leases to the Indians, or even to their council.

However, before the holding of this Council, Secretary Work had altered the Fall plan to make it less objectionable to the Indians. He had increased the size of the council from six to 12 and divided the representation in such manner as to give one representative for approximately 2000 Indians or less. He also had withdrawn the order giving the Secretary of the Interior power to remove a member of the council. Under the order as modified by Secretary Work the representation was: San Juan, three delegates; Navajo, four; Western Navajo, two; Pueblo Bonito, one; Leupp, one, and Moqui, one.

Mellon Interests Appears.

It was after all these details of the new plan had been worked out that the Mellon interests first appeared in Navajo oil matters. Commissioner Hagerman announced that at his office in Santa Fe Oct. 15, 1923, there would be an auction of Navajo leases, that all pending applications had been rejected, and that all bidders would be on an even basis. The effect of this was that notice was given that the Producers & Refiners and Hall, even though their leases had been voted by the Indians and they had expended $30,000 on them, they would have no preferential rights over new applicants. It also was noticed that the Western States, Sun, Kinney Coastal and other oil companies and individuals who long had had applications pending, would have no advantage.

Hagerman, with the aid of geologists, had worked out the leases over the apexes of the domes of Tocito, Rattlesnake, Beautiful Mountain and Table Mesa, and leases quite generally covering the Hogback structure. All the geologists were agreed that the Tocito was the choice lease, and the Mellon interests appeared determined to get it.

$46,000 of Mellon Money.

Under the old system, such as was in use when the Midwest lease was granted, the Indians received no cash payment for leases. If oil in paying quantity was found the Indians would receive a royalty of the value of one-eighth of the oil taken out. If no oil was found they would get nothing. Under the new plan the leases were sold, the bonus paid going to the Indians. The Mellon interests paid $46,000 for the 4000-acre Tocito lease, bidding in competition with the Producers and Refiners.

While the Indians profit from the new plan to the amount derived from the sale of the leases, it has been pointed out by oil men that the bonuses are really unimportant. The royalty is the important thing, and that was the same under both plans. While $88,000 was realized from the sale of all the leases that day in Santa Fe, as a matter of fact the Indians have received nothing from the sale, the money lying in the Treasury while bureaucrats are determining whether Congress must appropriate the money before it can be turned over to the Indians.

There had been suggestions that Hagerman had so framed the terms of the leases that only the wealthiest oil companies would bid for them, and that no operator of modest means could afford to attempt to comply with them. Hagerman at his home in Roswell, N. M., was questioned on this point.

"There is just enough in that to excuse the raising of the question," Hagerman replied, "and yet there is no merit in the suggestion as a criticism.

Explained by Hagerman.

"We were concerned with the welfare of the Indians. If there was oil on the reservation we wanted the Indians to get the benefit of it as quickly as possible. We were not in the slightest degree concerned about who got the leases or what the effect was on individuals who sought them. I think it will be conceded generally that we were right in making drilling requirements so severe that wells would be sunk. We did not want to lease the lands to persons who were not financially responsible and who would be unable to sink wells. We did not want the Navajo exploited by a lot of wildcatters and lease speculators. So we drew the leases in such a way that whoever got them would be financially responsible and would be compelled to sink wells to thoroughly test the ground.

"I am willing to accept full responsibility for the strict terms in the leases."

Hagerman was questioned about the possibility that the Mellon interests were shown favoritism. His reply was a question:

"What fairer way can you suggest for the disposal of leases than to put them up for sale at public auction?"

Penrose Group Gets In.

There were a number of other leases disposed of at the Santa Fe auction. The Table Mesa structure of 3200 acres went to J. C. Bailey for $17,500. Bailey represented the Carlton-Penrose interests of Colorado, the Penrose being Spencer Penrose, a brother of Boise Penrose, late Senator from Pennsylvania. The Rattlesnake structure of 4080 acres went to S. C. Munoz, who has large railroad interests in the West, for $1000. The Beautiful Mountain structure went to Neill B. Field for $1000. A number of small 640-acre leases on the Hogback went to various persons for from $125 to $5700.

The Mellon interests have not yet profited from their Tocito lease. They sunk one well to a depth of 3025 feet and stopped, announcing that it was a "water well." The Rattlesnake lease, considered by geologists the least desirable, has proved the best of all. There Munoz has several producing wells.

Under the terms of their lease, the Mellon interests can let it lie without further development for 10 years if they like. The lease required that one well be sunk at the apex of the dome 3000 feet, or less if oil was struck at a lesser depth, but that if no oil was struck at 3000 feet there need be sunk no other wells. If oil had been encounted in the first well, there was a requirement that a second well be sunk, and if oil was found in that a third well.

There is some difference of opinion among oil men as to whether the one well sunk by the Mellons properly tests the structure, some holding there might be oil there even though the one well did not encounter it. The majority opinion, however, seems to be that if there was oil in the structure a well sunk at the apex to a depth of 3000 feet would have found it.

The explanation was made by a geologist that the formation at Tocito is known in geology as an anticline, the strata of rock and sands having been pushed upward in some subterranean upheaval in remote times. In such a formation, he said, if oil is present it will appear above any water in the structure, and that a well sunk from the apex of the anticline dome will encounter oil before it encounters water if there is oil present. Striking water precludes the striking of oil at a greater depth, he said.

It is common knowledge in oil fields that frequently a company striking oil, or knowing from the character of the sand and rock which the drill penetrates that oil-bearing sands soon will be entered, will for some reason desire to conceal the facts and will stop operations. Frequently the company desires to obtain additional leases, will announce it has a dry hole, and will await some favorable circumstance before reopening operations.

Another Lease Bought.

However, no matter what it may or may not have at Tocito, the Mellon interests are not depending upon that alone for profits from their operations on Government Indian lands. In July they bought a lease on the Ute Indian reservation just across the New Mexico-Colorado line in Colorado, in a district which the Midwest, or Standard, entered about the time it entered the Navajo reservation.

The Midwest obtained a lease in the Ute reservation April 26, 1921, less than two months after Secretary Fall took office as Secretary of the Interior. It has several producing gas wells there, though they are now capped awaiting the development of a market for the gas.

July 10, last, the Department of the Interior had an auction sale of six Ute leases at Durango, Colo. The Mellon interests bought in the choice lease, a tract of 3720 acres, for which it paid $36,000. It has moved its drilling outfit from the Tocito lease to the Ute lease and is now drilling there.

Through Gypsy Oil Co.

The Gypsy Oil Co., through which the Mellons are working in their operations on Government Indian lands, is owned entirely by the Gulf Oil Corporation, one of the larger of the Mellon companies, a $250,000,000 concern. The present Gulf company is a reorganization of an older company of the same name, the reorganization following Secretary Mellon's appointment to the President's Cabinet. Secretary Mellon was a director in the old company, but, in accordance with his announced policy of resigning all corporate directorates after becoming a public official, he does not appear in the directorate of the new company.

That it still is a Mellon company, however, is evidenced by the fact that William L. Mellon, a nephew of the Secretary, is president of the Gulf, and Richard B. Mellon, the Secretary's younger brother, is a director.

The last report of the Gulf company gives its assets as $325,498,553, and its gross earning in 1923 as $164,672,596. In 1923 it paid dividends amounting to $6,623,230.

Urban League to Present Play.

The Urban League of St. Louis will present "If I Were King," a romantic play, at the Odeon Theater, Nov. 6 and 7. The proceeds will be used in carrying out the work of the Urban League, which is a negro social service organization. This will be the third dramatic presentation of the league. "The Eastern Gate" and "Broken Bars" having been performed in 1920 and 1921.

stment of Highest Order.

ording to real estate men the egis, which was acquired by ernational at a valuation of ,000, combines both an investment and a speculation of the highest order.

Reports have been rife for several weeks that negotiations were progressing whereby the Title Guaranty Trust Building, a 12-story office structure at the southwest corner of Seventh and Chestnut streets, will be acquired by the International Life Insurance Co., which now has its offices in the International Life Building at Eighth and Chestnut streets. This, however, is discredited by Isaac T. Cook & Co., which firm has the management of the building, which is owned in fee simple by Paul Brown, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co. and president of Paul Brown & Co.

The transaction involving the St. Regis is the foremost of the year in the local real estate field thus far. Claude E. Vrooman, former owner, received approximately $400,000 in cash, with the balance of the purchase price in highly improved farm lands in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas, at conservative valuations. Purchase was made subject to a deed of trust for $715,000, held by the Prudential Insurance Co.

Vrooman's Profit $500,000.

Through the transaction Vrooman has realized a profit estimated at more than $500,000, he having erected the building in 1912, before the revolution in construction cost and the unprecedented advance in land values in this part of the city.

The St. Regis, situated on the south side of Lindell boulevard, 200 feet east of Kingshighway, is one of the most elaborate structures of its kind in the city. The site of the apartments alone is considered of great value. It overlooks the main entrance of Forest Park and virtually is grouped with the Chase Hotel and the Chase Apartments at the northeast corner of Lindell boulevard and Kingshighway.

James M. Franciscus, president of the Franciscus Realty Co., handled the negotiations. He also negotiated the loan of $715,000 made on the property in 1922 by the Prudential Insurance Co., of which he is the St. Louis loan correspondent. The property then was assessed at $1,500,000. Under provisions of the deed of trust, the loan is to be reduced annually to meet depreciation.

MME. DE BERNARD BUYS ON LINDELL

Deal Apparently Involves Exchange for Seventh and Morgan Corner.

A transaction was concluded yesterday through which the Hasgall Realty and Investment Co. acquired the northeast corner of Seventh and Morgan streets and Mme. Henrietta de Bernard became owner of the commodious residence at 4378 Lindell boulevard. The amount involved or the basis of the deal was not disclosed. Negotiations were handled by the Weisels-Gerhart Co., the deal apparently involving an exchange of holdings.

The Hasgal acquisition with 57 feet on Morgan street, is improved with a three-story building, comprising stores and tenements. Annual rentals aggregate $7200. The Hasgall company made the deal, it was stated, on the theory that the status of Morgan street and of Seventh street would be improved greatly with the widening of the former and the erection of the new Union Market provided for under the $87,000,000 bond issue.

The Lindell boulevard house, occupying a lot 99x213 feet, is to become the residence of Mme de Bernard, as well as provide quarters for "the Maison de Bernard" a dressmaking shop now located in the Arcade building. In connection with the dressmaking place, space will be allotted in the house for a French antique shop to be conducted by Mr. de Bernard. The house was bought from Mr. and Mrs. Baarent Ten Broek.

The northeast corner of Sixth and Wash streets, 127x127 feet, owned by the estate of James H. Bright, was sold by the Hruska Real Estate Co., George Hruska, president, as a site for a large garage. Identity of the purchaser and consideration involved were withheld.

"PASADENA" HOMESITES REPORTED IN DEMAND

The Alfred Baker Realty Co. has just completed its best month in sales of home site property, according to Alfred M. Baker Jr. The demand for building sites in "Pasadena," the addition on Big Bend road and Selma avenue, in Webster Groves, has nearly closed out the entire addition of 75 lots. All of the street improvement in Pasadena with the exception of the macadam roadway, contract for which is let, is now installed and a number of the new type duplex buildings are under construction. The model duplex dwelling, built by L. L. Livingston as an educational feature in the tract, is now completed and open for inspection. According to Alfred M. Baker Jr., "Bellerive Acres" on Natural Bridge road, adjoining the Bellerive Golf Club, is meeting with a large volume of sales. Nearly a mile and a quarter of macadam roadway has been laid within the last two weeks, an artistic entrance is almost finished and the balance of the improvement work is progressing.

FIRST HOUSE SOLD IN COUNTRY CLUB COURT

The first house to be completed in Country Club Court, a new residential district in Hanley road north of Wydown boulevard, has been sold to Carl A. Wessel of the Ladies' Home Baking Co. This house is one of the 18 to be erected by the Remmert Construction Co. in this addition, and which will form a horseshoe about a 30-foot concrete roadway surrounding a beautiful center park. These houses will be modern in every detail and of original and attractive design, forming one of the most beautiful and harmonious residence districts adjacent to St. Louis and the county.

RESIDENCE BEING COMPLETED IN ELLENWOOD IS SOLD

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freund have purchased 6253 Alexander Drive, Ellenwood, two-story matt brick house with slate roof, immediately west of Forest Park and south of Washington University. The house, which is receiving its finishing touches, comprises seven rooms, two baths, sun parlor and sleeping porch. The interior trim is of magnolia wood with canvassed and painted walls. The garage is of matt brick with capacity for two cars. William A. Brasher Jr. was the architect and Edward H. Beckemeier the general contractor. The residence was built for Louis Stark, from whom Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freund made the purchase.

WORK STARTS THIS WEEK ON GARMENT CENTER BUILDING

Ground will be broken this week for the new 10-story Garment Center building to be erected at the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Thirteenth street by George Sokol, architect, for the Lurso Investment Co. The site is well located for a building of this character, fronting 135 feet on Washington and Lucas avenues and 136 feet on Thirteenth street.

The building, a reinforced concrete structure, will be equipped with sprinkler system, two large freight and two passenger elevators. Washrooms on each floor will have tile walls and floors. The exterior will be finished in Alton mat brick, pointed in black with cut stone trim. The ground floor will be divided into six or more stores for wholesalers, and four upper floors into smaller units, and leased to representatives of Eastern manufacturers as sample rooms. The other five floors, containing 18,000 square feet of rentable area each, with light on four sides, will be leased to garment manufacturers.

The basement garage for the tenants will be an attractive feature. It is planned to have the building ready for occupany by June 1 next year, and it is understood that the investment will be in excess of $1,000,000. Isaac T. Cook & Co., Inc., business property specialists, have been engaged to lease and manage the building.

Sokol recently acquired a 50-year lease of the site through the Singer-Klein Real Estate Co. in connection with the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

NEW YORK MILLINERY FIRM TAKES LEASE

J. Leschen to Open Exclusive Shop at 407 North Sixth Street.

The J. Leschen Co. of New York has acquired a 10-year lease of a store at 407 North Sixth street, with plans for a millinery shop on a scale vieing with the finest and most expensive in the city.

The location between Locust and St. Charles streets is considered one of the best in the retail district.

The store will embrace two floors, each 27½ by 90 feet, and will have a bay window 18 feet in depth and an ornate rotunda.

The company has exclusive millinery stores in the leading cities, its store in Chicago on Michigan avenue being one of the most pretentious.

The St. Louis store will be under the management of Max Michel, for many years and until recently manager of the millinery department of Klines. The lease for the store was closed by the S. J. Bernheimer Co.

COUNTRY CLUB COURT
Hanley Road, One Block North of Wydown Boulevard
One Block North of the Clayton Street Car Line

The first house of the above group has been completed and sold to Mr. Carl A. Wessel of the Ladies' Home Baking Company. The second and third house are now nearing completion.

These houses are being erected with the same care and consideration that would be given a home being built under your own supervision. No detail to make them comfortable, efficient and beautiful has been omitted. A few of the attractive features in these seven and eight room residences are the large sunrooms, front and rear porches, oil burners for the hot-water heating plants, instanfaneous hot-water heaters, electric refrigeration, garbage consumers, ventilating fans, white glazed brick garages for two cars, built in the houses, tile baths on each floor, pedestal lavatories, showers, double drain board porcelain sinks, cork linoleum on kitchen floors, bevel plate mirrors in doors, imported crystal prism lighting fixtures, Los Angeles Bacheloer Tile Mantels, large closets and cabinets, and many other details which can only be appreciated when seen. Huttig's Satin Brand mill work is used throughout.

Homes in this Court range in price from $20,000 to $25,000. Residences such as these are usually offered at much higher figures, but our volume of construction makes possible these low prices.

SHERWOOD FOREST
This broad, white home that you have admired so, with the well-designed central entrance, the wide windows with green shutters, a sitting porch to the south, situated on the very crest of the hill, having a level lawn, only slightly above the sidewalk, with those large forest oaks casting shade over the dwelling; the whole exterior tends to portray the comfort of the interior, with its center hall, having window light from rear, showing off to advantage the colonial stairway, the large living room with its deep fireplace and porch to the south, the well-proportionedw dining room and the bright kitchen.

The bedrooms and sleeping porch above, the many closets and ideal bath equipments are in keeping with the balance of the home; the new-style American downdraft hot-water heating plant gives perfect comfort to all parts of the house; a large attic assures comfort during the summer months; 2-car garage.

The owner, who sold his St. Louis business some months ago, has just returned to the city, having now decided that he will locate elsewhere and therefort, wants to sell this month; price accordingly.

Beautiful Homes and Lots in Glenview Park

All Improvements in and Paid for

PRICE, $1000 TO $1600 FOR LOTS

COME out and take a look at these beautiful hills before you consider living anywhere else. All the advantages of the country—fresh air, green grass, shady trees, with all the conveniences of the city—paved streets, sidewalks, sewers, electric lights, gas, water and good street car service.

Here you will find the ideal place for your homes, at a very reasonable cost. Lots with 60-ft. frontage and from 120 to 150 ft. deep range in price from $1000 to $1600.

Can you find these advantages anywhere else at such a low price?

Taxes are low. Churches, public schools, stores, are all within a few blocks. Bluff Park faces this property.

Three 5-room frame bungalows and two 5-room mat brick bungalows are ready for occupancy. All modern conveniences—tile bath, hardwood floor, colonnaded bookcases and fireplace. Prices range from $6500 to $8500. Reasonable terms.

Come out to the hills of Edgemont and enjoy life as you would like to live it. Buy or build a comfortable home on top of a hill where there are gentle breezes to keep you cool in Summer, where you can have a nice lawn with plenty of flowers and trees.

Here is the place for you to live! Salesmen traveling Illinois territory; St. Louis people working in East St. Louis, Belleville, Collinsville, etc.; St. Louis people and East St. Louis people working in downtown St. Louis, all find the hills of Edgemont ideal for beautiful homes which would cost much more anywhere else.

15 minutes by automobile (20 minutes by street car) from downtown East St. Louis. 30 minutes by automobile (45 minutes by street car) from downtown St. Louis.

Come out today and see these lots. One look at the homes which have already been built will show you how attractive your home can be. This is a wonderful opportunity to get the kind of lot you want. Come out today.

HOW TO GET THERE

THE FIRST REAL FLAGG DUPLEX
For Two Families—Now Being Built in

Pershing Heights

Three blocks north of Olive Boulevard on Ferguson Avenue (6600 west).

Radically different in construction and design. 15 inch outside walls 40% stone backed by 60% concrete. Inside partition walls concrete 1¾ inch thick with scrim center. Claimed to be sound, fire and vermin proof.

This Duplex was designed by one of America's greatest architects, Ernest Flagg, architect and builder of Singer Building, New York City.

The whole country is now watching McCall Magazine build a Flagg House in New York.

It is the same construction as the Flagg House recently built by Collier's magazine.

Being built by Flagg Method Construction Company (no connection with E. Davis Realty Company).

Foundation now finished. Forms for walls are in place. Work is progressing so rapidly it will pay everyone to visit this Duplex every few days Absolutely different—extremely interesting.

E. Davis Realty Company,
816 Olive Street—Olive 7930

NOTE: Visit Pershing Heights today. It's St. Louis' new apartment section, three blocks north of Delmar Garden. Lots today, including concrete streets, are only $45.00 a foot. These lots will positively go to $100.00 a foot. Make your money make money. Buy every Pershing Heights lot you can carry. Let St. Louis' growth make profits for you. $350.00 starts you. Don't let St. Louis add another 100,000 population and Pershing Heights lots double and you not make any money.

Home Personality
What Is Home Personality?
Home personality in a well located home that attracts favorable attention and makes an impelling appeal as a result of its personal beauty; it has character and radiates with that magnetic outward and inner expression of the builder's art, that goes in favor and will not let you forget. The home has living room, 16x32; bathroom with tiled walls and shower, decorated throughout with stipple metal weather strips, hot-water heat, tile porch, tiled roof, double garage, with tiled roof, and will compare favorably with a home selling at $20,000. This home can be bought 20 per cent below others price. 6318 Alama, just west of Skinker in Hi-Pointe, restricted to homes. Open. B. A. THOMPSON R. CO., Parkview 141.

Onward With St. Louis
The Majestic Homes Corporation is at work on its third one hundred homes—three hundred new homes in barely eighteen months' time. What does this mean to the city, to its prosperity and your prosperity?
To build three hundred homes many workmen must work for many days—thousands upon thousands of dollars paid out in wages. These wages in turn are diverted into the channels of trade of our city, forming a cycle of prosperity.
Other thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars go to St. Louis industry for materials and supplies—adding another cycle of prosperity to the one of wages.
But the effect does not stop at these cycles of prosperity; the result is the addition to the city of millions of dollars of permanent wealth in the homes themselves.
Majestic Homes
Majestic Buying Plan
The object of the Majestic building method is to produce better homes at lowered cost—to build entire communities, but to build each home with a distinctive individuality of its own. And the Majestic buying plan removes the traditional barrier to home ownership.
NO DOWN PAYMENT
Price Same As Cash.
Warranty Deed Day of Purchase.
No Security Except the Property Itself.
No short-time loans (but with the privilege of paying all or any part at any time).
The entire purchase price divided into equal monthly payments of but little more than rent for the same property.
GANNONDALE.
(University City.)
Gannondale is at Delmar avenue, between the Hanley and North and South roads. People's Motorbus, University City line, or University Car line to Hanley.
LOS ANGELES.
(St. Louis.)
Drive out Natural Bridge road to Lucas and Hunt road, then three blocks west to the big red water tower. The entrance to Los Angeles (St. Louis) is just a few hundred feet beyond, Kirkwood-Ferguson or bus line from Wellston.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

WINNIE.—We do not answer school questions in this column.

R. L. S.—The present Prince of Wales has never visited St. Louis.

C. L. N.—We do not solve problems in this column.

E. B.—Write to any of the moving picture magazines regarding your scenario.

J. A. S.—Watch the papers for announcement of dividends to be paid by the bank in question.

H. S. — Repeat your question, sending stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

ANXIOUS.—Write to the Secretary of State, Springfield, Ill., for information regarding the concern in question.

A STUDIOUS BOY.—The daily papers give you all the needed information regarding the candidates for the presidency.

K. K. K.—Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Bunceton, Democratic nominee for the governorship, did denounce the Ku Klux Klan. The text of his statement can be read in the Post-Dispatch of Sept. 9.

RED GOOSE.—If one whose pet dog or cat is troubled with fleas will wet the afflicted one with camphor diluted with water, one will find that the fleas will leave at once, and no harm is done to the pet.

D. E. W.—Write to C. Ray Wassal, commander of the 110th Observation Squadron of the Missouri National Guard, located at Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field, Bridgeton, Mo., for the information regarding your enlistment.

W. D.—Application blanks, together with complete information regarding any of the Civil Service examinations may be secured from the Secretary of the Local Civil Service Board, Old Customs House, Third and Olive streets.

A. T. Q.—The Russian language is considered the most difficult of modern languages to learn, this, of course, means languages of any degree of importance. (2) The German language is considered very much more difficult to master than the English.

W. K.—The first Olympic Theater building was erected in 1865 by the firm of Bidwell and Spaulding, circus owners and theater managers. It was designed as a "hippotheatron" which was to accommodate either a circus or a variety show. In 1869 the doors were first opened as a legitimate theater, and from that time until the end its boards were graced by most of the illustrious personages of the American and European stage. The original structure was razed in 1882 and a new one, the same which has just been demolished, erected on the theater site. The seating capacity of the theater was about 2100, of which 850 seats were in the parquet. The above theater, last of the old landmarks in what was once the center of the night life of St. Louis, closed its doors in May, 1916.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

C. C. S.—It is against the law to wear feathers from a bird of paradise.

A HUNTER. — You would have to have a fishing license for each State in which you wish to fish.

I. L.—It is not necessary to give any notice that the interest will become due on the first deed of trust.

TROUBLED.—Report the facts to the police and ask to have a warrant issued against her for disturbing your peace.

MARIE. — You could not break the will unless you could prove that she was of unsound mind or under undue influence at the time she made it.

L. P.—She became an American citizen by her marriage to the man who was already a citizen, as this occurred before the law of Sept. 22, 1922, took effect.

SALESMAN—We have not space to summarize the law here. You can read it at the Public Library, in Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1919, volume 1, sections 2286-2290.

JUST ME.—A person can remarry immediately after obtaining a divorce in Maine. In Massachusetts the divorce decree does not become absolute until six months have elapsed, and the party who obtained the divorce can then remarry. The other party, however, cannot remarry until two years thereafter.

V. R.—A will written out by yourself would be legal if it were properly drawn, signed and witnessed. However, it would be advisable to have a lawyer draw the will for you. A notary public's seal and signature are not necessary for a will. Two attesting witnesses are necessary, and it is better to have three.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

F. A. W.—We do not know the formula for the salve in question.

MRS. C. S. H.—See answer to "A Mother," in the paper of Sept. 20, for the information regarding the condition of your daughter.

WORRIED.—Such a marriage is not deemed advisable on account of the close blood relationship affecting the offspring as it sometimes, although not always, does.

SICK GIRL. — When any derangement of the health exists, any additional disturbance would likely cause the condition to become worse. Such a situation could easily account for a slight elevation of temperature.

1. 2. 3.—The operation in question is as absolutely safe as an operation can be. (2) There may be some soreness, if many hairs are removed at one sitting, and minute scarring will occur, but both are insignificant. (3) The removal of the hair is permanent if properly done.

DOT.—Your child is a little under weight but taller than normal for her age. Her under weight is so slight that it is perhaps accounted for by her height being a little in excess. She is nearly normal and it would seem that she is doing well, so we advise no measures are necessary.

MARINE.—You do not say so, but we assume you refer to a scalp condition. Shampoo sufficiently, often with equal parts of green soap and alcohol, or perhaps soap spirit will suffice. After drying thoroughly, use the following, applied to the scalp, not the hair, with the finger tips: Sulphuris praecipitat, 1½ drams; acidi salicylici, 20 grains; olei limoni q. s. vaseline, 1 ounce. The application can be made in "parts" made in the hair.

DEATHS

LIMERICK—Entered into rest, Friday, Oct. 3, 1924, John Limerick, husband of the late Mary Limerick (nee Cosgrove), dear father of Mrs. John I. Taylor, Mrs. William Bick, Mrs. Claude De Guentz, John Jr., and Patrick Limerick, and our dear grandfather.

In loving memory of my dear mother, Delia R. Schwenker, who departed this life, Oct. 4, 1917. Sadly missed by her daughter, MRS. JESSIE G. WAGNER.

In loving remembrance of my dear mother, Mary F. Wright, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 2, 1923. Sadly missed by son Jess and friends who loved her.
W. J. WRIGHT. (c)

In loving memory of my wife, Catherine McMahon, who departed this life two years ago today.
A requiem high mass will be sung at 7:40 a. m., on Monday, Oct. 6, at the Church of St. Nicholas.

In memory of our darling son, Helmuth Langenecker, who passed away one year ago, Sept. 30, 1922. Gone but not forgotten. Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

In loving memory of Elmer Fanter, entered eternal rest Oct. 8, 1920.
Though earthly ties are broken,
In life we meet no more,
Our thoughts are with you dear Elmer
Till we meet on yonder shore.
Sadly mourned by heartbroken mother, grandmother, aunt and cousin.

In memory of Clarence Dunbar Joyce, who departed this life Oct. 6, 1923:
More and more I miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow that lies within my heart concealed.
Peaceful be thy rest in death as in life.
I love you dearly.
Sadly missed by
HIS BELOVED FRIEND. (c)

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Carl E. Huber, who passed away suddenly two years ago, Oct. 4, 1922:
Sad and sudden was the call
For our darling Carl, loved by all.
We little thought that on this day
Our darling boy would be called away.
Sadly missed by Parents, Brothers, Grandparents, Relatives and All Who Loved Him.

In loving memory of our dear father and husband, Mr. Anthony Duran, who departed this life Oct. 3, 1923:
Days of sadness often come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow;
Love shall always keep you near us
Though you left one year ago.
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade;
Our loving hearts will always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND DAUGHTERS.

In loving memory of Henry Ludwig, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 4, 1923:
Just one year ago today
Since my dear husband passed away.
I saw him suffer, heard his sighs
With aching heart and weeping eyes,
I saw him sinking, hour by hour,
Yet could not stay death's awful power,
But now he calmly sleeps at last,
All pain, all aches, all suffering past.
His loving wife, children and grandchildren. (c)

In loving memory of my dear husband, Frank L. Stillman, who departed this life one year ago the 2d of October, 1923:
I think of you, husband, in silence,
No eyes can see me weep,
But many a silent tear I shed
While others are asleep.
None know the depth of my regret,
But I remember when others forget.
Only those who have lost can tell the pain
Of parting with one I loved so well.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In loving memory of our darling daughter, Anna Zintel (nee Niehaus), who departed this life one year ago today, Oct. 4, 1923:
Days of sadness often overcome us
Tears in silence often flow;
Love shall always keep you near us
Though you left one year ago;
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade;
Our loving hearts will always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.
Those who loved her.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear wife and our darling mother, Sarah Bollinger, who passed on Oct. 4, 1906:
Mother, we miss you everywhere,
Miss your advice, love and care;
A faithful mother so kind and true,
We always pray and think of you.
You are not forgotten in our minds;
To us you were so good and kind.
How our hearts are filled with pain.
We hope some day we'll meet again.
Sadly missed by husband,
GEORGE BOLLINGER,
Daughters and Sons, Sons-in-law and Grandchildren.

SALESMEN WANTED

SPECIALTY SALESMEN
We are a million dollar company, the largest and livest concern of its kind in the world, and have just opened a branch office in St. Louis as headquarters for Missouri and several adjoining states.

Our product is a mechanical sensation and is designated by the United States Patent Office as one of the eight great inventions of the decade. It sells to merchants, large and small, in towns of all sizes and is sold on easy monthly terms. The profits to the merchant are amazing.

A national advertising campaign, combined with trade journal and direct-by-mail follow-up make it necessary to increase our sales organization.

We have a real live sales proposition to offer to aggressive, hard-working salesmen who have ambition to earn from $300 to $600 per week.

We associate with our salesmen strictly on a commission basis and do not make advances of any kind.

If you are interested in large earnings call and let us explain our proposition to you in detail, and we will endeavor to convince you that we have the biggest money-maker ever placed in the hands of real salesmen. Call on Monday between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 m. and between 2 and 4 p. m. Tuesday between 9 a. m. and 12 m. Ask for Mr. T. W. Larkin.
MILLS NOVELTY COMPANY,
218 Victoria Bldg.

NOTICE
We need and must have THREE REAL SALESMEN
to close direct leads, of which we now have more than our present sales force can handle. Real salesmen can easily earn $1000
a month and more if they will work and follow instructions.

Facts and Theories About Your Health

THE one topic of universal interest is health—our own health and that of our family circle, friends and wealthy uncles. As a subject of conversation it even outsrtips the weather and the neighbors. Matters pertaining to health should be heeded by the whole world, since everybody has health, good, bad or indifferent.

Upon this page are some of the more important contributions, in layman's language, to recent health discussion. Some are facts and others theories, all presented for consideration by the average reader. Not only is the language simple, but so are most of the subjects—plain, everyday things like the proper way to eat fruit.

"What can be said about the manner in which people eat fruit?" the reader may inquire. The question was foreseen by Philip M. Lovell, N. D., of Los Angeles, when he selected this matter for discussion. Says Dr. Lovell:

"Eating is eating, you think to yourself, and certainly there is no art in that. Yet I say that not more than one in ten knows how to get the most out of the wonderful fruit produced in California.

"I shall give you some illustrations.

"Observe the average man eating a peach.

"He carefully peels and then eats it. Peaches, plums, figs and all other fruits with edible skins should be eaten with the skin on. It is sufficient to merely wash them in running cold water in order to remove the dirt.

"When the skin is inedible, nature tells us in unmistakable terms. The bitter skin of the orange and the distasteful skin of the banana are some illustrations.

"I have seen mothers go to great pains to remove the skin from grapes. The argument was that the skin went through the digestive system and came out unchanged. They did not realize that the grape skins and other edible skins constituted the roughage for normal peristaltic action.

"I have also seen mothers remove seeds from grapes. If there be no constipation, I assure you these tiny seeds do no harm.

"If you believe that grape seeds or other seeds cause appendicitis, you are holding views 25 years behind your times, and views which have been proven untrue again and again.

"Many people do not know how to eat oranges to obtain full value out of them. Orange juice is but a partial value. The pulp and fibrous portion of the orange is the part which stimulates bowel action. The proper way to prepare an orange is to remove the skin and eat the inner portion by the slice.

"The full nutritional value can be had only by eating the fruit as is, providing it be thoroughly cleaned and the skin edible."

Dr. Lovell also writes pithily about headaches, and suggests relief for those of the nervous variety in the following words:

"As I have stated before, headache is but a symptom, not a disease.

"All nerves lead to the brain.

"If inflammatory or irritational conditions exist in the body tissues or in the blood stream, the sense of pain may be imparted to the nerve throughout its length or at its terminal point in the brain.

"Besides this inflammatory and irritational type of headache, there is still another of a well recognized form. That is the nervous headache due to worry, fear, discord and unhappiness. For this kind of headache one can secure splendid relief by observing the following technique.

"Sit on a chair and have someone stand behind you. With thumb and middle finger of the right hand, let the operator press upon the nerves one inch to the right and left of the spinal mid-line.

"The operator should count the interspace between the third and fourth vertebrae of the neck. This, in most adults, will be about two and one-half inches below the point where the skull commences.

"With thumb and middle finger, apply gradually, increasing pressure until fairly strong force is used.

"With the left hand let the operator hold the forehead of the person having the headache. A gentle pressure should be applied here. In a few minutes the operator will feel the arteries of the temples subside in their throbbing.

"Four or five minutes of this neck pressure, properly applied, will invariably give relief to the worst types of nervous headaches.

"The best part of this little bit of technique is that relief is given without the necessity of poisoning the blood stream and depressing the heart by powerful habit-forming drugs."

The present writer has not tried the above method for relieving a headache, but passes it on for whatever it may be worth.

What could be more homely than sauerkraut? Yet it breaks into the medical discussion of the day and does so unaccompanied by the more popular spareribs and wienerwursts. Says the magazine, Health Culture:

"Sauerkraut does not command the place on the American national bill of fare which it deserves.

"The cabbage is a valuable and constant source of iron, earthly salts and essential vitamines. Its cellulose content provides the necessary bulk to the alimentary mass which is required to stimulate and encourage peristalsis. And when properly prepared sauerkraut contains, as the result of its fermentation, quantities of lactic acid, that invaluable intestinal antiseptic and purifier.

"Sauerkraut is one of the most valuable and wholesome foods available. The old Dutchman who kept 'chust a leedle bit—case o' sickness' had the right idea."

Then there is a new slant upon the ratio between height and weight which is watched so carefully by many people who pay due regard to their health. This contribution is from Edward B. Warman, another health expert of California, who declares:

"In the table of weights and measurements, as usually given, I note a discrepancy. As a rule the standing height seems to be the criterion; whereas, the sitting height is the better guide.

"This is especially true as regards longevity. To illustrate: Two men sat side by side; one of them measured 37 inches from the bottom of the chair to the top of the head; the other, only 34 inches; yet their standing height was the same—5 feet 7 inches. The weights of these men should not be the same because they were of the same standing height.

"To further illustrate, take my own case. I stand but 5 feet 5 inches. I sit as high as the average man who stands 5 feet 10 inches or more. Furthermore, I have the same other measurements as a man of that height. My chest measurement is 45, waist 35 (normal), neck 16, calf 16, thigh 24, etc. My weight, at present, 175 pounds. I say at present, because I vary my weight as I desire.

"I never wear any but a 'flesh' overcoat, which same I discard during the summer, thus reducing my weight to 160 or 165 pounds. This I do by merely changing the character and the quantity of my food. I never miss a day of the 365 each year in 'keeping fit' by bringing into healthful action every joint and all the principle muscles of my body. In addition to this morning exercise (followed by a cold water bath) I usually take a brisk three-mile hike over the hills after my 6 o'clock dinner.

Do you know the proper way to eat uncooked fruit? One physician considers the question of such importance that he writes about it—Other selections from recent health articles include a brief eulogy of sauerkraut, a method to relieve nervous headaches without drugs and a new slant upon the ratio between height and weight—One expert never wears any but a "flesh" overcoat—What happened at Nome, Alaska, and the moral thereof, with specific advice :: :: :: :: ::

"To sum it up, I am always busy, never tired, never ill, never worried, sleep like a baby (a good baby) and have passed my seventy-seventh milestone with all colors flying, 'running on high' and 'hitting it on eight.' As my friend, the late-lamented Harry Brook, used to say of me, 'Here is one man who practices what he preaches.'

"Just a word more in regard to the measurements in their application to longevity. The primary conditions of longevity are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs are large. If so, the trunk will be long and the legs comparatively short. Such a person will appear tall in sitting, short in standing. These characteristics are expressions of inherent potentiality which have been proven on the basis of abundant statistical evidence. Under favorable conditions and environments the individual should live out the inherent or potential longevity.

"I have had occasion to observe among my pupils the truth of the rule that a trunk long in proportion to the standing height is a good indication of organic power. The length of a man's leg does not determine the length of his life."

The urgent need of greenstuffs in our diet is explained, and specific advice given as to food, by a writer in the magazine, Health Culture, as follows:

"Nome was just emerging from a long Alaskan winter. The first steamer to arrive in port upon the reopening of navigation there, carried on board a stock of about 500 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables for free distribution to the vitamine-starved crowds that thronged the shore.

"Previous to this it had been no uncommon thing for these same crowds to raid the first ship in, and loot it of every vestige of green stuff, as fresh vegetables and fruits, to satisfy their craving for those body-building, blood-making substances so lacking in their winter's bill of fare.

"This experience with the dwellers of Nome illustrates the instinctive craving of the physical nature for those indispensable, highly satisfying food elements found in the green leaves, stalks, roots and fruits, a continued deprivation of which results in rickets, scurvy, beriberi and other well-known malnutritional diseases.

"The importance of these organic salts in the formation of bone and tissue and in nerve functioning, has been, in the past, but little understood by physicians as well as by the general public, but is now coming to the front more and more as scientific biological experimentation proceeds. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, well-known expert in food and nutrition, says on this point:

"'The very foods that have been most denatured, and therefore the least wholesome and assimilable, are constantly prescribed by physicians for the well as well as for those who are ill. The functions of leaf vegetables, for instance, so important in dietetics, and carrying as they do the chief soluble vitamines, are those that the physician too often neglects.'—Literary Digest, June 7, 1919.

"Primitive man, like the lower orders of animals, was practically free from disease. Men ate their foods direct from the hand of nature, containing the essential food mineral and vitamine and all the elements that go to make up the living machine. We notice how eagerly the domestic animal rushes for the green foods in early spring, after being fed on a dry diet for months.

"It is a well-recognized fact, moreover, that in order to make the chickens 'lay' we must supply them with a portion of raw green stuff, which abounds in organic salts and vitamine.

"Our forefathers subsisted upon the whole grains; wheat, corn and rice being ground entire, conserving all the rich food mineral as yet unknown to them. They also ate freely of vegetables, berries, fruits and milk. Within the last century, man has made a very free use of the refined and demineralized cereal foods, deprived of the roughage and most of the mineral salts, with a consequent mineral starvation, a sluggishness of diseases and the development of diseases before unknown.

"Human beings cannot thrive when subject to a diet that is too refined and concentrated. There is a French proverb that says: 'Spinach is a broom that sweeps the stomach.' The large amount of fiber contained in greens and fresh vegetables not only encourages thorough mastication of food, but this bulky, undissolved material mechanically stimulates the intestinal muscles to contract and thus prevents constipation, one of the common disorders resulting from a faulty diet.

"Some raw green foods, such as lettuce, water cress, tomato, celery, cabbage, carrot, cucumbers, raddish, etc., should be eaten daily, as these pass through the system largely as bulk, and from them we receive the valuable organic salts and vitamine unchanged by heating.

"Lettuce is rich in the organic salts and vitamine, besides being of an appetizing nature, and should, therefore, be considered one of the staples included in the dinner menu. Carrots are rich in iron, and consequently increase the red blood cells. They are an excellent source of the soluble vitamines, comparing fairly well with the greens. They are best when eaten raw—grated or finely chopped and seasoned with onions, chopped parsley and celery, blended liberally with mayonnaise; or simply blended with mayonnaise dressing, as suits the individual taste."

Here is what one physician has to say about rocking chairs, those comfortable refuges for the weary of all ages and in all classes of society. Rocking chairs have been used for many, many centuries, they are provided abundantly in every first-class hospital. But William S. Birge, M. D., writes about them as follows:

"'Weaver's thumb' and 'housemaid's knee' are quite familiar terms, especially to those who are fond of perusing journals, medical and hygienic, but the 'rocking-chair spine' is less talked of, possibly because it is one of the possessions of those dwelling in more affluent circles.

"But it is none the less a clearly defined ill, and one that often leads to serious consequences.

"Indolence and love of ease are the inciting causes of this affliction. Strict hygienists and health culturists tell us that the rocking chair is an unmixed evil. It perpetually changes the equilibrium of the body and agitates the circulation. It injures the eyes, as it continually changes the focus of whatever one may be looking at. It so disturbs the brain that physicians have forbidden mothers and nurses to rock delicate babies.

"It will thus be seen that the rocking chair begins its deadly mission very early in the lives of its victims, and it is equally true that they are very likely to keep up the mischief until they are ready to make their final exodus from the rocking chair into the grave. The symptoms that first attract attention are a soreness and sensitiveness of the spine, usually that portion near or below the waist, and sometimes extending to the lower edges of the shoulder blades. There may be more or less indigestion accompanying it, and headaches are not infrequent.

"The trouble arises from an improper position in sitting. Instead of keeping the spinal column in a perpendicular position, the lower part is bent forward, as one lounges in a chair with a soft cushion. The strain on one side of the spine caused by its curved shape after a time produces irritation and, if long continued, inflammation of a serious character ensues. Persons who experience a sense of weakness or weariness or a dull ache in the back will do well to take thought if they may have been too devoted to the rocking chair and its luxurious cushions."

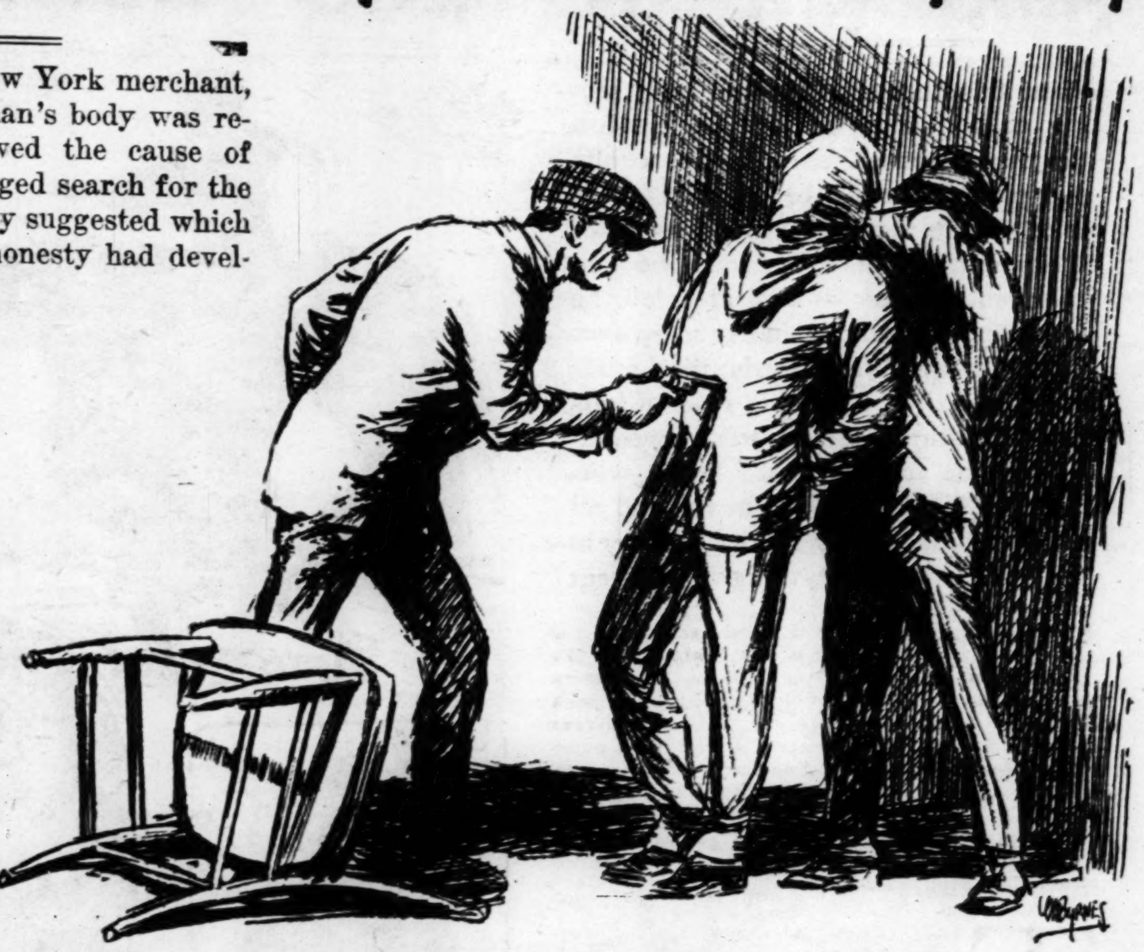
The Strange Solution of a Murder Mystery

Suicide note, signed with the name of New York merchant, —was proven to be forgery when the man's body was recovered from water and autopsy showed the cause of death had been asphyxiation—The dogged search for the guilty, without clews, and the possibility suggested which turned out to be fact—One man's dishonesty had developed into a conspiracy that brought death to the innocent victim :-:



When the men saw that it was useless to argue with him any longer, they suddenly threw a cloth bag over his head, so that in his bonds he looked like a man about to be hanged.

The facts in the following detective story are related upon the authority of New York police officers. The case presents several unusual features which will interest students of sociology.

THE death of Merritt Laniston, head of a big importing house on lower Fifth avenue, New York, first was foreshadowed with the finding of his coat on the end of the North German Lloyd pier at the foot of Fourth street, Hoboken. Pinned to the coat was a suicide note, signed with his name.

Laniston really was dead, as became evident when his body was recovered later, floating near the ferry slip of the Erie Railroad on the Jersey side of the river. The body was completely clothed, except for the coat, and bore no marks of violence.

But the police in charge, who had handled many cases of self-destruction, noticed that the body did not have the appearance of a drowned man. An autopsy disclosed the fact that drowning had not, in fact, been the cause of death. The man had been asphyxiated.

Plainly, it was a case of murder, in which the guilty person or persons had thrown the lifeless body into the river and left the forged note on the pier in an attempt to conceal the crime.

Detective Madison of the Jersey City police headquarters started in to trace the unfortunate man's movements on the last day he was seen alive. Laniston had arrived at his office at 9 o'clock that morning. He ate lunch at his usual place, a high-priced restaurant on Fulton street, with two business men of spotless reputation.

Returning to his office at 1 o'clock, Laniston was busy at his desk until 4 o'clock, when he departed, saying he expected to return at 5:30, after visiting his lawyer's office. But he never reached the lawyer's office, and the trail apparently ended when he left his own office.

Finally, the persistent work of Detective Madison and Manhattan police officials resulted in discovering the taxi driver who had driven Laniston to the building in which Laniston's lawyer had his office. They talked, also, to the elevator man in whose car the murdered man invariably rode, and who was sure that Laniston had not visited the lawyer's office within a week. It was evident that Laniston had reached the building, but had been prevented from ascending to an upper floor. But how had he been prevented, and by whom? And why?

A newspaper reporter finally suggested that the murder might have been committed in an effort to prevent some other crime from becoming known. Taking up this theory, for want of a better, the police remembered that Laniston had plenty of money to deposit in banks. What if he had been cheated, in connection with one of his accounts, and had found it out?

Suppose his private secretary, for example, had withheld a large sum of money and had made a false entry in Laniston's passbook? But the private secretary turned out to be a girl, with honesty and uprightness spelled in every line of her face.

However, in Laniston's private correspondence Detective Madison found a note from the president of a bank, stating that there seemed "to be some discrepancy somewhere" concerning Laniston's account at the bank, and requesting a private talk with Laniston about it. This letter was dated on the very day of Laniston's disappearance and death.

Going to the bank, Detective Madison and a newspaper reporter were informed by the president that Laniston's account "evidently had been juggled," and that several other accounts had been tampered with, too.

Mr. Ligney, the head bookkeeper, was summoned to the president's office, and seemed startled when confronted by three stern-faced men. Well proportioned and rather strongly built, Ligney's eyes were a watery blue and his face had the pallid look which is associated with sedentary work—and with addiction to drugs, a thought which immediately flashed into the detective's mind.

The two visitors were introduced to Ligney as accountants, representing the executor of Laniston's estate, who wanted to inquire about some checks which had gone through with forged signatures. Ligney answered affirmatively when asked if he had been in correspondence with Laniston about the matter, and if he had not handled many of the dead man's checks. But when asked if, by any chance, he himself had practiced writing Laniston's signature, the bookkeeper flared up with anger.

"I've been with this bank for 20 years," he said, indignantly, turning to the president, "and never before have I been so insulted. My record is clean."

The president assured Ligney that the visitors did not mean to insult him, but must question the character of everybody who was in contact with the Laniston account.

"By the way, Mr. Ligney," said Madison, "do you know anything about junk?" (Junk is the underworld word for drugs.)

"Junk?" repeated Ligney. "What do you mean?"

"Don't you know?" asked the detective, pointedly.

"Please explain," retorted the bookkeeper.

"This!" said Madison, and with a swift movement pulled up the sleeves of Ligney's coat and shirt, revealing punctures slightly above his wrist which spoke all too plainly of the hypodermic needle.

"You use morphine!" added the detective accusingly.

"It's a lie!" exclaimed Ligney. "Those are mosquito bites."

"Own up, Ligney," said the Detective, looking upon the unhappy suspect with eyes that were hard as steel. "You've been using drugs—drugs cost money, heaps of money—and you've been juggling Laniston's account. Now, haven't you?"

"I—I"——

"You have, haven't you. Say yes"——

"Yes—no-no-no!" screamed the addict, now half-crazed. "What are you making me say?"

"And you need a little more morphine, don't you?" asked Madison, with a note of pity in his voice.

Ligney did not answer. He was quivering from head to foot.

"And you know something, perhaps, about a little note pinned on a coat which was left on a dock across the river—this note"—— And Madison thrust the forged Laniston missive under the bookkeeper's downcast eyes—"this note that you left on the dock. I just brought it along to show you.

"Let's have the whole truth about it, Ligney. Ease your mind and conscience. Come on, old man. Why did you do it?"

"I was crazy—oh, what am I saying? What am I saying?"

"How did you manage to get the body into the river?" came Madison's inexorable voice. "We've unraveled everything else but that. Come clean, Ligney. The game's up."

Under the battering questions, Ligney weakened at last and told the story of how, finding himself under suspicion for his peculations from Laniston's account, he had decided to get men of the "dope ring" to help him, for a fee of $20,000.

"We planned to spirit Laniston away, tell him about the thefts and by threats force him to guarantee that he would not give me away to the police. There was no intention of killing him.

"I called Mr. Laniston on the telephone, and he agreed to meet me in the lobby of the building where his lawyer is, before he went to see the lawyer at 4 o'clock. I got away from the bank an hour early that day. I saw him come into the hallway of the building. Two of the 'dope gang' were watching us, ready to help me as we had arranged.

"I led him to the rear of the hallway, where the building gives out on Church street. At the curb was a taxi, stationed there by the gang. Behind Mr. Laniston and myself the two men followed. As we reached the sidewalk the two men pressed up to us. One jammed a revolver against Mr. Laniston's ribs and ordered him to get into the taxi or he would fire. Laniston got in. So did I and the two men.

"Laniston was very bitter. He said he might have forgiven me and overlooked my thefts, but that now he would expose me and send the whole gang to prison, if it took every dollar he owned. This made the dope men angry. They told the taxi driver, who was a member of the gang, to drive to a house on Baxter street.

"There we got out, and went into the house, the dope men threatening Laniston with instant death if he didn't obey orders. In a little room without any furniture the dope men told Laniston to take back his menacing words and let me be exonerated, or pay with his life. He refused stubbornly.

"When the men saw that it was useless to argue with him any longer, they suddenly threw a cloth bag over his head, so that in his bonds he looked like a man about to be hanged. Then they put a rubber hose to a gas jet and inserted the other end of the hose under the hood. I tried to stop them, but they told me I'd get the same dose if I tried to be foolish or sentimental.

"I didn't want to see the man die or have anything to do with it.

"'It's jail for life for you if he goes out of here alive,' one of them told me. 'Make your choice—and we'll get out and leave you to your own mess.'

"I ran out. I didn't want to make a decision. And I didn't want to see him die. At the door I was prevented from going out. The men in the little room had signaled for me to be stopped. I was brought back into the room. Mr. Laniston's body lay on the floor. Oh, it was horrible!

"The dope men told me I'd have to scheme out some way to cover up the murder. I thought of my skill at imitating his handwriting. It flashed on me like an inspiration that I could make his death appear a suicide by writing the note you found pinned on his coat.

"We put the body in a trunk, loaded it on a motor truck belonging to the gang and drove over to Barclay street ferry, which runs to Hoboken. Arrived in Hoboken, we drove to the foot of Seventh street, where a motor launch sent by the gang leader—one of their dope-smuggling boats it was, I guess—took us and the trunk aboard.

"We waited until it was dark on the river before pulling out. As we passed the North German Lloyd dock, very close, I threw the coat on securely so that it would be found and everyone would suppose Laniston had committed suicide.

"As we pulled away, the men on the launch opened the trunk, took out the coatless but otherwise dressed body and flung it overboard. Then we steered for Manhattan."

"Will you help us to round up the gang?" asked the detective. "Tell me who they are and where to get them. I'll do everything I can to help you, if you will. You may even escape the murder charge if the story that you have told us proves to be true."

And Ligney did help, with the result that two men were convicted of murder and a dangerous gang of dope peddlers was broken up, nine of them getting the maximum penalty provided for their offense. Ligney never was punished, for the dope had undermined his health and he died in his cell before the date which had been fixed for his trial.

When this former American now serving as a college lecturer in London disguised himself as a native coolie and plunged into Tibet he didn't dare take a bath lest it wash off some of the walnut stain with which he had changed his hue — But, after all, he found that nobody in that country ever takes a bath—When Paris, the female mule, was tired out, a big dose of buttered tea stimulated her to renewed efforts—The treacheries of Satan worried Dr. McGovern, but in the end all came out reasonably right—Journey in the land where everything is different

THE appended article is based upon a big new book from the press of the Century Co., "To Lhasa in Disguise," by William Montgomery McGovern. "A Secret Expedition Through Mysterious Tibet" is the sub-title. The adventurous author is an American, formerly a New York newspaper man, who settled in England some years ago. He is an Oxonian doctor of philology. To undertake his trip to Lhasa, the Forbidden City, capital of the Forbidden Kingdom, Mr. McGovern got leave of absence from the University of London, where he is lecturer in Chinese and Japanese.

Dr. William Montgomery McGovern.

TIBET is the land where they do everything differently. Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, who last January and February penetrated from Darjeeling, in India, to Lhasa, in Tibet, is willing to admit that during his perilous trip to the Forbidden City and his sojourn in that strangest of the world's capitals he was quite considerably upset. Though he traveled as a Tibetan coolie and in reality was a British college professor, it must have been his American sense of humor that enabled him to get back right side up every time he found himself upside down. But for his capacity for enjoying a joke on himself—in fact, a continuous series of jokes—Dr. McGovern undoubtedly would have succumbed to the hardships and the horrors he underwent and witnessed on his six weeks' trek through the mysterious land which is the highest up of any country on earth.

To begin with, there were the mules that were taken along as carriers. An American mule, when wearied out from a day's march, insists upon being fed a hearty meal of corn or hay—both, if handy. But the mules Dr. McGovern commanded, one of which, a female which he named Paris, recovered their strength and spirits, their morale, by drinking bowls of strong tea, flavored with still stronger butter. In America, of course—at any rate in Missouri—we have no female mules; but in Tibet, as you have been advised, things are different. As Dr. McGovern always alludes to Paris as "she" or "her," the gentler sex must be admitted.

Since all "foreign devils" are excluded from Tibet by rigid regulations from the Dalai-lama at Lhasa, Dr. McGovern knew that if he crossed the border clad in his London togs and clothed in his right mind as a British college professor he would be nabbed and shot back across the line more rapidly than he could say Jack Robinson; or, more likely, killed by the natives; so he painted his person, using a mixture of walnut juice and iodine, to resemble in hue a native Tibetan. In this process he was assisted by his faithful native servant, Lhaten, who had been with him on a former effort to pierce to the Forbidden City.

Two lemons and some glue were taken along in the outfit. Unfortunately, Dr. McGovern has blue eyes. Tibetans have black eyes. Unbelievable as it may be, the doctor also painted his eyes. He squeezed the lemon juice into them, managing to keep from yelling because of the pain, and added the glue to deepen the tint. This treatment made his eyes appear somewhat darker. But he wore a pair of dark goggles to conceal his azure orbs.

As to language, you must remember that Dr. McGovern's specialty is philology. He has the faculty of picking up a new tongue as the average man picks up a new anecdote. Of course, it takes somewhat longer. McGovern had made a special study of the Tibetan language, aided by association and conversation with natives, so that when he set out from Darjeeling he could talk Tibetan almost like one born to the tongue. That it is a difficult tongue is attested by the fact that the word "dbugs" is pronounced simply "u."

Finally, Dr. McGovern divested himself of every stitch of his English dress and clad his iodined body in the costume of a Tibetan coolie. The goggles were the only non-Tibetan part of his apparel. He took along two extra outfits of coolie wear, which he needed early in his midwinter jaunt over mountain passes and plateaus from three to four miles above sea level. Bitter was the cold, and the adventurer wore at times all of his three coolie suits.

Including the leader, five men were in the party. One was a Sikkimese monk, nicknamed Satan by Dr. McGovern. Satan looked and acted like the devil, which accounts for his nickname. Sikkim, by the way, is a Tibetan province. The other servants were also Sikkimese. Lhaten, mentioned already, was the doctor's best friend on the journey. There was a half-witted youth nicknamed Diogenes. The fifth was a groom or syce, whose job was to take care of the mules and ponies.

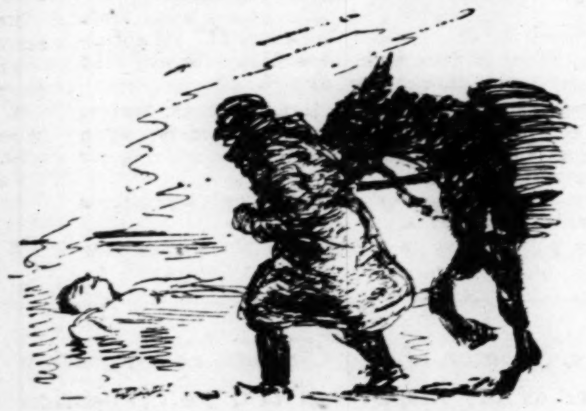
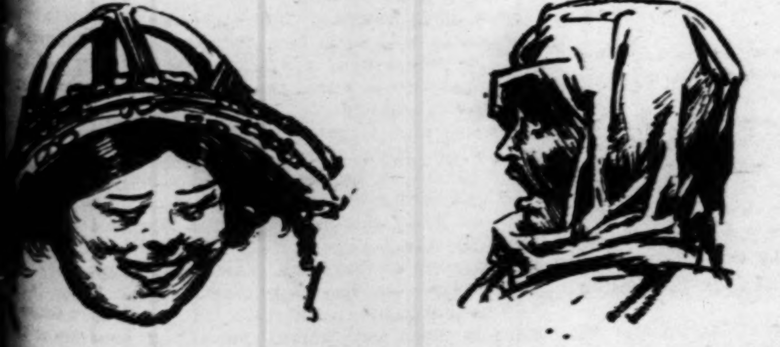
tan sustenance comprised three things: barley buttered tea and yak meat. The tea came China, compressed into brick, and into the brew t a large quantity of butter, exceedingly ran- Tibetans judge the quality of butter by its of rancidity: the older the better. Dr. McGovern met one man who had butter for sale and bragged about its age—40 years! Of course, Tibetans occasionally lie. Yak meat also was too venerable to suit a civilized palate. It was frozen solid, and many of the natives ate it raw. Others chopped and boiled it. Dr. McGovern confesses a lifelong distaste for boiled meat, even when fresh. The aged yak flesh, upon which Satan and the rest feasted with relish, turned the stomach of the professor. However, as they were forced to make their meals many times in the presence of strangers, the doctor had to grin and gulp it. This diet gave him dysentery, and the farther along the road he went the sicker and weaker he became. Nevertheless, it was his business to bear his share of the burden, so he limped along, his feet sore, his legs trembling with weakness, his stomach upset; and all the while his satanic majesty, the monk, rode comfortably astride a pony.

Occasionally Dr. McGovern found it comparatively safe for him to board a pony or a mule and ride a mile or so. If strangers were encountered, it was explained by Satan or Lhaten that the poor coolie was sick and unable to walk. Satan would take occasion to make some insulting remark about the cur dog. The strangers, most of whom seemed to be seeking the foreign devil, would take it all in and pass along.



Natives taking hot-spring medicine baths, air temperature 40 below.

Tibet has no hotels. In the villages along the route followed by McGovern there are places called rest houses. The landlord is known as the nepo, the landlady as the nemo. The nemo, it seems, is the big boss in most instances. She sells the food and takes the pay. At these rest houses nobody is served cooked meals. Everybody buys what is required and cooks it. As a rule there is a courtyard in which the cooking is done, yak dung being the only fuel. Tibet is virtually treeless; there is no coal, and as a consequence fuel is exceedingly scarce. Traveling parties carry their own cooking utensils, wherein they brew the tea and boil the meat and make the barley bread.

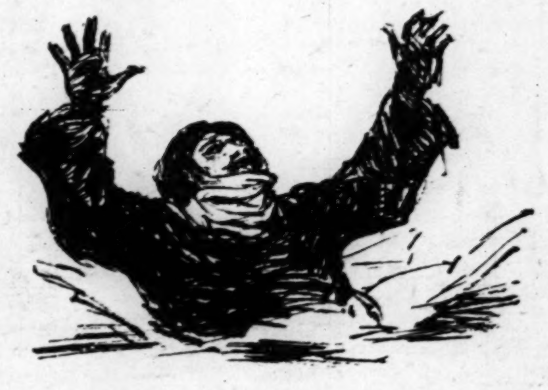


ollege professor was in real peril when the Tibetan lady sought to add him to her list of husbands.

Dr. McGovern followed the native custom of eating with the fingers, neither forks nor spoons being in the equipment. Though the multitudes of yaks give plenty of milk, the lacteal fluid is taboo. Tibetans regard milk as filthy, though they consider butter clean. Milk, when used, is merely a kind of medicine, which must be taken, however unpleasant it may be to the patient. This medicine was prescribed to Dr. McGovern, who managed to take it without revealing the fact that he liked it. The milk served to counteract, in some measure, the deleterious effect of the other "medicines" the doctor took for his dysentery.

When the party got far into Tibet and the college professor was feeling the dire need of some change in diet, they reached a village where some chickens were seen running about near the rest house. In Tibet the eating of chickens is forbidden. Chicken is held to be the very filthiest of foods. Dr. McGovern remarks, however, that there is more or less chicken bootlegging. Some of the natives eat the fowl on the sly. He was determined to have a chicken dinner or die. For a few cents he bought from the nemo two chickens, on the hoof. But the nemo refused to catch the chickens. That must be done by the purchaser. McGovern set two of his servants at the task. The nemo laughed aloud at the antics incident to the chase. Finally the fowls were captured, but it was not safe to cook and eat them in public. They were stored away for future reference.

Two days later, far along the route, a sequestered spot was reached. The chickens were cooked and eaten. It was McGovern's first decent meal since he left Darjeeling. These chickens proved to be excellent medicine. But if the Tibetan authorities had known that the nemo had been bootlegging chickens she would have been punished severely; and if they had discovered that the supposed servant of Satan had demanded and eaten the fowls, he would have been suspected of being the foreign devil. It was something like buying moonshine or white mule in America these days and drinking it under cover.



Dr. McGovern got an unexpected ice-cold bath after regretfully resisting the hot springs lure.

Owing to the scarcity of fuel, Tibetans do not build fires to keep themselves warm. When the temperature falls they put on additional clothes. Dr. McGovern, though he wore all three of his coolie suits, shivered and shook. But after he had been some weeks in Tibet he discovered that there was another way of keeping reasonably warm. Tibetans, he avers, are the filthiest people on earth. The only use they have for water is in making tea or boiling meat. All water is just "cooking water" in Tibet. Nobody ever washes face, hands or other parts of the body. Dr. McGovern declares that there are multitudes of Tibetans who live from birth to death without ever taking a bath. On his trip to Lhasa he found no opportunity to wash either hands or face. To be sure, there was a reason for not washing—it might remove some of his disguise. In time he became incrusted, like the natives, with a layer of dirt that helped to keep him warm.

There are in Tibet, however, many hot springs. The natives who can get to such springs sometimes bathe therein. This is not because they seek cleanliness. They believe, and rightly, that a hot bath is good for the health. The McGovern caravan passed one of these places where several natives, stark naked, were bathing in a pool of steaming water. The temperature of the air was about 40 degrees minus. The doctor yearned to take a plunge and risk getting pneumonia after coming out into the cold atmosphere, but he didn't dare. The hot water might wash off too much of the iodine and walnut stain. So he passed on, sorrowfully.

Within 24 hours Dr. McGovern suffered some intimate knowledge of the sardonic irony of fate. Traveling along a ledge above a frozen stream, he slipped and fell into the water. He fell so hard that he cracked the ice and went completely under. His servants fished him out. Thus he had unintentionally a cold bath after refusing a hot one. But he did not dare remove his clothing after being fished out of the icy river. Shivering and shaking, still weak from his illness, he trudged on painfully.

As our Argonauts of the days of the forty-niners phrased it with reference to California, it was Lhasa or bust! And Lhasa was only a few miles away. The professor knew this not only by his map, but by the increasing number of people on the roads. Everybody, it seemed, was making toward Lhasa. It so happened that the arrival of the secret caravan was timed, unintentionally, to coincide with Tibetan New Year, which comes in February. Ordinarily Lhasa has about 20,000 people. The New Year celebration draws four or five times that number, so that when McGovern reached the city he found nearly 100,000

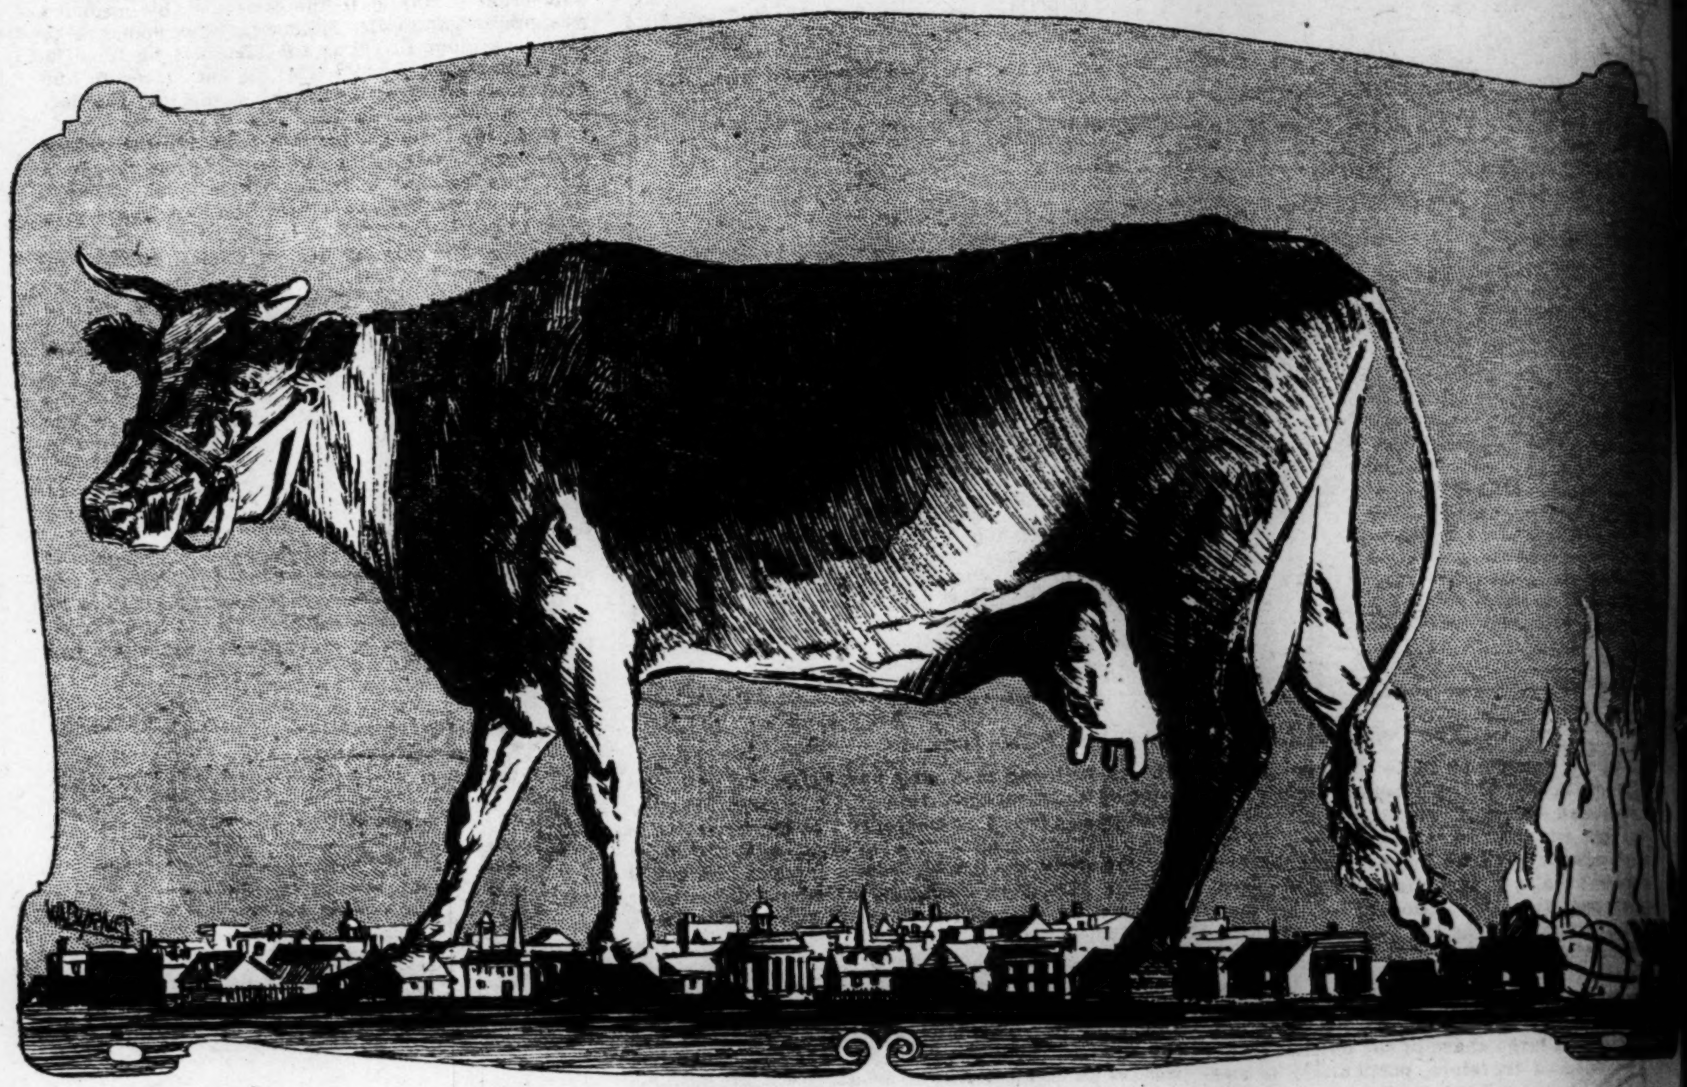
Fighting the Fire Before It · Starts



Fabled originator of the Chicago conflagration still lives as the inspiration of Fire Prevention Week which opens today—Nation-wide effort to insure caution in factory, store and home—One thousand dollars a minute is property loss by fire—Forty human lives sacrificed each day in the United States :: :: ::

MRS. O'LEARY'S cow, according to a legend which will never die, kicked over a lantern on the night of Oct. 9, 1871, and started a fire which destroyed Chicago. That big conflagration has long since passed into history, but the traditional kick of Mrs. O'Leary's cow is the moving force that puts the punch into Fire Prevention Week, now being observed in all parts of the United States.

In 1911 the custom of observing Fire Prevention Day in America was established, the chosen day being the anniversary of the Chicago fire. In recent years the entire week, which includes Oct. 9, has been designated as Fire Prevention Week.

In this week there is a nation-wide campaign of education in methods of fire prevention, and no small part of the campaign is devoted to setting forth the appalling loss of life and property each year as the result of fires in the United States, many of which fires would be preventible if proper care were exercised by property owners.

Some of the facts which will be called to the attention of the public in the week now opening are amazing.

About 15,000 persons are burned to death every year in the United States, and a much larger number injured by fire.

The average annual money loss through fire in this country in the last 10 years has been $250,000,000, and in each of the years 1922 and 1923 the loss reached $500,000,000.

This total for a single year means that every minute of the day and night in the United States there is a loss of $1000 by fire.

Approximately 40 human lives are sacrificed and $1,400,000 of property is lost by fire each day.

The average per capita fire loss in the United States is $4, and this does not include the cost of maintaining fire departments, water works and fire-prevention systems.

One lesson which is being constantly hammered home by Fire Prevention Week speakers and writers is that cities and towns, like individuals, reap what they sow. To permit the erection of firetraps, to fail to provide an abundant and reliable water supply and means of using it, and failure to apply the everyday means of fire prevention is to face a menace of heavy fires and sweeping conflagrations.

The gospel of Fire Prevention Week is that an ounce of fire prevention is worth a ton of fire fighting. Another point on which great stress is laid is that wooden materials freely used in the erection of business houses, and large areas of frame or wood-roofed dwellings, have made it necessary to maintain expensive fire-fighting facilities for protection against the very conditions that the application of strict building regulations would have prevented.

One of the widely circulated appeals reads:

"Let us enter whole-heartedly into the spirit of Fire Prevention Week by clearing all premises of the things that cause fire, and then let us make fire prevention a habit by extending its lessons to the other 51 weeks of the year."

These rules for fire prevention have been compiled by Rollin M. Clark, chief of the Conservation Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States:

Keep matches in a closed metal container inaccessible to children. Handle them carefully and dispose of them properly, making certain they are extinguished before you let them leave your hand.

Keep all gas lights and open flames away from woodwork or other combustible material. Do not allow curtains to hang near these flames for the wind may blow them into contact with the fire.

Always disconnect electric irons, toasters, heaters and similar appliances from the sockets when through using them. Never use any substitutes for approved fuses.

Inspect, clean and repair your chimneys and flues before winter arrives.

Place hot ashes in metal cans and dump them in places free from combustible material.

Promptly collect and remove all refuse and rubbish. Keep basements and spaces under stairways clean.

Do not start fires in stoves with benzine, gasoline or kerosene.

If gasoline or benzine is ever used for cleaning purposes, do the work out of doors.

Learn the location of the nearest fire alarm box and be sure you know how to turn in an alarm.

Inspect your property frequently.

The National Fire Protection Association, made up of many civic organizations in all parts of the United States, points out that fire taps natural resources by destroying building materials, affects commercial credit by impairment of security, blocks industrial progress by handicapping production and affects all the people, as they finally pay the cost.

These are the official slogans of Fire Prevention Week:

"I didn't think" is a poor fire extinguisher. "I don't care" is mental gasoline poured on the blaze.

Is the burst of a million fireworks sparks (pleasure to the eye for a moment) worth one human life?

Being a hero or a heroine during a fire is fine;
but it is finer to have conditions about your home that will preclude a fire. Practice home fire prevention.

Co-operation plus efficiency will subtract from fire losses.

There is no mystery about fire prevention; it is a vital necessity.

Fire prevention is not a science; it is just common sense.

correct your own.

The best place to stop starting fires is at your own door.

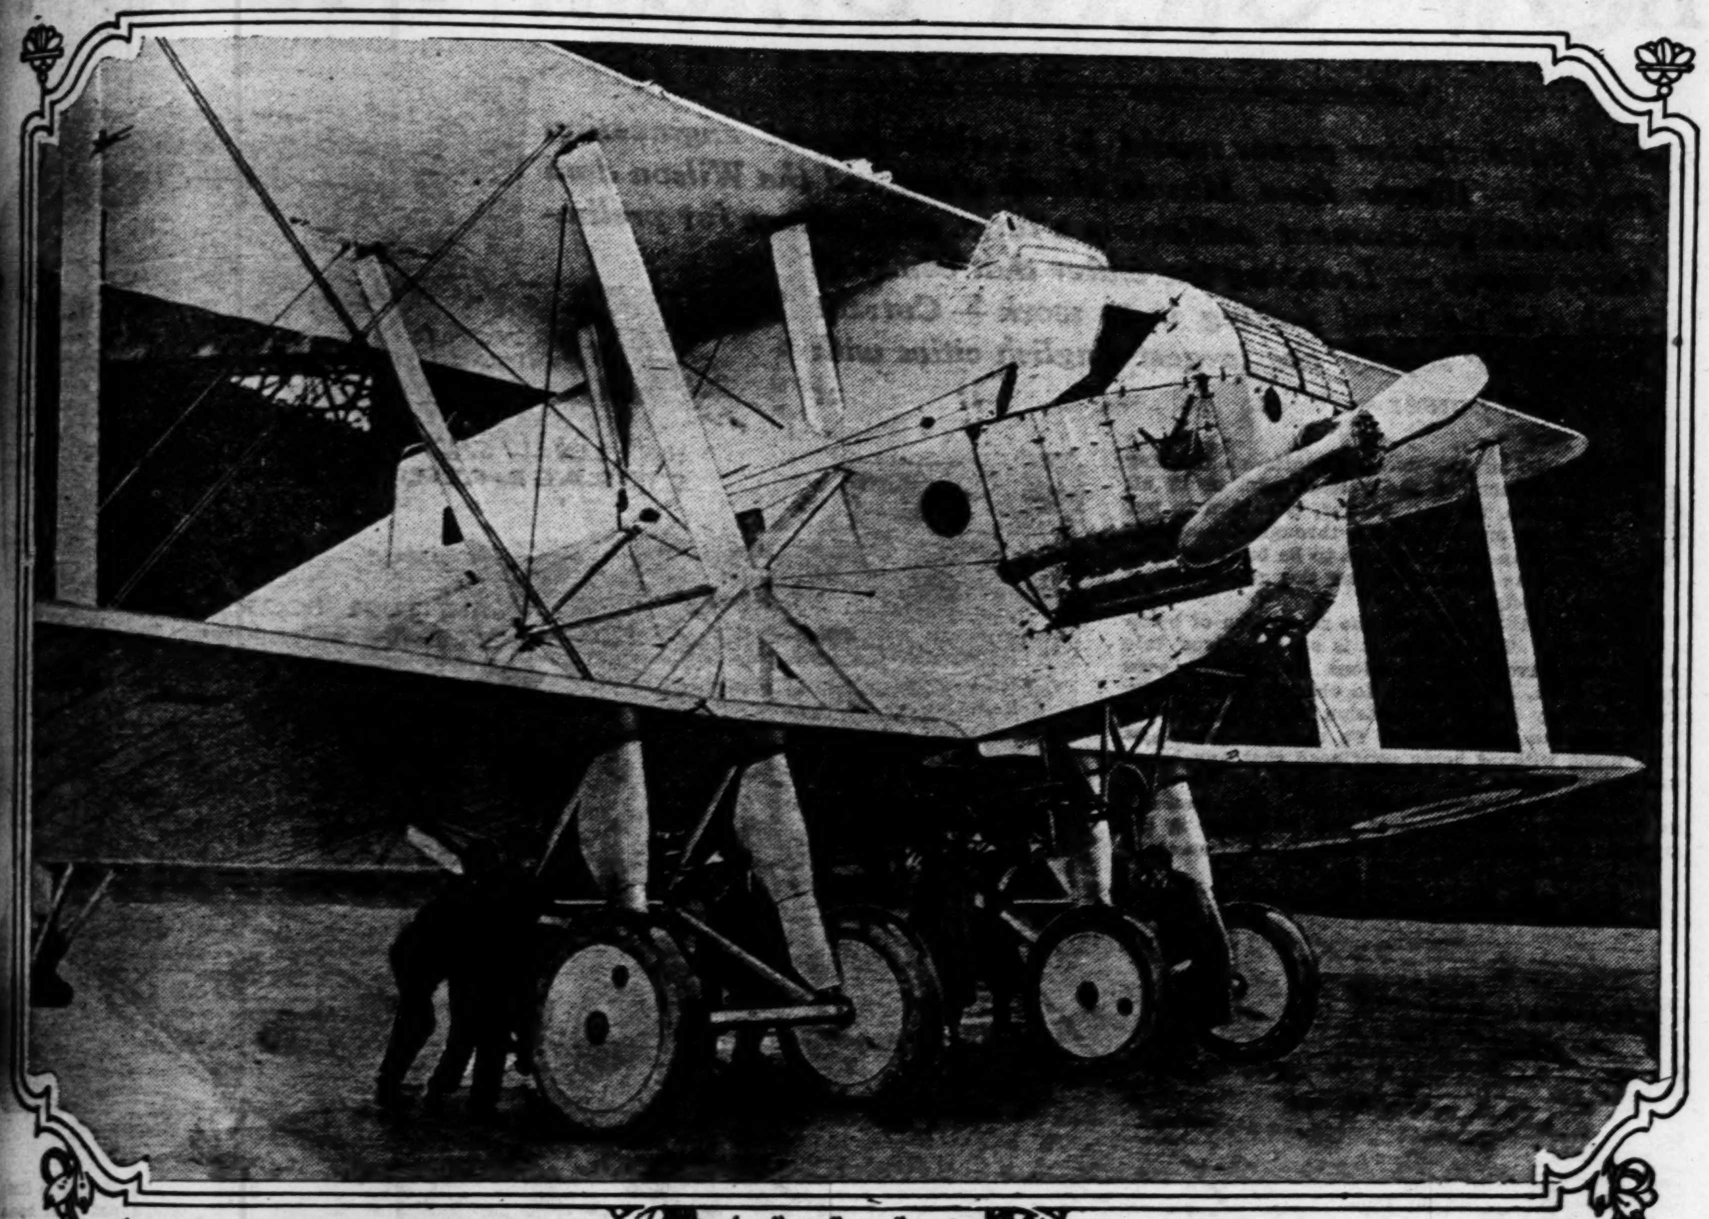
The 1000 Horse Power Engine Takes the Air



The Cubaroo, largest single-engine airplane in the world, built for the British Air Ministry.

Now the British Air Ministry has developed the biggest single-motor bombing plane in the world—The "Cub" in successful trial flight indicates the drivng power of the craft that will make the battleship a back number IMAGINE 999 hefty horses, all pulling together. Then imagine one more horse, equally hefty, added to the concert of action. You must imagine that one additional horse, if you are to conceive a pulling power equal to that of the motor which propels the world's biggest single-engine airplane. This plane successfully underwent its official trial flight late in August. It is a British creation, and is a bombing plane.

But this 1000-horsepower, single-engine monster is not the largest airplane that is designed to drop bombs on enemy property in the "next war"—that horror looming as a terrible stormcloud over the future of humanity. The United States Navy has the world's biggest bomber, launched into the air more than a year ago. If you attended the national aviation meet at the St. Louis Flying Field last fall, or if you were in St. Louis at that time, you must have seen the Barling bomber, the world's biggest. That mammoth plane flew over the city and was active at the air meet.

The Barling bomber, however, has six Liberty motors of 400 horsepower each. The new British plane, which is called the Cubaroo, has the distinction of a single engine two and a half times more powerful that any one of the Barling's six.

One of the American planes that took part in the Pulitzer trophy race at the St. Louis field last fall—but not the winner—carried a motor of 450 horsepower. That remains America's largest airplane motor, to date. What the future may evolve is another matter. Uncle Sam and John Bull, as we all know, have had a rather interesting rivalry in the construction of battleships—the huge vessels which some naval authorities now regard as virtually obsolete so far as premiership as fighting machines goes. The airplane, according to these authorities, has made the battleship a back number and eventually will retire it to the junkyard and the category of closed incidents.

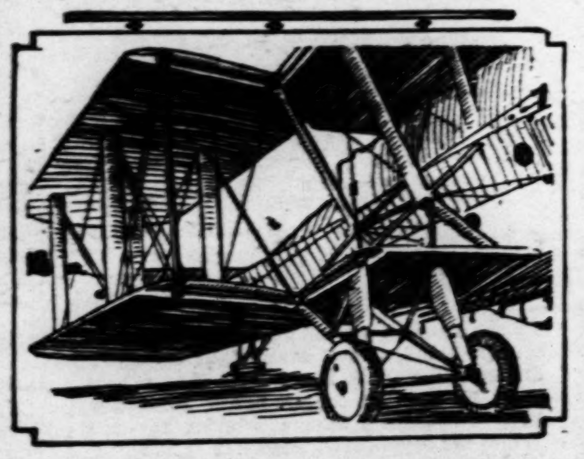
Now the rivalry is between battleplanes. As in the case of the battleships, both type and size are to be considered. The Cubaroo and the Barling are considerably unlike, both as to type and as to size, irrespective of driving power. First off, the Cubaroo is a biplane, while the Barling is a triplane. This primary difference is to be kept in mind in considering the respective heights of the two planes when resting on the ground. The British plane is 19 feet high, the American 28 feet.

The gross weight of the Cubaroo exceeds nine tons. The carrying capacity is three tons, making a total in excess of 12 tons when fully loaded. The weight of the Barling when fully loaded is 20 tons. The Barling has a wingspread of 120 feet, the Cubaroo 88 feet. The Barling's length over all is 60 feet, the Cubaroo's 54 feet.

One highly interesting feature of the new British bomber is its ability to "fold its wings," somewhat like a bird. When not in active use the wings can be folded back to save storage space, as an eagle drapes its pinions over its back and sides when it alights for a rest. Of course, there is a difference in the folding process, but all the same the one suggests the other. The eagle can draw in its tail feathers to keep out of the wet, but this function is not enjoyed by the Cubaroo mechanical bird. Yet each, in its own sphere of action, is a king of the air.

The Cubaroo, built for the British Air Ministry, had its test flight at Brough, near Hull, Flight Lieutenant W. S. Bulman being pilot. He handled the great machine as easily, it is said, as though it were a single-seater scout. The craft took the air after a run of less than 200 yards. After a flight of 20 minutes, during which it turned, banked, climbed and moved in a small circle, a perfect landing was effected.

The Cubaroo has two sets of landing wheels, wide-spaced to allow room for the racks carrying bombs or torpedoes. There is room in the cockpit for two persons, who sit 18 feet above ground when the machine is at rest. From the cockpit a stepladder leads to a capacious cabin in the center of the machine; from this another ladder gives access to a compartment behind the wings. The 1000-horsepower engine weighs 2200 pounds, without including any of its accessories. The engine is roughly in the shape of an X, with fours rows of cylinders, each constituting an arm of the X. This engine is called the Napier Cub, which explains in part the name of the big bomber. At the trial event and since then, many persons shortened the Cubaroo to Cub, so it is as "the Cub" that this great airplane most probably will be known in future flights—or fights.



Showing how the Cubaroo bird folds its wings. The right-hand wing is seen here turned back toward the tail, to save storage space.

The Napier Lion motor of 450 horsepower is used extensively in the British Air Service machines, as well as in commercial aircraft on the English Channel routes. The Cub motor, according to accounts of the test at Brough, worked just as nicely as its smaller prototype, and evoked prophecies of great performances from experts. The London Times thus describes the flight:

"At one time it looked as if low clouds and heavy rain would prevent the flight, but at 4 o'clock a watery sun broke through the clouds, and the internal self-starter was at once set to work to charge up the big engine. Once the Cub was going it genially grumbled to itself in a deep-throated rumble during the preliminary warming-up process, and then the pilot, a tiny figure it seemed, perched high up in the fuselage, 'taxied' over to the far side of the aerdrome, turned, and at once opened up the engine. With a powerful roar the Napier Cub lifted the machine into the air after a run of less than 200 yards. Then followed over 20 minutes' delightful flying, and, though one never lost the impression of the size of the machine, or the spread of its silver-colored wings, the ease with which it turned, banked and climbed over and around the sheds on the aerdrome, and the smallness of the circle in which it maneuvered, suggested more the control of a single-seater scout than that of a machine weighing tons.

"The landing was the most perfect it has been one's pleasure to see for a long time; the huge machine glided slowly to the earth, and, without any perceptible moment of contact with the ground, sank on to the oleo gear of its double undercarriage and came to rest in a very short run."

The war establishments of other nations, and most particularly of France, have been experimenting constantly in recent months with a view to the production of big planes for bombing purposes. The rivalry for superiority in fighting qualities has "taken to the air," and the most effective battleship of the future, the experts are agreed, will be altogether independent of the water.

ONE of the most gigantic engineering projects of the present age, or of all time, for that matter, is a plan to put the moon to work through the agency of an immense dam to be built for utilizing tide water for the generation of electric power.

The man in the moon has the reputation of being a lazy fellow. To be sure, it is an old wives' tale that under favorable conditions he may be seen burning brush, but in order to observe this activity it is necessary to reinforce vision with imagination. Many skeptics have looked at the satellite night after night without being convinced that any brush was being burned there.

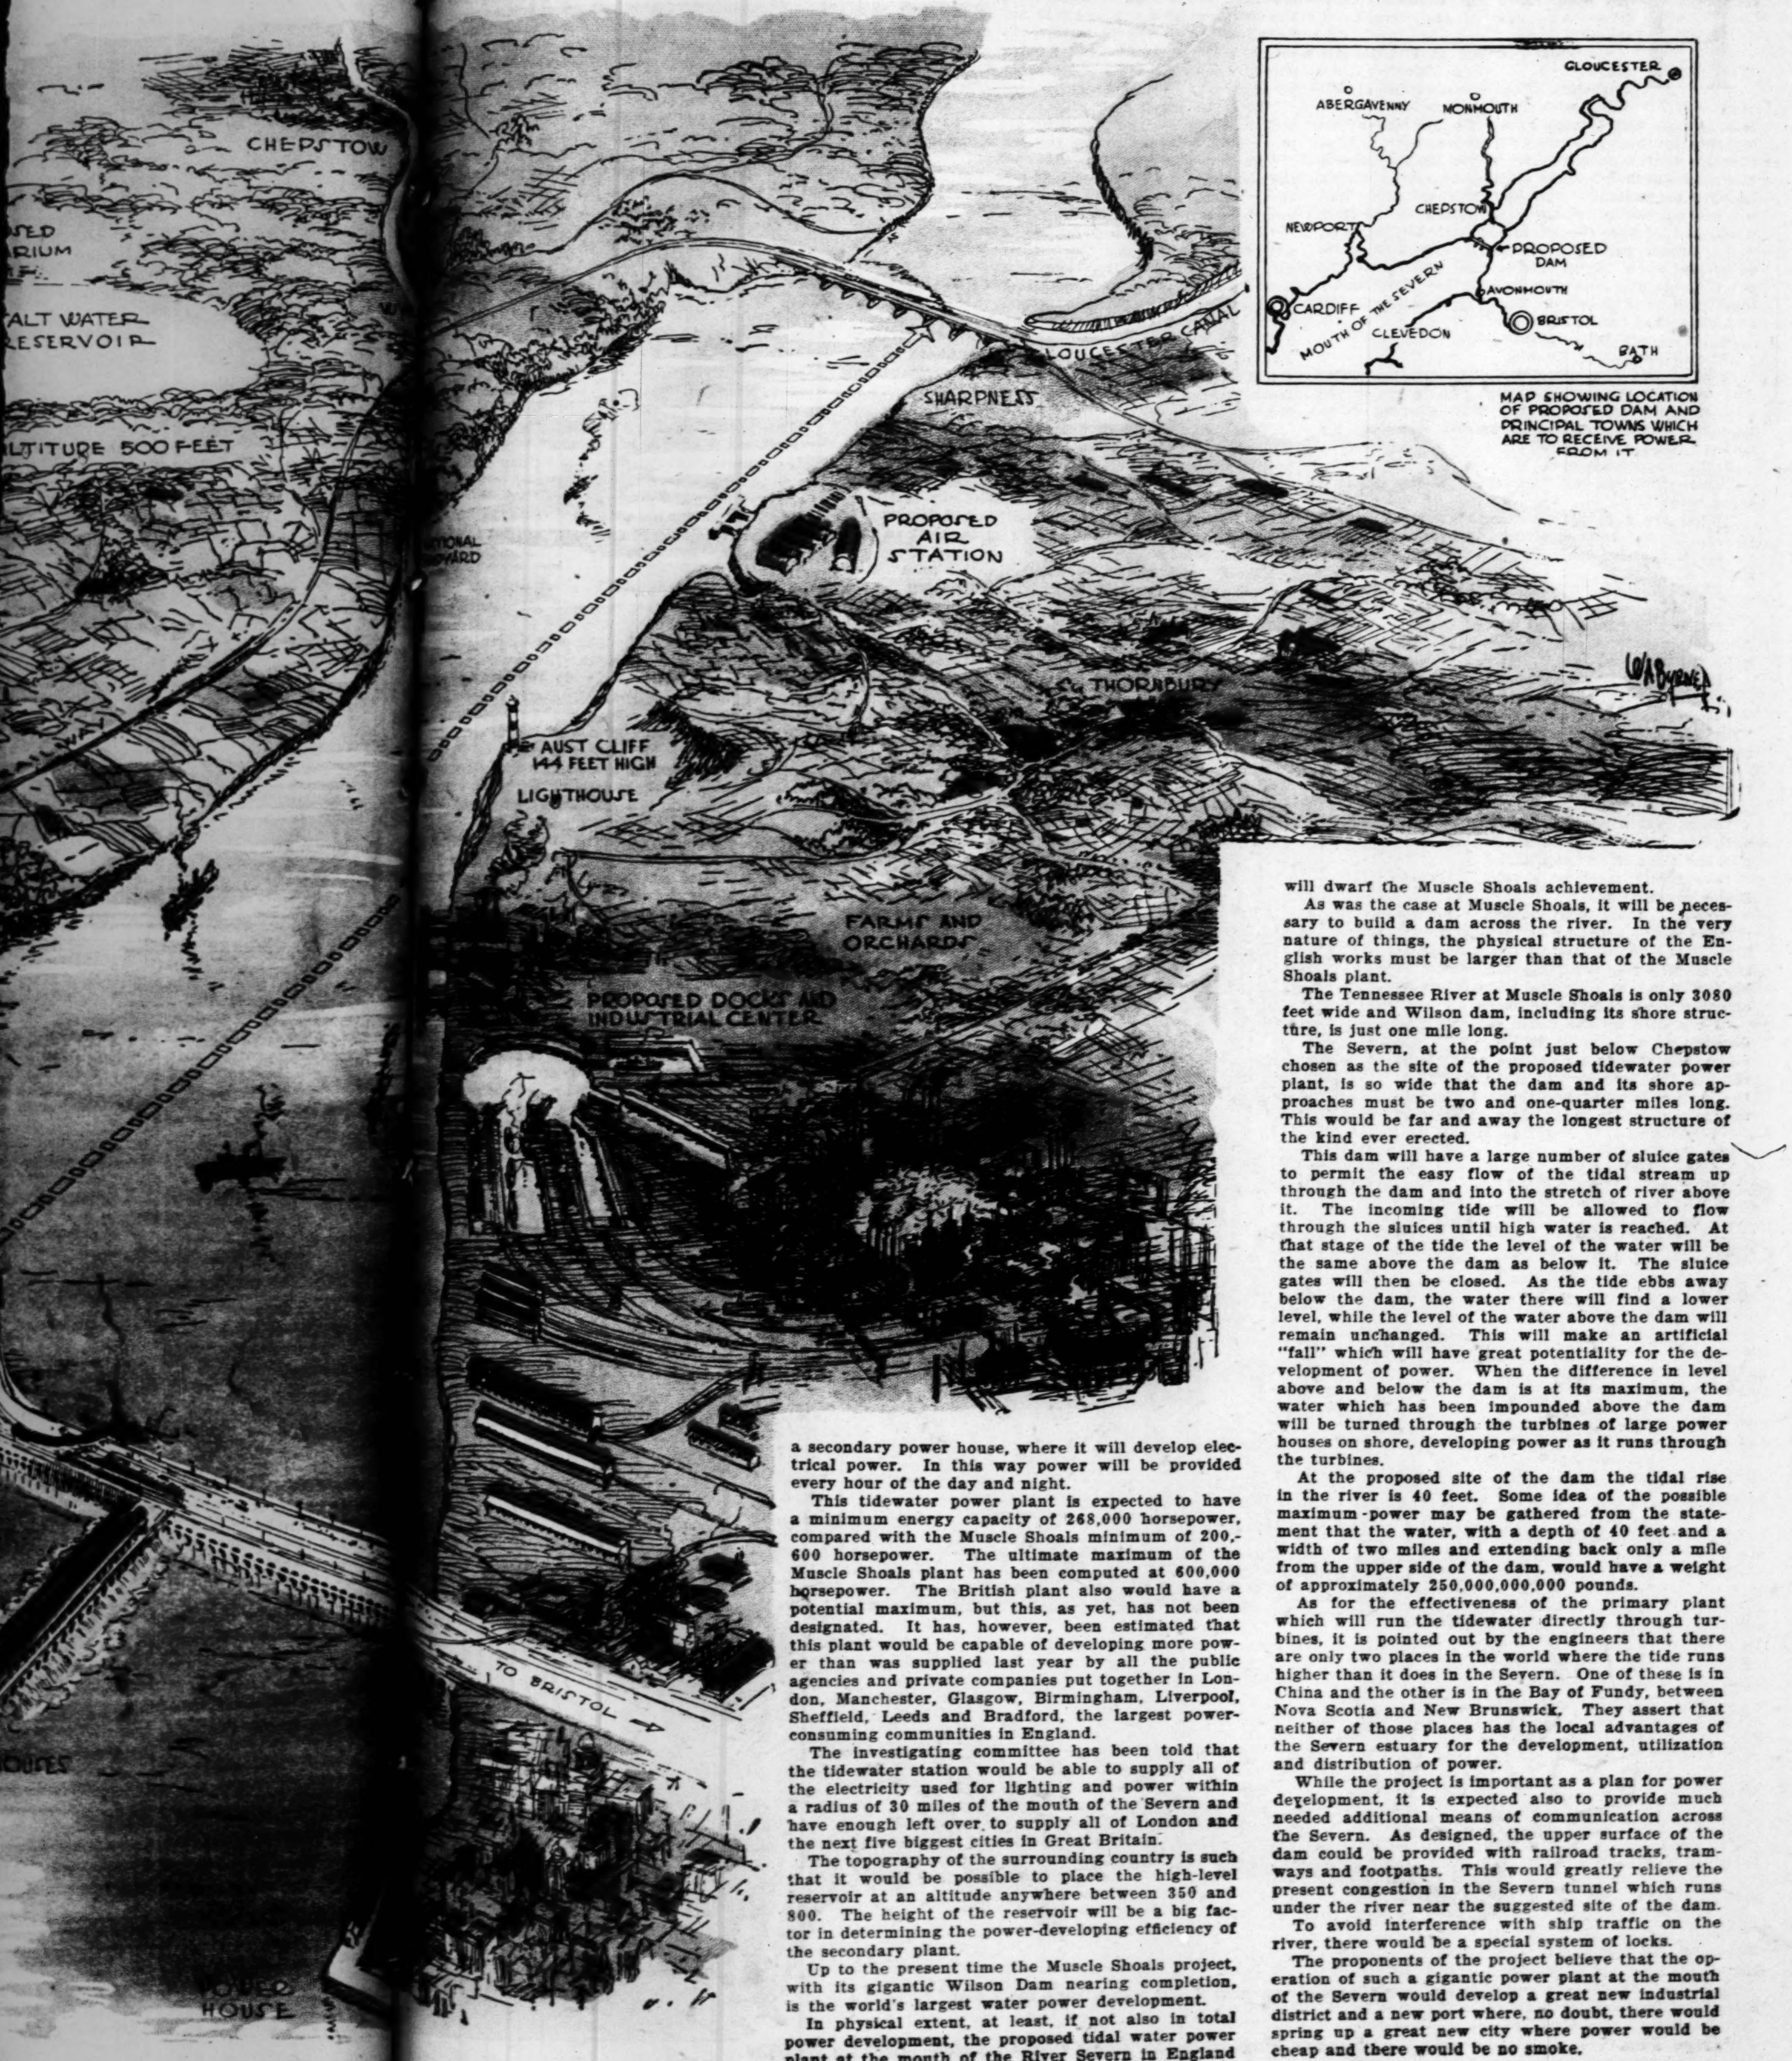
But, despite its serene slothfulness, the moon has its attractions, the principal one of which is the attraction of gravity, which manifests itself on earth in the form of tides. These tides are the periodic rise and fall, or flow and ebb, of the oceans and of waters connected with the oceans.

It is Great Britain that proposes to put the moon to work by taking advantage of the tidal movements to impound water for power purposes.

It is a plan which staggers the imagination much more effectually than a skeptical effort to see the man in the moon burning brush. And, gigantic as it is, this plan is so intriguing and so promising in its possibilities that the British Government, through Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden, has authorized the preliminary expenditure of nearly $500,000 by a commission of distinguished scientists and engineers who are to make a thorough investigation as to the technical and commercial feasibility of putting the moon to work, which, it is conceded, would be of much greater practical value to the world than exchanging signals with Mars.

The intermittent and varying character of tide flows has been taken into account in planning this big engineering work. The tide will only work during certain hours of the day and at different hours on different days. It is manifest that a power station must be able to supply power continuously. The British engineers have a solution for this problem. While the impounded tidewater is working, a certain number of turbines in the power houses will be developing electricity directly, while certain others will be pumping water to a high-level storage reservoir. There it will remain until the tide ceases to work. Then it will be let down through turbines to

Plans t Put the Moon to Work



MAP SHOWING LOCATION OF PROPOSED DAM AND PRINCIPAL TOWNS WHICH ARE TO RECEIVE POWER FROM IT a secondary power house, where it will develop electrical power. In this way power will be provided every hour of the day and night.

This tidewater power plant is expected to have a minimum energy capacity of 268,000 horsepower, compared with the Muscle Shoals minimum of 200,600 horsepower. The ultimate maximum of the Muscle Shoals plant has been computed at 600,000 horsepower. The British plant also would have a potential maximum, but this, as yet, has not been designated. It has, however, been estimated that this plant would be capable of developing more power than was supplied last year by all the public agencies and private companies put together in London, Manchester, Glasgow, Birmingham, Liverpool, Sheffield, Leeds and Bradford, the largest power-consuming communities in England.

The investigating committee has been told that the tidewater station would be able to supply all of the electricity used for lighting and power within a radius of 30 miles of the mouth of the Severn and have enough left over to supply all of London and the next five biggest cities in Great Britain.

The topography of the surrounding country is such that it would be possible to place the high-level reservoir at an altitude anywhere between 350 and 800. The height of the reservoir will be a big factor in determining the power-developing efficiency of the secondary plant.

Up to the present time the Muscle Shoals project, with its gigantic Wilson Dam nearing completion, is the world's largest water power development.

In physical extent, at least, if not also in total power development, the proposed tidal water power plant at the mouth of the River Severn in England will dwarf the Muscle Shoals achievement.

As was the case at Muscle Shoals, it will be necessary to build a dam across the river. In the very nature of things, the physical structure of the English works must be larger than that of the Muscle Shoals plant.

The Tennessee River at Muscle Shoals is only 3080 feet wide and Wilson dam, including its shore structure, is just one mile long.

The Severn, at the point just below Chepstow chosen as the site of the proposed tidewater power plant, is so wide that the dam and its shore approaches must be two and one-quarter miles long. This would be far and away the longest structure of the kind ever erected.

This dam will have a large number of sluice gates to permit the easy flow of the tidal stream up through the dam and into the stretch of river above it. The incoming tide will be allowed to flow through the sluices until high water is reached. At that stage of the tide the level of the water will be the same above the dam as below it. The sluice gates will then be closed. As the tide ebbs away below the dam, the water there will find a lower level, while the level of the water above the dam will remain unchanged. This will make an artificial "fall" which will have great potentiality for the development of power. When the difference in level above and below the dam is at its maximum, the water which has been impounded above the dam will be turned through the turbines of large power houses on shore, developing power as it runs through the turbines.

At the proposed site of the dam the tidal rise in the river is 40 feet. Some idea of the possible maximum-power may be gathered from the statement that the water, with a depth of 40 feet and a width of two miles and extending back only a mile from the upper side of the dam, would have a weight of approximately 250,000,000,000 pounds.

As for the effectiveness of the primary plant which will run the tidewater directly through turbines, it is pointed out by the engineers that there are only two places in the world where the tide runs higher than it does in the Severn. One of these is in China and the other is in the Bay of Fundy, between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. They assert that neither of those places has the local advantages of the Severn estuary for the development, utilization and distribution of power.

While the project is important as a plan for power development, it is expected also to provide much needed additional means of communication across the Severn. As designed, the upper surface of the dam could be provided with railroad tracks, tramways and footpaths. This would greatly relieve the present congestion in the Severn tunnel which runs under the river near the suggested site of the dam.

To avoid interference with ship traffic on the river, there would be a special system of locks.

The proponents of the project believe that the operation of such a gigantic power plant at the mouth of the Severn would develop a great new industrial district and a new port where, no doubt, there would spring up a great new city where power would be cheap and there would be no smoke.

Brother Bill's Romance

by P.G. Wodehouse

"HER eyes," said Bill Brewster, "are like—like—what's the word I want?"

He looked across at Lucille, his sister, and at Archie Moffam, her husband. Lucille was leaning forward with an eager and interested face; Archie was leaning back with his finger tips together and his eyes closed. This was not the first time his brother-in-law had touched on the subject of the girl he had become engaged to marry during his trip to England. Indeed, brother Bill had touched on very little else in the course of the past week, and Archie, though of a sympathetic nature, was beginning to feel that he had heard all he wanted to hear about Mabel Winchester. Lucille, on the other hand, who was now getting her first installment of it, was absorbed. She was devoted to Bill, and his recital had thrilled her.

"Like"— said Bill. "Like"——

"Stars?" suggested Lucille.

"Stars," said Bill, gratefully. "Exactly the word! And her hair is a lovely brown, like leaves in the autumn. In fact," concluded Bill, slipping down from the heights with something of a jerk, "she's a corker. Isn't she, Archie?"

Archie opened his eyes.

"Quite right, old top!" he said. "It was the only thing to do."

"What are you talking about?" demanded Bill, coldly. He had been suspicious all along of Archie's statement that he could listen better with his eyes shut.

"Eh? Oh, sorry. Thinking of something else."

"You were asleep."

"No, no; positively and distinctly not. Frightfully interested and rapt and all that—only I didn't quite get what you said."

"I said Mabel was a corker."

"Oh, absolutely, in every respect!"

"There!" Bill turned to Lucille triumphantly: "You hear that? And Archie has only seen her photograph."

"I'm afraid," said Lucille, "that father will be the one you'll find it hard to convince."

"Yes," said her brother, gloomily.

"Your Mabel sounds perfectly charming, but—well, you know what father is. It is a pity she sings in the chorus."

"She hasn't much of a voice," argued Bill in extenuation.

Archie, the conversation having reached a topic on which he considered himself one of the greatest living authorities, to wit, the unlovable disposition of his father-in-law, addressed the meeting as one who has a right to be heard.

"I wouldn't for the world say anything derogatory, as it were, of your jolly old pater, but there's no getting away from the fact that he's by way of being one of the leading man-eating fishes. I mean to say he's a pretty tough nut. And what makes it worse than it might be is that, ever since Lucille brought me in and laid me on the mat, he's been looking to you to restore the good old family prestige, if you know what I mean. He thinks Lucille let the proud name of Brewster down a bit, don't you know."

"Don't be silly!" said Lucille. "You know quite well that you're a perfect little angel and that anyone would be lucky to get you for a son-in-law."

"Ah, but does he? Has that thought ever entered the parental bean? No! I fear me—no! Very well, then, laddie, it comes to this: that he's looking to you to marry someone pretty special"——

"I wish," said Bill, annoyed, "you wouldn't talk as though Mabel were the ordinary kind of chorus girl. She's only on the stage because her mother's hard up and she wants to educate her little brother."

"I say!" said Archie, concerned. "Take my tip, old top. In chatting the matter over with the pater, don't dwell too much on that aspect of the affair. I've been watching him closely, and it's about all he can stick having to support me. If you ring in a mother and a little brother on him, he'll crack under the strain."

"Well, I've got to do somehting about it. Mabel will be over here in a week."

"Great Scott! You never told us that."

"Yes. She's going to be in the new Billington show. And naturally she will expect to meet my family."

"Did you explain father to her?" asked Lucille.

"Well, I just said she mustn't mind him, as his bark was worse than his bite."

"Well," said Archie, thoughtfully, "he hasn't bitten me yet; so you may be right. But you've got to admit that he's a bit of a barker."

Lucille considered.

"Really, Bill, I think your best plan would be to go straight to father and tell him the whole thing. You don't want him to hear about it in a roundabout way."

"The trouble is that, whenever I'm with father, I can't think of anything to say. I sort of lose my nerve and yammer."

"Dashed awkward," said Archie, politely. He sat up suddenly. "I say! By Jove! I know what you want, old friend. Just thought of it!"

"That busy brain is never still," explained Lucille.

"Saw it in the paper this morning. An advertisement of a book, don't you know."

"I've no time for reading."

"You've time for reading this one, laddie, for you can't afford to miss it. It's a what-d'you-call-it book. What I mean to say is, if you read it and take its tips to heart, it guarantees to make you a convincing talker. The advertisement says so. The advertisement's all about a chappie whose name I forget, whom everybody loved because he talked so well. And, mark you, before he got hold of this [illegible] 'The Personality That Wins' was the name [illegible] remember rightly—he was known to all the [illegible] the office as Silent Samuel, or something [illegible] may have been Tongue-tied Thomas. Well, [illegible] he happened, by good luck, to blow in the [illegible] for the good old P. that W.'s, and now, [illegible] they want someone to go and talk [illegible] someone into sending them a million [illegible] send for Samuel. Only, now they call him [illegible] the Spellbinder, and fawn upon him pretty [illegible] and all that."

"What perfect nonsense!" said Lucille.

"I don't know," said Bill, plainly [illegible] "There might be something in it."

"Absolutely," said Archie. "I remember [illegible] 'Talk convincingly, and no man will ever [illegible] with cold, unresponsive indifference.' Well, [illegible] unresponsive indifference is just what you [illegible] want the pater to treat you with, isn't it, or is [illegible] isn't it—what? I mean—what?"

"It sounds all right," said Bill.

"It is all right," said Archie. "It's a scheme. [illegible] go further: It's an egg!"

"The idea I had," said Bill, "was to [illegible] couldn't get Mabel a job in some straight [illegible] That would take the curse off the thing a bit. [illegible] I wouldn't have to dwell on the chorus [illegible] business, you see."

"Much more sensible," said Lucille.

"But what a deuce of a sweat;" argued Archie. [illegible] mean to say, having to pop around and [illegible] and all that."

"Aren't you willing to take a little trouble for [illegible] stricken brother-in-law, worm?" said Lucille, [illegible] verely.

"Oh, absolutely! My idea was to get this [illegible] and coach the dear old chap. Rehearse him, [illegible] you know. He could bone up the early [illegible] a bit and then drift round and try his [illegible] talk on me."

"It might be a good idea," said Bill, [illegible]

"Well, I'll tell you what I'm going to do," [illegible] Lucille. "I'm going to get Bill to introduce [illegible] his Mabel, and if she's as nice as he says [illegible] I'll go to father and talk convincingly to him."

"You're an ace!" said Bill.

"Absolutely!" agreed Archie, cordially. [illegible] ner—what? All the same, we ought to keep [illegible] book as a second string, you know. I mean to [illegible] you are a young and delicately nurtured girl—[illegible] sensibility and shrinking what's-its-name and all [illegible] —and you know what the pater is. He might [illegible] at you and put you right out of action in the [illegible] round. Well, then, don't you see, we could [illegible] old Bill, the trained silver-tongued expert, on [illegible] and have him weak in no time? Personally, I'm [illegible] for the P. that W.'s'"

"The Personality That Wins" cost Archie [illegible] cash and a lot of embarrassment when he [illegible] it at the store. To buy a treatise of that [illegible] would automatically seem to argue that you [illegible] a winning personality already, and Archie [illegible] some pains to explain to the girl behind the [illegible] that he wanted it for a friend. The girl [illegible] interested in his English accent than in his [illegible] tion, and he was uncomfortably aware, as he receded, that she was practicing it in an undertone for the benefit of her colleagues and fellow workers. However, what is a little discomfort, if endured in friendship's name? Archie left the book at Bill's club and went his way.

Some days later, Lucille, returning one morning to their suite, found her husband seated in an upright chair at the table, an unusually stern expression on his amiable face. A large cigar was in the corner of his mouth. The fingers of one hand rested in the armhole of his waistcoat; with the other hand he tapped menacingly on the table.

Lucille was aware of Bill's presence. He had emerged sharply from the bedroom and walked briskly across the floor.

"Father?" said Bill.

"Well, my boy," said Archie, in a rasping voice, frowning heavily over the cigar, "what is it? Speak up! Speak up!"

"What on earth are you doing?" asked Lucille.

Archie waved her away.

"Leave us, woman! We would be alone. Retire into the jolly old background and amuse yourself for a bit. Read a book. Do acrostics. Charge ahead, laddie!"

"Father?" said Bill again.

"Yes, my boy; yes—what is it?"

"Father?"

Archie picked up the red-covered volume that lay on the table.

"Half a mo', old son. Sorry to stop you, but I knew there was something. I've just remembered. Your walk. All wrong!"

"All wrong?"

"All wrong. Where's the chapter on the art of walking? Here we are. Listen, dear old soul. Drink this in: 'In walking one should strive to acquire that swinging, easy movement from the hips. The correctly poised walker seems to float along, as it were.' Now, old bean, you didn't float a darn bit. Dashed important, this walking business, you know. Get started wrong, and where are you? Try it again. Much better." He turned to Lucille. "Notice him float along that time? Absolutely skimmed—what?"

Lucille had taken a seat, and was waiting for enlightenment.

"Are you and Bill going into vaudeville?" she asked.

Archie, scrutinizing his brother-in-law closely, had further criticism to make.

"'The man of self-respect and self-confidence,'" he read, "'stands erect, in an easy, natural, graceful attitude. Heels not too far apart, head erect, eyes to the front, with a level gaze'—get your gaze level, old thing!—'shoulders thrown back, arms hanging naturally at sides when not otherwise employed'—that means that, if he swings on you, it's all right to guard—'chest expanded naturally, and abdomen'—this is no place for you, Lucille; leg it out of earshot—ah—what I said before—'drawn in somewhat and, above all, not protruded.' Now, have you got all that? Yes; you look all right. Carry on, laddie; carry on. Let's have two penn'orth of the dynamic voice and the tone of authority."

Bill fastened a gimlet eye upon his brother-in-law and drew a deep breath.

"Father?" he said. "Father?"

"You'll have to brighten up Bill's dialogue a lot," said Lucille, critically, "or you will never get bookings."

"Father?"

And, mark you, before he got hold of this book "The Personality That Wins' was the name of it, if remember rightly—he was known to all the lads the office as Silent Samuel, or something. Or may have been Tongue-tied Thomas. Well, one day he happened, by good luck, to blow in the necess for the good old P. that W.'s, and now, whenever they want someone to go and talk Rockefeller someone into lending them a million or so, the send for Samuel. Only, now they call him Sam the Spellbinder, and fawn upon him pretty copious and all that."

"What perfect nonsense!" said Lucille.

"I don't know," said Bill, plainly impress "There might be something in it."

"Absolutely," said Archie. "I remember it said Talk convincingly, and no man will ever treat yo with cold, unresponsive indifference.' Well, cold unresponsive indifference is just what you don't want the pater to treat you with, isn't it, or is it, isn't it—what? I mean—what?"

"It sounds all right," said Bill.

"It is all right," said Archie. "It's a scheme. I'll go further: It's an egg!"

"The idea I had," said Bill, "was to see if couldn't get Mabel a job in some straight comedy That would take the curse off the thing a bit. The I wouldn't have to dwell on the chorus end of the business, you see."

"Much more sensible," said Lucille.

"But what a deuce of a sweat;" argued Archie. mean to say, having to pop around and nose abo and all that."

"Aren't you willing to take a little trouble for yo stricken brother-in-law, worm?" said Lucille, se verely.

"Oh, absolutely! My idea was to get this book and coach the dear old chap. Rehearse him, don't you know. He could bone up the early chapter a bit and then drift round and try his convincing talk on me."

"It might be a good idea," said Bill, reflectively.

"Well, I'll tell you what I'm going to do," said Lucille. "I'm going to get Bill to introduce me to his Mabel, and if she's as nice as he says she I'll go to father and talk convincingly to him."

"You're an ace!" said Bill.

"Absolutely!" agreed Archie, cordially. "My part ner—what? All the same, we ought to keep the book as a second string, you know. I mean to say, you are a young and delicately nurtured girl—full of sensibility and shrinking what's-its-name and all that —and you know what the pater is. He might bark at you and put you right out of action in the first round. Well, then, don't you see, we could unleash old Bill, the trained silver-tongued expert, on him, and have him weak in no time? Personally, I'm all for the P. that W.'s'"

"The Personality That Wins" cost Archie $2 in cash and a lot of embarrassment when he asked for at the store. To buy a treatise of that name would automatically seem to argue that you haven't winning personality already, and Archie was at some pains to explain to the girl behind the counter that he wanted it for a friend. The girl seemed more interested in his English accent than in his explana

"I mean, it's all right as far as it goes, but it's sort of monotonous. Besides, one of you ought to be asking questions and the other answering. Bill ought to be saying, 'Who was that lady I seen you coming down the street with?' so that you would be able to say: 'That wasn't a lady. That was my wife.' I know—I've been to lots of vaudeville shows."

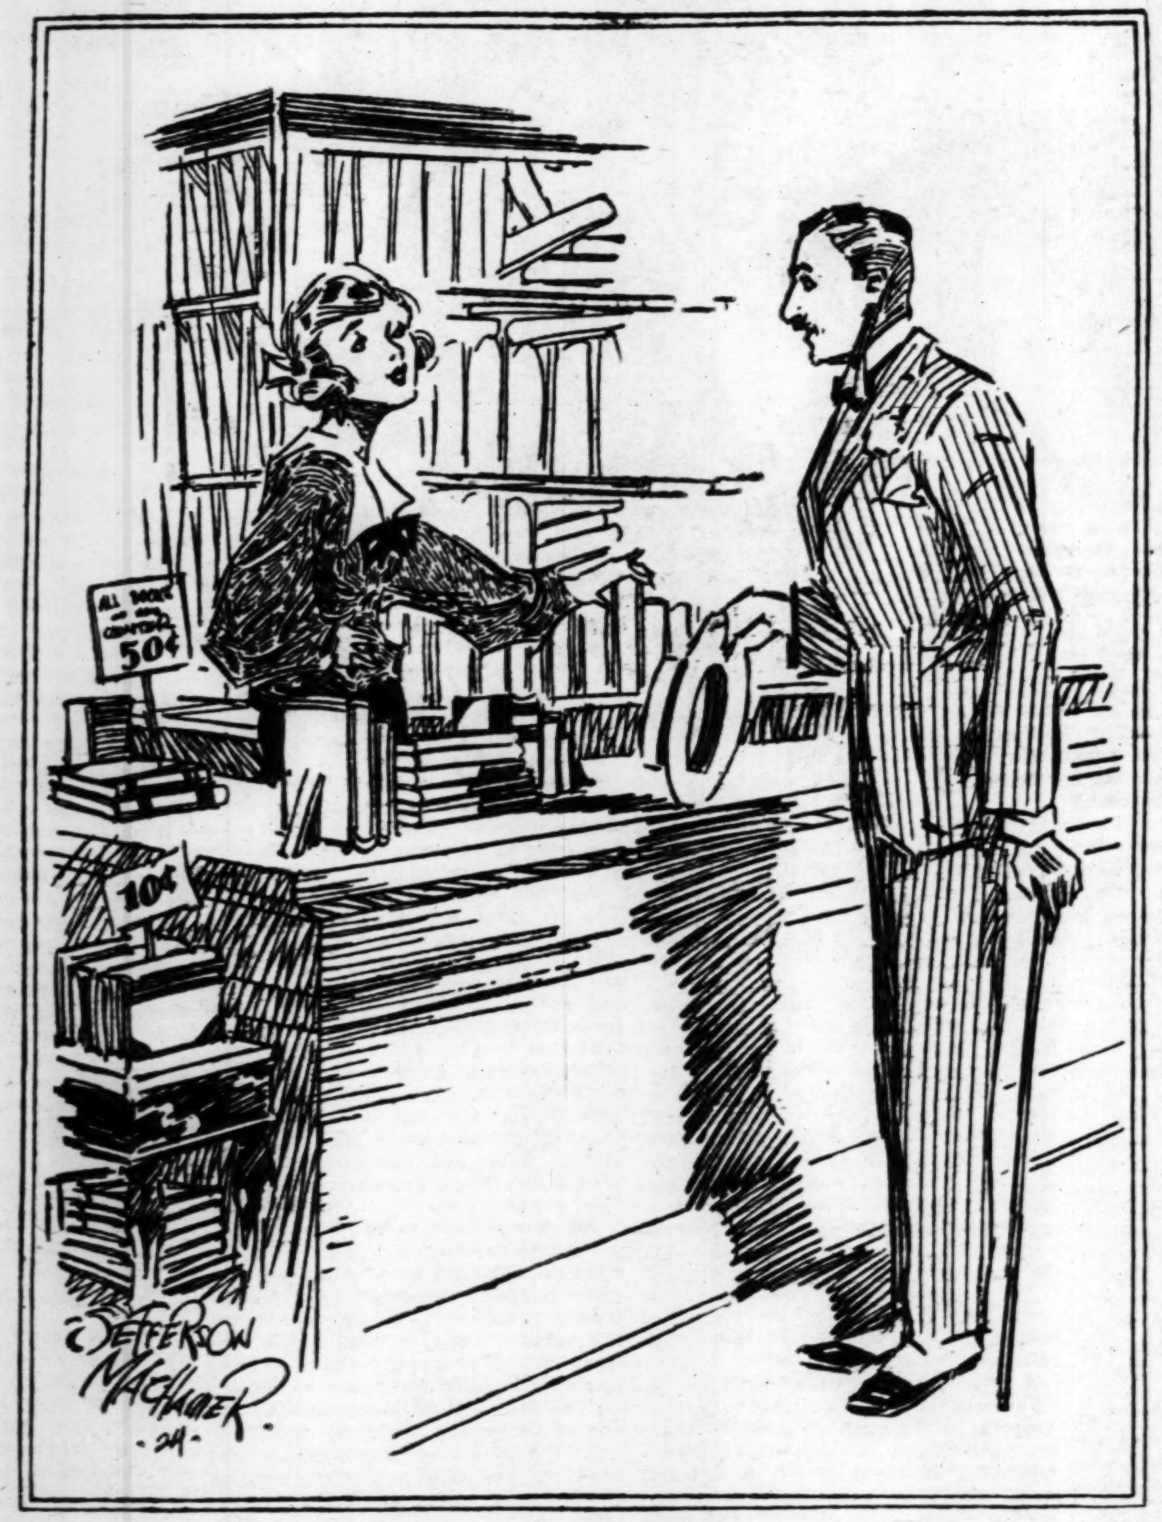
Bill relaxed his attitude. He deflated his chest, spread his heels, and ceased to draw in his abdomen.

"We'd better try this another time, when we're alone," he said, frigidly. "I can't do myself justice."

"Why do you want to do yourself justice?" asked Lucille.

"Right-o!" said Archie, affably, casting off his forbidding expression like a garment. "Rehearsal postponed. I was just putting old Bill through it," he explained, "with a view to getting him into mid-season form for the jolly old pater."

"Oh!" Lucille's voice was the voice of one who sees light in darkness.



Archie explained that he wanted "The Personality That Wins" for a friend.

"When Bill walked in like a cat on hot bricks and stood there looking stuffed, that was the personality that wins?"

"That was it."

"Well, now," said Lucille, "a reason why I think that Bill, however winning his personality may be, won't persuade father to let him marry a girl in the chorus is something that happened last night."

"Last night?"

"Well, at 3 o'clock this morning. It's on the front page of the early editions of the evening papers. I brought one in for you to see—only, you were so busy. Look! There it is!"

Archie seized the paper.

"Oh! Great Scott!"

"What is it?" asked Bill, anxiously. "Don't stand goggling there. What the devil is it?"

"Listen to this, old thing."

This is what Archie read:

"REVELRY BY NIGHT.

"Spirited Battle Royal at Hotel Cosmopolis.

"The House Detective Had a Good Heart but Pauline Packed the Punch.

"The logical contender for Jack Dempsey's honors has been discovered; and, in an age where women are stealing men's jobs all the time, it will not come as a surprise to our readers to learn that she belongs to the sex that is more deadly than the male. Her name is Miss Pauline Preston, and her wallop is vouched for under oath—under many oaths—by Mr. Timothy O'Neill, known to his intimates as 'Pie-Face,' who holds down the arduous job of house detective at Hotel Cosmopolis.

"At 3 o'clock this morning Mr. O'Neill was advised by the night clerk that the occupants of every room within earshot of No. 618 had phoned the desk to complain of a disturbance, a noise, a vocal uproar proceeding from the room mentioned. Thither, therefore, marched Mr. O'Neill, his face full of cheese sandwich (for he had been indulging in an early breakfast or a late supper) and his heart of devotion to duty. He found there Misses Pauline Preston and 'Bobbie' St. Clair of the personnel of the chorus of the 'Frivolities,' entertaining a few friends of both sexes. A pleasant time was being had by all, and at the moment of Mr. O'Neill's entry, the entire strength of the company was rendering with considerable emphasis that touching ballad: 'There's a Place for Me in Heaven for My Baby Boy Is There.'

"The able and efficient officer at once suggested that there was a place for them on the street and the patrol wagon would soon be waiting there; and, being a man of action as well as words, he proceeded to gather up an armful of assorted guests as a preliminary to a personally conducted tour into the cold night. It was at this point that Miss Preston stepped into the spotlight. Mr. O'Neill contends that she hit him with a brick, an iron casing and the Singer Building. Be that as it may, her efforts were sufficiently able to induce him to retire for reinforcements, which, arriving, arrested the supper party regardless of age or sex.

"At the police court this morning Miss Preston maintained that she and her friends were merely having a quiet home evening and that Mr. O'Neill was no gentleman. But the moral is, if you want excitement rather than sleep, stay at the Hotel Cosmopolis."

Bill may have quaked inwardly as he listened to this epic, but outwardly he was unmoved.

"Well," he said. "What about it?"

"What about it?" said Lucille.

"What about it?" said Archie. "Why, my dear old friend, it simply means that all the time we've been putting in making your personality winning has been chucked away. Absolutely a dead loss!"

"I don't see it," maintained Bill, stoutly. "I suppose what you're driving at is that what has happened will make father pretty sore against girls who happen to be in the chorus."

"That's absolutely it, old thing, I'm sorry to say. The next person who mentions the word 'chorus girl' in the jolly old governor's presence is going to take his life in his hands. I tell you, as one man to another, that I'd much rather be back in France, hopping over the top, than do it myself."

"So now," said Lucille, "having shown you that the imbecile scheme which you concocted with my poor, well-meaning husband is no good at all, I will bring you words of cheer. Your own original plan—of getting your Mabel a part in a comedy—was always the best one. And you can do it. I wouldn't have broken the bad news so abruptly if I hadn't some consolation to give you afterward. I met Reggie Van Tuyl just now, and he told me that he was putting up most of the money for a new play that's going into rehearsal right away. Reggie's an old friend of yours. All you have to do is to go to him and ask him to use his influence to get your Mabel a small part. There's sure to be a maid or something with only a line or two that won't matter."

"A ripe scheme!" said Archie. "Very sound and fruity!"

The cloud did not lift from Bill's corrugated brow.

"That's all very well," he said; "but you know what a talker Reggie is. He's an obliging sort of chump, but his tongue's fastened on at the middle and wags at both ends. I don't want the whole of New York to know about my engagement and have somebody spilling the news to father before I'm ready."

"That's all right," said Lucille. "Archie can speak to him. There's no need for him to mention your name at all. He can just say there's a girl he wants to get a part for. You would do it, wouldn't you, angel-face?"

"Like a bird, queen of my soul!"

"Then that's splendid! You'd better give Archie that photograph of Mabel to give to Reggie, Bill."

"Photograph?" said Bill. "Which photograph? I have 24."

Archie found Reggie Van Tuyl brooding in a window of his club that looked over Fifth avenue. Reggie was a sentimentalist. He would have liked to live in a world of ideally united couples, himself ideally united to some charming

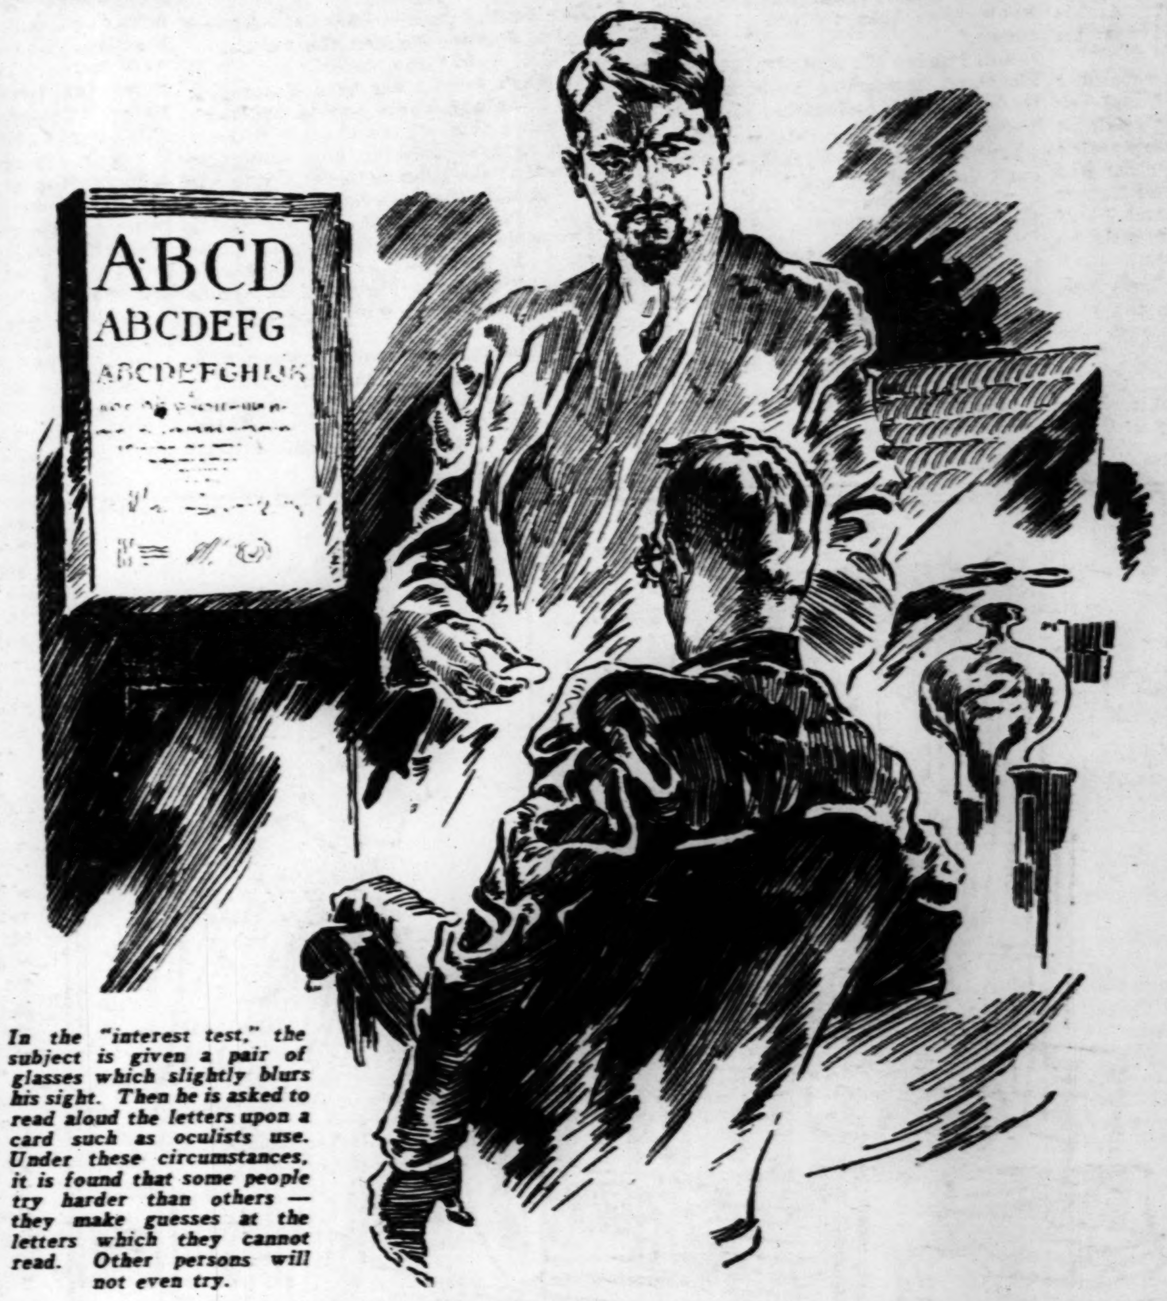
SCIENCE HELPS TO CHOOSE THE RIGHT JOB

Tests in laboratory are designed to remedy the greatest waste in the world today, that of misfit men — A person's occupation should not be selected haphazard, but at least as carefully as a suit of clothes — One test is that of "reaction time," important where quick decisions must be made, as in auto driving—A slot machine measures accuracy of eye and hand, and "emotion test" shows whether you have a cool head — Then there is the curious "interest test" — Too many first-class mechanics are working now in banks :: ::



In the "interest test," the subject is given a pair of glasses which slightly blurs his sight. Then he is asked to read aloud the letters upon a card such as oculists use. Under these circumstances, it is found that some people try harder than others — they make guesses at the letters which they cannot read. Other persons will not even try.

By E. E. FREE, Ph. D.,
Fellow of American Association for the Advancement of Science.

THE greatest waste in the world is the waste of misfit men. Too many men who ought to be salesmen are running machines out in the factory. Too many first-class mechanics are working themselves into nervous prostration trying hopelessly to learn the way to sell shoes or to get ahead in a bank.

For every man there is some kind of job that suits him; that fits his peculiarities of body and of mind as a well-tailored suit will fit his physical frame. And for every job there is a proper man; a man who will like that job and will do well in it. The practical problem is to help that man and that job to find each other. No problem in the modern world is more important.

It is perfectly obvious that we are making a sad mess of this problem now. A youngster comes out of school and chooses his job—the most important thing in his life—by absolute accident. Uncle William has, perhaps, an "opening" in the harness business, and so young Henry becomes a harness merchant. Maybe that job will fit Henry and maybe it will not. Nobody, not even Henry himself, seems to think it worth while to try to find out.

If the men of America selected their clothes in a way as senselessly haphazard as they select their jobs, we would be a nation of grotesque scarecrows.

The reason for this neglect is, of course, that people do not realize that it is possible to fit a man and a job to each other except by actual trial. Henry must go into Uncle William's harness shop and "see how he likes it." If he does not like it, maybe he will make another try later on. Perhaps he will have to make six or seven tries. Meanwhile he is growing older. His responsibilities increase. Presently the search for a properly fitted job must stop. Henry must accept what he has and make the best of it. The country has another misfit—misfitted for life.

But suppose that Henry or his father has heard about the new science of vocational psychology. Then the procedure is different. Some day father takes little Henry under his wing and goes down to spend a few hours in the laboratory of the psychologist. There Henry's eyes and ears are tested, his nervous system is tried out, his special abilities are carefully studied and evaluated.

The result is a prescription of a job. Henry is told what kind of job will probably suit him best. More important still, he is told what kinds of jobs are unsuited to him, what duties in the business world it will be useless for him to try.

This is not, let me insist, any guarantee of success in life. It is useless to deny that the main factor in financial success in this world is good fortune. Henry may have all the psychological advice in the world and still be a failure as the world counts such things. But the important point is this: if Henry knows his capabilities he will have a far better chance.

A workman must know the tools he works with, and when a man is building a fortune his chief tool is himself.

What are some of these tests that have been devised for this testing of men, for the prediction of their business and industrial fitness?

One of the chief ones is the test of what is called "reaction time." You sit down at a little table on which there is a push button like that of an ordinary doorbell. In front of you is a blank wall. Suddenly there appears on the wall a blank card carrying the word "three." You are supposed to press the button three times. Another time the card may say "four"; then you press the button four times, and so on. There are many variants of this test, but this is perhaps the simplest one.

The object is to determine how quickly you can see the word on the card, translate it mentally into the number and then press the button that number of times. A delicate and exact apparatus, which you cannot see, keeps a record of the precise fraction of a second that elapsed between the exposure of the card and the instant when you pressed the button.

If your "reaction" is rapid the psychologist knows that you will see things quickly and will move quickly in response to what you see. If your reaction is slow, or if you are inaccurate, pressing the button four times, for example, when the card says "three," then he knows that you are unlikely to be successful in such occupations as automobile driving, where a quick and correct meeting of unexpected emergencies is essential.

Another test is the "cancellation test." You are given a printed page of some language that you do not know, so that the words are meaningless to you. You are asked to go through this as rapidly as possible, cancelling with a lead pencil every letter E that you encounter. The time that it takes you to do this is recorded and the number of missed letters is counted up afterward. This test tells the psychologist how you would probably fit into a job like that of a printer, where both speed and accuracy in such details is a prerequisite for first-class work.

Another test is the slot-machine test devised by Prof. Link. This machine is a square box on top of which there revolves a disk, somewhat as a phonograph record revolves on top of the phonograph. In this disk there is a small slot. You are given a number of small metal balls like buckshot and are told to drop one of them through the slot each time the slot comes round.

This tests your accuracy of eye and hand, for you must gauge the rotation of the disk correctly and must drop the little ball at just the right instant. Otherwise it will miss the slot. The number of misses that you score out of 20 or 30 balls tells the psychologist how well you are suited, for example, to a job like feeding a machine in a factory, where you must move continually in time with the motion of the machine.

It is found, curiously enough, that some persons do better with this slot-machine test when the disk is revolving rapidly while others do best when it revolves slowly. The difference corresponds, we imagine, to some difference in the nervous or muscular organization of the two types of persons.

Whatever its cause, the fact has a very practical value in industry. Some factory machines move slowly; others move rapidly. If you test your employes with the slot-machine test and put the ones who do best with a fast rotation on the fast-moving factory machines, the ones who do best with slow rotation on the slow-moving machines, you will speed up your factory operation considerably, as well as decrease the number of accidents among your employes.

This is not theory. It is fact. It has been done many times in British factories, especially in the munition plants during the war.

Another kind of test is the "emotion test." A machine that measures the heart beat or the blood pressure is strapped to your arm or attached to your chest. Then the psychologist says something or does something calculated to make you afraid or angry. Whether you actually do become afraid or angry is detected instantly by the machine.

If you are angered easily, if your emotions are close to the surface, the psychologist knows that you will not do well in any job where coolness in an emergency is essential. You will fail, for example, as a ship's captain or as an engineer in a power house. When something happens suddenly your emotions of fear or anger or what not will take the keen edge off your brain.

These emotion tests must be interpreted, of course, with care and in the light of the results of other tests. Indeed, that caution will stand for all work in psychology. What the psychologist is trying to do is to get at all of your bodily and mental characteristics. He must not judge from one thing alone, any more than the doctor can diagnose your bodily condition by merely feeling your pulse.

That is why these psychological tests are useful only in the hands of a trained expert. They cannot be done at home. You cannot fit yourself with your job any more than you can make yourself a well-fitting suit of clothes.

There are, of course, a great many other tests that the vocational psychologists use. Some of them are quite simple, as, for example, the test of color-blindness. Many people are partly color-blind and do not know it. Such a person would make a poor locomotive engineer or signalman.

All railways now test their men for color-blindness as a matter of regular routine.

But perhaps the most important psychological test of all for ordinary purposes, especially for hiring office employes, is what I might call the "interest test."

The object of this test is to determine how hard you try. You are given, for example, a pair of glasses that slightly blurs your sight. Then a card of letters like the cards used by oculists is put up in front of you. You can see the letters, but all of them seem a little blurred. You are asked to read them.

Under these circumstances it is found that some people try harder than others: they make guesses at the letters which they cannot read. Other persons will not try. They read the letters that are clearly visible and simply say they cannot read the others at all. Persons of the first class are usually those who will prove, in business, to have a lively interest in what they are doing. Those of the second class will be the uninterested, unprogressive drudges.

It would be foolish, for example, to make a person of this second class a salesman, though he might be a real success as a routine bookkeeper or a stock clerk.

It is a safe wager that it will not be many years before tests like these are as much a part of finding Henry a job as it is now to buy him a new suit and see that he washes his face before he starts out on his rounds of the possible employers.

ANOTHER cross-word puzzle in the series being published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine appears on this page today, along with the solutions of the two printed last Sunday. The solutions of today's will be published next Sunday.

Solving these cross-word puzzles is one of the most popular pastimes of the day. It has more devotees than mah jong and probably is second only to radio in the number of its followers.

The fundamentals of the cross-word puzzle are definitions and synonyms. As you build up your solution of the puzzle, words, and even parts of words, will aid you in running down and assembling other words.

The letters to make up words are to be put into the white spaces. The directions accompanying the puzzle show the number with which each vertical and each horizontal word starts. The word should fill all of the space between that number and the nearest black square to it, either to the right, horizontally, or, below, vertically.

Those who are not familiar with cross-word puzzles, by studying the solutions of last week's puzzles, as printed on this page to day, can get a good idea of how the spaces are filled. Follow the directions and use your wits and you will get a lot of fun out of this fascinating game.

Brother Bill's Romance

and affectionate girl. But, as a matter of cold fact, he was a bachelor, and most of the couples he knew were veterans of several divorces. In Reggie's circle, therefore, the home life of Archie and Lucille shone like a good deed in a naughty world. It inspired him. In moments of depression it restored his waning faith in human nature.

Consequently, when Archie, having greeted him and slipped into a chair at his side, suddenly produced from his inside pocket the photograph of an extremely pretty girl and asked him to get her a small part in the play which he was financing, he was shocked and disappointed.

"Archie"—his voice quivered with emotion—"is it worth it? Is it worth it, old man? Think of the poor little woman at home!"

Archie was puzzled.

"Eh, old top? Which poor little woman?"

"Think of her trust in you, her faith"——

"I don't absolutely get you, old bean."

"What would Lucille say if she knew about this?"

"Oh, she does. She knows all about it."

"Good heavens!" cried Reggie. He was shocked to the core of his being.

"It was Lucille's idea," explained Archie. "It's like this, old thing: I've never met this female, but she's a pal of Lucille's"—he comforted his conscience with the reflection that, if she wasn't now, she would be in a few days—"and Lucille wants to do her a bit of good. She's been on the stage in England, you know—supporting a jolly old widowed mother and educating a little brother and all that kind and species of rot, you understand, and now she's coming over to America, and Lucille wants you to rally round and shove her into your show and generally keep the home fires burning and so forth. How do we go?"

Reggie beamed with relief.

"Oh, I see!" he said. "Why, delighted, old man; quite delighted!"

"Any small part would do. Isn't there a maid or something in your bob's worth of refined entertainment who drifts about saying 'Yes, madam,' and all that sort of thing? Well, then, that's just the thing. Topping! I knew I could rely on you, old bird! I'll get Lucille to ship her round to your address when she arrives. I fancy she's due to totter in somewhere in the next few days. Well, I must be popping. Toodle-oo!"

"Pip-pip!" said Reggie.

It was about a week later that Lucille came into the suite at the Hotel Cosmopolis that was her home, and found Archie lying on the couch, smoking a refreshing pipe after the labors of the day. It seemed to Archie that his wife was not in her usual cheerful frame of mind. He kissed her, and having relieved her of her parasol, endeavored, without success, to balance it on his chin. Having picked it up from the floor and placed it on the table, he became aware that Lucille was looking at him in a despondent sort of way. Her gray eyes were clouded.

"Hullo, old thing?" said Archie. "What's up?"

Lucille sighed wearily.

"Archie, darling, do you know any really good swear words?"

"Well," said Archie, reflectively, "let me see. I did pick up a few tolerably ripe and breezy expressions over in France. But why?"

"Because, I want to relieve my feelings."

"Anything wrong?"

"Everything's wrong. I've just been having tea with Bill and his Mabel."

"Oh—ah!" said Archie, interested. "And what's the verdict?"

"Guilty," said Lucille. "And the sentence, if I had anything to do with it, would be transportation for life." She peeled off her gloves irritably. "What fools men are! Not you, precious—you're the only man in the world that isn't, it seems to me. You did marry a nice girl, didn't you? You didn't go running around after females with crimson hair, goggling at them with your eyes popping out of your head like a bulldog waiting for a bone."

"Oh, I say! Does old Bill look like that?"

"Worse!"

Archie rose to a point of order.

"But one moment, old lad! You speak of crimson hair. Surely old Bill—in the extreme jolly monologues he used to deliver whenever I didn't see him coming and he got me alone—used to allude to her hair as brown."

"It isn't brown now. It's bright scarlet. Good gracious—I ought to know! I've been looking at it all the afternoon. It dazzled me." Lucille brooded silently for a while over the tragedy. "I don't want to say anything against her, of course"——

"No, no; of course not."

"But of all the awful, second-rate girls I ever met, she's the worst! She has vermilion hair and an imitation Oxford manner. She's so horribly refined that it's dreadful to listen to her. She's a sly, creepy, slinky, made-up, insincere vampire! She's common! She's awful! She's a cat!"

Lucille kicked the leg of the table.

"And to think," she said, "that when I was a little girl, I used to look up to Bill as a monument of wisdom. I used to hug his knees and gaze into his face and wonder how anyone could be so magnificent." She gave the unoffending table another kick. "If I could have looked into the future," she said, with feeling, "I'd have bitten him in the ankle."

A few days later, as Archie sat in the Cosmopolis grill room, preparatory to ordering lunch, he perceived Bill bearing down upon him, obviously resolved upon joining his meal.

To his surprise, however, Bill did not instantly embark upon his usual monologue. Indeed, he hardly spoke at all. He champed a chop, and seemed to Archie to avoid his eye. It was not till lunch was over and they were smoking that he unburdened himself.

"Archie?" he said.

"Hullo, old thing!" said Archie. "Still there? I thought you'd died or something. Talk about our old pals, Tongue-tied Thomas and Silent Sammy—you could beat 'em both on the same evening."

"It's enough to make me silent."

"What is?"

Bill had relapsed into a sort of waking dream. He sat frowning somberly, lost to the world. Archie, having waited what seemed to him a sufficient length of time for an answer to his question, bent forward and touched his brother-in-law's hand gently with the lighted end of his cigar. Bill came to himself with a howl.

"What is?" said Archie.

"What is what?" said Bill.

"Now, listen, old thing," protested Archie: "Life is short, and time is flying. Suppose we cut out the cross-talk. You hinted there was something on your mind, and I'm waiting to hear what it is."

Bill fiddled a moment with his coffee spoon.

"I'm in an awful hole," he said, at last.

"What's the trouble?"

"It's about that darned girl."

Archie blinked.

"What?"

"That darned girl."

Archie could hardly credit his senses. He had been prepared—indeed, he had steeled himself—to hear Bill allude to his affinity in a number of ways. But "that darned girl" was not one of them.

"Companion of my riper years," he said, "let's get this thing straight. When you say 'that darned girl,' do you, by any possibility, allude to"——

"Of course I do."

"But William, old bird"——

"Oh, I know, I know, I know!" said Bill, irritably. "You're surprised to hear me talk like that about her?"

"A trifle, yes. Possibly a trifle. When last heard from, laddie, you must recollect, you were speaking of the lady as your soulmate, and at least once, if I remember rightly, you alluded to her as your little dusky-haired lamb."

A sharp howl escaped Bill.

"Don't! Don't remind me of it!"

"There's been a species of slump, then—yes; no?—in dusky-haired lambs?"

"How," demanded Bill, savagely, "can a girl be a dusky-haired lamb when her hair's bright scarlet?"

"Dashed difficult," admitted Archie.

"I suppose Lucille told you about that?"

"She did touch on it, lightly, as it were."

Bill threw off the last fragments of reserve.

"Archie, I'm in the devil of a fix. I don't know why it was, but directly I saw her—things seemed so different over in England, I mean"—— He swallowed icewater in gulps. "I suppose it was seeing her with Lucille. Old Lu is such a thoroughbred. Seemed to kind of show her up. And that crimson hair! It sort of put the lid on it." Bill brooded morosely. "It ought to be a criminal offense for women to dye their hair. Especially red. What do women do that sort of thing for?"

"Don't blame me, old thing. It's not my fault."

Bill looked furtive and harassed.

"It makes me feel such a cad. Here am I, feeling that I would give all I've got in the world to get out of the thing, and all the time the poor girl seems to be getting fonder of me than ever."

"How do you know?" Archie surveyed his brother-in-law critically. "Perhaps her feelings have changed, too. Very possibly she may not like the color of your hair. I don't myself. Now, if you were to dye yourself crimson"——

"Oh, shut up! Of course, a man knows when a girl's fond of him."

"By no means, laddie. When you're my age"——

"I am your age."

"So you are. I forgot that. Well, now, approaching the matter from another angle, let us suppose, old son, that Miss What's-Her-Name—the party of second part"——

"Stop it!" said Bill, suddenly. "Here comes Reggie."

"Eh?"

"Here comes Reggie Van Tuyl. I don't want him to hear us talking about the darned thing."

Archie looked over his shoulder, and perceived that it was indeed so. Reggie was threading his way among the tables.

"Well, he looks pleased with things, anyway," said Bill, enviously. "Glad somebody's happy."

Archie was puzzled. Something had plainly happened to Reggie. But what? It was idle to suppose that somebody had left him money, for he had been left practically all the money there was a matter of 10 years before.

"Hullo, old bean!" he said, as the newcomer, radiating good will and bonhomie, arrived at the table and hung over it like a noonday sun. "We've finished. But rally round and we'll watch you eat. Dashed interesting, watching old Reggie eat. Why go to the zoo?"

Reggie shook his head.

"Sorry, old man. Can't. Just on my way to the Ardmore. Stopped in because I thought you might be here. I wanted you to be the first to hear the news."

"News?"

"I'm the happiest man alive!"

"You look it, darn you!" growled Bill, on whose mood of gray gloom this human sunbeam was jarring heavily.

"I'm engaged to be married!"

"Congratulations, old egg!" Archie shook his hand cordially. 'Dash it—don't you know, as an old married man, I like to see you young fellows settling down?"

"I don't know how to thank you enough, Archie, old man," said Reggie fervently.

"Thank me?"

"It was through you that I met her. Don't you remember the girl you sent to me? You wanted me to get her a small part"——

He stopped, puzzled. Archie had uttered a sound that was half gasp and half gurgle, but it was swallowed up in the extraordinary noise from the other side of the table. Bill Brewster was leaning forward with bulging eyes.

"Are you engaged to Mabel Winchester?"

"Why, by George!" said Reggie. "Do you know her?"

Archie recovered himself.

"Slightly," he said. "Slightly. Old Bill knows her slightly, as it were. Not very well, don't you know, but—how shall I put it?"

"Slightly," said Bill.

"Just the word. Slightly."

"Splendid!" said Reggie Van Tuyl. "Why don't you come along to the Ardmore and meet her now?"

Bill stammered. Archie came to the rescue again.

"Bill can't come now. He's got a date."

"A date," said Bill.

"A date," said Archie. "An appointment, don't you know. A—a—in fact, date."

"But—er—wish her happiness from me," said Bill, cordially.

"Thanks very much, old man," said Reggie.

"And say I'm delighted, will you?"

"Certainly."

"You won't forget the word, will you? Delighted."

"Delighted."

"That's right. Delighted."

"Hullo! I must rush!"

Bill and Archie watched him as he bounded out of the restaurant.

"Poor old Reggie!" said Bill, with a fleeting compunction.

"Not necessarily," said Archie. "What I mean to say is, tastes differ, don't you know. One man's peach is another man's poison, and vice versa."

"There's something in that."

"Absolutely! Well," said Archie, judicially, "this would appear to be, as it were, the maddest, merriest day in all the glad new year—yes; no?"

Bill drew a deep breath.

"You bet your sorrowful existence it is!" he said. "I'd like to do something to celebrate it."

"The right spirit!" said Archie. "Absolutely the right spirit! Begin by paying for my lunch."

Adventures in Forbidden Tibet

people present, with still more coming. But let us pause, retrace our steps and record one other incident of this unique pilgrimage before we plunge into the mysteries of Lhasa. At one of the rest houses some days back, Dr. McGovern had a real scare. It was quite enough to scare any man, even under ordinary circumstances. The nemo of the wayside inn was a younger woman than most of such landladies, and she was not altogether the worst-looking female on earth. This lady had several husbands, some of whom were hanging around the place. She was not averse to annexing another, and she favored the "coolie."

In plain prose, the nemo fell in love at first sight with Dr. William Montgomery McGovern and insisted upon adding him to her household of plural husbands. It was a violation of the native law of gallantry to turn down such a proposition without giving some plausible reason. Dr. McGovern had plenty of reasons, but if he kept his disguise he must keep his reasons also. The lady made eyes at him throughout the sojourn of the expedition, despite his coldness. He was cold in two ways—fairly frostbitten in his three suits of clothing and disdainfully chill toward the bronzed charmer. He found it necessary to "play sick," which was quite easy, for he was sick. Ultimately the caravan was able to get away with the paymaster still playing his unleading role, but not until Satan had assured the lovelorn nemo that the poor coolie was not worth marrying, being considerably off in his head.

McGovern found it impossible to get accommodations at any rest house in Lhasa because of the holiday crowd. After much search he was lodged with his servants and such of his outfit as had survived the trek, in the private apartments of an official personage of importance, named Sonam. So weak was the professor from illness and fatigue that he had to be carried up the steps to the living quarters. This was a four-room flat in a great house with a courtyard. The house, like most of the others in Lhasa, was built partly of stone and partly of sun-dried brick. McGovern sank down exhausted in a small storeroom. His host had not deigned to show himself, but the host's small pet dog ran into the chamber and began to sniff at the strangers. The cur sniffed particularly at the poor coolie servant lying on the floor. Apparently the animal was aware of a foreign-devil odor about the professor, for he began to bark furiously.

Discovery of his identity at that moment, Dr. McGovern felt, would be perilous, perhaps fatal, to him. Thousands of the people crowding the city were monks, and the monks were special haters of foreigners. Also, many of the monks were celebrating New Year's Day by getting crazily drunk on the native liquor. Should they become aware that the foreign devil had managed to get to Lhasa, and that he lay almost helpless in that house, the probability was that they would mob him.

Dr. McGovern sent for Sonam, to whom he revealed his identity. It was safer to throw himself upon the mercy of the officials than to trust his fate to the drunken monks.

After all, things came out all right. McGovern knew that the Tibetan authorities feared the wrath of the British Government in case they mistreated him. He was lodged with Sonam as "a prisoner of state," and paid a visit to the Dalai-lama, with whom he talked for an hour. Many prominent citizens of Lhasa visited him, some brought him books in native language, possession of which was one of the principal objects of his pilgrimage.

Dr. McGovern remained in Lhasa until he felt it wise to start back to modern civilization. Expressing his wish to the officials, an escort was furnished, and by the time he reached Darjeeling he had become almost white again. At Darjeeling he could eat chicken without bootlegging it.

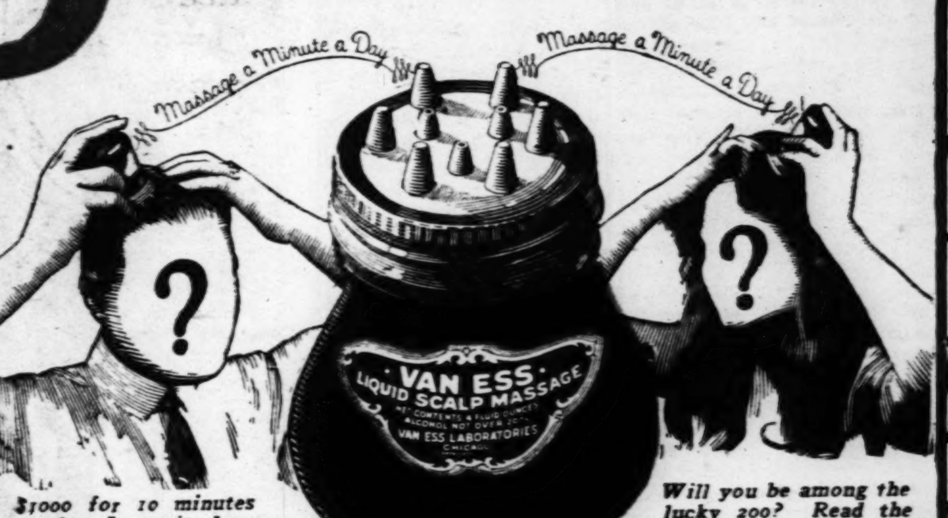
$3000.00 in Prizes



$1000 for 10 minutes work. Just sit down and write 100 words about what Van Ess did for you.

Will you be among the lucky 200? Read the conditions below and see how the $3000 will be divided.

for the best 100 word letter on results obtained from continued use of VAN ESS Liquid Scalp Massage

Three years ago Van Ess was offered to the public with a written guarantee to stop falling hair and start a growth of new hair in 90 days—or money refunded. Since that time over one million men and women have used Van Ess. And less than 2% have asked for their money back.

Van Ess when used daily for 90 days has brought results in over 91% of cases. It does grow hair when used regularly.

Our big problem, however, has been to get people to use it long enough to give it a chance to grow hair. In short, to use it daily for 90 days.

Most people appreciate that they must brush their teeth daily to preserve them. But they seem to think, if they massage the scalp for two weeks—that their hair should stay thick and lustrous forever.

Hair needs constant care just like the teeth. Many nations abroad are already educated to this. And any specialist will tell you that your hair will respond to proper care even more than the teeth. For a new growth of hair can be developed as long as the hair roots are alive.

That is why we are conducting this contest—to demonstrate just what continued use of Van Ess will do. The testimonial letters shown here are just a few of the many unsolicited ones we have received.

One Minute Per Day

The patented massage cap makes Van Ess very easy to use. One minute each day is enough. (Less time than it takes to brush your teeth.)

Holding the Van Ess bottle as shown above you massage the scalp. The center rubber nipples are hollow. And as you massage, the tonic is forced directly to the hair follicles. The stifled hair follicles are opened and allowed to breathe and function again. Irritation is healed. And the daily massaging brings a new flow of blood to the hair roots to stimulate its growth from within.

Results are marked. They are quick. In 30 days your hair stops falling. In 90 days a new growth will appear.

If you are not using Van Ess, go today to any drug or department store and purchase 3 bottles. The merchant will give you a written money-back guarantee. Van Ess must grow hair in 90 days or your money refunded. If you are a Van Ess user, read the prize-contest conditions below. We want your letter telling your experience with Van Ess.

Conditions!

The Van Ess contest consists of 200 prizes. First prize, $1000. Second prize, $500. Third prize, $250. Fourth prize, $125. Fifth prize, $75. Sixth prize, $50. Seventh prize, $25. Eighth prize, $15. And 192 prizes of $5 each. (In case of a tie both contestants will be given the full amount of the prize for which they are tied.)

This contest is open only to those persons who have been using Van Ess prior to the appearance of this announcement.

All letters sent in, in this contest, must be accompanied by the name of the store from which you purchased Van Ess, for all prize winning letters will be traced back through these stores to verify the fact that each prize winner is a bona-fide user of Van Ess.

The prizes will be awarded for the best 100-word letter, stating what continued use of Van Ess has done for your hair and scalp; and why you believe it should be used every day just as a toothbrush is used every day. Photographs sent in with letters are not necessary, but will be considered in selecting prize winners. We reserve the right to publish any or all letters received in this contest. (Letters only.)

This prize contest will close midnight December 10th and all letters must reach us before that date. The winners of the first five prizes will be announced January 15, 1925.

Antoinette Donnelly, beauty expert of the New York News, will act as judge in deciding on prize winning letters in this contest. Address all letters to Miss Antoinette Donnelly, Contest Dept., VAN ESS LABORATORIES, Inc., 28 E. Kinzie St., Chicago.

Be sure to read the conditions of this contest carefully. Avoid disappointment.

Gentlemen:

About three months ago I ordered from you three bottles of the Van Ess Massage and have used approximately two bottles and a half (about one half a bottle having been spilled) I can see great improvement in my hair, and a lot of new hair has grown since I began using your treatment

Yours very truly,

2320 California St.,
San Francisco, Calif.
October 4, 1922.

Gentlemen:

I am dropping you a few lines to report a most wonderful improvement in my hair. My head is literally covered with new hair. My scalp is clean and cool. I would be most grateful for further advice and what kind of a shampoo to use.

Thanking you for the great help I am receiving. I am [illegible] years old and thought nothing could help my hair. I have just finished my fourth bottle.

Yours gratefully,

Van Ess Laboratories
Sirs:-

As you will note by the slip returned to you that I purchased my first bottle of your Liquid Scalp Massage and a bottle of your Vanishing Shampoo on April 12, 1924 and am very pleased with the results. The dandruff has practically disappeared and a new growth of hair is rapidly coming in.

The hair on the crown of my head was beginning to thin out and this I attribute to the necessity of having to wear the "tin derby" while in the Army. Prior to that my hair was very thick and heavy, but is now coming back again all on the crown of the head, which I consider remarkable, after other methods have failed.

Sincerely yours,

Van Ess Laboratories,
Chicago.
Ill.

Dear Sirs:

Just a few lines in regard to the VAN ESS LIQUID SCALP MASSAGE.

I have been baldheaded for the last 8 years. On the 13th day of April, 1923 I bought three bottles of VAN ESS LIQUID SCALP MASSAGE, use the massage every evening before going to bed. My head is just filled with hair. Every one of my friends are astonished at the wonderful work VAN ESS LIQUID SCALP MASSAGE has done. Will send you photos of myself later.

thank you for the wonderful MASSAGE. I remain ctfully,

I was using that great

Lingette
Everybody thinks it's silk

It's caressingly soft to your body—but it's strong against wear and washing!

THE most remarkable thing about Lingette is the way it combines the best qualities of both silk and muslin! If you have ever used Lingette, you know this.

For Lingette gives you the lovely shimmering lustre and the delicate tints you find in silk, and it is as wonderfully soft to the touch. But—being woven all of extra-strength, long-fibre cotton—Lingette meets the tests of daily wear, of body friction, and of the laundry tubs, with all the satisfaction of muslin!

The only care you need give is to make sure that what you buy is Lingette. This will save you the disappointments that are sure to come from poor materials.

Won't you protect yourself and personally see that the name Lingette is on the selvage, or that a Lingette label is in the garment? The satisfaction you will get is worth this care.

A Lingette Label may read: Slip, Bloomer, Vest, Step-in, Garment, Chemise, Shirt, Lining, Pajama, Quilt, Gown, Camisole, Creeper, Brassiere. The Garment label is shown below.

Fashionable women are always slender

Can you wear the modish clothes which you see in the shops? Or must you deny yourself pretty things because you know they will not fit—because your figure is no longer slender?

The smartest costumes all require a slender figure—a smooth unbroken silhouette.

Yet many fashionable women who now wear original models, once suffered from overweight. They found the pleasant way to reduce—Marmola Tablets (thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures this way). With these tablets you, too, can have a slender figure—no exercises or diets.

All drug stores have Marmola Tablets—one dollar a box, or they will be sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, by the Marmola Co., 1700 General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

HEALTH CONTEST

for the best true stories on What Fleischmann's Yeast has done for you

THE first Yeast for Health contest—announced a year ago—brought an instant and astonishing response: letters from all over America, from men and women in every walk of life.

But during the past twelve months the increased demand for this simple fresh food has been more astonishing still. There are literally hundreds of thousands more Yeast enthusiasts today—hundreds of thousands of former sufferers whom Yeast has restored to health.

And so we are announcing a second contest.

* * *

During the past seven years a long series of experiments, conducted by eminent medical authorities in the leading scientific institutions of the country, has definitely established the value of Fleischmann's Yeast as a health food.

Constipation conquered—stomach troubles relieved—vitality restored and skin disorders removed—from every state in the Union comes confirmation of these amazing facts.

And every one of the thousands of letters which reach us has its definite value. Classified, analyzed, these reports play an important part in studying the effects of Yeast on American health.

Adding Fleischmann's Yeast to the daily diet has literally transformed the lives of millions of men and women. We know that. We have heard from thousands of them. We want to hear from thousands more.

JUST sit down and write the story of your experience with yeast. You can write freely, without restraint, for your letter will not be made public without your permission. Just glance below at some of the extracts from letters received recently. Your own experiences with Fleischmann's Yeast may have been even more remarkable.

Remember, the contest closes November 5th and this is the only announcement that will appear. Follow the rules carefully—keep them before you. Then send us your story. The names of the prize winners will be published in this paper about the middle of December.

If you have ever eaten Yeast—decide to enter now!

Prizes

1st Prize	$1,000.00
2nd Prize	600.00
3rd Prize	400.00
10 Prizes of	100.00 each
40 Prizes of	25.00 each
100 Prizes of	10.00 each

HOW TO WIN THEM

1. This Contest is open freely to all whose health has been benefited by Fleischmann's Yeast prior to this announcement. (Employees of The Fleischmann Company alone excepted.) Simply write in not more than 200 words your story of what Fleischmann's Yeast has done for you.
2. Use white paper of standard size, 8½ x 11. This is very important. Reports received on any other kind will be disqualified. Use only one sheet of paper (both sides, if necessary).
3. Print your name, complete address, and date at top of the sheet.
4. Use pen and ink or typewriter.
5. Sign your name at the end of your report. You must also have a witness (some one who knows your report to be accurate) sign his or her name under yours.
6. Mail your report in stamped, sealed envelope to The Fleischmann Company, P. O. Box 1251, City Hall Station, New York, N. Y. All reports must be in our hands before midnight of November 5th, 1924.
7. No papers will be acknowledged or returned. We do not require photographs, and cannot return them if sent.
8. Prizes for the most interesting and convincing reports will be awarded by a board of impartial judges headed by John B. Watson, Ph.D., LL. D., Editor of the Journal of Experimental Psychology, formerly Head of the Department of Psychology, Johns Hopkins University.

"When all the other girls were wearing their first low-necked dresses, I was staying at home — all on account of a breaking-out on my back that I simply couldn't get rid of. It was awful. One day my chum told me about Fleischmann's Yeast and urged me to take it. I took half a cake dissolved in water before every meal — it is not only easy to take but delightful — and in two weeks every trace of the eruption had disappeared. It worked like magic, really, and made me feel like a different person."

(Miss Esther Shaw of Sanford, Calif.)

"I felt 'fagged' in the morning when I went to the office. At luncheon I ate my food with a growing resentment at the necessity of eating. At dinner I merely nibbled at morsels of food. I was nervous and irritable. Then I began eating yeast — Fleischmann's — and noticed my appetite returning. My face lost its sallowness, and the pimples on my skin disappeared; my grouch went the way of the eruptions."

(Extract from a letter of Mr. A. F. Lockhart, of St. Louis, Mo.)

"I did not eat six cakes of Yeast and feel myself improving immediately. In fact for one month I used 3 cakes a day without any visible improvement. But by the middle of August, my chronic constipation commenced to give way — I again consulted our family physician, who told me to use no other remedies but Fleischmann's Yeast. . . . Today my troubles have become ancient history — thanks to the remarkable effects of Fleischmann's Yeast."

(Miss Ruth Rollband of Utica, N. Y.)

LITTLE CICERO IS HAVING A BIRTHDAY PARTY THIS AFTERNOON AND TO SAVE MY LIFE I CAN'T THINK OF A GAME FOR THE CHILDREN TO PLAY!
LET THEM PLAY-"BUTTON, BUTTON, WHO'S GOT THE BUTTON?"
NIX, NIX! MODERN KIDS DON'T CARE FOR A GAME LIKE THAT!
LISTEN! WHEN I WAS A CHILD WE USED TO PLAY "LONDON BRIDGE IS FALLING DOWN". TRY THAT!
NOPE! THAT'S NO GOOD EITHER: LET ME THINK!
I ALSO KNEW A NICE KISSING GAME WE PLAYED WHEN I WAS IN THE KINDERGARTEN! LET ME THINK!
AH! I'VE GOT IT! I JUST THOUGHT OF A VERY FUNNY GAME: IT'S CALLED "PICK ME UP AND PUT ME DOWN".
THAT SOUNDS LIKE A FUNNY GAME! WHAT'S IT LIKE, MUTT?
BLINDFOLD YOURSELF AND I'LL SHOW YOU: NOW, YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO BE A POTATO IN THE GAME! NOW SAY-PICK ME UP AND PUT ME DOWN!
I CAN SEE THIS IS A GREAT CHILDREN'S GAME: TEE HEE PICK ME UP AND PUT ME DOWN!
WHAT ARE YOU SUPPOSED TO BE IN THIS GAME?
I'M SUPPOSED TO BE A LITTLE FAIRY PRINCE! HERE WE GO!
NOW THE PRINCE PUTS DOWN THE POTATO!
WHAT TH'-?
TEE HEE!
HELP!
FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE, COW, LET ME EXPLAIN! NIX, NIX!
HEY, PRINCE, THE 'POTATO' BEGS YOU TO STOP THIS NONSENSE! PLEASE COW, HAVE A HEART!

MONOPOLY CONT ALUMINUM IND SAYS FEDERAL

Trade Commission Declares Tariff Helps Concern of Mellon Family to Fix Prices.

SPECIAL DISCOUNTS TO CERTAIN DEALERS

Annual Earnings of 24 Per Cent for 15 Years—Delays in Shipments to Independents Cited.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Extraordinary charges of monopolistic and discriminatory acts by the Aluminum Co. of America are made in a report completed by the Federal Trade Commission in response to a Senate resolution asking for data on trade conditions affecting household utensils.

Alleging that "The Aluminum Co. of America has a practically complete monopoly of the production of aluminum in the United States," and that "this fact, combined with a high protective tariff on aluminum, enables it to control the price of aluminum," the Federal Trade Commission asserts that there have been repeated violations" of the consent decree entered against the company in 1912 under the Sherman anti-trust act.

These findings of the commission are strikingly corroborative of the article printed by the New York World and the Post-Dispatch in which the large profits of the Aluminum company under its Fordney-McCumber tariff awards were disclosed.

Mellon's Charge Answered.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, whose family dominates the company, issued a reply at that time declaring no monopoly existed and accusing the New York World of "misrepresentation."

The Federal Trade Commission did not make public its full report yesterday, but an abstract of it, in which the commission set forth:

"The outstanding features of the report are the control exercised by patent pools among manufacturers of washing machines, the shutting out of new competition in the vacuum cleaner industry, the questionable competitive tactics of the leading manufacturer of aluminum cooking utensils, which is affiliated with the Aluminum Co. of America, the monopolistic position of the latter company, which has apparently engaged in various practices forbidden by a judicial decree under the Sherman act; the dominating position of the Singer company in the sewing machine industry; the efforts of trade associations in the refrigerator and broom industries to enhance the prices of their products and the competitive methods of retail dealers in kitchen utensils and domestic appliances."

Price Discrimination.

Most of the abstract deals with the Aluminum company and its alleged illegal acts.

"The Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Co.," says the commission, "is the largest manufacturer of cooking utensils in the United States and is affiliated with the Aluminum Company of America. The competitive methods of this company include various kinds of price discrimination between customers.

"In some cases special discounts have been made in consideration of carrying a full line in other instances, discounts have been granted in consideration of the favored organization handling the Goods company's products exclusively. The Goods company has also been active in maintaining resale prices.

"Data from several sources show that the Goods company has received a special 5 per cent discount in purchases of the Aluminum Company of America."

Asserting that "the Aluminum Company of America has a practically complete monopoly of the production of aluminum in the United States," the commission points out that "it is therefore the only domestic source of supply for the metal for aluminum cooking utensils." The charge then is made that the Aluminum company, protected "by a high protective tariff on aluminum," is able accord-
